Cereal Leaf Beetles Threaten Grain Crop in Midwest

The newest crop plague, the cereal leaf beetle, is spreading through the Middle West like an opening umbrella, with the center in Berrien County, according to John Comstock, director of Agricultural Extension Service.

They are spreading so fast that State and Federal Agricultural Departments can't keep up with them, Mr. Comstock said. Entomologists are working feverishly to find control methods and are attempting to confine the pests by quarantine—so far, unsuccessfully.

A recent order by Michigan's Agricultural Director G. S. McIntyre placed a quarantine on areas including all or parts of 17 Michigan counties.

Quarantined counties are Allegan, Barry, Berrien, Branch, Calhoun, Cass, Eaton, Hillsdale, Ingham, Ionia, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Kent, Muskegon, Ottawa, St. Joseph and Van Buren.

The intent of the quarantine is to check the spread of the cereal leaf beetle which is now reported in 21 Indiana counties and 14 Ohio counties.

☆

IT IS NOT known for certain just how it got into the United States, but the Agricultural Department believes it came through the St. Lawrence Seaway from Europe.

The tiny insect has all but destroyed some crops of growing grains in some parts of Europe.

In the North African countries, Morocco and Tunisia, cereal grains cannot be grown as the pest devours the entire crop.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Sorry for leaving you wonderful readers, ala the old soap opera gimmick, dangling at the end of last week's offering.

Backtracking a trifle, here was Joe Maddy, one-day soon to be wizard of Interlochen, then first Rochester (N.Y.) supervisor of instrumental music back in 1918.

Although Joe had turned the town upside down musically and had a multitude of kids playing instruments, he and the school board were in for a jolt.

When officials discovered Joe had only gone through the ninth grade, a crisis struck.

Yes, he was doing a fabulous job, yes he had gotten George Eastman to contribute $15,000 for more instruments, yes he had prepared a fine "text" of instruction, yes the kids loved Joe and music.

But there were laws. Teachers needed degrees. Joe was asked to see the president of the University of Rochester, the man who had ultimate authority over such things. After a 30-minute interview, Joe was given a life certificate to teach music in New York state without a high school diploma.

Some years later, Joe ran into a similar problem when he moved on to teach at Richmond, Ind. This time, the answer came harder.

Joe was told he must have a high-school degree. Officials gave him four months to study Algebra, English and other courses, then pass a comprehensive exam.

He handled this and at last had the necessary sheepskin, although from a music standpoint, Joe was already one of the nation's best teachers as well as performers.

It was at Richmand that an incident took place which best illustrates how much Joe Maddy-inspired music means to youngsters.

Joe had developed a fine program in Richmond, even introduced the harp to his school orchestra. So many young people wanted to play this instrument, Joe stuck his neck out and borrowed 10 from an Indianapolis music firm to go with the one the school owned.

About 3 a.m. one spring day, fire hit the Richmond school. When Joe learned this in a phone call, he turned numb. The harps weren't insured and he was fully responsible for them.

He rushed to the school. Several hundred yards back from the blaze stood a cluster of his musicians, disheveled, but proudly surrounded by stacks of music and instruments, including all 11 harps.

When the kids heard of the blaze, they had rushed to the music room and at the risk of their lives, pulled everything to safety as the building burned down.

On top of that, they had made arrangements to use the privately-owned Coliseum in Richmond as temporary rehearsal space" for an important out-of-town concert only one week away.

This all had happened before 3:30 in the morning. A few hours later, when the school superintendent "sought use of the Coliseum for classroms, he was told that it had already been promised to the orchestra."

The incident speaks volumes. It helps make one understand why Joe Maddy's Interlochen Music Camp has been such a tremendous success over the past 35 years and why it grows bigger and better every year.

These are among the incidents brought out in a new book, "Joe Maddy of Interlochen" by Norma Lee Browning. If you enjoy music, kids and/or determined Americans, read it.

HEAR THEM BELLS — Dorrie Boynton (left) and Connie Schneider will lead Tecumseh in ringing the freedom bell July 4 at 1 p.m. They invite Tecumseh area residents to ring bells for four minutes to initiate the new rededication program.

Let Freedom Bells Ring

The bells of Tecumseh and the surrounding area will be in tune with the "Miracle of the Bells" across the entire country at 1 p.m on July 4.

As the great chorus of bells swells across the land, it will be heard by Amerians wherever they gather for the holiday. The sound will come as a thrilling reminder of what the Fourth of July means.

It will challenge each person to remembr the heroic resolve of 56 men who pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor 187 years ago as they signed the Declaration of Independence.

By proclamation of Governor Romney, every hamlet, town, and city of Michigan has been urged to participate in the celebration, called "Let Freedom Ring!"

Coordinating the observance, the governor has called upon the high school youth to give leadership. Their work will demonstrate their concern as youth who will gain most from the rich foundations of this country.

All organizations, municipalities. and interested individuals are urged to join in this event. Locally. many churches and private individuals have pledged their support. For more information, your local chairmen, Doric Boynton and Connie Schneider can be contacted.

Public Library Given $24,000 for Books

A gift of $24,000 to establish a perpetual fund for the purchase of books for the Tecumseh Public Library was given last week by Mr. and Mrs. Jens Touburg.

William Wright, chairman of the board until Monday when he was succeeded by Dr. Harold Ocamb, said the United Savings Bank and J. W. Meadows, bank president, will administrate the fund.

Investment in government bonds and high grade, preferred stock is anticipated with income from dividends and interest amounting to approximately $1,000 a year.

The mitial investment of $24,000 could grow over a period of years — through growth of purchased stock — with the perpetual fund someday amounting to several more thousand dollars.

The gift comes from closing out the Tresco Foundation, with the Touburgs contributing a good share of the Foundation's monies to the library.

It augments other gifts received by the library, and it is the first received for the sole purpose of the acquisition of books from income derived through investments.

Although the library is in financial troubles, about $1,000 in the red, officials are now assured of funds to purchase books — something they've not been able to do for the past year.

Last month, voters turned down a small millage increase, from 32 mills to 6 mills, which would have enabled the library to operate within its budget.

Weeding Project

Mrs. Douglas Dunn and Mrs. Richard Colson were co-chairmen of the weeding project at Patterson School for the Little Garden Club.

Others who worked two mornings, June 19 and 25, were Mrs. Earl Baldwin, Mrs. Carleton Cook, Mrs. Stanley Cook, Mrs. Bill Clausen, Mrs. Morgan Ford, Mrs. Orrie Gilbert and Mrs. Robert Murray.

City Income Tax Information Asked

By JIM LINCOLN

Without any committments or obligations, Council agreed Monday night to seek information about a city income tax.

Officials set an appointment with a representative of Small Business Accountants, of Toledo, for Aug. 6 at 9 p.m.

In recent years, unofficial discussion about Tecumseh adopting a city income tax has been reported.

Whether Council is leaning towards a city income tax was not ascertained, nor whether city officials will pursue the revenue possibility after the August meeting.

It is the first time that Council has taken any steps for information about a city income tax for Tecumseh.

In other action, Council:

Awarded low bid for sealing the N. Pearl St. parking lot to Slurry Seal and Road Maintenance Co., of Toledo.

Re-appointed Fred Dickinson to the cemetery board.

Approved a septic tank for the Dave Ousterhout home on N. Occidental, with the understanding that he connect with a sanitary sewer when it is installed in the future.

Approved further negotiations with New York Central Railroad for a right-of-way for the Evans St. Intercepter Sewer.

Heard a state report, highly commending the condition and operation of the city jail.

Told Dike Helms, chairman of the Chamber's Retail Division, that the city would cooperate for closing streets to traffic for the Moonlight Sale, July 12.

2 Test Campus Ahead of Time

Barbara K. Gillespie and Don W. Becker are among students getting a pre-taste of campus life in a two-day exposure at Western Michigan University where a special orientation program is now in full swing.

Some 2,500 students are expected to participate in counseling testing and advance registration.

University residence hall are opened for them and a social program is planned.

Students report for classes Tuesday, Sept. 17.

Moonlight Mardi Gras Comes Next

A Moonlight Mardi Gras will be held on the streets of Tecumseh Friday, July 12, from 6:30 until 10 p.m.

Entertainment by the Western style square dancers, the Shawnee Squares, will be presented on Chicago Blvd which will be closed to auto traffic.

Clinton Bells and Brothers of the Brush will also be here in a caravan.

Everyone attending is invited to come in costume.

Chairs will line both sides of the streets, available to those who wish to watch or just to visit with their friends.

All stores will be open until 10 p.m.

Attend Picnic at Wamplers Lake

BRITTON — Twenty-three members and one guest attended the Baraca Philathea Class meeting and picnic Sunday evening at the Glen Gripton cottage at Wamplers Lake.

Charles Patterson conducted a short business meeting during which his wife was appointed chairman for the cafeteria supper which the class will sponsor Wednesday, July 17 at the Congregational Christian Church.

"Praising The Lord" was the topic of the program which was presented by Mrs. Carl Auten.

The class will not meet in July and the August meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Watson of Adrian.

Dawn Patrol Brings 200 Pilots, Jumpers to Airport Sunday

Four parachute jumps will be made at the Dawn Patrol Sunday, July 7, by jumpers from Jackson and Napoleon.

Chutes will be packed on the ground for the second jumps of from 3,500 to 5,000 feet.

About 200 pilots from Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Canada and Wichita, Kan. are expected to arrive for breakfast at Meyers Airport at 6 a.m. coming in on the run ways as fast as they can safely be landed.

Forest Abner, Exchange Club president, is expecting 1,000 "landlubbers" to attend the ham and eggs breakfast served in the hanger by Exchangites with James Barton, Kenneth Hall and Robert Hart as chief chefs.

Mr. Abner expects a profit of about $500 from the event to be used for civic projects by the club.

In 15 years, the Exchange Club has provided a two way radio for the police and fire departments, the first intercommunications system at Herrick Memorial Hospital and a $2,700 lighted scoreboard at the high school athletic field.

Among others attending the event will be George Brablec, Britton and Terry Sisty, 16, of Adrian who only recently received his license.

Russ Garno, Orville Bishop, and David Dick will be greeting the pilots, passengers and townspeople who may like to take advantage of the automobiles which will be available for sightseeing or trips to church.

Bearded drivers from Clinton will be transporting pilots and other passengers to and from Clinton. Five cars will be in use.

United Savings Bank Surplus Tops Million

United Savings Bank of Tecumseh increased its surplus $100,000 as of June 29, 1963.

This makes the capital account $1,500,000, plus undivided profits. The common stock of the bank is $500,000. and the surplus is now $1,000,000.

"It has been and will continue to be the policy of the management of this bank to build the capital structure to afford our depositors and stockholders sound protection," explains J. W. Meadows, bank president.

first reported a year ago, were aerially treated this spring with malathion, a pesticide with a short-lived residue.

Otherwise, the Agricultural Department has been trying to check the spread by fumagating grain and machinery from the quarantined areas.

☆

STATE OFFICIALS plan to have elevator operators set up treatment facilities. The operators would then certify shipments of treated grain.

Articles that cannot be moved outside of quarantined area without inspection certificate include barley, oats, wheat and other small grain, corn, uncleaned grass and forage crop seed, hay, straw, fodder, plant litter of any kind, sod, or harvesting machinery.

Other articles which may require inspection or treatment any other farm products; equipment; trucks, railway cars, or other means of conveyance; used crates, boxes or bags; soil; or any other products that may present a hazard.

☆

BOTH ADULTS and larvae damage the grain. The adults take most of their nourishment from the grain shoots, or from adjacent grasses to which they migrate.

The larvae, however, love cereal grain and eat out long strips between the leaf veins. In real heavy infestation, most of the leaves may be consumed and the plants kill appear yellowish white.

Adult beetles appear in the spring; they mate, and the females lay eggs on the upper surface of the plant leaves. Larvae hatch from the eggs and begin to feed on the young, tender leaves.

From the larvae stage, pupation is next and takes place in earthen cells in the top two inches of soil. They transform to adult beetles in about 20 to 25 days.

The adults feed on grasses from July to autumn, then hibernate under field trash or in crevices until spring.

☆

THERE IS a possibility that the cereal leaf beetle will reach Lenawee county this year, Mr. Comstock said. Harvesting of wheat, oats and barley should begin the first week in July.

Farmers moving grains in or out of the quarantined area should contact the Michigan Department of Agriculture sereval days in advance, he added. Or contact C. A. Boyer, chief of Plant Industry Division, 373-1087.

Easton Named Watershed Project Chairman

The River Raisin Watershed Project shifted into second gear Thursday night.

Tecumseh Mayor Harold Easton was elected chairman of the four-county steering committee.

Representatives from Lenawee, Monroe, Washtenaw and Jackson met at the Tecumseh Community Center.

Other officers are Clyde Crook, Monroe city planner, who was elected vice-chairman, and Mrs. August Breckel, Adrian, secretary.

An application Committee, given the task of lining up city and township governments along the course of the River Raisin to act as sponsors of the project, was also elected.

The chairman of the Application Committee is Clifford Miles, city manager of Adrian.

Other members are:

Cal Zorn, Tecumseh city manager

Dale Wagenknecht, Petersburg

Richard Kuntz, Manchester

Royal Welch, Tecumseh

Lyle Whittacre, Jackson.

The governmental units involved will be entitled to apply for federal aid for nearly 80 per cent of the costs. This would speed the development of a system of 44 dams, which, in several years, could provide a vast reservoir of lake and water recreational facilities.

The committee voted to report on their progress July 16, and then meet on the first and third Tuesdays of each month at 8 p.m. in the Tecumseh Community Center.

An Educational Committee to promote and distribute information on the 700,000-acre soil, water and recreational conservation project was named. One man from each community was chosen: William Gardiner, Adrian; William Collins, Monroe; Leo Ehnis, Brooklyn; and Thomas Walton, Manchester.

Earl Baldwin, 9234 Murphy Rd., started a move toward defraying small expenses by contributing $25. Organizations in the communities involved will be asked to pick up the tab on these small expenses for short periods of time.

Cops Cram Clinton's Kangaroo Court

The Keystone Cops in Clinton have really created a lot of fun during the celebration of the town's 125th anniversary but they "did it up right" recently when they arrested an entire band led by Ken Edwards that was enroute to the Tecumseh Country Club.

Judge Paul Hoyt sentenced the band members to the stockade where they played delightful [illegible] minutes making them just a little late for their appointment at the club.

The cops function every Saturday evening at 7 p.m. bringing "culprits" in their paddy wagon to Michigan Ave. where they are duly tried in Kangaroo court and frequently are sentenced to the stockade.

Women not wearing their old-time dresses and men without beards or their anniversary badges are frequent visitors at the stockade for their violations.

As one Clinton gal said, "You can be arrested for anything that you did or did not do."

The cops cleared the way Friday night for the caravan that went to Chelsea, stopping everyone at each cross road regardless of who had the right-of-way.

PREPARED TO GO, GO, GO — Larry Saunders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Saunders 108 S. Democrat St., is ready well in advance of the Soap Box Derby to be held July 14 at the Adrian Junior High School. The only Tecumseh entrant, Larry made his own racer.

Larry Saunders Determined to Capture Soap Box Crown

"I'm going to win" said 13-year-old Larry Saunders about his entrance in the Soap Box Derby to be held Sunday, July 14, at the Adrian Junior High School.

Larry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Saunders, has been working most of the winter on his red racer in the basement of a 24x14 foot addition which his father has been building on the Saunders home at 108 S. Democrat St.

Larry Bush, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Robert Bush, 176 Osborne St., Britton, is also entering the race.

According to the rules, entrants may receive advice from parents, or sponsors, and attend Derby Clinics for helpful pointers. But they must do all the work themselves.

Boys from 11 to 15 polish and shine bearings for the racers to obtain maximum speed with the least amount of friction for their little wooden cars which run by gravitation.

☆

THE DERBY is sponsored by Chevrolet dealerships around the country. Prizes reach the $30,000 figure in college scholarships in the National Soap Box Derby at Akron, O.

If Larry does win the local race, he will carry the Tecumseh banner in the race at Akron.

Bud Classon was in charge of arrangements for the time trials June 30 and inspections were made at his Chevrolet Garage, Adrian July 6.

After the inspections, the racers will be stored until race day.

☆

PRIZES IN the Lenawee County race include:

► 1st place—$500 US bond
► 2nd place—$100 US bond
► 3rd place—$ 50 US bond

Trophys will be presented for the best constructed car, best upholstered car, best brakes and for the first place in each heat.

Larry, a seventh grade student, firmly believes that his racer which he says will go 35 miles an hour or faster will be the winner.

Capitol Impressive

Roger Bortel, back from the 4-H Citizenship Short Course in Washington, D. C., said "everything was impressive."

Roger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bortel, Britton, was one of 140 students from Michigan, Iowa, New York, Wisconsin and Florida taking part in the one-week course.

The objectives of students in the Short Course are:

► Develop an understanding of citizenship.

► Understand the basic principles of democracy.

► Understand how democracy meets today's problems.

► Deepen commitment to the democratic way of life.

► Increase skills in analyzing and facing problems as citizens.

"They taught us what we have already learned about citizenship," Roger said, "only they went deeper. They also told us to teach it to younger members of the 4-H."

WHEN NOT taking courses, the students were busy touring the Capitol.

Even though Roger found all the sights impressive, he especially enjoyed the Washington Memorial, the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, tour of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the shooting demonstration of FBI agents, the National Archives, and the boat trip to Mount Vernon.

The students also toured the Capitol and saw both the House of Representatives and the Senate in session. They also sat in on a committee discussion of Kennedy's proposed Civil Rights Bill.

Sen Pat McNamara talked to the whole group, but they were unable to see either Sen. Phil Hart or Rep. George Meader.

The Michigan youths stayed at Somerset, Penn., on Saturday night going down and coming back from Washington. They left June 22 and returned June 30.

Kiwanis to Supply Food at Annual B Bar J Rodeo

Tecumseh Kiwanis Club members will serve refreshments at the annual B bar J Ranch Rodeo July 3 and 4.

The ranch is three miles north and three miles east of Tecumseh on Pennington Rd.

Performances will be held Wednesday evening at 7 and Thursday afternoon at 2.

The Kiwanis menu will include hot dogs, barbecue sandwiches, pop corn, cotton candy, ice cream bars, sno-cones, candy and soft drinks.

The service clubmen will also serve breakfast at the rodeo site from 6 until 10 a.m.

Proceeds from the refreshment venture will be used by Kiwanis to sponsor five Scout units, for both boys and girls, among the 47 youngsters attending special education classes at Sutton and Palmyra Schools.

☆

THIS MARKS the seventh straight July 4th rodeo at B bar J, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spence. It will feature more than 100 cowboys competing for $550 in prize money, riding wild broncos, both bareback and saddle.

Some will also try to handle bucking bulls, including the infamous Yoyo, which no rider has been able to stay on in 10 years.

The riders, who represent the Midwest Cowboys Association and the Ohio Cowboys Association, don't have a choice on which animal they will mount in the chute. Each contestant draws the name of a bronc or bull.

Announcing this year's show will be Roger DeVall of Kissimmee, Fla., a well-known voice on the rodeo circuit.

Alfred Davis will present a trained bull act. "Tex," a high-jumping horse, will see if he can hurdle a convertible car.

Comedy is going to be provided by the funny buckin' Ford and the ABC Ranch Boys are going to offer music between contests.

Tickets are $1.50 for adults and 50c for children 12 and under.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Some time ago, we read an interesting article entitled . . . "Listen to the Drums" . . .

We quote: 'each man's drummer is invisible, but his music is strong and compelling. Some march to the rhythm of an obsession, others to the steady banging of ambition, while still others hear only the monotonous routine."

Quite often we get the feeling that people who do not think exactly as we do are eccentric and should be repressed. In our country we have a democracy which is supposed to be non-interfering.

As long as people are not doing any postive harm, they should be allowed to follow their own music, even if they aren't doing any particular good.

It isn't the hermit who takes to the hills and lives alone who is selfish; the self-centered one is the person who expect everyone to listen to his OWN music.

It might be well for us all to give this matter some thought during the 4th of July holidays. Re-read the Constitution and allow every man to step to the music he hears.

Now, at Clinton Woolen we hear only the tom-tom of one drum, and that is . . . sell, sell, sell! ! Night and day, day and night, there is a yearning, burning desire to sell every summer item in stock. We sure hope no one tries to repress us!

After the 4th usually retailers start their clearance sales on summer merchandise. Frankly we have always thought August 1st would be better from a profit standpoint.

However, we must listen to the music . . . and on top of that our suppliers are crowding us with Fall merchandise.

So . . . hang unto your money and be sure and read this ad next week.

Linda Kanous, Richard Linn United

Linda J. Kanous and Richard L. Linn, both of Britton, were united in marriage June 29 in the Methodist Church by the Rev. Donald Porteous and the Rev. A. B. Johns of the Romulus Methodist Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Kanous, 9447 Monroe Rd. and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Linn, 4983 Palmer Rd.

Mrs. Paul Bailey, aunt of the bride, was the soloist accompanied by Mrs. Fred Schober.

Pyramid arrangements of white gladioli and yellow carnations formed a background on the altar banked with potted palms.

☆

CATHEDRAL candelabra lighted the chancel. Entrance candles were placed at the altar rail and the family section was marked with white blossoms, yellow bows and greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of white organza over taffeta designed with short sleeves, scalloped neckline appliqued with Alencon lace that also detailed the front of the skirt.

Unpressed pleats topped with handmade roses fell into a chapel train.

Her lace pillbox secured an elbow length veil and she wore a cultured pearl pendant in a wishbone setting, the gift of the groom.

☆

THE BRIDE carried a dainty bouquet of stephanotis, centered with Euchrais lilies and yellow rosebuds edged with ivy.

Mrs. Charles W. Hill was her sister's matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. James Kniffen, Mrs. Larry Kanous and Mrs. Virgil Diver.

The attendants wore street length gowns of organza over taffeta in the same design as that of the bride with matching circular headpieces. The dresses were yellow, turquoise, pink and lavender, respectively.

Williard Exelby served as best man and the guests were seated by Dean Downing, Larry Kanous, and James Kniffen.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gibson were hosts at the church and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Taylor served as hosts at the Produets Union Hall where a reception was held for 300 guests.

☆

THOSE ASSISTING at the reception were Mrs. Williard Exelby, Barbara Gibson, Mrs. Dean Downing, Mrs. William Martin, Mrs. Richard Murphy, Diane Bailey, Gordon Gibson and James Miller.

Following a two weeks trip to Florida, the couple will make their home at 336 E. Chicago Blvd., Britton.

The bride is presently employed at the Tecumseh Products Co. and her husband is self employed as a painter.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents at the Britton Methodist Church.

Rehearsals Begin for Clinton Historical Spectacle June 15-20

Rehearsals began June 25 for the spectacle, "From Little Acorns" to be presented six consecutive evenings July 15-20 in Clinton for the 125th anniversary celebration.

A cast auction was held last week when orgnizations bid for the responsibility for the 250 roles including dancers.

Edward F. DeRocker of the John B. Rogers Producing Co. of Postoria, O. arrived June 24 to meet with the celebration committee to make plans for the historic spectacle to be presented in front of a mammoth 250 foot setting at the Clinton football field.

Mr. DeRocker, though only 23, has had a wealth of experience in the theatre and recently directed one of the largest productions of the 1963 spring season in Chicago.

He has been with the Rogers Co. for the past three years in major cities around the country and has appeared in summer stock as a professional dancer and singer. He attended college in Albany, N. Y. where he now makes his home with his parents.

Mrs. John C. Thomas and Mrs. Glen Bihlmeyer are co-chairman of the spectacle committee.

The plot will include interesting bits of history of Clinton up to the present time. Mr. DeRocker has written the story and incorporated the incidents in the pageant of 16 scenes.

School Board Seeks $3,000

The Tecumseh School Board Monday night authorized local attorney James Beardsley to collect approximately $3,000, sent two years ago to the Clinton school district by error.

According to Supt. James McDowell, Mr. Beardsley assured him that the sum was collectible.

Two years ago, Tecumseh Township supervisor Wilfred Waldron mistakenly placed, for tax purposes, all of Meyers Airport and a couple of other properties nearby in the Clinton school district.

Supt. McDowell warned the board that the supervisors in general, Clinton school officials and County Superintendent Milton Porter opposed Tecumseh collecting the $3,000.

He told the board that supervisors performed him that other similar errors had been made in the past in the county.

Present Tecumseh Township Supervisor Art Eaton suggested to the board last year that they not try to collect.

It was indicated at the meeting that the collection suit might have to be carried to the courts.

Car Agreement To Be Enforced

City Manager Cal Zorn was authorized by Council Monday night to enforce the city's agreement with Wilson Motor Sales for the leasing of two police cars.

The local agency leases two cars at $145 per month and has requested an increase of $12 per month for replacing the present cruisers with 1963 models; or, keep present 1962 Plymouths for one more year at no increase in cost.

The contract calls for the agency to replace the patrol cars at 30,000 miles or one year, according to Mr. Zorn, who also informed Councilmen that the present cars have 37,000 and 55,000 miles on them.

The city manager was told to cancel the agreement if the agency failed to abide by the contract.

Veto Plan

Although the Tecumseh Public Library Board recommended shorter hours to cut costs at the library, the school board Monday night vetoed the plan.

Former library board chairman, William Wright, attending the meeting, was told that shorter hours would not conform with state regulations and would jeopardize state aid for library.

The school board suggested that they buy no books and reduce part-time help. The library, as of June 30, ended the fiscal year with a deficit of over $1,200.

The proposed budget for the 1963-64 year also will leave the library with a deficit, but less than half of the past year's debt.

The library last week received a gift of $24,000 for a perpetual fund, with income from the fund to be used solely for the purchase of books.

Who Have Moved to Tecumseh

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gallant Sr. are really not newcomers but they have not lived in Tecumseh since 1945.

They moved to Adrian where Mr. Gallant was associated in an equipment rental business with his sons.

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gallant purchased both residence and business from his father making it possible for the elder Gallants to retire.

They are living at 415 W. Pottawatamie St. where Mr. Galiant is enjoying taking care of the lawn and flowers.

Mrs. Gallant likes to decorate cakes. Recently she has been busy making graduation cakes for her granddaughters, Brenda and Sandra.

Mrs. Ronald Muckenstrum, Mrs. Henry Howard, Thomas Gallant, Jr., Tecumseh and Donald and Eugene, Adrian are children of the senior Gallants.

Harry Roumell, one of Clinton High School's all-time athletic stars, is now a salesman for Underwood Chevrolet-Pontiac. WILL YOUR HAY CROP BE SHORT. Then buy the best hay you can find and as soon as possible. Fewer acres will be harvested in many areas and drouth conditions will be causing tight supplies. On buying quality, each additional percent in protein content amounts to about $1.50 extra feed value per ton. When possible, buy local hay where you know how it was handled. The growth stage when it was cut can easily change protein content several percentage points.

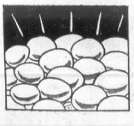
FEEDING STEERS ON PASTURE this summer will help them gain faster and weigh more at the end of the feeding period. Start grain feeding about the first of July. Ground shelled corn or its equivalent with about 40% cob makes a good ration to start with. After about 10 days, reduce cob to 20% of the ration. Even where drylot feeding facilities are available, you can usually gain some advantage by utilizing pasture, followed by a short feeding period in drylot.

MAINTAIN EGG QUALITY. Eggs have their highest quality when first laid and from this point on every quality factor begins to decline. How fast or slow egg quality declines depends to a large extent on handling and storage practices. Most important is to provide a holding temperature of not more than 55 degrees with a relative humidity of about 85%. If such conditions are maintained, you can keep the original egg quality high for 2 to 2-1/2 weeks.



HOG PRICES will show a little improvement during July and into early August. It may pay to carry hogs to a little heavier weights. During July, market when they reach 225 to 230 pounds, a little heavier than this during August.

ON TO LOUISVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Richard Creswell, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Helms and Mr. and Mrs. James Fielder stand by their white nine-passenger station wagon donated by Oldsmobile for caravan heading for Louisville, Ky. June 23 for the Jaycee National Convention. Two caravans, one consisting of 75 all-white Oldsmobiles, other of 35 Buicks left Coldwater that morning and joined near Louisville to form a five-mile stream of police-escorted conventioneers. They returned Saturday morning after a week filled with meeting Jaycees from every state, collecting souveniers from every state and joining Michigan in backing Dick Headlee of Utah for National Jaycee President.

Long Session Held By School Board

In another lengthy session Monday night, the School Board handled routine problems, plus changing the meeting night from the second Monday of the month to the third Monday night.

Future board meetings, starting Aug. 19, also will start at 7:30, a half hour earlier than in the past.

Business conducted Monday night was:

Awarding a tractor and mower bid to Hoyt Whelan Implement Co.

Granted teacher John Babcock a year's leave of absence for him to acquire his Ph.D. at the University of Michigan.

Discussed the bus situation — summer repairs on the buses and the possibility of the schools using a site near Rumpf Truck Line or the old railroad depot, just off N. Evans St., for handling the buses for the next school term.

Learned that the schools need first, third and fourth grade teachers, an English high school teacher, and a social study teacher, also in the high school.

Approved the employment of Lee Ann Minton as a high school teacher.

Suggested to Robert Osburn, Tipton PTA president, to check with county officials about filling in a ground depression at the Tipton school before approving sidewalk construction there.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Moore were her sister, Mrs. Martha Brady of Whitemore Lake and Mrs. Robert Exelby and granddaughter, Cindy.

Helms Overwhelms Jaycees with Convention's Best Vest

Dwight Helmes completed his unique reversible vest just in time to wear it to the National Jaycee Convention last week.

One of the owners of Helms Furniture Store, Dwight found a good use for the sample swatches of upholstery fabric that have been discontinued.

Sewing the small pieces of fabric together, he cut out a colorful vest, lining it in red and completing it with brass buttons.

This isn't the first garment Dwight has made. He made a short vest with hood one winter recently when the snow from his snow blower on the tractor blew down his neck.

☆

THE HOOD kept the snow out and it gave Dwight a good reason to get at the sewing machine which he likes to do anyway.

He lined this brown corduroy vest with blue. "I like color," he says, "but people are so often afraid to use it. They have to own just one bright piece of furniture before they realize that bright colors aren't as impractical as they thought."

Dwight first started sewing when he started changing the letters on his athletic sweater in Junior High School around from one place to another.

His mother finally said after changing it a time or two, "All right, this time you change it."

☆

NOW HE finds sewing is relaxing and sometimes he stays up till the early hours of the morning getting just the right touch to his work.

His wife, Claire, is happy about her husband's flair for sewing because though a home economics major, she would far rather cook than sew.

Dwight was anxious to complete his patchwork vest before the convention to advertise the Outstanding Young Farmer banquet which will be held in Tecumseh next winter.

A plaque on the back urged other groups at the meeting to run the program in their communities thus making them eligible to attend the state banquet in Tecumseh.

Dwight would like to interest other Jaycees in making or having their wives make the same kind of vests as his.

This is quite a challenge. Dwight is a fine seamstress — er seamster -er well, he does fine work.

English Girls Find Americans Friendly

"Everyone is so friendly!" agreed Patricia Rudkins and Georgianna Jay of Essex, England, as they spoke of their impressions of the United States.

The two girls arrived here June 26 to make an indefinite stay in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Sebring, 4875 Pennington Rd.

Miss Rudkins, who will be 20 July 16, is the niece of Mr. Sebring. Miss Jay, a friend, will be 21 in September.

The young ladies commented that they didn't like the heat. They never experience such hot weather in their own country.

Miss Rudkins, an invoice clerk, said that she had always wanted to see her relatives in America and now they hope to do more traveling to see more of the country.

She also said that they were both searching for independence and will soon be looking for employment.

Miss Jay, who has been employed for three years in the Barclay Bank in England, is a filing clerk.

She remarked about air conditioning here in so many places and also about the numerous eating places outside of the cities.

The girls took a six mile walk the other evening thinking nothing of it. Miss Jay said, "We often walk in England but I used to drive."

Funeral Directors Elect New Officers

Ed Braun of Adrian was elected president of the District 2 Funeral Directors at a meeting recently at the Tecumseh County Club.

District 2 includes Jackson, Hillsdale Branch and Lenawee Counties.

Douglas Dunn was elected secretary and Walter McNeil, Deerfield, treasurer.

George Green, Sr. was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Dunn.

Sharon Ries told of funeral customs in Taiwan and showed slides of handmade caskets from logs which were hollowed out.

Funeral processions there are sometimes three or four blocks long with the mourners in white hoods wailing down the street behind a band.

Natives were amazed to see the popcorn pop that Sharon had taken with her.

After five years, relatives dig up the remains and send them back to their original home because they believe that this should be their final resting place.

A meeting will be held in August when Hillsdale County will be the host.

Lois Handy, Gerald Quinn Marry

The Rev. Paul Revlett of the Missionary Baptist Church performed the ceremony June 29 uniting Lois Alberta Handy and Gerald Quinn in marriage.

A tall basket of white gladioli and pink carnations and pompons centered the background of the chancel while the white prie dieu was flanked with baskets of the same flowers and palms.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lester Handy, 1204 W. Chicago Blvd. and Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Quinn of Gady Rd., Adrian.

☆

THE BRIDE selected a floor length gown of white satin with fitted bodice with an inset of iridescent sequins on Chantilly lace, a boat neckline and tapered long sleeves.

The skirt featured a lace panel in front and a small bustle topping a chapel train.

Her waist length veil was held in place by a crown of sequins and pearls.

She carried a dainty cascade of miniature carnations centered with dusty pink rosebuds outlined with ivy.

Mrs. Gary Roberts was her sister's matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Jane Mobley, Marjean Sackett and Gail Sisson.

☆

THE ATTENDANTS dresses were fashioned in identical styles of rose organza over floral printed taffeta with boat necklines, fitted bodices and bell skirts.

They wore a single white rose with a circular veil of rose net on their heads and carried white lace fans fronted with white carnations and Miss M'Liss deep pink rosettes with moss green foliage.

Max Quinn was his brother's best man and the ushers were Wallace Quinn, Dean McCarley and Gary Roberts.

David Roberts nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer and Deborah Roberts, niece of the bride, was the flower girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wagner were the hosts at the church and Mr. and Mrs. Harley Washburn greeted the 175 guests at the reception at the Odd Fellow Hall.

☆

A PINK and white scheme was carried out.

Those assisting at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Handy, Mrs. Ray Bond, Mrs. Gerald Eaton, Mrs. Clair Handy, Mr. and Mrs. Max Handy, Mrs. Bertha Handy, Mrs. Carl Wagner, Sharon Bartenslager, Diane Handy and Karen Butler.

A 1963 graduate of Tecumseh High School, the bride is now employed at the Bostonian Dining Room.

The groom attended High School at Hackleburg, Ala. and is employed at Corrugated Box Company.

Guests attended the wedding from Lansing, Ann Arbor, Adrian, Merritt, Clinton, Bellville and Blissfield.

The rehearsal dinner was held Friday evening at the home of the groom's parents.

MRS. GERALD QUINN

Ole Uncle Hermie Sez –

Free Press columnist Judd Arnett mentioned in his offering Monday that what the Detroit Tigers need is Bill Veeck as owner, then added "but that could never happen." Why not? If the Briggs family had been smart enough to sell the property to the hustling Mr. Veeck 10 years ago, the ball club would never have fallen the way it has. Detroit needs Veeck and old Uncle Herm for one would like to see him take over the Tigers, instead of playing this absolutely useless managerial musical chairs games.

Legion Opens Tournament

The Tecumseh American Legion Team will have a chance to perform in Tiger Stadium this summer if they climb their way to the top of the Detroit Free Press Regional Tourney.

Tecumseh opens the tournament Friday, July 5 at 5:30 when it squares off with Adrian at the High School Field. The victor will take on the winner of the Dundee-Milan match at the American Legion Field, also at 5:30 P.M. July 5.

The playoff will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at the High School Field.

"We should make a good showing," Marv Yoakum, Tecumseh coach said.

"We have a fast, good team," Coach Yoakum continued, and five of our starting nine are batting over .350."

The Tecumseh Legion has a 4-1 record, defeating Milan twice 5-2 and 9-4, Ypsilanti, 5-4, and Dundee 7-3. They lost to Blissfield 1-0.

John Sweet, catcher, leads the offense with eight hits in 16 times at bat for an impressive .500 average and eight runs batted in.

Tim Sisson, shortstop, and Joe Prochaska, centerfield, follow Sweet with .444 and .300 respectively. Prochaska, with only three hits, has knocked in six runs.

Max Quinn leads the pitching staff with two victories. Ron Mastie has one win, and Greg Allen has a 1-1 record.

"How we do with Adrian will depend in part on who they picked up, Yoakum noted. "We hear they have picked up a couple of players for the tournament."

"Adrian has a 6-2 record," he explained. "So far, they have beaten everybody we beat, except Dundee, who took a game from them."

The winner of the Tecumseh tournament will play the winner of the Jackson district tourney, which includes Jackson, Battle Creek, Albion and Ann Arbor.

From there the tournament scene shifts to the University of Michigan field at Ann Arbor, July 27.

Winner of the Ann Arbor tournament then plays a three-game series with the best upstate team. The first game will be played at the home diamond of the out-state team.

Tiger Stadium will be the scene of the second of three series Aug. 12. The third game, if necessary, will be played at Butzel Field in Detroit that night.

The top team from Michigan will then travel to Johnston, Pa. for the All-American Amatuer National Tournament Aug. 17.

Also on tap, will be an All-Star tourney at Michigan State University involving four teams.

All-Stars will be chosen from the Tecumseh-Jackson tourneys to fill out one roster.

Two of Tecumseh Country Club's finest women golfers won their divisions in a tournament last week at the Western Golf and Country Club, Detroit.

FRONTIER CITY OFFERS MUCH OF THE OLD WEST, INCLUDING OX-DRAWN COVERED WAGONS AND REGULAR STAGE COACHES

Old West and Grand Opry Meet

Two of the nation's number one Country Music songwriters will be featured on the big 4th of July program at Frontier City.

Bill Anderson and Roy Drusky, stars of the Grand Ole Opry, will entertain in the authentic western setting where the marshall keeps a sharp eye out for all "onery varmints."

Bill Anderson is a two-gun man who fires fast and straight from the hip, both as an award winning songwriter and as a show-stopping performer.

A South Carolinian by birth, the tall lad has given the music world such heart and soul songs as "Po' Folks," "Mama Sang a Song," "Riverboat," "Happy Birthday to Me" and the heart warming, "Still."

On stage, Bill's eyes and face reflect the story that his husky emotion packed voice is delivering.

Roy Drusky is one of the fastest rising stars in the Country Music world. He has traveled all parts of the country with hit records and the grand ole' opry popularity.

BILL ANDERSON

A couple of his albums for Decca Records are "Anymore" and "It's My Way" in which he composed almost all of the songs.

Roy usually has with him a young man who plays a lot of steel guitar and is featured on most of his Decca records. His name is Pete Drake. The two started in music together years ago in Atlanta, Ga.

Roy, a former navy man, has many hobbies including baseball, breeding poodles and flying. He gets many song ideas while in the air piloting his own Piped 250 Comanche.

He and his wife have two small sons, Tad and Twig, who are already picking on a guitar.

At Frontier City, owned and operated by Ivan Hunt, the old west comes to life in an authentic frontier settlement complete with jail for "hoss thieves," saloon, western store, blacksmith's shop, craft shop, and paddle wheel steamboat and stage coach rides.

Children may feed tame animals in the deer park and at Old MacDonald's Farm.

Amazement fills the faces of young fry as they experience a "holdup" while rolling along in the stage coach behind the four horse team.

"The management has been seeking a competent man between the ages of 3 and 103 to ride shotgun for the stage is held up on nearly every run," said Mr. Hunt.

An Indian village, picnic area, antique farm equipment and a gold mine are among other features at Frontier City where the saloon serves "redeye" for long horns and "cow juice" for short horns.

CLEARED OUT — Joyce Kohlman walks through the lot she started clearing out last Spring. The lot stretches from Maumee Rd. to S. Evans.

Girl Landscapes Back Yard

By TOM BRIEN

It took a 17-year-old girl's "love of beauty", a willing boy friend, a Summer, and two Springs to get rid of the "useless" thicket behind the Tecumseh Motor Court.

Joyce Kohlman, daughter of Mrs. A. C. Hamaker, got "tired of the mess' that extended from her back yard to Maumee St. and touched along Evans Creek.

Last Spring she decided to do something about it. Since Larry McClain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill McClain, 1015 River Acres Dr., had a chain saw, she enlisted his aid and went to work.

First they cut down about 100 trees. Then they cleared out the brush, scythed the grass and burnt out the weeds. By this spring, their work was almost completed.

☆

HER MOTHER hired a professional excavator to come in and help. "I was afraid of her using the chain saw," Mrs. Hamaker explained.

The excavators tore out the tree roots, dug holes in the ground and buried the stumps. Now the lot has been filled in and is ready for seeding.

"After the seeding I would like to clean out the creek," Joyce said, "then plant some weeping willow trees. I would also like to make a garden out of this area, or at least a rock garden by the creek."

The two youngsters already started a log fence on the bank a little way off Maumee Rd.

"When the men cleared out the trees, they took away our logs," Joyce said.

"Landscaping is not Joyce's only interest," her mother pointed out. "She's a very artistic child, and studies both music and dancing."

☆

JOYCE also trains dogs. That she started last year but didn't really get going until this summer. She trains them by class or individually.

Her first class is scheduled to "graduate" June 22. The class includes a German shepherd, two French poodles, a Scottish terrier, and a dachsund. One German shepherd dropped out of class.

Joyce took her own dog to Chicago three years ago and placed third in 'competitive dog' obedience course.

☆

"THERE ARE four categories of obedience that dogs train for," Joyce explained: "Competitive Dog, Competitive Dog Excellent, Utility Dog, and Tracking Dog."

"I train dogs to learn the requirements for the Competitive Dog category," she continued. These include heel on leash, heel free, recall, stand for examination, long sit (one minute), and long down (three minutes).

"Actually, I train the people to train their dogs," she said.

"Joyce is wonderfully patient with the dogs," her mother added. "Animals take to her right away."

With all her abilities, it would be hard to guess which one Joyce will capitalize on in the future.

She plans to enter the University of Michigan on a pre-medical program in the Fall and hopes to become a neuro-surgeon.

Goodwill Seeking $35,000 to Expand Handicap Training

A financial campaign for $35,000 in a move to expand employment and training facilities for the handicapped in Lenawee County was approved by the board of directors of Goodwill Industries of Southeastern Michigan.

The funds will be used to:

► Purchase additional equipment.
► Build offices for Personnel Training and Evaluation.
► Build a first aid room.
► Finance repairs.
► Remodel adjacent service station for a vocational training and evaluation center.
► Build additional rest room facilities.
► Complete payment for the two buildings at the main plant.

Since the beginning of operation in Adrian in 1958, cash contributions and other capital gifts have totaled $48,881.

Durig the same period Goodwill has paid out $175,391 in wages to handicapped. Another $99,718 was paid in purchases of goods and services in the community.

☆

SINCE MOST of the people employed by the organization were formerly receiving Public Welfare Assistance or other forms of financial aid, an estimated $139,200 has been saved through the gainful employment of these people.

Twenty handicapped have been rehabilitated and graduated from the Goodwill shop to competitive employment outside.

Another 55 handicapped are currently employed at Goodwill.

Projected expenditures estimate that nearly $200,000 will be paid in wages to the handicapped in the next two years. The expansion program will increase the employment of handicapped people to 70-75 persons.

One major project will involve a program with the trainable mentally retarded, and the cerebral palsied young adults to be carried out jointly with the special education department of the public schools.

☆

HANDICAPPED people who come to Goodwill are first evaluated to determine what their potential and their limitations are and then they are trained in the skill suited to their ability.

Applications for services are currently on file at Goodwill for 108 handicapped individuals with additional applications currently being filed at the rate of an average of 10 per week.

CHURCH IS DEDICATED — More than 1,000 attended dedication ceremonies at Britton's newest church, the Emmanuel Lutheran, two Sundays ago. At right is the pastor, the Rev. T. J. Drobena.

Emmanuel Lutheran Church Is Dedicated

The new Emmanuel Lutheran Church located on the Ridge Hwy. was officially dedicated Sunday, June 23. Over 1,000 persons attended the three services which started with the members assembling in the old church.

Dedication services made up the greater part of the day. A dedication dinner was served in the fellowship hall followed by vesper services.

The design of the new church building, is primarily contemporary, constructed of pink brick and Indiana limestone.

The sanctuary floor is of slate. A 15 foot, six inch pine hewn cross adorns the chancel wall.

The focal point of the entire building is the 8' 6" white marble altar enscribed with two Greek letters Alpha and Omega to signify the eternity of God in both the Old and New Testaments.

Strike Oil Once Every 53 Tries

New York—New supplies of oil or natural gas are hard to come by.

According to Oil Facts, a six-year analysis of the 8,436 new-field wildcat wells drilled in 1956 shows that 159—or 1.88 per cent—uncovered commercial quantities of oil or natural gas. This is a ratio of about 1 in 53.

The remaining 8,277 wildcats—or 98.12 per cent — were either abandoned as dry holes or found too little oil or gas to be profitable.

A profitable discovery is one which uncovers reserves of at least 1 million barrels of oil or 6 billion cubic feet of natural gas.

The petroleum industry spends more than $6.6 billion a year looking for, developing and producing oil and gas in the United States, according to Oil Facts.

The petroleum industry's capital investment per employee is $55,943, Oil Facts reports. This is more than twice the average for all manufacturing companies covered in the study.

Stately White Pine Staging Comeback

Michigan has approximately 18,000 acres more white pine than it thought it had as a result of an aerial survey of some 1,205,000 acres in Chippewa and Mackinac counties. The white pine is the state tree of Michigan.

The aerial survey was conducted by Arthur Bloomer of the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry division and Spar Sager of the U.S. Forest Service.

White pine covered much of Michigan before the coming of the white man. Much of it was lumbered off in the latter part of the last century and early this century in one of the largest operations in lumbering history.

For years it was felt that the white pine was gone forever from the Michigan picture. But the stately tree is staging a comeback, and is reseeding at a surprising rate. Valuable white pine stands now cover approximately a quarter million Michigan acres.

Again, as in the Gay 90's, the soft, mellow glow of gaslight has found widespread popularity. And it's no wonder when you consider all its advantages! The gas yard light is decorative . . . it sheds its golden light over lawns, patios and pools for nighttime relaxing or entertaining. It helps guard against unwelcome intruders. Homeowners like its dependability too . . . its unfailing source of outdoor illumination. In addition to being highly decorative, useful and dependable; gas yard lights are economical to operate and simple to maintain.

LOCAL BUSINESS

"Optional buying." This term is used to designate the most significant trend in modern retail shopping.

It refers to the tendency of a prosperous public to buy at his own pleasure from a great variety of goods and services. Optional buying is made possible by income which more than amply meets the needs of life.

National distributors and manufacturers are well aware of the growing importance of the optional dollar.

During the current year national advertising of sporting goods, cameras, automobile accessories, etc., has increased approximately 20 per cent in newspapers of the United States.

Advertising of such goods is slanted to public demand for goods and services which were considered luxuries several years ago.

Indeed, steamship advertising in newspapers is running ten per cent higher than in 1962.

No advertiser, local or national, can think in terms of competition when he seeks a share of the new optional market. To some extent the women's shop, the sporting goods store, the automobile dealer, and the steamship company are mutual competitors.

The new consumer does not necessarily have to move in any specific direction. His optional income may be retained unspent or directed to any area which promises him personal satisfaction.

The local retailer who wishes to keep at least part of the optional dollar at home should, like the national distributor, recognize that a greater advertising effort is needed. A public which buys in a new market is always harder to sell.

J. W. Meadows, president of United Savings Bank, and R. H. Moore, chairman of the board, and their wives, were among the 700 who attended the convention.

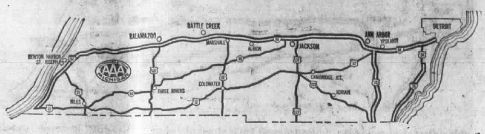
Marine Private Roger L. Hebert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence G. Hebert of 513 North Union St. recently completed basic training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif., and is slated to report to Camp Pendleton, Calif., for advanced infantry training.

The 11-week recruit training period is divided into four phases. It emphasises physical conditioning, the history and mission of the Marine Corps, custom and courtesies, hygiene and sanitation and basic military subjects.

During the three-week rifle range phase, intense study and practice is devoted to the care and use of the M-14 rifle and the .45 caliber pistol.

History Abounds in South



The Southern Highlands — a strip running across the entire state, bounded on the north by I-94 and on the south by the state boundary — combines scenic country with early history, according to Jerry E. Fisher, Automobile Club of Michigan's touring manager.

One can start and finish any place in this segment, like the others, but let's start our tour in the southeastern portion at Monroe, easternmost Michigan port on the St. Lawrence Seaway. This area is rich in early Michigan history.

☆ associate

War of 1812 to the era of colorful Gen. George Armstrong Custer of Civil War and Indian fighter fame. The historical associations contrast with the modern Enrico Fermi Atomic Power Plant.

Some 40 miles west is Adrian and just northwest of this college town is 2,000-acre Devil's Lake, an exceptional summer play area and favorite home for hundreds.

Along the top of Lenawee County runs the Old Sauk Trail, once traveled by Indians and later the Chicago-Detroit post road of stagecoach days, now US-12 (formerly US-112).

Clinton Inn, an 1832 stagecoach stop on this route, now stands in Greenfield Village, the 200-acre outdoor museum of Americana founded by the late Henry Ford in Dearborn.

If a motorist's goal is the Irish Hills, he can get there quickly by using I-94, dropping off on any of several routes east of Jackson, said Fisher. One of the oldest resort sections in Michigan, this sweep of country presents rolling hills and, half a hundred lakes and ponds.

The old Bauer Manor at Evans Lake is a stately colonial building that has served wayfarers continuously for a century. There are twin observation towers nearby that permit a view of as many as 20 lakes at a glance. Hills combined with a lake form a tricky golf course in the summer and ski in the winter.

St. Joseph's Catholic Church was built a century ago by Irish settlers. Walter J. Hayes State Park on the north side of the highway fronts on Wampler's Lake, and at an intersection of US-12 ad M-50 is Walker Tavern, an early stagecoach hostelry that once counted Daniel Webster and James Fenimore Cooper among its distinguished guests.

☆

AT CAMBRIDGE Junction is St Michael's and Angel's Episcopal Church, also more than a century old.

Brooklyn, northern gateway to the hills section, is on M-50 which winds southward and then east around the southern edge of the Irish Hills section.

Just east of Tipton is Hidden Lakes Gardens, a beauty spot operated by Michigan State University. A frontier spot north of Onsted is a thrill spot for youngsters.

At the intersection of US-12 and M-99 there are two choices, south to Hillsdale or north to Litchfield. The latter has the curfew marker recalling Rose Hartwick's Victorian classic, "Curefw Shall Not Ring Tonight."

Hillsdale, home of Hillsdale College, is where Will Carlton wrote his tearful "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse." This also is a maple sugar center.

Southeast on M-34 is the Pittsford Game Area, with its picturesque Genesee Mills. Near Jonesville are Cambria and Drinkers Mills, while a few miles west are the White Pole Springs at Allen.

One of the prettiest lake areas anywhere can be found along US-12 in Branch County. Quincy heads a chain of lakes extending down to Kinderhook on US-27, supply point for beautiful Coldwater Lake.

The lively little city of Coldwater at the intersection of US-12 and US-27 is midway between a chain of lakes to the south and another chain to the north. They can be explored at will. To the west is Bronson, renowned as a fishing tackle center.

Another good region to explore is along M-60 out of Jackson. This leads to Spring Arbor, seat of charming Spring Arbor Academy, which started as a girl's seminary 130 years ago. This route also leads to Union City at the junction of the Coldwater and St. Joseph Rivers, which was the site of a Potawatomi Indian village and even earlier of ancient mound builders, Fisher said.

☆

AT THREE Rivers, juction of M-60 and US-131, not far from I-94, there are charming parks and gardens, especially the R. M. Kellogg Gardens which have given this place the title of Azaleamum City. The junction of the Rocky, Portage and St. Joseph Rivers here lends to the picturesque atmosphere, plus the prestige of another ancient Indian campsite.

Colon, on M-86 midway between Coldwater and Three Rivers, is headquarters for magicians. Centreville is famed for its country fair. Here also is one of the three covered bridges of Michigan still in use, spanning the St. Joseph River.

A magnet for tourists is the Log Cabin Pioneer Museum at Cassopolis, a city that also is headquarters for Diamond Lake and the center of a thriving trailer industry.

From Three Rivers, the northsouth route along US-131 challenges the traveler, from Kalamazoo to the Indiana line. Schoolcraft, a few miles south of Kalamazoo, boasts a James Fenimore Cooper home where, it is said, he gathered material for "Oak Openings." To the east from Kalamazoo is Climax, the place where the rural free delivery system was started, with a marker to prove it, Fisher pointed out.

☆

SOUTH on US-131 at the junction of US-12, White Pigeon has a marker for the heroic Indian chief after whom the village was named and a pioneer museum to recall the past. A little north of Constantine is the museum home of Michigan's third governor, John Stewart Barry.

Where M-60 and US-12 meet at Niles there is a unique historical spot, the site of old Fort Joseph, over which have flown the flags of four nations—French, Spanish, English and American. Predating the fort, however, was the mission of Fr. Allouez, which is marked by a large white cross.

North of Niles along M-40, the little village of Pokagon contains a country churchyard with a stone recalling that the famous hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross," was written while its author, the Rev. George Bennard, was Methodist pastor there.

One of the prettier centers of southwest Michigan is Berrien Springs, northwest of Niles along US-31. Andrews University and the shores of Chapin Lake give charm to this town. If one follows US-12 to the end he comes upon Three Oaks., site of a Jesuit mission in the 17th century.

☆

THE WARREN Dunes State Park at the halfway point of a scenic stretch between Michiana and Stevensville contains 1,414 acres of beautiful, wooded area and sand dunes and a paved parking lot to accomodate 600 cars.

All facilities are open to the public. One hundred and thirty five trailer and camp sites are located within the park boundaries under ancient oak and elm trees, and the woods abound in wildflowers and wildlife.

Right at the gateway to Michigan there is the world-famous International Friendship Garden, an arrangement of formal gardens featuring extensive typical plantings of many foreign countries.

One has to take the side roads to many of the attractions of this southwest region; the frozen food plant at Sodus, for example, where millions of pounds of fruit are prepared, and Sister Lakes Playhouse, standing in a lake-studded area about halfway between Dowagic and Benton Harbor.

The whole Berrien County area is one vast orchard, with thousands of fruit trees in this county alone. And all through this area there are lakes, and lakes, and lakes, Fisher noted.

Exchange Student Gets Send Off from Romney

(EDITORS NOTE: Bruce King son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert King, 411 Adrian St., was pleased to receive this letter from Governor George Romney just a few days before he left for Sweden where he will spend the summer under the Youth for Understanding Exchange program.)

Dear Bruce:

I was delighted to learn that you are one of the young people who will be going from Michigan to live in another country this summer, under the Youth for Understanding Exchange Program.

The experiences which lie ahead of you will be some of the most exciting and enriching of your life. It will be a great adventure to live in a different country, not as a tourist, but as a member of a family.

Mrs. Romney and I have had the pleasure of being host parents for a year, and we can testify first hand to the worthwhileness of the experience. Also our son, Scott, spent a summer in Germany as part of this program.

I am sure you realize what a fine opportunity you have to advance the cause of human understanding among the peoples of the world. I know that while you are abroad, your actions and attitudes will reflect credit upon your family, your community, your State, and your Nation.

With every good wish for a memorable and rewarding summer,

Cordially,
George Romney

Quick Action Puts Out Fire

Quick action at the scene of two fires almost took the work away from the Tecumseh Fire Department during Friday's brisk thunderstorm.

The first call came from Forrest Bordine at the Percy VanValkenburg farm, 7825 N. Adrian Rd., when lightning hit a lightning rod on the barn, passed into the barn and touched off some straw.

A group of men taking refuge in a nearby barn saw smoke coming from the Bordine barn and rushed over to form a bucket brigade before the Fire Department arrived.

"The cement foundations were so hot you couldn't touch them," Raynor VanValkenburg said.

Moments later, men at the Ottawa Machine Products put out a fire caused by smoldering wires before it could do any real damage.

"We think it was caused by lightning striking close," William Rohweder, of Ottawa Products said. "We had control of it before the Fire Department had a chance to get here."

Actually, the Fire Department is pretty well equipped to handle a double emergency of this nature.

There are two trucks with the same fire-fighting capacities available and a water wagon. Besides that 20 men are always on call.

The first call is usually answered with the older truck and water wagon. This leaves the new truck which never leaves the city behind as a reserve unit.

Four men and a driver usually go out with the fire truck—it takes three men on the back to operate it. Since all 20 men are never able to reach the station at the first call, there is never any problem in gettting enough men for a second alarm.

So far, there has never been three calls at once, although several times two calls came in simultaneously.

With the number of capable on-the-spot fire fighters around, and a well-equipped department, Tecumseh seems pretty well protected in an emergency.

City May Help Finance Industry

Its not official yet but under a recent item of legislation in the Michigan State legislature, city government will now be able to help finance industrial construction.

The legislation would "permit a city to issue revenue bonds for the purpose of constructing or purchasing industrial buildings within or without the city limits."

"It would operate just like standard financing," Cal Zorn, city manager claims. "Private concerns could lease or purchase from the city who in turn would pay the bonds."

"What this means," he continued, "is that the development firm would have the pledge of the city. Therefore they could borrow money at better terms, and sell revenue bonds at lower interest."

Industry would have to pay it back, of course, but this makes the terms of original investment easier.

"No one has approached the city yet," Mr. Zorn added, "and there's no way of telling what the response will be."

Anyway, it sounds like a breakthrough in city-backed financial undertakings and a good opportunity for whoever wishes to take advantage of the new legislation.

It hasn't been indicated what the minimum and maximum investment could be, but it sounds like a good deal.

Ol' Man Weather Getting His Kicks

How crazy can it get? The weather this June has been as wild and woolly as we've ever seen it.

Temperatures hovered in the sweltering 90s several days last week. Tecumseh's two new temperature signs reached 99 at 2:20 p.m. Thursday afternoon (both in the sun).

They continued on up to 101 later in the afternoon.

On Friday, the temperature dropped from the mid-90s to 64 when the rainstorm hit Tecumsh, then climbed back up.

Less that a week before, on the first day of summer to be exact, frost damaged many lowland areas in Lenawee and the neighboring counties. Much corn was destroyed and the potato crop was set back.

Four weeks ago, June 9 and 10, fierce 80-mile-an-hour winds pummelled the area and felled nearly 20 trees. Tornadoes were reported in one neighboring county.

Several days prior to that, snow flurries fell.

We wouldn't dare make any guesses as to why the weather has hit such extremes this month.

And we aren't at all impressed with these five-minute television weather forecasters who hide their ignorance behind meteorological jargon, such as hot fronts coming up from the Gulf, cold fronts coming down from Canada, and several other fronts elsewhere in the atmosphere.

We will make this prediction, however. It's not going to get much hotter.

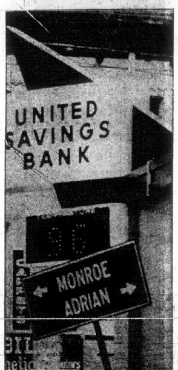
CAN IT GET ANY HOTTER?—Certainly. The sign registered 101 degrees shortly after this picture was taken Thursday afternoon. But it was so hot the two signs could never agree. The temperatures rose and fell as waves of heat passed through the city. Even the highway sign (below) wilted.



GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

In last week's column, I discussed some aspects of fiscal reform, concentrating on the need for a thorough revision of Michigan's anticipated tax structure.

This week I would like to examine more closely the need for spending reform, which is as essential to fiscal reform as yeast is to bread.

It would certainly appear from some of the remarks I have heard at the current series of regional tax meetings that there is widespread sentiment in favor of curbing or reducing state expenditures.

And this sentiment is entirely understandable. Economy in the operation of a government is just as desirable as economy in the operation of a private business or of your household.

But it should be remembered that while people generally support the most prudent use of tax money, they are also vocal in their requests for maintaining or improving state services.

The conscientious governmental leader must strike a balance between these pressures: The pressure to keep government solvent by operating it within its means and the pressure to meet the reasonable demands of the people.

During my first six months in office I have taken many steps to control expenditures and assure Michigan taxpayers that they are getting a dollar's worth of services for every dollar spent.

Even before I took office, I asked a team of top accounting and management experts to give me their advice on making Michigan's tax dollar stretch to the limit.

They have already submitted many recommendations, and they are continuing to examine the operation of all state departments in an effort to find additional ways of saving money.

FOLLOWING ONE of their recommendations, we are going to centralize all of the state government's data processing operations. Instead of maintaining eight or nine electronic installations in a single building, we will consolidate them to make the most efficient use of this equipment.

In addition, we have established a permanent center for controlling state spending. This center is currently eliminating paper work in three of the state's biggest departments, rearranging work assignments and taking other steps to increase efficiency and promote savings.

We are also moving toward a new kind of budgeting called the performance budget, which measures services or production in terms of unit costs and makes spending control more effective.

We are also studying the possibility of eliminating duplication of state laundry facilities, contracting out maintenance work in state buildings and modernizing procedures in liquor warehouses and we will continue to seek new ways to save money.

In addition, when the new Constitution takes effect January 1, it will bring about further savings.

For one thing, it will eliminate costly and unnecessary spring elections. For another, it will consolidate more than 140 agencies into 20 principal departments, eliminating much duplication and bringing savings.

No one can reliably estimate how much money these reforms will save. A reasonable guess would be from $5 to $10 million a year.

In any event, these changes are a big step toward governmental economy, and they recognize the fact that true fiscal reform is not just a matter of collecting more tax dollars more efficiently, but also a matter of putting them to the best use possible.

don't be a SQUARE

By TOM BRIEN

Around the Fourth of July, a proud citizenry turns to thoughts of patriotism.

The ringing of bells four full minutes throughout the nation is one example of the many displays of patriotism Americans will indulge in.

These displays should never blind us, however, to the much tougher task of day-to-day patriotism that is necessary to make democracy work. Ringing bells should remind us of, but not substitute for a consistent practice of our democratic ideals and forms.

Patriotism, democracy rather, is a way of life. It is not a club that we join at birth, then sit back and reap the advantages of belonging. It is a tough day to day job.

We must teach our children, for instance, that democracy is the continual exercise of choice in political, social and economic affairs. We must not teach our children that once and for all, "this is the way to do things".

☆

DEMOCRACY is a never ending process, continually changing its forms as the needs become apparent to the people.

If we say to our children, this is our way of life, accept it, protect it, don't ever change it; we may only convince them we are really an authoritarian country.

We must insist on allowing them to exercise their choice, just as we insist on exercising ours—or should insist.

Unfortunately, and I realize this is a sour note for the Fourth, we are not doing the job well as we could. The younger generation seems to be getting the idea that we are an authoritarian nation, and that we don't really believe and practice our ideals.

☆

LOOK AT the results of a ten year study of high school students carried on by Purdue University and published recently. The results are disquieting to say the least.

► A third of our youth would permit police to search homes without a warrant.

► Only 29 per cent agreed with the statement, "Newspapers and magazines should be allowed to print anything they want except military secrets."

► More than three quarters of the students favor federal government censorship of printed matter, movies and television.

► Thirty-five per cent would censor radical political expression.

► Twenty-five per cent maintained that the government should prohibit some groups from making public speeches, and another 15 per cent said that "certain groups should not be allowed to hold public meetings.

► Forty per cent said "people who have wild ideas and don't use good sense should not have the right to vote."

► One out of every four would deny the vote to persons who were not educated or intelligent.

Why do our young students take the Bill of Rights and freedom of the press so lightly? Seemingly there is a failure somewhere along the line.

Children learn by instruction and example — the instruction and example of their parents and teachers. So who's to blame?

☆

ADLAI STEVENSON, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations writes in the new issue of Harpers in an article entitled, "The Hard Kind of Patriotism",

"America is the first community in which men set out in principle to institutionalize freedom, responsible government, and human equality.

"But can we survive if we equate liberty with passive non-interference, if we exclude large minorities from our standards of equality, if income substitute for idealism, consumption for dedication, privilege for neighborly good will?"

The answer to that lies with each one of us. If we don't teach democracy as a way of life to be cherished dearly, and not simply as a ticket to the good life in the good country, then in a generation, the bells ringing on the Fourth of July may sound hollow indeed.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

A funny thing happened to me on the way to my typewriter — I forgot what I was going to write.

So this week's opus will end up as a series of ticks and tacks, as the all-star game announcer referred to the American League's leadoff man, Nellie Fox and Albie Pearson.

He also commented that they looked like a pair left over from a Little League game.

The way the action turned out, the rest of the AL lineup didn't appear much bigger, so Nellie and Albie shouldn't feel badly.

Did you note that 42,000 attended the game, in a stadium that will house almost twice that many? Has the all-star luster worn dull?

Or might one conclude that baseball — of the major league variety — is dull? There seems just too much plain and drab play between the exciting base hits and thrilling catches.

In the olden days, when baseball was the only major sport going, folks were apparently more patient, being willing to sit around the ball park all afternoon. Maybe there just wasn't anything else worth doing.

But baseball doesn't have to be colorless. Witness Tecumseh's program for youngsters, both boys and girls.

Fans who watch the little ones do battle never know what is going to take place at any given time, no matter what the situation might indicate. Reminds one of the old Dodgers when three men arrived at third about the same time.

Just because a junior team is behind by a dozen runs doesn't mean the battle is lost. A couple of base hits, one or two walks, several boots and all hades has broken loose. Next thing the happy spectators realizes, the score is knotted.

What is more thrilling than to see a pint-size guy club a sharp line drive to center field, or scoop up a hard grounder and throw out the batter by a step?

In many instances, this is the first time the tiny athlete has ever performed the deed and he's so pleased with the effort that a viewer can almost feel it.

These things happen on city diamonds every night in the week. A lot of moms and dads are on hand along the sidelines to make certain they don't miss the fun.

There are a flock of chuckles, too, like the time the catcher fired back the ball in a minor league game and the 10-year-old pitcher speared it with ease.

Then the hurler realized the ball had stung his hand and he jerked it out of the glove to cool off the paw, while saying, "Whewie!"

Leisure-time activity of another variety — square dancing — will be in the spotlight Friday evening in downtown Tecumseh.

As a feature of the Moonlight Mardi Gras, there will be an exhibition by a team of top-flight performers, then free dancing for spectators.

Getting Chicago Blvd. closed for the event was a stroke of genius and it's going to give considerable impact to the promotion.

For Irish Hills resorters reading this week's Herald, which is being distributed to 1,000 cottages, come on in for the fun. If you've never attended a Tecumseh after-dark sale, you just haven't lived.

Friendship Club Throws Potluck Party

Unmarried persons ages 39 through 64, are invited to attend a potluck and card party at Patengill School, Crestland Drive, Ann Arbor Friday, July 12, at 6:30 p.m.

Those attending will bring table service and a dish to pass.

There will be prizes and refreshments.

44th Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kempf will host the 44th annual Kempf reunion at their home on Palmer Highway, Britton Sunday, July 14.

Dancing in the Streets

Moonlight Mardi Gras is the theme for the annual merchant's summer promotion to be held in Tecumseh Friday from 6:30 to 10 p.m.

Chicago Blvd. will be closed to traffic from Ottawa St. to Pearl St. Through traffic will be re-routed on Pottawatamie St. and Logan St. for the two blocks.

The VFW will have a chicken and rib barbecue on N. Ottawa St. beginning at 5:30 p.m. Charge will be $1.50 a plate.

The Shawnee Squares will have exhibition western style square dances on Chicago Blvd. Caller will be Merle Bayles of Adrian.

Free mixer dances will be held for the public.

Over 60 cars will come in caravan from Clinton. Gaily dressed Belles and Brothers of the Brush will take part in the greeting to be extended by Mayor Harold Easton.

The group will be promoting Clinton's 125th anniversary celebration that begins July 13 and runs through July 20.

Chairs will line both sides of Chicago Blvd. for people who wish to watch or just to visit with their friends.

All stores will have plenty of bargains. They will remain open until 10 p.m.

The queen will be crowned at the celebration ball beginning about 9 p.m.

Les Proctor is chairman of the horseshoe pitching contest to be held Monday at 4 p.m. Anyone may participate by registering just before the event. If not completed, the pitching will continue the following day.

Anyone may participate in the musical contest that evening at 7 p.m. with any instrument. Old time specialties will be featured.

☆

THE FIRST spectacle performance will be presented Monday evening followed by fireworks. A pre-pageant show of up to 45 minutes in length will be presented before each spectacle performance.

Miles Cowdrey's German Band will be featured one evening.

Wednesday will be a big day in the village with a pet and doll parade at 10:30 a.m. forming on Jackson St.

☆

MRS. FRED GEIGER and her committee have arranged a unique style show to be presented that afternoon at 1 p.m. in the old school gym.

Both original antique gowns and new centennial costumes for adults and children will be featured and judged in competition for several prizes.

The contest is not limited to Clinton residents. Anyone wishing to enter is invited to call Mrs. Geiger to register.

Out-of-town judges will select the winners.

Jane Haus will model her great, great grandmother's attire.

Those on the committee are Mrs. Geiger, Mrs. William Driscoll, Mrs. Ivah McCombs, Mrs. Leon Van Deusen and Mrs. Hans Schmidt.

The entertainment and the refreshments are entirely without charge at the style revue.

This is to be the only time when costumes will be judged.

The Bustle Rustlers and the Bar Belles will play ball at 5 p.m. Wednesday.

John Jenson is the chairman for the tractor pulling contest the evening of July 18. A Tug-o-War to end all such matches will be held at 5 p.m. with 150 Brothers of the Brush participating.

Saturday, the last day of the celebration, a large parade will proceed down the main street of the village at 2 p.m. The spectacle and fireworks will be presented for the last time, bringing to a close the festivities of the Greater Clinton 125th Anniversary Celebration.

Modeling here are the Thomas girls, Mrs. John Thomas (left), co-chairman of the spectacle; Mrs. Don Thomas, who adds a comedy touch in the performance; and seven-year-old Laurie Thomas, who'll be picked up by Abe Lincoln in the show. Total expenses for the entire celebration will top $14,000

Clinton Meeting Held To Study Tax Request

A meeting Wednesday night by the Clinton school board probably determined the position Clinton would take in Tecumseh's request to return approximately $3,000 of tax money to the local school district.

Leon Boddell, Clinton school superintendent, said his board has not discussed Tecumseh's request but has investigated the matter and found the amount to be less than $1,000.

The Tecumseh school board authorized attorney James Beardsley to collect the money at last week's meeting. His dealings so far have been with Mel Smith, Clinton attorney, representing the board there.

Illinois Reunion To Be Held July 14

Mr. Moore, president of the group invites people to come and bring friends.

PEOPLE DID 'REAL WELL'

Water Pressure Normal

The surge in water usage that worried city officials Monday, June 24 has tapered off, according to City Manager Cal Zorn.

Water pressure at that time dropped from the normal 42 lbs. per square inch to 32 lbs. between the hours of 5 p.m. and 10 p.m.

The next evening, water pressure dropped only two pounds and has remained pretty steady ever since.

Apparently Tecumseh residents quit watering their lawns in response to the appeal by city officials, Mr. Zorn said. "The people did real well."

Most of the trouble comes in the evening, he continued, when the men go home from work. Added to the lawn sprinkling, is the increased number of baths and showers.

But it's really the watering of lawns that makes the difference, Mr. Zorn noted. Trouble may reappear when hot weather returns.

In the event the pressure drops again, residents are reminded of the city manager's request that even-numbered houses water lawns only on even days, and odd-numbered houses on odd days.

'E' for Excellence

Tecumseh Products was one of four Michigan firms to be awarded the President's "E" flag for excellence in expanding export business.

Originally instituted during World War II by the navy to cite excellent production achievements, it has been revived by President Kennedy to stimulate export activities.

In addition to the Products, citations went to DeVlieg Machine Co. of Royal Oak, Jervis B. Webb International Organization of Detroit and Buar Machine Co. of Ann Arbor.

"E" flags and certificates were presented on behalf of Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges by George Donat, deputy director of the Bureau of Internation Commerce in Washington, to firm officials.

☆

THE "E" award is bestowed on an organization which has:

► Demonstrated a substantial increase in export sales on a sustained basis.

► Successfully introduced a new product into U. S. export trade.

► Developed a market abroad for an existing product not previously exported.

► Effected a breakthrough in a market where competitive conditions are extremely difficult.

► Opened a new trade area previously closed to American competition.

☆

TECUMSEH was cited for "following the 'classical approach in exporting' in building a profitable overseas market for its refrigeration products through national sales agents in many countries.

"Entering foreign markets with its mass-produced product with a policy of establishing minimum prices, in expectancy of selling eventually in mass quantities, providing prompt deliveries, extended payment terms and technical assistance as needed."

The award was accepted at a special luncheon by J. E. Layton, Products president, who was accompanied by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Galazzi. Mr. Galazzi heads the firm's foreign operations department.

Senator Hart Sends Products Congratulations

Senator Phillip Hart telegraphed Tecumseh Products President J. E. Layton, "May I add my congratulation to the many you have already received on earning the 'E' flag from the Department of Commerce. It symbolizes not only an achievement on the part of yourself and your employees, but a great contribution to solving the U. S. balance of payment problem."

City Loses Post Office Bid

City officials learned this week that they lost the bid to build, and eventually own, Tecumseh's proposed, new post office building.

The government, in a notice to Jack Metcalf, postmaster, said the bid has been awarded to Max Schwartz of Mount Clemens.

Completion date has been fixed for Feb. 20, 1964.

Local officials wanted to construct the building and in turn rent it to the government. It was figured the rent would provide additional revenue for the city.

Ever since the government notified authorities that Tecumseh was to receive a new and bigger post office building, Council has been confronted with problems, particularly with obtaining an off-street parking lot in exchange for Adams Park, site of the new building.

It was first generally agreed that the lots would be swapped, or the city would have an opportunity to buy the off-street parking lot.

Late this spring, the government notified the Tecumseh schools they could have the lot—practically free. The schools did not apply due to city zoning regulations.

Now, it is understood that the city is again first in line to acquire the lot and re-gain some property which they lost when the government awarded the bid to Mr. Schwartz, who is an investor and already owns several post office buildings.

Behind Page One

My, but this fellow Jerry Lewis is a modest chap. For his current film we have watched newspaper ads to see mention of the name of Julie Parrish (nee, Joyce Wilbar of Tecumseh), but it never seems to run, apparently due to lack of space. Vital for the advertising is such things, as—Jerry Lewis as "The Nutty Professor." A Jerry Lewis production. Written by Jerry Lewis and Bill Richmond. Directed by Jerry Lewis.

Mike Sharpe to the rescue in his 12 foot aluminum row boat. Firemen were called to the Warren Sharpe residence on Tonneberger Dr. last week to investigate what appeared to be smoke near the railroad tressle beyond the river.

The quickest way to the area was by boat with a pail to bail water from the river in case they needed it.

Harold Easton and Buck Maynard were piloted to the scene by 15-year-old Michael, it turned out to be only fog.

Some really get the mileage out of their copies of the Herald. We were pleased to see Mr and Mrs. Jack Rehkopf, former resident, who stopped while en route on vacation. Mr. Rehkopf said that after they finish with The Herald at their home in Hammond, Ind., they send it to Marlene Bowen Lyken, also a former resident, and she sends it to a friend in Rapid City, S. Dakota

Police Chief. Murell Clark received a wire from Gov. George Romney last Tuesday. "The tremendous increase in traffic deaths and accidents in Michigan during 1963 has confronted us with an emergency situation. I urge you to use every resource at your disposal to help cut this tragic toll. I have directed the State Police to strictly enforce the traffic laws of the state, not only throughout the Fourth of July weekend, but through the entire year. I strongly urge you to join with State Police in a policy of strict law enforcement as part of an all-out campaign to save lives."

Did someone say "city income tax"?

Clinton's celebration rolls into high gear Saturday with seven days of fun-filled activities. Folks from there have been hustling all over the place to appear in other towns to advertise the coming 125th birthday party. Recently in Blissfield, a group was photographed by Duane DeLoach. The young man in the sports shirt is the only one "out of uniform."

We think the idea of blocking off Chicago Blvd. for "Moonlight Mardi Gras" festivities Friday evening in downtown Tecumseh is excellent. We'll wager folks who attend will agree. Merchants of our town are sponsoring the after-dark promotion for the fourth straight time.

Danny Shaffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Shaffer, 6805 Mills Hwy., celebrated his seventh birthday July 7. He was born the seventh month on the seventh day and weighed 7 lbs. 7 oz. at birth.

We refuse to mention anything more about the weather—except, how kookie can the mercury flip and flop? Bet there is many a shook-up weather temperature in these parts.

The quartet is looking for a name. Members of the cast of "Girl Crazy," Dr. C. L. Cook, Gene Earling, David Woods and Gordon Comfort have been performing throughout the area quite often and have been introduced several different ways. Last Saturday night they sang at the square dance in Clinton. They've had several suggestions, have yet to decide upon a moniker.

Tecumseh's Joe Satterthwaite, ambassador to South Africa, will be buzzing into town this month for home leave.

Rain Can't Dampen Garden Club Hopes

Members of the Little Garden Club are keeping a wishful eye on the sky hoping for a nice gentle rain so they may have flowers for their annual flower show at the Community Center July 20.

Anyone in a generous mood who would like to give flowers for the members to use in their arrangements may do so. They would be appreciated.

The theme "Home Town Harmony" was chosen this year to show the various phases of life in this community.

This will be shown most clearly in the artistic division as follows:

► Tecumseh Fruit and Vegetable Basket using fruits and vegetables native to this area.

► Refrigeration Capitol of the World—honoring the Tecumseh Products.

► Sunday Morning—honoring churches.

► River Raisin Reflections — showing the river and lakes in the area.

► Swing Your Partner — for the many people interested in square dancing.

► Busy Chairman and Service Club salute for the people active in state and organizations.

► Around The Farm— for the farming community and agricultural products grown here.

► Sports Finale — showing athlete activities.

► A Visit To the Hospital — remembering how we all use the hospital.

The flowers, arts and crafts will be on display and open to the public from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Admission will be 50 cents for adults and children free.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Little Garden Club or at the door the day of the show.

Kiwanis Nets $229 at Rodeo Food Booth

Kiwanis food booth at two rodeo shows at the B bar J ranch showed a profit of $229 July 3 and 4.

Proceeds will be used to sponsor five Scout units for boys and girls attending special education classes at Sutton and Palmyra Schools.

The rodeo had over 2500 people in attendance.

The 99 contestants filled all standard rodeo events plus the girls barrel race.

With one exception, all injuries were minor. Joe Farren, a rider from Canada broke his right leg for the third time in a year when his horse bucked against the chute gate.

John H. Smith of 112 W. Kilbuck has been a regular visitor to Joe since he learned the cowboy ways riginally from Ireland.

☆

YOYO, the nationally famous unrideable bull was still unridden after two performances.

Two cowboys tried him, but lasted no longer than three seconds. A full ride is eight seconds.

The B bar J gave $1000 in prizes to be one of the top paying rodeos in Michigan.

Kenny Williams of Jacksonville, Fla. was top money winner. He placed in four events to win a grand total of $396.

Doug Whitehorn of Oklahoma took first place in calf roping and captured $176.

Girls Barrel Race had the best purse in Michigan for a woman's event.

Lola Noszinger of Stryker, O., took $96 first place.

READY FOR THE BIG SHOW—Two Gay '90 Bathing Beauties, Bonnie Hoelzer and Cindi Parker of Clinton, are all set for the 125th Anniversary celebration spectacle "From Little Acorns", which opens Monday and runs each night through July 20. The girls pose on the giant outdoor stage, which has been built on the Clinton High football field for the show. Each performance will be preceded by different entertainment and concluded at 10 p.m. with fireworks.

Clinton Decorated 'To the Teeth'

CLINTON — Decorating with festoons and banners began Tuesday throughout the village.

All stores are participating. Tom Sharai, Benton Harbor, of the Freed Decorating Co. is organizing the effort.

Anniversary headquarters has been established in the Kehoe building with Mrs. Charles Escott and Mrs. George Lancaster as secretaries there.

The offices are open daily and information concerning the celebration is always available.

Souvenirs are on display there, including derby and top hats, ties and old fashioned dresses and bonnets.

School Teacher Tries Her Best To Help Students

The school teacher was attempting to instruct her students in the various values of American coins.

Taking a half dollar out of her purse, she laid it on the desk and asked:

"Can any of you children tell me what it is?"

From the rear of the room came the small voice of a boy: "Tails."

Visits Former Home

Mrs. Eugene Rosacrans of Santa Monica, Calif. was delighted when she attended the silver tea July 5 at the Smith-Kimball Community Center in Clinton.

The Center was the former home of Mrs. Rosacrans. She was a Kimball before her marriage to the late Leon Rosacrans' brother, Eugene.

Adding to the enjoyment of the day for the California guest, was meeting at the Center with two school teacher friends of hers, Mrs. John Holmes and Mrs. Lillian McClure of Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Rosacrans and her husband were visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Adamson the past week.

Other guests there were Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Dimond, Mrs. Adamson's sister, of Detroit.

Members of the Golden Age Club will be hostesses at the Center for the 125th celebration July 15-20 from 10 a.m. each day until 5 p.m.

Choir Sponsors Musicals

The Tecumseh Methodist Choir is sponsoring a musicale of sacred selections, featuring several University of Michigan alumni.

The musicale will be in the church sanctuary at 4 p.m. Sunday, July 14. A free-will offering will be received for the choir robe fund.

Mrs. Thomas Course, a Lenawee County music teacher and solo flutist, and Miles Cowdrey, Tecumseh High School music instructor, Methodist choir director, and trumpet soloist, have both appeared with the University of Michigan Symphony and are currently playing in the Adrian Municipal Band's summer concert series.

Mrs. Donald Bush of Britton, who will receive her MA in organ from the University in August, will accompany the soloists and ensembles and also present an organ solo.

Jack McKimmy, currently a University student and a former member of the concert and Marching Bands, will be featured in a trumpet duet.

Appearing as soprano soloist will be Mrs. Patrick Mulcahy, regular soloist with the Jackson Choral Society and Jackson First Methodist Church.

A soprano-alto duet was selected by Mrs. James Hood, church organist and former Adrian College Choir member, and Judy Martin, an alto in the Tecumseh High School Chorus and Madrigal Singers.

Cello numbers will be played by Susan Hornberger of Detroit Cooley High School.

The organ solo selection played by Mrs. Bush will be Bach's "Wir Glauben All'an einen Gott."

Mrs. Hood and Miss Martin's duet is "I Am Thy God."

Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary," a solo, Bach's "Now Thank We All Our God" and "How Brightly Shines the Morning Star" with two trumpets and organ accompaniment compose the brass numbers.

Soprano solos selected by Mrs. Mulcahy are Buxtehude's "Lord, in Thee Do I Trust," Gounod's "O Divine Redeemer," Van Dyke's "Love Suff'reth," and Allitsen's "The Lord Is My Light."

Mrs. Course chose as her flute solo Bach's "Sonata No. Five."

Eccles' "Sonata in G Minor" and Gabriel-Marie's "Lamento are the featured cello numbers.

The choir, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Hood, will serve refreshments to the guests in the church parlors following the musicale.

Partial Eclipse Coming

ANN ARBOR — A partial eclipse of the sun will be seen Saturday, July 20, reminds University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

"At the peak of the eclipse, approximately 83 per cent of the sun will be blacked out for Detroit viewers with slight deviations from this amount for other parts of the state, a littlemore being hidden for the more northern regions."

In Detroit, the eclipse will begin at 3:30 p.m., reach the peak at 4:42 p.m. and end at 5:46 p.m.

"In order to see the sun totally eclipsed, one would have to travel to the narrow path, which curves from Japan across Alaska, Canada, and Maine," Professor Losh says.

The U-M astronomer warns that "looking at partial eclipse can be extremely hazardous. The total light decreases, but any particular area on the exposed part of the solar disk is just as bright as it is when the moon is far from the sun."

"Therefore, heavily smoked glass, dense film or negatives, or appropriate filters must be used for naked-eye observations. To look at the sun through any optical instrument — even the finder on your camera—can burn your eye and cause blindness."

An eclipse of the sun occurs when the moon is at new phase and passes between the earth and the sun. Although the moon at new phase usually passes above or below the sun, at least two solar eclipses occur every year, visible from some part of the earth, and there may be as many as five, Prof. Losh says.

British Are Here

"Oh-ph, the British are here again," was probably an oft-stated phrase at the Roy Cadmus household July 4.

Mrs. Cadmus's daughter and husband,, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Simpson and family of Toledo, O. brought two English sailors from the HMS Wizard of the English Royal Navy, currently docked in Toledo, to spend a day on the farm.

Mr. Simpson is also originally from England.

The two young men, David Davis and Tony Johnson, had never seen an American farm before and filled the air with interesting questions.

Other visitors for the day at the Cadmus home were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Roebuck of Toledo and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bacon and family of Tipton.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

For millions of Michigan citizens, the dramatic drive for civil rights which has fallen upon this country with the suddenness of a July storm exists only in the newspapers, on the radio and on television.

The 700,000 Negroes who live in Michigan are concentrated in the Detroit metropolitan area and a few other cities. There are hundreds of communities in this state which have no Negro residents at all.

Yet to regard the Negro revolution as something that is remote and of significance only in the South and the urban centers of the North is to misread completely the present course of history.

The Negroes' demand for long-overdue rights is not restricted by county lines. The bell that now tolls the end of segregation is heard over all our state.

I believe that all Michigan citizens must put an end to discrimination and prejudice wherever it is found, in housing, schools, hotels, motels, eating places, all public facilities—and above all, in their own hearts.

☆

OUR STATE can be proud of its record in civil rights. Discrimination in public facilities has been banned by law for many years, and discrimination is certainly the exception rather than the rule today.

The effectiveness of Michigan's government in the fight against discrimination will be further heightened when the new Constitution which Michigan voters approved on April 1 goes into effect.

The Civil Rights Commission which the new Constitution establishes will have broad powers to eliminate discrimination in whatever forms it may have survived in Michigan today.

☆

WHILE THE Constitution can effectively administer the coup de grace to the tangible forms of discrimination, neither it nor any other document, fiat, law, or ruling can change what exists in the hearts of people.

I emphasize hearts, because to regard an individual as inferior because of his race or religion is to subordinate the power of reason to the power of emotion.

Yet if the people of Michigan are to prepare effectively for the future, they must show clearly that they are ready to accept the equality of all men in the eyes of God and of the law.

The force behind the Negro revolution has been stated clearly: Negroes want their rights as human beings and Americans now, and here.

☆

TOMORROW, next year, a decade from now, or even later, "now" and "here" will apply to your community, as it does today to Detroit or Flint.

That is why I hope all Michigan citizens, no matter where they live, will pause this Independence Day to consider how they can give meaning to the words which Thomas Jefferson wrote 187 years ago:

". . . that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

Wound Proves Fatal

Morris Earles, 39, died at Herrick Memorial Hospital Sunday at 4:27 p.m. as a direct result of an abdominal wound inflicted when his wife shot him during a fight in their home at 311 S. Adrian St. in mid-April.

He had been hospitalized since the shooting. Doctors said they had known for several days that he would not live.

Following the shooting, Mr. Earles told officers he had been drinking that night. He stated he had beaten his wife previously, once so severely that she was hospitalized.

Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Koselka said no charges would be placed against Mrs. Modelle Earles, 26.

"From the statement Mr. Earles made to us three days after he was wounded it is apparent Mrs. Earles was within her legal right in defending herself," Mr. Koselka said.

In the statement made to Mr. Koselka, Mr. Earles also said he did not remember clearly what took place immediately before the shooting and admitted he might have beaten her again just before she shot him.

Tecumseh Police Chief Murell Clark also said there will be no charges placed against Mrs. Earles. "I talked to the Prosecutor Tuesday and she now has free rein," he said.

Mrs. Earles telephoned the police at 1:24 a.m. April 13 and said she had shot her husband.

Two spent bullet casings were in the nine-shot 22 caliber pistol she surrendered to police upon their arrival at the scene.

The couple formerly owned and operated Earles' Drive-In east of Clinton on US 12 for five years.

He was employed at Tecumseh Corrugated Box Co. at the time of shooting.

Morris Earles was born in Paducah, Ky., Aug. 14, 1923, the son of George and Grace Leeper Earles.

He married Modelle Miller Oct. 12, 1954. The couple had lived in Tecumseh eight years.

Besides his wife, Mr. Earles is survived by his parents who live in Kentucky.

The body was sent from Proctor Funeral Home in Clinton to Lindsey Funeral Home in Paducah Monday. Funeral and burial were held Wednesday.

When? Farmer Asking

A number of people in this area are employed on farms. Some of them have asked, "When should social security be withheld from a farm worker's wages?"

Raymond C. Backus, social security district manager in Jackson, says there are two ways for determining whether a hired farm worker is covered by social security:

► If a farm worker earns as much as $150 in ... wages from one employer in one year, social security must be withheld from his wages.

► If the farm worker does not earn $150 in a year but works on 20 or more days for one employer and is paid on a time basis, social security must be from his pay.

Tecumseh Faces Milan in Legion Tournament

Tecumseh American Legion swings into another tournament this weekend after a disastrous encounter with Adrian in the Detroit Free Press Tournament last weekend.

Tecumseh opens the District American Legion Tourney against Milan Friday at 9 a.m. at Briggs Field in Ypsilanti. The winner will then play Morenci in the afternoon. Morenci drew a bye.

Others in the seven-team District meet are Jackson, Dundee, Ypsilanti and Adrian.

Tecumseh has previously beaten Milan in two other encounters, 5-2 and 9-4.

The other games slated are Jackson vs. Adrian, and Dundee vs. Ypsilanti.

If Tecumseh would defeat both Milan and Morenci, they would move to the finals against one of those four teams.

☆

TECUMSEH was blasted out of the Free Press Tourney Friday, July 5, by a hot Adrian team 19-10.

But Tecumseh salved their wounds somewhat Sunday, July 7, when they whipped Adrian 10-7 in regular play.

The Tecumseh team slapped out 10 singles in downing Adrian. Danny Harrison was the winning pitcher.

Take Care with Flame for Safety

If you're thinking about getting a burning permit, forget it.

The fire department is not issuing burning permits until this area has some rain.

Everything is so dry that a spark can easily start a blaze.

The department had only one call this week. It was a grass fire on the south side of the swimming pit at the end of Orchard Lane. The blaze was extinguished with no damage resulting.

Although only one fire was reported, The Herald has heard of several small blazes being extinguished by homeowners.

Residents are urged to take special care while burning trash or handling any type of flame, especially cigarettes and matches.

Gentle Old Lady

A gentle old lady on a suburban bus watched for some time, with the kindliness interest, a young soldier sitting next to her. The fellow was chewing gum vigorously. Finally, she leaned across, patted him on the knee and said:

"I'm awfully sorry, but it simply isn't any use trying to talk to me, young man, I'm completely deaf."

Corvair 700 Club Coupe

The hardest part about parking a Corvair is finding a nickel

That may be a slight overstatement, but such jauntiness comes easily when you're a Corvair owner.

And you can usually back it up—as easily as you can back up a Corvair. You'll find yourself doing that occasionally, if only to adjust the brakes—they're self-adjusting. That's all there is to it, and that's a good example of how delightfully easy Corvair is to own, drive and maintain.

But since we began by talking about driving, let's stick with that awhile. A large factor in the fun of driving a Corvair is the location of its engine in the rear. Why the rear? It gives Corvair extra traction on any road surface. It provides a nearly flat floor for more useable interior space. Best of all, it produces steering so light, so responsive, you wonder why no other American-made car thought of it.

Corvair's engine is also air cooled, we might add, which means there's no antifreeze or water for you to add. Ever.

All that pleasure from something so practical almost makes you think Corvair is unique among American cars. Which isn't surprising, because it is!

Janet Bilby, Harold Underwood United

Janet I. Bilby and Harold Underwood were united in marriage the afternoon of Sunday, July 7 at the First Baptist Church by the Rev. Blair Bashore.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dow Bilby, 8464 N. Adrian Hwy. and the groom is the son of Mrs. April Jennings, 301 E. Pottawatamie St.

Organ music was provided by Mrs. Katharine Hunt.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a blue gown of nylon over crystalette. A bow topped unpressed pleats in the back accenting the street length costume with rounded neckline and elbow length sleeves.

Her pill box hat and veil were matching. Her only jewelry was pearl earrings.

☆

THE BRIDE carried a cascade of French carnations centered with stephanotis and edged with miniature ivy.

Carol Bilby of Lansing was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a dress of blue nylon over flowered taffeta with rounded neckline and elbow length sleeves. Her blue pillbox hat was fashioned after the bride's.

She carried an arrangement of blue mums and white carnations.

Carl Wilt of Lansing was best man and Dave Millerton of Taylor Center and Gary Mueller were ushers.

A reception for 75 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents immediately following the ceremony.

A three-tiered cake decorated with wedding bells and flowers topped with a miniature bride and groom was centered on the bride's table. The table featured a wedding cloth and both the bride's and her maid's flowers.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Kenneth Nagorsen of Mt. Clemens, Mrs. Walter Wonderly, both sisters of the bride, Kathy Hodges, Mrs. Earl Bilby and Joan Langham.

Out-of-town guests were from Mt. Clemens, Adrian, Osseo, Britton and Clinton.

Following a trip to northern Michigan, the newlyweds will reside at 8464 N. Adrian Hwy.

Both attended Tecumseh High School.

Tecumseh Girls Lose First Game

The Tecumseh Girls squeaked past Britton Monday, July 1, then lost to Hudson in their first defeat of the year.

A fifth inning rally pulled them ahead of Britton and they went on to win 14-13.

Kathy Hall, Diane Lake, and Carolyn Purple, all hit home runs for Tecumseh in the wild fifth inning.

Carol Kapnick was the leading hitter with three hits in four times at bat. She was also the winning pitcher.

On Tuesday, July 2, four errors help sink the Girls' undefeated record to Hudson.

Tecumseh Backs Watershed Project

A report from the Application Committee will highlight the meeting of leaders of the River Raisin Watershed Project Tuesday, July 16, at the Tecumseh Community Center.

The Application Committee has the task of lining up city and township governments along the course of the River Raisin to act as sponsors of the project.

So far, only Tecumseh has publicly announced its willingness to sponsor the project, according to Harold Easton, chairman of the four-county steering committee.

"Most city boards meet on Mondays or Tuesdays," Mayor Easton pointed out, "and the Application Committee had only two days to organize."

"Actually, we don't expect too much until about Aug. 1," Mayor Easton said.

The Committee was formed Thursday, June 27. At their regular meeting, the Tecumseh City Council went on record as willing to sponsor the project.

Sponsorship means simply that the local unit of government is aware of the project and is favorable toward it, Mayor Easton explained. It is not a definite commitment.

Nevertheless, he noted, the Federal Government wants the assurance that as many local governments as possible are behind the project.

It is hoped that all the committees will be on hand for the meeting July 16.

The meeting is open to the public.

Richie Cobb left last week for Fairfield, Iowa where he is attending a summer workshop at Parsons College.

Safety Check Parade Pics Are Sought

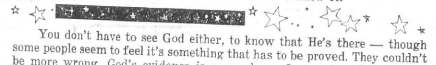
For All We Hold Sacred . . . Attend Church

drowsy afternoon

It is good to lie down on the grass and look up into the sky. Your mind starts to wander — the way it always does when you take the time really to look at it. The heaven is so immense that you can't find a word big enough for it. Those thunderheads, building up in the west — they are so huge that they dwarf the work of man into total insignificance.

The stars are still up there too. We can't see them in the daytime and always this seems strange. But they are just as much there as they are at night — and you don't have to see them to know it.



You don't have to see God either, to know that He's there — though some people seem to feel it's something that has to be proved. They couldn't be more wrong. God's evidence is everywhere. Just walk into a church on Sunday and sit down and listen awhile, and then you will know for sure.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

ADEN MEAD SHOWS SON, ROGER, THE "Y" HE WON IN TRACK

Son Follows Dad's Lead

For the Aden Mead family, 128 W. Brown St., that bromide about "a small world" is so true.

Just 21 years ago, pole vaulter Aden Mead was elected captain of Eastern Michigan University's track squad. The school was then called Michigan State Normal College.

When it came time to name a captain for the 1964 Eastern squad a few weeks back, members picked Roger Mead, son of Aden and likewise a pole vaulter.

Father and son have another thing in common when it comes to track—best vault of each has been 12'9".

Roger also specializes in short dashes during the indoor season and broad jumps.

☆

EACH IS a member of Eastern local fraternity, Kappa Phi Alpha.

Dad was an education major and taught 10 years in Tecumseh before going into sales work. Son is in pre-dent and plans to attend the University of Detroit dental school after graduation from Eastern.

In days of yore, the letter "Y" was awarded to Eastern athletes in honor of the city, Ypsilanti, in which the school is located.

This was changed when Eastern" lettered onto it, is the sports award.

Adrian '9' Wins Tourney

Adrian Stark Post American Legion baseball team had no problem capturing the Free Press regional tournament in Tecumseh last week.

In opening round action, Adrian topped Tecumseh, 19-10, in a free swinging contest.

Andy Fisher and Tom Billington combined to pitch the win, scattering 10 hits while fanning 10 between them.

Adrian's Doug Nelson collected four base hits, including a pair of home runs. Doug batted in eight runs.

Jack Lewis of Adrian had three hits.

For Tecumseh, both Joe Prochaska and Jerry Hebb came through with three base knocks in four trips. The Indians tried Ron Mastie, Greg Allen, Dave and John Sweet on the hill, but none could stop Adrian.

☆

DUNDEE stopped Milan, 7-6, in the other semi-final game as Wayne Davidson hurled for the victors. Dick Heiden and Ron Boldt both nailed two-for-three for Dundee.

However, Dundee was no match for Adrian in the title game Saturday.

The Maples won easily, 15-1, with Nelson hurling for the champs.

Pete Casteel of Adrian banged a homer with the bases loaded and both Nelson and Al Morin contributed two hits.

Dundee's Heiden and Boldt were good for a pair of blows apiece.

Adrian's season record stood at nine wins and two losses, following the title contest.

Walkers Take Golf Lead

Bill and Eldon Walker stepped to the front of the Tecumseh - Clinton - Macon Men's Golf League this week when Eldon shot the week's low average score of 40.

Bill Brown and Graham Morden followed only two and a half points behind and held their second place position.

Pat Hollar and Ralph Wurster dropped eight and a half points behind to third place after leading the pack.

Bob Beevers shot the second lowest average score of 41.

Douglas Hall, Chuck Allen, Walter Johnston, and Doc Morden all averaged 43.

Student Swimmers Will Put On Show

Demonstrations of swimming and diving skills will be shown Friday, July 12 at 7 p.m. by children finishing the first summer session.

Races and free swimming will follow the demonstrations.

Parents of the approximately 230 children who took lessons during the first session, June 17 to July 12, will get a chance to see the various skills their children gained from swimming instruction.

The second session of swimming instruction will begin July 15 and run through August 9. There are already 180 students enrolled in the upcoming session.

Most classes are filled for the second session, but there is room in the life saving and swimmer classes.

Those enrolled in the second session can find out the time of their classes by checking at the pool.

The third session will begin Aug. 12. There is room at all class levels for the third session.

Many of the students go on to higher levels after they pass during one of the earlier sessions.

There are also 17 adults taking swimming lessons this summer. Their lessons are given Tuesday and Thursday evenings and last through the summer.

Tipton Women's Fellowship Meets

Women's Fellowship of Tipton Community Church will meet Tuesday July 16 at 12:30 p.m. for a potluck dinner with Mrs. Lamont Simmons as hostess at her cottage at Wamplers Lake.

Members bring table service, a dish to pass and sandwiches.

IF you qualify, MONY offers:

1. Life insurance protection for your family.
2. A refund of premiums after family obligations are fulfilled.
3. A substantial profit in most cases.

There is no obligation for my time. Buy or not buy — you should listen to some sound advice.

685 Eat at Annual 'Patrol'

SKY DIVERS THRILLED CROWD WITH ACCURATE LEAPS

Over 685 people were served scrambled eggs, ham, rolls, juice and coffee at the Exchange Club's annual Dawn Patrol July 7.

More than 100 planes were counted on the field while 83 registrations were taken.

The Exchangites started preparing breakfast in the Meyers Aircraft hanger early Sunday morning to greet the pilots. The first, Joyce Binns of Clayton, flew a Taylor Craft into the airport at 6:12 a.m.

Miss Binns, also the first lady pilot to land, was given an orchid, a traditional gift from Tecumseh Greenhouses.

The pilot coming the greatest distance was L. W. Long of Cleveland, O. who flew a Cessna 170 into the airport early Sunday morning.

Over 20 door prizes donated by local merchants were awarded at drawings throughout the morning.

Fog in the Jackson area and north was felt to have limited visitors from that direction.

One person from Port Huron remained in Tecumseh until a bad storm went over the Saginaw Bay area.

Sky divers provided thrills twice during the morning for the large crowd. Three divers jumped from an altitude of 5,000 feet, made a long free fall and landed right on target near the runway.

☆

DURING the jumps, one of the divers carried a citizens ban walkie-talkie and communicated with several viewers.

Helicopter and airplane rides were given throughout the affair.

Some interesting heavier-than-air flying vehicles were three experimental planes including two extremely small ones matching in color and style.

Rumored to be the oldest plane in attendance was a double wing Steerman from Ann Arbor.

One of the biggest attractions was an old navy fighter plane parked near the hangar with its wings folded. The four-blade propellors measure 12 feet 8 inches.

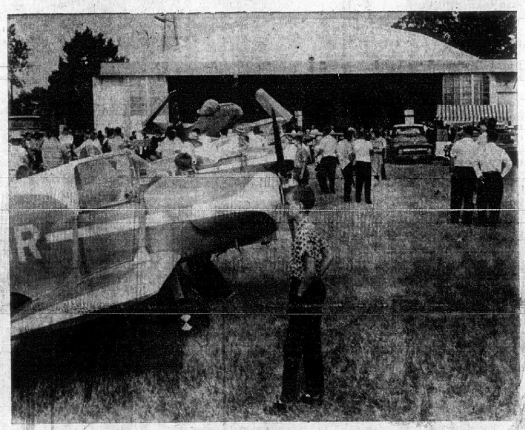
HELICOPTER ATTRACTED LOTS OF ATTENTION FROM DAWN PATROL CROWD THAT OVERFLOWED MEYERS AIRPORT FACILITIES



CLOSE LOOK — Future pilots had an excellent opportunity to view at close range a wide variety of aircraft during Sunday's Exchange Club Dawn Patrol. This one-seater was one of several experimental models parked on the field. Fact that there was not one accident is tribute to safety precautions of hosts, plus care of guests.

Can Average Citizen Sue the State?

There is considerable misunderstanding, even among lawyers, concerning an individual's right to sue the state. Many people are unaware that one has to have the permission of the State of Michigan to sue it.

You cannot sue the state, which is a sovereignty, for negligence as you would a private citizen. However, the legislature has adopted a statute whereby the state is responsible for liability arising from an accident involving state-owned motor vehicles and aircraft.

☆

In the 1940's the legislature waived the state's general immunity from suit, but the statute was repealed two years later because the state was sued too often.

If you or a member of your family are injured in an accident involving state-owned motor vehicles or aircraft, you must notify the Court of Claims, which is located in Lansing, within six months from the date of the accident, that you intend to file a claim. This, of course, in no way guarantees that you will be awarded a settlement.

There are cases where settlements have been awarded because of negligence on the part of the state operating in nongovernmental or proprietary activities, such as operating golf courses, parks, and utilities.

A person who is injured because of a defect in a municipal office building can collect his claim, but one who suffers a similar injury in a state office building is presently unable to receive damages.

VACATION DOINGS BY THE DUNCANS

The few weeks before vacation is a wild, hectic time! The days never seem long enough to get everything done which must be done and yet, thinking ahead to the actual day of leaving, time seems to drag ever so slowly.

The [illegible] day for us was Monday, June 3. It had finally come, and, if not everything, at least most of the little odds and ends we had wished to do before leaving, had been taken care of.

The station-wagon was packed and by 10:30 a.m. we were on our way.

The Marshes and Ida saw us off and oh, what a beautiful day for starting we had. The sun was shining brightly, the deep blue sky was accentuated here and there with big puffy white clouds and the thermometer promised to climb into the 80's.

A perfect June day! But we were starting on a three week trek and so full and fun-packed was it that a day by day account would run us into next year. Let's try to do it state by state.

☆

OHIO — Well, almost a case of the less said the better. After only seven minutes on the turnpike — bang — the left rear tire blew out. With less than thirteen thousand miles on a tire, a blow-out is most unexpected.

I wonder what the jinx is, the only other time we have had tire trouble on vacation, it occurred on the Ohio Turnpike.

Indiana — Just after crossing the state line dark clouds started gathering and soon we were travelling through a hard, driving rain. We really were on vacation now — we always have some damp, soggy weather.

It lasted about thirty minutes, just long enough to prevent our stopping in Elkhart to call on cousins.

☆

ILLINOIS — Hazy and Gooky near Chicago hot and dry elsewhere. Nat King Cole's Route 66 was a bit disappointing; it is an old divided highway, anyway the part we drove was.

The country was flat, used mostly for truck-farming but, oh the rivers and creeks — they were dirty, polluted and most unattractive.

However, about fifty miles of back-road wandering that took us to the Mississippi River was interesting and pretty — hills, winding roads and picturesque st[illegible] we always enjoy.

Missouri — We crossed Old Man River at Hannibal and visited Mark Twain's statue which stands in Riverview Park high on the bluffs of the river. A beautiful spot from which the Mississippi looks as it should, at least as I always think it should look, wide, muddy, slow-moving and meandering through lush green country.

We were pleasantly surprised by the state, as we roller-coastered our way along Route 36 we enjoyed every mile.

It was prosperous farming, all crops looked good. The wheat was just beginning to turn and the brisk breeze set it to rippling like waves. A sea of wheat is a most apt description.

☆

KANSAS — Here is a state! So many people had disparaged Kansas — we loved it.

It would have been fun to check an altimeter. We had the distinct feeling that on each long, rolling hill we were gradually working upward. We never seemed to go down as far as we went up.

The wide open spaces' is not idle chatter. Out here they were both wide and open! It is a big country — everything is done on such a huge scale! We were amazed!

The corn and wheat were outstanding but what really thrilled us was the cattle. So much 'steak on the hoof' and it all looked so sleek and so tender.

Undoubtedly after the grain was harvested and the range country was burned brown, Kansas might not be so pretty but when we drove through, it was a far from monotonous state.

So it is that our trip west was great, after the blow-out and the short rain, everything went smoothly and we sailed along under sunny skies. Our next state was Colorado, much vacation doings by the Duncans there, will tell you about it next week.

Her Idea: Tulip Festival

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Lida Rogers, 85, the originator of Tulip Time in Holland, Mich., is dead.

Born in Raisin Valley, she studied at the Raisin Valley Seminary to prepare herself for a lifetime of teaching.

Miss Rogers was the aunt of four Tecumseh ladies, Mrs. Paul Keyser, Mrs. Joseph Tressler, Mrs. William Lamson and Mrs. P. B. Hardy.

Miss Rogers was a frequent visitor to the city in past years, making many friends here.

Funeral services were held in Holland for the renowned, long-time educator who died June 21 at a nursing home in Marne where she had been a patient since Feb. 1961.

☆

THE HOLLAND newspaper carried an interesting article about Miss Rogers which read in part:

LIDA ROGERS

While Miss Rogers was acclaimed founder of Tulip Time, she displayed far more interest in general conservation and civic beauty.

"Closest to her heart was the Albert C. Keppel School Forest on Lakewood Blvd., Holland, which she and her biology students helped to develop through the years.

"The work was begun in the early 1930's and the 80-acre forest today boasts a fine stand of trees.

"It was in 1927 that Miss Rogers appeared before the Womans' Literary Club suggesting that the city select a particular flower and devote one day a year to a community celebration.

"In view of the fact that about 85% of the residents were of Dutch extraction at that time, she suggested the tulip because of Holland's link to the Netherlands.

"The immense gap between idea and action was bridged when Common Council voted to purchased 100,000 imported bulbs

"By 1929 Tulip Time was announced to the world.

"Miss Rogers moved from Lenawee County to Oceana County with her family when she was three-years-old. She attended rural schools there and graduated from Michigan State Normal College, Ypsilanti.

"Graduate studies at the University of Michigan and the University of Wisconsin and a trip abroad in 1923 combined with interests in educational fields provided a full life for the teacher.

"She was active in the DAR and the Eastern Star chapters. In 1938, Miss Rogers was nominated for 'Michigan's Outstanding Woman.'

One of the last thrills Miss Rogers experienced was receiving a bouquet of tulips in May from the Holland Chamber of Commerce Secretary William H. Vande Water and his granddaughter.

Miss Rogers received an honorary degree of Master of Education in 1951 from her alma mater, now Eastern Michigan University.

Miss Hathaway Gets Honored

Miss Sondra Hathaway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney P. Hathaway, 8618 Smith Rd., has been placed on the Dean's List of academic achievement at Olivet Nazarene College, Kankakee, Illinois.

The Dean's List is made up of students with a grade average of 3.25 and above. This is a letter grade of high B and above.

Olivet Nazarene College is one of the seven colleges sponsored by the Church of the Nazarene. It has an approximate enrollment of 1,200 students and is a fully accredited liberal arts college.

Linda Gilbert Selected for Interlochen Concert

Linda Gilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orrie Gilbert, 710 Wenonah, has been selected one of the 1963 all-state piano students to attend Interlochen National Music Camp from July 8-21.

Linda will be one of 1,000 boys and girls at the camp, 45 of them studying piano.

She has been playing piano for six years, presently with Dr. James Spencer of Adrian College.

Her previous teachers were Margretta Brisbin and Sister Rita of Siena Heights College.

Linda and her parents are looking forward to the closing day of her stay at the big camp. It will be the young musician's 15th birthday anniversary. She will also participate in a concert on that day.

Her uncle, aunt and grandfather from Pentwater will attend the concert with her parents.

Dexter Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bailey, will attend the Interlochen camp in August.

Early Indians called Michigan "Mishigamaw" meaning "Great Water."

The University of Michigan system.

was the first major university to admit women (1870).

Willow Run Airport is the only major commercial airport owned by a university.

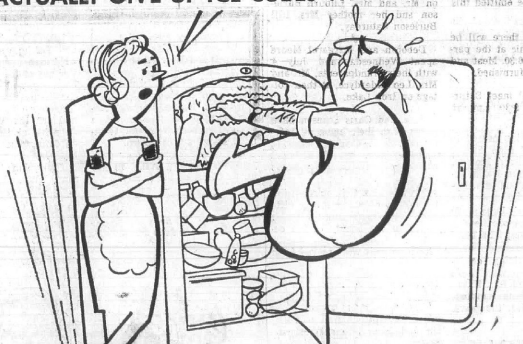
I'VE HEARD ABOUT NEW Refrigerator-Freezers THAT NEVER NEED DEFROSTING AND WILL ACTUALLY GIVE UP ICE CUBES WITHOUT A FIGHT!



Are you still getting along with a "too small", "out-dated" Refrigerator that needs messy defrosting?

NEW REFRIGERATOR-FREEZERS END ALL DEFROSTING

Today's modern, "care free-design" refrigerator-freezers end all defrosting in both refrigerator and freezer sections. This means no frost ever—on food packages, ice cube trays or walls—no defrosting drudgery ever—no scraping, no chipping, no prying, no messy pans of water to empty (or spill). And, the handsome refrigerator-freezer models beautify every kitchen. The interior arrangement is planned for spacious food storage and easy access to food supplies. In addition, the new refrigerator-freezers will:

- Store enough fresh and frozen foods to last for weeks—conveniently at your fingertips.
- Save extra trips to the market.
- Keep leftovers fresh and tasty until needed.
- Save money because the large freezer compartment allows you to buy meats, vegetables and baked goods when prices are low.
- Give you peace of mind because you can store enough for hungry family and unexpected guests.

IT'S LIKE HAVING A SUPERMARKET IN YOUR OWN KITCHEN!

Soap Box Race Is Sunday

BRITTON — More than four months of hard work comes to a climax Sunday afternoon for a 12-year-old Britton lad.

Larry Bush will run his soap box derby racer in the Adrian Class B race, which is for 11 and 12-year-olds.

The event is going to be held on the Church St. course, near Adrian Junior High at 1 p.m.

If Larry can top the field in his class, he'll be pitted against the Class A victor — 13, 14 and 15-year-olds.

The winner in that event goes to the national finals in Akron, O.

☆

LARRY began work on his finely-balanced racer in March. Its made of plywood, hardware cloth and covered with fibre glass.

Painted light blue and trimmed in white, Larry's entry carries the name Clinton Products, in honor of his dad's place of employment.

Larry's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bush.

In trial runs a week ago, Larry's car hit 18½ miles per [illegible]. Since the [illegible] in the vehicle cost $18.50, Larry is rolling a mile per hour per dollar invested.

The car's steering apparatus will turn only two inches either way—following the soap box derby rules—and the racer runs by gravity.

LIKE A TORPEDO — Larry Bush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bush, 176 Osborne, huddles in his plywood and fiber glass racer, ready and waiting for the Adrian Soap Box Derby July 14. It took Larry 4 months to build his racer.

Ivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Ivan has been recenny awarded a University Oil Products Company scholarship for his scholastic achievement and potential at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. The $400 scholarship covering tuition books was financed by a gift from a former engineering graduate of the college. Larry is a senior in the chemical metalurgical school of engineering. He is a 1960 graduate of Britton-Macon high school.

Famous Bands Played at Allie's

The days of the big bands and big dance crowds have come and gone, but the growing number of tourists on Wamplers Lake can still pack Allie's Resort.

"The population has at least doubled since 1944," Allie said. That was the year he purchased the property from George Niesle.

Mr. Niesle was the original owner who built the resort in the 1920s.

☆

"THE BIGGEST change since then is in the style of music," Allie reminisced. "We used to hire big name bands up until fiv years ago."

"Harry James, Ray Anthony, Gene Krupa, Louis Armstrong. We brought them in about once every three weeks."

"This new generation doesn't appreciate good music," Allie mused.

"We used to dance cheek to cheek. Now, they don't even seem to know who they're dancing with."

Allie brings in Rock 'n' Roll bands but it isn't like it used to be.

"When I first came here 19 years ago, we had to cool everything with ice," he said.

Allie purchased most of the property he presently operates in 1944: the bar and dance pavilion, the arcade, and three cottages.

He has since added the Dairy Queen, a miniature golf course, another cottage, and a ten-boat loading dock. He has remodeled the interior, but plans for the exterior remain for the future.

☆

STARTING OUT with Allie was Lotis Fisher, who leases the arcade. Inside, the arcade Mr. Fisher operates 23 amusement machines and seven billard tables.

"We have as many girls come in here as fellows," Mr. Fisher noted.

He has kept track of many who visited his place.

One, Carol Bilby, daughter of Dow Bilby, 8464 N. Adrian Hwy., baked Mr. Fisher a Pool Table cake, 19 and a half inches by 13 and a half. The cake was a replica of a pool table top racked up and ready to go.

Mr. Fisher is a veteran around Wamplers Lake, residing in the area for 42 years. He came from Toledo where he managed a hotel.

☆

ALLIE LUCKHARDT may have seen the "good times" come and go, but he's not letting it bother him any.

"We're concentrating more on the restaurant end of the business," he explained. "Next year, we expect to build more boating facilities."

Allie resides in Manchester during the winter. And though he professes to have no political ambitions, he is "president" of the city council."

"Someone's got to be civic minded," he says modestly, "so I got the job."

Paul Bunyan, Babe the Blue Ox, and their lumberjack colleagues did not cut down all of Michigan's majestic virgin timber.

A few trees that rank among the nation's largest in their particular species still remain.

Dr. John Andersen, Michigan State University forester, notes that virgin timber is scarce. Really huge trees remain only on national and state land and on farms where the owner has taken a special pride in his woodlot's beauty.

The Michigan Botannical Club is combing the state for big trees. Many of the largest are on South Manitou Island in Lake Michigan and in the age-old Russ Forest east of Dowagiac. Russ Forest is used for experimental research by the MSU Department of Forestry.

☆

OAKLAND County also has a substantial number of large trees. In a recent count, it boasted six of 18 "species champions" for the state.

"Huge trees aren't efficient from the lumberman's standpoint," the MSU forester remarked. "Besides, annual growth tends to decline. A few smaller trees would use the same soil, water and sunlight much more efficiently than does a real consideration in tree breeding and selection. Site characteristics are also important to the scientist.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Government economists predicted a recession in the United States for 1963.

Specific reasons were not given for the anticipated recession. It was just supposed to happen because of projection of trends.

Fortunately, businessmen were not frightened into accepting a decline which did not seem to be justified in the face, record personal savings and unused proluctive capacity. Logically, a recession could only be brought about by a failure in salesmanship.

Key industries faced the situation in late 1962 and early 1963 with increased advertising and more appealing products. They geared production to meet a boom rather than a depression.

Typical was the automobile industry, the pace-setter of American business. The rsult was summed up this month by Bryon J. Nichols, vice president of Chrysler:

"The recession just hasn't materialized. If the present trend continues, 1963 will be the biggest sales year in the history of our business."

Mr. Nichols said that a more sophisticated businessman and increased consumer confidence has brought about more economic stability—qualities which may be traced to faith in advertising by buyer and seller.

Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges has repeatedly stated that effective advertising and salesmanship is the best insurance against recessions. Apparently, the advice of the Secretary was better than his experts expected. They have postponed the recession until next year.

But if salesmanship continues to meet the challenge of increasng buying potential, recessons may be posponed indefinitely.

West Lakeland Offers Scenic Eyeways

The Western Lakelands of Michigan offer perhaps the most scenic Eye-ways to be easily reached with an assist from the I-ways. This area is bounded roughly by US-27 on the east, I-96 and I-196 on the south and M-115 on the north.

Here are swift-moving, clear streams to excite the fishermen; a long stretch of Lake Michigan shoreline, with its numerous park areas, marinas, fishing sites and magnificent sand dunes; fine motels, hotels and restaurants that offer the best in vacation accomodations, and the nearby half-million-acre Manistee National Forest.

On a vacation trip into this region, whatever the season, forego the urge to burn up freeway miles—slow down for fun. Motorists who give consideration to the small wayside towns and villages as well as to the larger cities will have no regrets, said Jerry E. Fisher, Automobile Club of Michigan touring manager.

Lansing is bisected by multiple laned US-27 as it unfolds northward. This, our capital city, beckons with attractions worth the time to visit.

The Capitol Building stands in a 10-acre park in the center of a small plateau bordered on three sides by the Grand River. Besides having historical significance, this site is pleasant to view. Potter Park has a small but fine zoo. The State Historical Museum owns a large collection of pioneer items.

Adjacent East Lansing is the home of Michigan State University, the oldest land-grant institution in the nation. These are but a few of the wonders this area offers.

Northward on US-27 the traveler will pass through mile after mile of fertile farm land, with the towns farther apart. Between Lansing and Clare are fine roadside rest facilities. A short stop is a relaxing interlude.

☆

MT. PLEASANT, the county seat of Isabella County, is a bustling college town—the site of Central Michigan University. Here are cultural and historical attractions similar to those of Lansing and East Lansing. The town is but a short swing west off the main highway.

At the junction of US-27 and I-75, at Clare, is where many canoeing enthusiasts rendezvous before embarking on the Tittabawassee River to the north and east for the 30-mile float from its headwaters toward the Saginaw River.

Clare is a pleasant town where the outdoor lover can rest and where excellent shopping and supply facilities are found, making it a good base from which to operate, stop and eat.

With camping vacations high on recreation priority lists, Michigan's state and national forests are the logical choice for camping and picnicking. The Manistee National Forest alone has 19 summer recreation areas. These area places where people may hunt, fish and relax—all free, said Fisher.

Beulah and Benzonia, at the east end of Crystal Lake, which reaches inland for many miles from Lake Michigan, are prime vacation centers.

Recreation in this area is so diversified that almost everyone will find something of interest. Beulah has a supervised municipal bathing beach just off the main street.

At Benzonia, on Rice Creek, one mile west of US-31, is located one of the few remaining vestiges of Michigan's fabulous lumbering era still in operation — a water-powered saw mill, completely independent of any form of electrical current for its operation and standing much as it did when it was constructed about 100 years ago.

Crystal Mountain, east of Beulah-Benzonia, is a noted winter sports area and has few facilities for summer guests as well.

Frankfort and Elberta, just west of Benzonia on M-115, are the terminals for the Ann Arbor Railroad car ferries that operate across Lake Michigan.

☆

GLIDER-SOARING off the bluffs here is rated as the best in the nation. Visitors thrill at the sight of these motorless aircraft in flight over the big lake.

The annual Great Lakes Open Soaring Meet is held here each fall.

Frankfort has its tourist-luring Mineral Springs Park, with a mineral well still flowing as a public drinking fountain. The town is also an important center for artists, with the Crystal Lake Art Center located there.

Arthur C. Frederickson, a car ferry captain, has constructed a marine museum in a barn-like structure on Hurricane Hill in the town. Frederickson, a noted Great Lakes historian, has more than 5,000 pictures of ships and their histories and what might be the world's largest collection by an individual of marine items.

The pleasant drive southward from Beulah on US-31 goes through Bear Lake village and around enticing Bear Lake. From there the highway passes a few miles west of Kaleva, most of whose residents are of Finnish descent.

Swinging still southward on US-31, the highway leads to Manistee, overlooking Lake Michigan. It is a great producer of salt and wood products from the harvests of area forests.

A canoe trip on one of the many beautiful rivers of the near - wilderness areas surrounding Manistee is a good prescription for relief of mental fatigue.

A rental service was established in the city last year, and its fleet of 20 fiberglass canoes will serve more than 300 miles of rivers.

In the Udell Hills area of the Manistee National Forest, on M-55 a few miles north and east of Manistee, is a miniature national forest within a national forest. In a section about three miles long and a half-mile wide, a person can get clear picture in one short, enjoyable visit of how the national forests serve the public. Udell Hills Camp and Picnic Grounds, within the miniature display area, presents a scenic vista over a steep rollway.

A few miles farther east on M-55 is Wellston, site of the large Chittenden nursery of the U. S. Forest Service. The 167-acre nursery has shipped out millions of trees since 1934 in a continuous program aimed toward keeping Michigan green.

Farther south on US-31 is Muskegon, one of the foremost ports on the Great Lakes. It is the center of a region which offers a wide range of facilities and interests for the vacationer.

Muskegon County has 7½ miles of public beaches in six county parks and two state parks. Hartshorn Municipal Marina has facilities for 69 craft. One of the sites of historical interest is an Indian cemetery hundreds of years old in the heart of the business district.

☆

US-31 northward from Muskegon is a two-lane road and a route of ever-changing sights as it extends toward Whitehall and Montague on beautiful White Lake, fingering inland from Lake Michigan.

Montague has two fine areas proclaimed for their beauty. One is Downing Street within Montague itself, a street shaded by stately maples and oaks that winds past old homes of the lumber era. The other is Old Channel Trail, with its unobstructed vistas of White Lake.

Off US-31, just west of its junction with US-10, lies Ludington, a vacation paradise bordering Lake Michigan. Ludington greets and entertains more tourists than any other point along the scenic eastern coast of Lake Michigan.

The city's main business street ends at a spacious Lake Michigan beach, a broad expanse of clean, white sand. Reaching out into the lake for several hundred yards is a breakwater, an excellent place from which to fish for perch. No matter how crowded it might appear, there is always room for one more fisherman.

North from Ludington over M-116 is Hamlin Lake and one of west Michigan's most extensive resort developments. Just north of this is Ludington State Park, 3,000 acres in the sand dunes land close to Lake Michigan and Hamlin Lake.

An historical marker recalls the lumbering village of Hamlin, which was washed away in 1888 when a dam collapsed.

For those who like books, particularly old ones, a visit to the farm home of Mrs. Raymond Genter on US-10, east of Ludington, would be rewarding. In her barn, on numerous shelves and in packing crates, Mrs. Genter has more than 10,000 books, gleaned through a lifetime of saving and collecting.

Eastward on US-10, one passes through the resort towns of Scottsville and then Custer and Walhalla before reaching Baldwin, just south of the US-10 and M-37 junction.

Baldwin is a famed center for fishermen, having the Pere Marquette River and Baldwin Creek in addition to about 50 other streams and rivers and 156 lakes nearby . Several old fishing clubs are located in the vicinity. Boats and guides are available at Baldwin for river trips, either by canoe of flat boat, Fisher said.

For the sightseer there is the Paul Bunyan Museum on M-37 three miles south of the village. Here are displayed many scenes of lumbering days as well as collections of shells, rocks, minerals and other items.

Another attraction is the ghost town of Marlborough. It was built to produce cement, but the speculation bubble burst.

☆

SOME MILES south on M-37 are White Cloud and Newaygo in the Muskegon River-Croton-Hardy dam area.

At White Cloud one can view a sizeable saw mill operation, drawing its timber supply from the surrounding Manistee National Forest to produce packing crates and pallets. On M-20 at the western limit of the town is White Cloud State Park and three miles is Jugville, founded by that "writer of rhymes," Ernest Jack Sharpe, better known to his many readers as Newaygo Newt.

Some 40 miles south of Newaygo on M-37 are the lush farming and fruit-growing areas of Kent county, and then comes west Michigan's metropolitan hub—Grand Rapids.

Michigan's second largest city is an entertainment and shopping center for much of west Michigan. Four of the state's major highways— I-96-196, M-37, US-131 and M-21—pass through its limits.

Its cultural facilities include the Civic Theater, Grand Rapids Art Gallery, the Grand Rapids Public Museum, Kendall School of Design, Civic Auditorium, Calvin College, Aquinas College, Davenport Institute, and Grand Rapids Junior College. Nearby is the site of Grand Valley State College.

To the northeast in both Kent and Ionia Counties are located some of the few remaining covered bridges in Michigan. Sparta on M-37 north of Grand Rapids has two major attractions annually—the Michigan Championship Rodeo in September and the Apple Smorgasbord in the fall.

Cedar Springs, north of Grand Ranids on US-131, is nationally known as the Red Flannel Town and has a quainness that draws tourists each year.

The town is host to many thousands of visitors at the annual Red Flannel Festival in October.

Besides all these attractions, one must not minimize thec harm to be found off the beaten path. The superhighway which knife across west Michigan bear hte commerce of an industrial empire, a flood of tourists, a throng of businessmen—all hurrying toward their destinations at a mile-a-minute clip.

For getting somewhere fast, Michigan's freeways are matchless. But west Michigan also boasts thousands of miles of roads that retain the scenic, nostalgic charm of an era when life proceeded at a more leisurely pace, Fisher said.

While in the rural areas, do not neglect stops at the small towns, Here lies a wealth of Americana, joys to be long remembered, making any vacation a complete one.

Most local folk are traditionally reticent, but with something as simple as "hello," they will open up like a patch of cherry, blue sky. They want to be friendly. In a matter of minutes they will be talking of things of interest in their town that are not listed i the travel guides.

Iron Curtain Crossing

Passing through the iron curtain separating Greece and Yugoslavia in his tour of Europe with the University of Michigan Glee Club, so impressed their son Ralph, that Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Helzerman, 612 W. Chicago, wanted to share his experience with other readers of The Herald.

Ralph found that the military dominated the transportation system as well as commerce. But he was even more amazed to discover how nonchalant the Greeks along the Communist border are.

"The northern Greeks are drugged off the proximity of Communism. They are firmly pro-American and have proven themselves against Communist guerrillas often enough to have little fear of Communist infiltration.

"The U.S.A.F. base at Thessaloniki, so close to the border," he continues, "apparently (had) no heavy bombers or sleek fighters, only two old motor props.

"I had never before been aware of the thin geographical boundary drawn between two political philosophies, and the tremendous impact on the people who must follow and support these doctrines.

"We proceeded toward the border and were surprised to see only two Greek guards at the border crossing. However, a second later, we caught sight of two bunkers with soldiers in them which constituted the Yugoslavian border crossing.

"Our next stop was at a small town just across the border, and there two secret police guards boarded each car.

"Don't get the wrong idea. They were not the typical gruff idealization everybody has of such guards, but they were friendly and quite conversive — only efficient. I just want you to realize the dominance of the military.

"In fact, the government governs the commercial industries to such an extent that there is no competition. This is quite conspicuous at night, as Belgrad is not brightly illuminated at night with countless blinking neon signs such as any American city, Rome or Athens.

"Instead, the streets are sparsely lighted and the store fronts quite unappealing."

What Makes a Town Tick

What helps make a community tick?

If you ask 100 people this question, there could be 100 different answers—and probably everyone would be correct.

It takes a myriad of things, like a rodeo, a dawn patrol, a ringing of bells and a special moonlight sales promotion.

You'll probably recognize all of these, because they have just happened in Tecumseh and or will take place shortly. Each one is a unique event and contributes to making our community tick.

In three of the four events, there is a profit motive, but whats wrong with this? America is built on the premise that when people risk their hard-earned cash, they are well within their rights to make some money.

When the B bar J annual rodeo earns cash, that means the ranch will be able to come back next year with a bigger and better event, thus entertaining people, who are happy and willing to pay for the privilege.

When folks watching the broncs wanted something to eat, they patronized the Kiwanis Club booth. Profits here, which topped several hundred dollars, will be spent by the service club members to sponsor boy and girls scout troops for handicapped youngsters.

As airplanes from a wide range zoomed into Meyers airport for Sunday's Exchange Club Dawn Patrol, they attracted area landlubbers like bears to honey. Whole families came to watch—and eat the now famous Exchange "husky breakfast". It was a ball for the guests and means that Exchange can go out and use profits to purchase something more for our city.

On Friday evening, local merchants will stage their yearly after-dark sale, this time dubbed the Moonlight Mardi Gras. It's an evening for fun with free entertainment, crazy costumes, real bargains, and for the storemen, they hope, profits.

Again the results of a successful event, this time a sale, will bring dividends to Mr. and Mrs. Tecumseh in future months. If local stores prosper, they can deepen inventories, expand, buy bigger, and offer more savings.

Less we give the idea that a dollar sign is a must in every community betterment program, we conclude with the ringing of the bells.

But there is a profit here, too, an esthetic one All of us are bound to gain a little when we hear the towns bells chiming out in honor of Independence Day.

Such an event is bound to make us pause a moment and digest once again the fact that our land is free, but that we are not perfect and must continue to work to preserve that freedom.

These things make a town tick—and hundreds of others, too.

Book Reviews Featured

The highly literate nature of The Herald readers prompts us to begin weekly book review feature this week, we hope to encourage discussion of recent books and books coming into the Tecumseh Library.

We think that many of The Herald readers are interested in new books and that some may want to experiment wth reviewing. We therefore, extend an invitation to readers to try their hand at reviewing for The Herald.

We are negotiating with several book publishers for review copies of their new books. Interested people could pick up these new books before they hit the market and then review them.

There are no limitations as to the type of material or to the date of its publication, except that it be of general interest. Local items will be given priority.

The book reviews should be no less than 300 words and no more than 400 words. Several items can be included, such as an anthology of short stories, or a comparison of two or three books, but each review should stand on its own. Remember too, that many in your audience will not be acquainted with the book you're reviewing.

Include the full title, the author's full name, the publisher, price, and number of pages.

There are three general types of book reviews that should be kept in mind.

The straight book review, which simply retells the story, or, in the case of non-fiction, summarizes the author's point of view. The review may, if he's competent in that area, make a judgment of the author's work.

The critical piece, is quite different. It does not seek to inform the reader about the book, assuming the reader of the review has already read it. Instead, the review is trying to place the author's work into the context of current literature.

This sort of review demands a great deal of knowledge on the part of the reader and is often of narrow interest. It is usually found in magazines specializing in reviews, or in magazines written for professionals.

The third type is the critical review. This is an attempt to combine the first two giving a brief summary of the author's theme or purpose, then trying to rate its literary value in comparison to other work.

The second type, the critical piece, is probably out of place in a newspaper We are primarily interested in the straight review, and also the critical review.

The book review this week is one example of the critical review. You make take your cue from it or try something on your own.

Notes

BEETLE TRAPS

Nearly 20,000 Japanese beetle traps are being placed in southern Michigan, the initial move in the battle against this damaging pest that feeds on more than 250 kinds of vegetation.

The traps are bright yellow, and are suspended on rods about three feet above the ground. They are metallic and somewhat resemble a lantern. the trap is baited with aromatic oils, that are not poisonous but should not be taken internally. Beetles are lured by the scent from a radius of about 500 feet.

The purpose of the traps is to show the presence of the insect, an indication that treatment of the area with insecticides is needed. The adult beetles usually emerge from the soil in July to feed on field crops, fruits, vegetables, lawns and even shrubs. The larvae spends 10 months beneath the soil feeding on rootlets.

☆

OH DEER!

Conservation Department official David Jenkins said he would probably recommend an antlerless deer season for Southern Michigan to the Conservation Department. This means does and fawns, as well as bucks, would be legal game.

With considerable food, "cover" and widespread protection, lower Michigan's deer herd has increased about 14 per cent each recent year, and this fall will be up some 20,000 animals over last year.

Livingston County alone reports $40,000 damage in trampled farm land, $4,000 in eaten apples, and another $6,000 in tree damage.

☆

BOATING ACCIDENTS

A U.S. Coast Guard report brought to our attention by the National Wildlife Federation shows an 8.5 per cent drop in the number of fatal boating accidents, coupled with a 13.9 per cent increase in the number of registered boatts, during 1962, thus putting to an end any fears about a rise in the national boating accident rate and indicating that efforts to teach boaters safe boating procedures are bearing fruit.

Book Review

'American Dream' A Nightmare

By TOM BRIEN

"The American Dream and The Zoo Story." by Edward Albee. New American Library. 60 cents, 172 pages.

One of the worst features of American theater is that it takes a few years for the recent hit plays to get away from New York into the country.

We usually have to wait for summer stock to pick it up, or Hollywood; or if we are in a real hurry, buy the printed form which is never as good.

This happened with Edward Albee, who has swept the theater world into controversy and left the rest of us theater lovers wondering what it is all about.

Two of his short plays, "The American Dream" and "The Sandbox" were presented on television earlier this year by the Canadian Broadcasting Company.

☆

NOW, the New American Library has put out a 60 cent paperback which includes "The American Dream" and "The Zoo Story." For those still wondering what the furor is all about, here is a chance to find out.

The allegorical "American Dream" is probably the most representative play. In it, the characters he draws of contemporary society are essentially the same that appear in his other work.

Mommy represents the modern women, grasping, deceitful, domineering, yet stupid, unfeeling and lacking in the capacity to love.

☆

HER HUSBAND, Daddy, is the weak, efrfeminate, almost impotent male who wants only to be comfortable. He has money, but that was inherited. He is certainly not the type that could make it on his own.

Grandma is a throw back to a more human, pre-modern type that is capable of love and affection—the only one in this play.

Mrs. Barker, the orphanage director, is pretty much the same pushy female as Mommy. She is the career women type.

Finally, the Young Man (The American Dream) is a handsome young buck with all the physical attributes of a movie star but is emasculated and hollow inside.

Mommy and Daddy want to get rid of Grandma and adopt a new son. They have deformed and killed their own son by hacking off all the rough edges until he is no longer a man.

☆

ALL THIS was in the past, and now the orphaned young man who they adopt, is the spiritual twin of the son. He suffered the spiritual and emotional effects of the son's deformity, but not the physical effects.

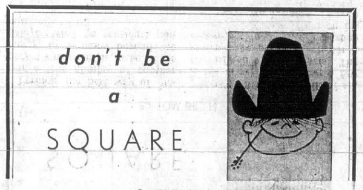
Mr. Albee himself said he was trying to show the "decline of the West," but also said in his television appearance that most of society wasn't that bad. However, he said, there were enough of these people around to be frightening.

The play is semi-surrealistic. There is little action and extremely little plot. Mommy and Daddy try most of the play to send Grandma away, and when the young man arrives, get rid of her. And that's all.

It is in the character delineation that Mr. Albee achieves his strongest impact. The decline of the American male is a popular notion, but few pictures him so utterly inept. Nor is there any hope in the important young man that will be taking his place.

The same can be said for the American women, who comes off a little better, if only because she's stronger.

What makes Albee's characterization impressive, and a little frightening, is the fact that the reader can see a certain amount of truth in them. They're exaggerated, but even then, that knowledge is not very reassuring.



By TOM BRIEN

Perhaps the best way of getting a true glimpse of another person's manners is to be at his mercy, or to stand beyond the pale of what he considers normal and proper.

Driving a motor scooter has given me a clear look at the lousy road manners of drivers. In many cases, this display of bad manners is downright dangerous.

Twice within the last two days, for instance, a driver has passed my scooter with full knowledge that he was forcing an oncoming car off the road.

Few drivers, myself included, can stand to drag along at a crawl behind some driver, or contraption, that can't go over 40 miles an hour. But this is no excuse to endanger a driver on the other side of the road, or to endanger the driver ahead if his vehicle is small enough to be pushed off the road.

More common is the driver who races past the scooter with a foot or so to spare, not aware, apparently, that the scooter is much less stable in the wind, needs to swerve occasionally to avoid bumps in the road, and doesn't offer the driver one bit of protection.

MOST TROUBLESOME of all is the driver who follows a few feet behind a passing semi. The semi's wake pulls the scooter a foot or two to the left, and when another car passes, right on his tail, trying to squeeze between the center line and the scooter, the sensation is hair-raising.

I was warned by the dealer that drivers would show me no mercy, and so far they haven't. The dealer claimed it was because American drivers were simply not used to two wheeled vehicles using the highway.

In Europe, they build a separate lane, for two-wheelers usually a few feet from the road. And when that lane isn't there, enough people ride bikes to make drivers aware of the danger.

American drivers, however, seem to deny a two-wheeler's right to be on the road. Actually, anything but another car is somehow illegitimate. But a truck, especially a semi, demands respect by its sheer size.

☆

NOT AS dangerous, but equally as irritating, is the person who takes the liberty to tell me I look odd.

Because I drive a scooter (it's cheap), because I wear shades (keeps the sand, sun and bugs out of my eyes), and because I wear a beard (I feel like it), many think they have a right to treat me disrespectfully.

"Get the h— off the road, beatnik,' they'll yell as they drive so close I could reach over and snap their aerial—every face in the car grinning.

Sometimes a less contemptuous "Ride em, cowboy," reveals a certain amount of appreciation.

And it isn't only drivers who show their bad side. "Anything with a motor in it, hey buddy," some older fellow commented as I was getting my license.

☆

"HAVING TROUBLE?" they'll ask with smug glee, if I stall the engine and have trouble starting it again. What they really mean, "serves you right for being an odd rod."

Sometimes they don't even need an excuse. "Look at the beatnik," they'll say from the safety of their car, or just loud enough for me to hear as I walk by.

I tell you, I don't need to join any civil rights campaign to preserve the right of the individual to do things his own way. It takes a great deal of resolve just to get back and forth from work,

OUR READERS WRITE

June 18, 1963

To the Editor:

Your fine presentation of the story on Sandra Burkhead helped to introduce the change of telephone representatives very effectively. We truly appreciate your coverage of the story.

The enclosed news release outlines our newest project through which we hope to expand services to more handicapped people in Southeastern Michigan. Included in the new group to be served will be the mentally retarded young adults from the Sutton School program.

We would be very grateful for any use you might make of the story in your paper. The campaign is being conducted on a rather limited scale but we need all the publicity we can get on the project.

Thanks again for helping the handicapped.

Yours sincerely,
Claude W. Whitehead,
Executive Director

In 1959 Fred bought the business from his brother. Fred has been building cottages in the lake area for the past six years, hiring local contractors who bid on the individual jobs.

Gray Starting $24,000 Training Plan

By JIM LINCOLN

A $24,000 training program for 56 potential employees of Gray Manufacturing Co. started here Tuesday at the Faraday plant.

The program under state law and the auspices of the Michigan Employment Security Commission and Tecumseh schools, will provide trained personnel for Gray when the Connecticut company moves into the Faraday plant in August.

Roy Olson, controller at Faraday, says the training program will enable Gray to utilize laid-off Faraday employees and increase total employment, by 100 to 200 workers.

☆

ALL TRAINEES, laid-off Faraday workers, and others, are presently drawing unemployment compensation and will continue to do so through the entire 12-week training period. In October, the trainees will go on the company's payroll.

MESCO, which is subsidizing the entire program, is acting under a state law which allows for the training of personnel for a new Michigan company. Gray will be the only company of its kind in the area; and, qualified personnel for certain positions are not available locally.

The local schools have contracted to administer the program, purchase necessary materials, secure instructors and keep necessary records.

☆

INSTRUCTORS have been obtained from Gray for the training in assembling, testing and inspecting aspects for dictating equipment, marketed by Gray under the trademarks "Audograph" and "Keynoter."

All finished products by the trainees will become the property of MESCO.

Gray will cease operations at the Hartford, Conn., plant Aug. 2, and plans to have all of its machinery and equipment here by Aug. 18.

No changes in the administrative personnel of the Faraday plant are contemplated, and no expansion of the present building is planned.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Every once in a while, when fellows get into a bull session, the talk turns to cars.

Not the sleek '63 models or the turbine drive deals of the future, but the real old timers.

A guy can give his age away in a hurry when he remembers the Hupp, the Case, the Marmom and the Pierce Arrow.

A couple of visitors in town the other day enjoying some twilight golf and dinner were Lou Tomala of Niles and Joe McLain of Logansport, Ind., both from the RBM Division of the Essex Wire Corp.

Somebody asked them if all employees had to drive Essex cars.

"Certainly," smiled Lou as he sawed off a king-size hunk of steak.

This helped turn the conversation to the days of long-forgotten autos.

As the group got going on a second round of iced teas, Lou started talking about the Diana his family owned in the Twenties.

"A Diana?" popped up Ted Pihl, a Tecumseh Products engineer who was playing host. "What was that?"

"It was a car," replied Lou, shocked that everyone didn't recognize the name right off the bat since this was a circle of reading fanatics. As it turned out no one had heard of the Diana.

Lou was stunned.

He began to sketch the distinctive radiator and hood on a stray golf score card. He described the radiator ornament and it turned out to be a beautiful lady, obviously Diana.

But still the car was a mystery to the others. They recalled the Cord, the Cleveland and the Hudson Terraplane. Cadillac's old V-16 was brought up, so was the Lasalle.

Mr. Pihl mentioned a radio newscast of that day in which the dumbest car theft on record was recorded — the guy who swiped a red Edsel — but still the Diana remained a mystery.

Lou promised to dig into the reference books and come up with a picture and history of the Diana. It would of necessity be short, he admitted, since the car was manufactured for only a few years.

Maybe some reader can lend Lou a hand and produce something on the Diana.

Be sure to see Clinton's 125th anniversary production, "From Little Acorns." Go early and get a good seat.

It's a grand show. The folks in it and all those who have done such a fabulous job on that town's celebration are to be warmly congratulated.

One line Tecumseh residents will get a chuckle from is delivered by a Miss Dogood.

She keeps charging out onto the field, telling the narrator the story line isn't authentic.

When the Charleston steppers go to it, she flies from her seat and shouts that folks there never did this unladylike dance, adding, "Maybe over in Tecumseh, where they do such things as that, but not in Clinton!"

To The Rescue

Firemen were called twice this week to rescue treed cats.

Gale Hooten and Harold Easton answered a call Thursday at the home of Mrs. Nora L. Lewis, 515 E. Pottawatamie St. to rescue one kitty.

The other call was at the Peter Kalom residence 107 S. Maiden Lane Wednesday to get a cat down that had been in a tree all night chased there by a dog.

CHARLESTON DANCERS IN CLINTON'S PRODUCTION "FROM LITTLE ACORNS" ARRIVE ON STAGE IN 1925 STUDEBAKER

Songs, Dances, Pageantry

CLINTON — Songs, dances and pageantry help tell the history of this town in the 90-minute production "From Little Acorns."

The giant cast show opened Monday evening and will be presented nightly at 9 through Saturday.

A different musical presentation is held from 8 p.m. until curtain time each night. Fireworks conclude the night.

Enthusiasm is a keyword in the effort. Everyone has a good time, both the audience and the 300-member cast.

Several sequences were exceptional, with the Roaring Twenties Charleston dancers probably capping the rest.

Thirty-six teen-age girls come wheeling onto the football-field stage in a variety of 1920 dresses and hats, all sporting long strands of beads.

Many of them are aboard a rare vintage 1925 Studebaker convertible with rumble seat — inside, outside, on the running-boards.

There was an unrehearsed miscue in the Charleston sequence that drew a round of laughter and applause. Bonnie Hoelzer, one of the act's stars, did a jump, slipped and made a three-point landing. She grinned and hopped back up to start hoofing again.

☆

A MINIATURE atomic bomb jolted the audience during the World War II sequence as a fearsome mushroom cloud rolled skyward while two spotlights danced over its silhouette.

Abe Lincoln was on hand, too, as well as the early settlers of Clinton, who drew applause for their vigorous square dancing and rendition of the Virginia Reel.

Lighting was impressive in the dance of the Indian maidens.

☆

IN A pre-performance pep talk, Director Ed DeRocker of the John B. Rogers Producing Co., encouraged his 300 charges to do their best.

He told them several newspapermen were on hand to prepare reviews, then closed by leading them in three lusty "Hip, hip, hoorays!" The enthusiasm engendered just before "curtain" time lasted all evening.

The performance area for the production covers almost the entire football field.

Giant backdrops, standing 30 feet high, run almost 300 feet along the west sideline. The setup is impressive, so are the multi-color lights and spots.

Only problem came in the sound system, which sometimes worked excellently and other times became a gravel roll.

During the finale, the entire cast sang the "Star Spangled Banner," joined by the audience. At the line, "and the rockets red glare," a giant sky rocket was fired high into the evening air, giving the National Anthem an exciting new dimension.

☆

TICKETS for "From Little Acorns" are priced at $1.50 for adults and 75c for children. Tecumsehland residents can obtain them at The Herald office.

Dancers May Get Center

The Shawnee Squares, local square dancing club, was given high hopes Monday night by Council that its request for using the Community Center on second and fourth Saturday nights would be granted.

Ollie Musch, president of the club, told Councilmen that it was necessary to reserve dates a year and two years in advance for the club to obtain the callers it wanted.

The Parks and Recreation Board had discussed allowing the club to reserve one Saturday night a month, while Musch, and others in the delegation attending the meeting, said would ruin the club.

Council authorized Clerk Naomi Sallows to write the P&R Board, recommending that the Shawnee Squares be allowed to make sufficient reservations, including fifth Saturday evenings, when possible.

The reservations would run through June 1965.

☆

IN OTHER Council action:

A group from St. Elizabeth Church was told its request for a change in handling deeds for Catholic burial plots would be studied by attorney James Beardsley. The request to have the book of deeds at the church was denied.

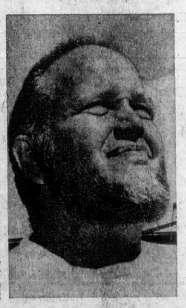
Thanked Chamber retail division president, Dike Helms, for his words of appreciation for the city's cooperation at the recent Moonlight sale.

Discussed widening W. Chicago Blvd., between Adrian St. and Occidental Rd., after a report from Joe Rice of the Planning Commission.

Awarded sewer tile bid to Hayden Fuel and Supply.

Approved the removal of the city's house at 307 E. Chicago.

Approved action to make excavators place $200 on deposit to assure proper replacing of street surfacing.



Don Williams, 507 Center Dr., sports a fine beard, grown to assist his many Clinton friends in their 125th anniversary celebration. His wife, is a member of the Tinker Bell Chapter and her daughter, Sherry Murdock, has joined the Raisin River Rascalettes.

Post Office Construction Starts Soon

The new post office to be constructed in the present site of Adams Park is expected to be completed 240 days after plans are approved, according to Postmaster General J. Edward Day.

It will have an interior space of 5,435 square feet, with an area of 17,560 square feet for parking and movement of postal vehicles, Mr. Day said.

Under the Postal Department's lease construction program, Max Schwartz-George Yellin, Mount Clemens, will construct the new building on the southwest corner of Chicago Blvd. and Maumee St.

They will lease it to the Department for 20 years, with renewal options running up to 30 years.

A total of 11 bids were received by the Department's regional real estate office.

The Department's capital investment program is limited substantially to postal equipment, Mr. Day explained. The buildings remain under private ownership with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

There are now about 45,000 post office locations throughout the country handling a volume of 67 billion pieces of mail a year. By 1970, volume is expected to rise to 90 billion.

LAST FAVOR — Friends and neighbors of Edward Osburn, 5815 Green Highway, who died July 3, came to harvest his wheat. Shown above are two of the five combines brought over to his farm. The men worked from 10 a.m. until about 2:30 p.m. to complete the job.

Friends Pay Edward Osburn Last Favor

A dozen or more men came to the Edward Osburn farm Wednesday morning to complete the job Edward was unable to finish.

Mr. Osburn, 39, 5815 Green Hwy. died a week earlier

Neighbors and "some friends that Ed had helped" came to harvest his grain. They brought five combines with them. They started about 10 a.m. and were finished by about 2:30.

Several women brought over foodstuffs to feed the men at lunch time.

☆

THOSE BRINGING combines were: Fred Feight, 1760 Russell Rd., Clerc Anderson, 3362 Labardee Rd., Donald Blatchford, 9954 Matthews Hwy., and his son Gary, and Lawrence Young, Raisin Center Hwy.

Others contributing labor were James Winzler, the deceased's brother-in-law, Frank Denz, R. F. Anderson, Mark Blatchford, Kenny Mangus, Russell Mitzner and Jerry Forsythe.

"The family sure appreciates the help we're getting," Mr. Winzler said.

Mr. Osburn had also planted some corn that some of the men plan to harvest in the Fall.

"He lived at this farm nearly 10 years," Mr. Winzler said of his brother-in-law. "He put in long days, often from 5 a.m. until midnight or better."

Mr. Osburn worked at Tecumseh Products Co. at the plant protection department besides maintaining his farm.

Behind Page One

Ralph Helzerman, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Helzerman, 612 W. Chicago, returned home Tuesday, July 16, from his tour of Europe with the University of Michigan Glee Club. Ralph was the author of the series of fascinating letters published in The Herald these past few weeks, one of them in this week's issue.

A presentation with slides and discussion of the Irish Hills Playhouse will be available to interested groups by next week. Those interested should contact Mrs. Richard Kureth, phone 423-4742.

The Chamber of Commerce sign erected along the highway east of town was put up with the generosity of three firms. Consumers Power Co. donated land for the sign; General Telephone Co. donated the top of the sign and drilled the holes, and Kuhlman Concrete, Inc. donated the concrete.

Friends Honor Naomi Sallows

APPRECIATION for 35 years of service was expressed to Mrs. Naomi Sallows (left) as she stood with mistress of ceremonies Mabel Lockwood.

An "Appreciation Night" in honor of Mrs. Naomi Sallows was held Friday by her friends in recognition of 35 years as treasurer of the Friends Church.

The Rev. Paul Brantingham spoke appreciatively of Mrs. Sallows and her work in church.

He emphasized her ability to serve the Lord objectively, to keep values in perspective, and to handle large sums of money with honesty and impartiality.

The Rev. Edward Encolme, Damascus, O. who was Mrs. Sallows pastor for 39 years, spoke of her "faithfulness to her duties" as treasurer of the church.

☆

SHE WAS presented with a cash gift by Marvin Johnson, 8301 Smith Rd., in behalf of "all her friends in the church and community."

Others also offered praise.

"Few people can measure up to your standards and sincere devotion to everything you undertake," Mayor Harold Easton said in a letter read by Mrs. Perry Hayden, 512 W. Logan St.

"Your devotion to duty as a public servant has been a constant marvel to me during the time I have been associated with you in City government," Mayor Easton added.

☆

ONE OF the primary tasks of a newspaper is to report the business of local government to the people, said Tom Riordan, co-Editor of The Herald.

The cooperation of city officials, like Mrs. Sallows, who has been city clerk and treasurer for over 10 years, makes this job easier, he noted.

Mrs. Sallows banked "many thousands of dollars," during her tenure as city treasurer, said Mrs. Harry Duncan, a vice-president of the United Savings Bank. "We always knew here was one deposit that will be correct," she added.

Letters from Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Wells, Beaumont, Texas, and from the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Bancroft, pastor of Barberton, O. Friends church, were read.

Mable Lockwood, 214 S. Van Buren, served as mistress of ceremonies.

The musical program included:

► Trumpet quartet, Steve VanValkenburg, John Hayden, Richard Meade and Tom Storms.

► Ladies trio, Mrs. Robert Hart, Mrs. Robert Baker and Mrs. William Leyrer.

► Male quartet, Merle Hendricks, Ben Brantingham, Ben Ross and Clark Pearson.

► Duet, Mrs. Ashley Chase at the organ and Mrs. Paul Brantingham at the piano.

The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Loren Kuhn from Seville, O., son-in-law of Mrs. Sallows. The Rev. Mr. Kuhn was accompanied by his wife, Joyce and their two daughters.

A social time was then enjoyed in the basement of the church.

The center of attraction on the serving table, covered with a white cloth and decorated wih all pink tapers, was a book cake on which was inscribed "Congratulations Naomi, 1928-1963."

Also on the cake was a miniature loving cup, containing flowers and the inscription 35 years.

'Don't Look at Eclipse' Experts Warn Folks

LANSING — If the weather permits, Michigan residents will be treated to one of nature's comparatively rare spectacles Saturday afternoon, July 20 — a partial eclipse of the sun.

During the eclipse, which starts at 3:29 p.m. EST, the moon passes between the earth and the sun, making it possible to look directly at the sun.

"But don't do it," warned State Health Commissioner Dr. Albert E. Heustis, who said that rays from the sun can cause permanent eye damage unless special caution is used in viewing the eclipse.

☆

"ALTHOUGH most of the direct light is gone during an eclipse, dangerous invisible infrared rays are still present," he said.

"And contrary to popular belief, such devices as sun glasses, exposed photographic film, smoked glass, and even welder's goggles will not protect the eyes from these rays.

"These rays can literally burn a hole in the retina much in the same manner that sunlight passing through a magnifying glass can burn a hole in a piece of paper," he said.

He urged parents to warn children not to look at the sun, and to supervise them closely during the time of the eclipse to see that this warning is carried out.

☆

DAMAGE to the eye would not be felt while looking at the sun because the infra-red rays burn into the retina which is insensitive to pain.

It is only after the damage has been done that a person would realize that the ability to distinguish small objects is lost — often for good. Such close-up activities as sewing and reading would be extremely difficult following a retina burn.

There are a few ways to safely enjoy this event according to Dr. Heustis. Some are fairly complicated, but the simplest method is to observe the reflection of the eclipse in a swimming pool, plastic wading pool, or old fashioned wash tub, provided that there is at least 12 inches of water to absorb the dangerous infra-red rays.

Smoked glasses will be handy for viewing the reflection to reduce uncomfortable brightness.

"The eclipse will last just two hours and 12 minutes from beginning to end," the Commissioner said, "but part of your sight could be eclipsed forever if you are not careful."

Young Mothers Hear Sheriff Stites Speak

Mrs. Thomas Kampmueller entertained members of the Young Mothers Club at their cottage Wednesday evening.

Sheriff Robert C. Stites gave an interesting talk and demonstration on Oral Resuscitation, commonly known as mouth to mouth breathing.

During a short business meeting members decided to have a picnic for the children.

A hot dog roast was enjoyed with Mrs. Richard Bruce as assisting hostess.

Thomas Brooks, Jr., 501 Parkway Ct. was notified of the death of his mother, Mrs. Thomas Brooks, Sr., Monday evening at 10 p.m. in the Toledo Hospital. Mrs. Brooks was 62 years of age.

Russ Blanden Visits Family in Ecuador

A friendship between his uncle and a manufacturers representative from Ecuador who both work for Owens Illinois Glass Co., led to an eight-week visit in Quito, Ecuador for Russell Blanden.

Norris Blanden, brother of M. R. Blanden, 614 E. Pottawatamie St., arranged an exchange visit between Jose Aguirre, 14, and Russell. Russell will host Jose next summer in the Blanden home.

RUSSELL BLANDEN

Jose lives with his parents and two younger brothers and sisters in the capital city, Quito, a city of 400,000 has just recently seen a military junta oust the former president.

"Russell hasn't written anything of the political situation," Mrs. Blanden said.

"Russell and his host Jose were to spend some of the time with Jose's maternal grandparents seven miles from Quito. This may be why he hasn't mentioned the change in government," Mrs. Blanden reasoned.

☆

RUSSELL did say he didn't get along with the food too well, finding it very different than what he was used to.

Most of the Aguirre family speaks a little English, the children taking it in school.

Jose's mother, Maria Mercedes, spent two years at Mary Manse College in Toledo before her marriage.

Plans are to have Russell spend a couple of weeks at the seashore before he returns home.

The Aguirre home is nearly 250 miles from the coast. Quito rests at 9,000 feet above sea level. It maintains a year around temperature of about 70 degrees during the day and drops to about 40 at night.

Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. ad Mrs. Robert Ries, 9246 Tonneberger Rd., celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on Sunday, July 14, with a small open-house, given by their daughters, Sharon, Mary and Diane.

A buffet dinner wa sserved to 30 close relatives at the Ries residence.

Many lovely gifts were received by the couple.

Those present were Mrs. Elsie Ries, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Alverson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Ries and family, Frieda Service, Robert V. Service, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ries, and Mrs. Myra Bigelow, all of Adrian.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Shaw, Mrs. Richard Shaw and sons and Lynette Jacobs of Addison, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Ries of Perrysburg, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Helberg and family of Pemberville, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Fuller and daughter of Toledo, Ohio.

Bridal Shower Held in Honor of Jane Harsh

Mrs. Nilwen Bishop held a bridal shower honoring Jane Harsh Monday evening at her home on Ridge Rd.

Pink and white flowers were used in decorating the Bishop home.

Refreshments were served in candle light from a lace covered table featuring a pink and white bridal cake. The cake formed the skirt of the bride doll on the top.

Miss Harsh will become the bride of Floyd C. Dickens Saturday in Adrian.

2 Committees Named

Two more sub-committees were named Tuesday night by Chairman Harold Easton for the River Raisin Watershed project.

Guy Roberts, Deerfield banker, will head the finance group. Others on it:

Merle Hull of Blissfield

John Nuederfer of Manchester

Their job will be to contact service clubs and local units of government for donations to help cover running expenses.

☆

A TWO-MAN information and education committee was chosen and includes Norm Richardson of Blissfield and Jack Ehlert of Palmyra.

They will work closely with Don Mitchell, Lenawee County drain commissioner, and John Comstock, Lenawee County agriculture agent, in gathering details of the project.

In turn, the pair will explain the proposed river reclamation to interested groups and communities, also keeping the citizens committee posted on the "public pulse."

☆

MR. MITCHELL told the 25 attending Tuesday's gathering that organizations within the four-county area should be encouraged to go on record favoring the program.

All resolutions by groups could be added to the application for Federal Government participation under Public Law 566, thus underlining greater public interest.

Next meeting of the committee will be in Blissfield Sportsman Club on Aug. 6. A representative of the Huron Metropolitan Authority will be invited to attend and explain that five-county setup, which has a yearly budget of $3 million.

☆

CLYDE COOK, Monroe County planner, suggested that the board of supervisors from Lenawee, Monroe, Jackson and Washtenaw counties be contacted for endorsement and financial support.

Approximately 20 units of local government will be asked to co-sponsor the effort. Cliff Miles, Adrian city manager, who heads this committee said his group meets Thursday to discuss this.

In Charge

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heilman and Mr. and Mrs. Clare Gillispie will have charge of the refreshments for the Grange meeting Thursday, July 25.

'Rivals' Tangle at Hills Playhouse

By TOM BRIEN

Backstage of the Irish Hills Theater. Producer Larry Burns talked quietly to visitors as he waited for the crew to change back into their "street" clothes.

They had just completed their second performance of Richard Sheridan's "The Rivals," before a scanty crowd of less than a dozen.

"I'm going to give them a dressing down in a few minutes," he explained. 'A few cues were dropped and there is no excuse for that."

"Enthusiasm lagged a bit," he continued, "probably because the audience was so unresponsive. But that is no excuse to drop lines."

☆

A "DRESSING down" seemed a little unwarranted from someone in the audience, for the play had been fast, funny, and in several places, excellent theater.

"Two of the crew were given notice that their performances had to improve or else," Mr. Burns later reported.

Nevertheless, his dissatisfaction speaks more of the caliber of performance he demands than of the production itself.

☆

VICTOR WEXLER, as the central figure Captain Absolute, is invariably capable. He plays the role of a young, dashing military man who manipulates other people until he gets entangled in his own web.

As his sensitive sidekick Faukland, Robert Nadder is just as strong, he is by far the funniest in the play.

"Many directors make a mistake in casting Faukland," Mr. Burns claimed after the play. "They make Faukland merely a figure of fun."

Mr. Nadder makes him that, and much more. Faukland is the only one in the play capable of poetry, and understands even more about love than Captain Absolute.

Mr. Nadder makes him laughable and moving in turns. It was the best performance of the evening.

☆

THE THREE major female roles are just as well done.

Kathy Mann plays Lydia Languish, Captain Absolute's lover, who is a flighty, romantic girl, as willing to marry to annoy her aunt Mrs. Malaprop, as out of true love.

Muriel Saphire is the silly, inept aunt, Mrs. Malprop.

Faukland's lover Julia, played deep Deborah Holzel, is quiet, and tormented by Faulkland's distrust.

☆

SIR ANTHONY Absolute, the Captain's father, a snorting, meddling old reprobate who tries to marry off his son, is ably played by Robert Jones.

David Anderson, as Captain Absolute's servant; George Wright, as Bob Acre's servant; and Larry Fisher, as Sir Lucious O'Trigger put ntni O'Trigger, put in creditable performances.

"The Rivals" will appear again at 8:30 p.m. Sunday, July 20. It will also appear on successive weeks throughout the season: July 26, August 1, 7, 13, 18, 24 and 30.

North Franklin Maidens Discuss

North Franklin Maidens met at the home of June Case July 15. The requirements for projects to the County Fair were discussed.

Carol Davenport and Cheryl Aebersold told about their experiences at the 4-H Club Week in Lansing.

Carol Davenport demonstrated the art of making a good pie crust.

Next meeting will be held with Susie and Ann Beardsley July 22.

High Goals for Teenagers

Today's teenagers feel there is glamour in the operating room as well as in outer space. Of 5,000 youngsters polled by the Institute of Student Opinion, 20 per cent of the boys want jobs in engineering and almost 20 per cent of the girls want careers in medicine. Science was second for the boys with the armed forces and professional athletics next in line. The second choice for the girls was teaching, followed by office work and homemaking.

Lillian Hoagland Off to Tour West Europe

By DOROTHY GRIGG

"The boat sails at high noon July 18", said Mrs. Lillian Hoagland, 216 S. Ottawa St. as she told about her forthcoming trip to England.

Mrs. Hoagland, who will be 74 in November, has been employed at Herrick Memorial Hospital for [redacted] years as a nurses aide. She works mostly at night from 11 p.m. until 7 a.m.

Her gentle, quiet, modest manner is known to many who have been patients at the hospital. Frequently, fresh water, some mail, or any number of little comforts give mute evidence to the fact that she has been in the room while the patient slept.

Her multitude of friends are glad to hear of her tour of England, Scotland, The Netherlands, Belgium and France. She expects to return about the middle of August.

Mrs. Hoagland mentioned that since she had married a Dutchman, she thought it appropo that she visit The Netherlands.

When asked about going so far alone, she remarked with her usual wit, "Oh, John will show me around London."

The interviewer queried about John and found out that he was one of the tour guides.

This lady always has her own private little jokes and it's a pleasure when you are allowed in on them.

She will be coming home via the St. Lawrence Seaway stopping in Bellville, Canada, to visit some cousins.

Mrs. Hoagland moved to Tecumseh soon after her husband's death in 1929 with her daughter, Wilma, now Mrs. Robert Beebe of Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Hoagland has three grandchildren.

She was employed in the home and office of Dr. P. B. Hardy for 12 years, going from there to the Eastern Star Villa in Adrian. There she was the supervisor of six or seven little boys from 3 to 7 years old.

After five years there she came to Herrick Memorial Hospital in 1952.

The Herald is curious to know just how many other senior citizens of the city, 70 and up, are employed full time.

As far as we know Mrs. Hoagland is the only one. Readers are invited to give us a call if they know of others.

Pat Eberhardt Writes Parents from Hawaii

BRITTON — Pat Eberhardt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Eberhardt, left June 20 with her college roommate, Pearl Taniyama, for an indefinite stay in Hawaii.

Excerpts from letters to her parents give her impressions of the trip.

☆

JUNE 13 — Well, Mom and Dad, we're on our way. In a few minutes we will cross the Illinois River.

Boarded the El Cap train in Chicago. It is really a luxury liner; all carpeted, piped in music, comfortable seats and plenty of leg room.

Air conditioning, push-button doors and a monologue on the scenery as we travel.

Just had a delicious peanut butter sandwich. You laughed at us for bringing our peanut butter and jam, but lots of people are eating out of boxes, everything is so expensive.

Woke up at 5 a.m. to see a beautiful sunrise in Colorado. Such friendly service, we don't mind the 39 hours on this beautiful train.

In New Mexico, we saw double rainbows that went clear across the sky. We could see the whole spectacle from one end to the other.

☆

JUNE 16 — Rode 45 fast minutes on airport bus on the Santa Monica Freeway. The airport was out of this world.

Went to the building of our flight, found the boarding room, and punched out the seats we wanted on the seating chart (we picked near the center of the plane).

The plane's boarding ramp came right to the door of the building — we were never outside.

The stewardesses wore mumus and served champagne.

We didn't think they would serve a meal on the plane because we didn't take off until 8 p.m., but we had a fabulous dinner of salad with crab legs, wafers, veal, rice, peas, roll, peach shortcake and coffee.

☆

WE WERE traveling so fast that we had three hours of beautiful sunset.

I can't describe how beautiful Honolulu looks coming in at night. The lights go way up the sides of the mountains. It looks like a giant Christmas tree.

Pearl's aunt gave us beautiful leis bigger than I am.

Everyone is so nice. Their house is on a hill and we can look out the kitchen window and see the lights going up and down the mountains. Looks like Christmas trees everywhere.

Everyone dresses casually, barefooted. We usually leave shoes or sandals outside.

Have lots of cushions and sit on the floor. Pearl's uncle uses chopsticks but it doesn't look easy. For dinner we had mango fruit, chicken, rice, raw fish (which I didn't try) and tea out of dainty little cups.

County Shows School Population Increase

Milton C. Porter, Lenawee County School Superintendent, has announced an increase in the school census for this year after a two-year decline.

Mr. Porter said that the increase of 442 children was due partially to improved economic conditions in the area.

He also stated that the school enrollment should exceed 20,000 next year, compared with 19,873 of the past year.

The Adrian area shows the most gain with 226 more children.

Other districts to gain are:

City School Bus Problem Is Discussed

A meeting Monday night at 7:30 at City Hall may decide the disposition of the Tecumseh school bus problems.

The school board bus committee, Planning Commission, City Manager Carl Zorn and Norval Bovee, school business manager, will meet to discuss possible sites for the schools to maintain a garage and bus parking area.

Three sites now under consideration are:

► Plot near the Rumpf truckline office on S. Maumee.

► Corner of S. Maumee and Cummins.

► And probable first choice, the New York Central railroad property, formerly used by Acme Hauling and Herbert Dillon, past trash and garbage collectors for Tecumseh.

Mr. Zorn says the property is properly zoned now for school use, but future planning would undoubtedly put the school operation in non-conforming use.

The equipment, now in operation, will cost about $2,500.

Officers in turn notify the Raisin firemen by radio.

Memoriam

IN LOVING memory of Donald J. Cowen who passed away three years ago today, July 19, 1960.
It's lonesome here without you
We miss you more each day
Somehow life doesn't seem the same
Since you were called away.
Our hearts still ache with sadness
Our eyes shed many a tear
God alone knows how much we miss you
As this ends the third sad year.
Sadly missed by wife and sons. J18,c

Youngsters Can Start Riding at Age 6, Stable Owner Says

How old should a child be to start horseback riding?

Johnny Gean, who operated the Circle G Riding Stable in the Irish Hills, begins them at six years of age.

Mr. Gean has a ready crew of young riders who can instruct newcomers in the art.

Included on his staff are:

► Judy Daniels, who lives on US 12 next door to the Irish Hills Playhouse. Her "back yard" is the pasture of the riding stable.

► Ed Dermyer and his brother Fred, or "Goober" as he is called, both of Brooklyn.

► Richard and Danny Jackson of Adrian.

Besides teaching riding, one of the staff will accompany riders around the rolling 120-acres owned by Mr. Gean and laced with bridle paths.

For the real small youngsters, there are two ponies, which can be ridden on the trails right along with the adults on horseback.

Mr. Gean's property runs along Iron Lake and is just off US 12, west of the entrance to Hayes State Park.

The stable offers 21 saddle horses for guests, operating from 8 in the morning until dark every day during the vacation season.

The Circle G stages hay rides for groups and organizations. These are arranged beforehand by calling the stable, Onsted 461-5143. Cost of hay rides is $1 per person.

Horseback riders are charged $2 per hour or $1.25 for 30 minutes.

BRITISH GGIRLS VIEW TECUMSEH—Mrs. Claude Sebring, left, escorts her houseguests, Georgianna Jay and Patricia Rudkins, of Essex, England about Tecumseh. Miss Rudkins is Mr. Sebring's niece. She wanted to come to the United States to see her relatives. She also wanted to bring her friend so that they might travel about the country together.

Tecumseh Lad Rides Along Rhine

Ralph Helzerman, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. F. Helzerman, 610 W. Chicago Blvd. has been touring with the University of Michigan Glee Club in Europe for the summer.

In his latest letter Ralph tells of the group's success, both in reception by audiences in different countries and in their own enjoyment.

Our train ride between Frankfurt and Cologne took us along the beautiful Rhine River. It must be the most photogenic river I have ever seen, as I can never remember having taken 10-15 shots of one river before. Not even Evan's Creek!

"Our trip behind the Iron Curtain into Czechoslovakia and Poland was quite a sobering experience.

"We had left Vienna quite late in the evening and spent the two hours between that city and the Czech border playing cards and drinking that delicious Austrian beer.

"We were just getting into a mellow mood about the time we hit the border, however, what we saw there put a slight damper on our fun.

"Outside the Czech border guards were stationed—men at intervals along a path parallel to the track and each had a police dog on a chain.

"After the train had been checked for passports, these guards used their dogs and powerful searchlights to search under the train for stowaways.

"The entire area of the track was flooded with powerful light, and at each side of the track were towers, each containing four or five guards.

☆

IT SEEMS as though the Polish government sets aside certain trains for tourist use, and you can just imagine how thriving their tourist industry is by the accommodations we were given.

Since most of the people cannot afford cars their only means of travel is by train. And any tourist must be sandwiched in during the vacant hours of night and early morning.

I don't know if you are aware of it or not but Warsaw is considered to be the most destroyed city in Europe as a result of the last war.

In 1945 when Russia occupied the city, 85 to 90% of all major buildings were destroyed. And believe it when they say destroyed.

Pictures that we saw in some stores showed scenes of entire city blocks transformed into a desert of bricks.

☆

THE MAJOR reason that there was such extensive destruction was that the Poles used Warsaw as the major point of resistance against the Nazi onslaught.

After extensive bombing which reduced much of the city to rubble, the Poles were defeated and forced to resort to underground warfare.

Then in 1945 as the Russian Army was camped outside the city, the Nazis vent all their wrath on the remaining structures, using explosives flame throwers and heavy tanks in an attempt to destroy the entire city before the Russians could enter it.

During the Nazi occupation of the city 800,000 of the original 1,500,000 Warsaw inhabitants were killed, 450,000 of whom were Jews and died either among the 150,000 that died in the ghetto itself, or in extermination camps such as Auschwitz near Krakow.

To give you an idea of how poorly the Jews were treated in the ghetto, here are some figures on their diet compared to those of other status.

A soldier in the Nazi Army was allowed 2100 calories per day, a Pole was given 600 plus calories per day and a Jew in the ghetto was permitted but 160 calories.

☆

WARSAW has made a tremendous comebuck after the war and as a result nearly the entire city is presently rebuilt.

However they predict that it will take an additional five years to clean the rest of the rubble up and resurface the facades of the still numerous bullet scarred buildings.

Although there is not the visible dominance of the military as in Belgrad, where every fifth person wore a red star, one can easily observe that it is there!

For instance, one evening after our concert we had spent about an hour walking around the city and were about a block from our hotel when a policeman came walking across the street with a submachine gun on his back.

☆

THE REAL SHOCKER came when we walked into the lobby of our hotel, three policemen with submachine guns were standing there blocking our way.

We found out later that they had come in just because a man was protesting his liquor bill. This doesn't happen in the USA.

WE WERE NEVER happier to leave a country! At the border in broad daylight we discovered why so very few people escape.

The last kilometer before the border is filled with land mines. And along the border are watch towers stationed every quarter mile or so, and three parallel barbed wire fences with a large current going through them.

And in between these fences we were told that the Czechs had planted land mines. And finally the entire length of the border is flooded by gigantic spotlights.

So you can see that it isn't the easiest thing to escape.

We were all mighty grateful that we had our passports in our pocket and were not born behind the iron curtain!

2 Autos Wrecked at Race

Two drivers were unable to drive their cars away from a pile-up in the semi-finals at the Manchester Speedway July 12.

Though the drivers were unhurt, their vehicles were damaged extensively.

Just three laps after the first pile-up, Jerry Coe crashed into the retaining wall and lost the front wheels from his auto.

Harold Schill, Lynn Hunt and Ed Hage were the fastest qualifiers.

Louis Stemen, Hillsdale, took the first heat and Dick Carr, Pittsford, the second.

☆

NEIL BAGGETT, Manchester won the third heat and Jerry Coe was the victor in the fourth.

Lynn Hunt, Marshall, captured the pursuit and Coe, the consi.

Jack Berkshire, Coldwater, Howard Underwood and Neil Baggett were the winners in the Semi.

Harold Schill steered his car to victory in the feature and Mary Stephens, Hanover, won the ladies hot dog race.

Mike Havens, Jackson, was the winner of the mechanics race.

Friday, July 19, the mid season championship trophy race will be held.

Picnic Supper

The Rev. and Mrs. Ronald Corl entertained seven couple Friday evening for a picnic supper to start a young adult group.

The evening was spent playing Pass-Word and visiting.

August 10 the group will meet with Mr. and Mrs. Dean Moore.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

One of the blessings of our system of government is the extent to which people have access to their leaders, and the extent to which leaders have access to the people.

This idea may be hard to accept for many of you who have not seen me since the campaign, or who did not even see me then.

Certainly in a state as large as ours, with a population of eight-million people, many people will never come into contact with their governor.

Yet from my point of view, the number of people that I see on an average day is a continual source of amazement.

This came home to me again a few days ago in Flint, where I was appearing at one of the 16 regional meetings I have held around the state to hear views on taxation and fiscal reform.

As I was leaving the meeting, I was surrounded by a group of 30 women from nearby Flushing who asked my help in solving a critical water shortage in their community.

This informal meeting served a double purpose: It allowed the women to air their immediate problem and it reminded me of a long-range problem — the specter of water shortages in the Water Wonderland.

Chance meetings with individuals or groups in the course of my travels around the state are only one way in which I can better inform myself on what people are thinking, and improve their understanding of what I am thinking.

Every day in the course of normal office business I see dozens, sometimes hundreds, of people who have made appointments with me to discuss a wide range of problems.

Since I took office last January, I have devoted Thursday mornings to citizens' sessions, in which any citizen can have a five-minute talk with me about any subject that concerns him.

I have also been to every corner of the state on speaking engagements. Since January 1, I have given more than 200 speeches, and requests for appearances continue to pour in.

I am flattered and amazed at the number of these requests and sincerely wish that I could accept every invitation.

But when I took office, and even before that, I decided to be a working governor instead of a continually campaigning governor.

If I were to accept all of the invitations which come into the office for my appearance, I would be on the road all of the time. That would mean that none of the pressing problems that confront our state — fiscal reform, conservation, education, civil rights — could receive the attention which I was elected to give them.

I continue to be concerned about the number of invitations from worthy groups and individuals that I am forced to decline.

I hope you will understand how sincerely I want to see all of you from time to time, and appreciate how this is impossible if I am to fulfill the duties of my office.

Car Rams Sign, One Injured

Cecile Smith, 514 N. Evans St., received a head injury in an auto accident Thursday morning at 7:45 a.m. when the car in which she was riding smashed into the sign belonging to the Tecumseh Motor Court Motel.

Mrs. Vevia Anderson, driver of the car, was uninjured. She was taking Mrs. Smith to work at the city office when the auto struck some large stones at the side of the road as she was turning from the driveway.

Our Readers Write

EDITOR:

Just a word of appreciation to Jens Touborg for, recognizing cultural lag existing in Tecumseh and, doing something about it.

Since the defeat of the Library millage issue, the writer has concerned himself about what could be done about it.

Through Russian sources, it was learned that, Russian libraries had 8.75 books per person. However, knowing that Russian information had to be qualified, we wrote to the American Library Association for an interpretation of the information received.

Enclosed is the reply:

"No valid comparison of Soviet and American statistics is possible at this time. The Soviet method is based upon the printer's unit. (Therefore) three pamphlets are counted as three even though they may be later bound together.

"(The ALA) attempted to judge on the basis of linear feet of shelving (and found) the Soviet count would probably be about half what the Soviet method showed.

"Another factor is that a great deal of publishing is done by the government itself and prices are set at cost or below in order to make books widely available.

"(Also) books in union halls and similar places are included in the count of public libraries.

"I think I should also say that your own library's 1.1 books per person is somewhat below the national average for the United States, and considerably below the three books per capita recommended for libraries serving less than 10,000 people."

The above would indicate that, the Russian book count would be about 4.25 per capita.

Comparing this with Tecumseh public library of 1.1 per capita.

The recommended for cities of the size of Tecumseh is 3.0 per capita.

This would indicate that to meet the ALA minimum standard Tecumseh would require 30,000 additional volumes at a cost of approximately $100,000.

In discussing this matter with a local citizen, he questioned whether the present library had sufficient space for the needed books, the writer was assured that, stacks now available could handle a total of 36,000 volumes, and space for added stacks is available.

The nature of my committments do not permit me to organize or direct any group to meet this challenging cultural need.

I will be available to anyone interested enough to do something about it.

Russell Hubbard Enters Baptist Seminary in Fall

Russell H. Hubbard, 1530 Princeton Road, Muskegon, Mich., formerly of Tecumseh, has been admitted to Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, according to Felix Gresham, director of admissions.

The fall semester begins Sept. 5 with orientation and testing for new students. Classes begin Sept. 9.

Southwestern Seminary, one of six seminaries owned and controlled by the Southern Baptist Convention, was chartered March 14, 1908.

It is now the largest evangelical seminary in the world. Its students numbered 2,056 last year from 40 states and 17 foreign countries. They were graduates of 231 colleges and universities.

Glenn Preston of Detroit is spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Barrett.

KEEP HOGS COOL if you want them to gain efficiently. Research shows that hogs gain little or no weight at temperatures above 90 degrees. An effective way of keeping hogs cool is to install a sprinkler where hogs can move under it at will. This is an especially good practice to use with pigs on concrete. A pin-point nozzle using about 2 gallons of water per hour will keep a pen of 6 to 10 pigs comfortable. Turn it on when temperature is above 75 degrees.

CARRY GRASS INSURANCE and you'll never be out of grazing. Set aside an area right now if you can spare it. Then when grazing is really short, as it often is in September and October, turn the cattle in. If your pasture is already getting low, there are several things you can do. Keep weeds clipped and rotate pastures to make available grazing go further and prevent overgrazing. In grass pastures, an application of 40 to 60 pounds of nitrogen will pay, provided adequate moisture is available.

PAINT FARM BUILDINGS before harvest starts — you'll be too busy then. Buildings requiring painting should be protected before winter. When painting new wood the best protection is obtained with three coats, one prime coat and two finish coats. Water base paint for use outdoors is a fairly recent development. It is designed to increase moisture permeability, and when applied over an oil-type primer gives good protection to wood.

TRACTOR GOVERNOR MAINTENANCE can cut fuel cost $40 to $50 a year. In a Kansas study it was found that four out of five tractors had faulty governors. Those that could be adjusted showed an average increase in horsepower of 8.1% and a fuel consumption decrease of 4.8%.

VACATION, COLORFUL COLORADO: PART TWO

Just as the visitor crosses the state line, a big sign bids him "Welcome To Colorful Colorado." How true—how very very true! This is a gorgeous state, one of the most beautiful we have seen. It is a perfect spot for picture-takers. Oh, how quickly the film runs through those cameras!

The eastern part of the state is much like western Kansas; high plateau country where ranching is done on a big scale.

About here we faced a major problem; we were running a bit behind schedule as should we turn south and head for Colorado Springs as planned or continue straight west to Denver?

Regretfully we decided upon the latter, reasoning that it was better to see what we could see well and without the feeling of being rushed. Also, what a good excuse for another trip to Colorado — we must see the southern part sometime.

Just as our time in Colorado was much too brief, this article is much too short to describe everything. I'll just hope you can read our enthusiasm and excitement between the lines.

☆

OUR DRIVE to the top of Mt. Evans was unforgettable. The mountain itself is 14,260 ft. high and the top is reached by what they say is the highest automobile road in the world — I think it must also be the snakiest. One sharp hair-pin curve after another.

An exciting road and when parked in the parking lot at the top well, words fail me. Any adjective is too small to describe the feeling — it is like sitting on top of the world and there below you are gigantic snow-covered mountain peaks.

So encompassing is the view that all at once we saw blue sky, sunshine and every type of cloud from puffy white to black storm.

Another day we saw the Red Rock Theater and drove to the top, well, words fail me. Any rado has no state parks but, in addition to the National Forests and Parks, there is an extensive system of city parks. Just to completely see the Denver Mountain Parks would afford a thrilling vacation.

☆

TRAVELING west on Rt. 6 took us over Loveland Pass, 11,992 ft. high — lots of snow at this altitude even though it was mid-June. Another spectacular view!

After a stretch of sheep-raising country, we ran into a section of red mountains which were almost too much like the set of a western movie to believe.

Next it was the tremendous Glenwood Canyon; wow! For some 10 or 15 miles the road, a rather wide and muddy Colorado River and the railroad track wind along the floor of this marvelous canyon. We were fascinated.

South and east of Glenwood Springs is Aspen, a skier's mecca. The friends we had hoped to visit weren't home but we did enjoy their town and a bit of the surrounding country.

Guide-books call the Maroon Bells one of the most photogenic places in the world. Yes! Imagine a small blue lake nestled at the bottom of tall rugged snow-covered mountains which really are maroon.

☆

SAVING the best till the last, our final stop was The Rocky Mountain National Park. We have always had a special feeling for the national parks and this one now ranks right along with Glacier as our top favorite.

We crossed the park from west to east on the Trail Ridge Road, which is one of the greatest roads we have ever traveled. Our motel at Estes Park added to our enjoyment of this area — it had two large picture windows and each looked out on beautiful snow-covered mountains.

Well, I have hardly scratched the surface and already we are out of space, but for an unforgettable vacation, the Duncans heartily recommend colorful Colorado!

Next week, Vacation Doings by The Duncans: Part Three.

The engagement of Marjean Sackett to Gary Mueller is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sackett of Holloway. Mr. Mueller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mueller, 511 W. Kilbuck St. He received his separation papers in February from the US Navy after serving for three and one-half years. Miss Sackett is employed in the office of Justice of Peace Ernest Oliver. A spring wedding is planned.

Robert Allens Back from 7th Annual Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen returned Sunday from the annual camp meeting of the Seventh Day Adventists at Grand Ledge.

While there both donated blood to the Red Cross located on the grounds.

Elder George Vandeman of the television program, "It is Written" was one of the principal speakers. Nationally recognized nutritionist, Mrs. Dorothea Jones, of the Battle Creek Health Center and General Conference was also featured.

Approximately 16000 attended the meeting.

Bertha Ballard and Fern Cornell of Dearborn are spending the summer at their home on North Ridge Hwy.

IT WAS A REAL BLAST!

Folks watch the Shawnee Squares perform their hot-hash during the Moonlight Mardi Gras downtown last Friday night. Estimates of the tremendous crowd ran up to almost 10,000 people. Police Chief Murell Clark said all parking lots and a three-block area around the shopping district were filled with cars. A large caravan from Clinton added to the old-time fun and enjoyment. Comment overheard, "It's like Saturday night 40 years ago" Chicago Blvd for two blocks was closed to traffic during the three hours of fun. The police did an excellent job handling the movement of autos.

...but the best thing to take is money!

Like so many other good things, a family vacation is much more fun when you save for it in advance and avoid debt. It's all pleasure when it's paid for. Plan to make your next vacation carefree. Open a savings account with us and add to it regularly. Excellent earnings help your savings grow.

Who Said "Literate?"

Last week The Herald called its readership "highly literate." This week we have a different view.

George A. Schumm, 508 W. Chicago, was so upset by the library millage defeat that he wrote to the American Library Association to see how Tecumseh compared to an average Russian library. (See Letters to the Editor.)

In terms of books per person, it comes off poorly. Compared to the approximate 4.25 books per head in an average Russian town, Tecumseh has only 1.1 per head.

Moreover, Tecumseh is below the national average and well below the recommended average of three books per head.

This situation doesn't promise to get better either.

The Tecumseh library has been unable to order books since the fall of 1962. They have hardly any new reference material on the year 1962—statistical data that has to be collected yearly.

Magazine subscriptions are now running out as well. No magazines were renewed for the coming year.

Two funds given to our library to purchase new books will not take care of the normal needs. The $900 from the unsuccessful St. Peters fund enables the purchase of about 200 historical and religious books over a two-year period.

The $24,000 Jens Touborg gift will go into effect when dividends accrue from the securities purchased. About $1,000 will be available annually.

The old book budget provided for about 2,000 books per year, which is considered reasonable for this sized library.

But how can the library maintain its standards without a basic budget? It cannot purchase best sellers, magazines or new reference works.

Is it natural for a "highly literate" community to forget its Library?

Don't Be a SQUARE

By Tom Brien

It's disheartening to hope for the success of a blood and sweat venture and then watch it limp along because of a disinterested public.

Last Wednesday, my wife and I went to see the Irish Hills Playhouse production of "The Rivals" and joined nine others (we counted them) who were watching the play.

It's a shame the audience was so small because the play was well done, and at several moments, a great performance.

☆

LARRY BURNS, producer-director of the Playhouse, has classic theater in his blood, however, and isn't going to let small crowds discourage him at this point.

"I had a man approach me after one of our plays," Larry related, and say to me, "You know, my children have never seen 'King Lear' on stage, and I don't know if they ever will."

This is one of the reasons Larry is determined to make a go of it.

"I'm convinced there is an audience for classical theater," he said, "yet, no one is doing much of it."

"This is the first production of 'Othello' in Michigan in the past 15 years," he claimed. "Even in New York, 'Othello' hasn't been done since the Paul Robeson, Jose Ferrer performance in the early forties.

"By the end of the season," he continued, "I'll bet our production will be able to compare with that one.

"Actually," Larry continued, "our theater has caused more excitement in New York than it has in this area."

Ray St. Jacques, who starred in the "Purple Victorious" production that appeared in Ann Arbor last month, and Walter Mason, who appeared in the Broadway version of Genet's "The Blacks," wanted the role of Othello.

"They can get all the comedy experience in summer stock," Larry pointed out, "but our classic repertory theater is a relatively rare thing.

"In fact, there are only four or five in the whole United States"

☆

THE IRISH Hills Playhouse is Larry's own — and that is where most of the sweat came in.

Larry and his wife Dorothy purchased the building in 1957 when it was a grocery store and sold groceries until the building was paid for.

"People here think of me as a grocer turned director," he said regretfully.

Actually, his experience goes back considerably farther than the Irish Hills experiment. He has directed community and educational theater in Louisiana — where he directed Mario Lanza "before Lanza came to believe in his public image" — Texas and Michigan.

This is his first real stint in Michigan, although he is no newcomer.

His great, great grandfather Perle Bilz came to Tecumseh in 1829.

His great grandfather, Chandler Bilz, founded a bank that was the forerunner of the present United Savings Bank.

A relative of his, Marion Murphy, now lives at 5636 E. Monroe Rd., a house that his great grandfather built.

LARRY doesn't hold priority on dedication, however. Some of his crew gave up large salaries for the chance to do classic theater. For instance, Dr. Robert Caigle, head of the drama department at Bradley University, gave up a professor's salary for the $250 Larry has offered.

With this kind of crew, and Larry's determination, the Irish Hills experiment may yet get going. Larry thinks so.

"I don't think the people around here realize the sheer audacity of my project. After all, we are the only classic repertory theater in the US that is not backed by Foundation grants or wealthy patrons."

☆

Maybe they don't realize it yet, but the word is bound to get around.

The fare is excellent, and the crew is up to their job. Now, if only they can start filling up their 202-seat theater.

What About the Parking Lot ?

Now that the bid has been let to build the new post office building, perhaps the Federal government can now see its way to give up the off-street parking lot, behind Adrian Federal and Easton's service station, on S. Pearl St.

Three years ago when negotiatons between the city and postal officials started, both parties verbally agreed to exchanging Adams Park, site for the new post office building, and the off-street parking lot.

The city has relinquished Adams Park, but the Federal government has not released its hold on the other lot — nor has the government indicated when it would, and how.

Last May, the Federal government offered the off-street parking lot to the schools here practically free. The schools could not use the lot because of zoning restrictions.

If the Federal government could give the lot away to the schools for nothing, why couldn't the same offer be made to the city?

The government has admitted that it has no use for the lot, but Tecumseh does have a use and should own it. The city has kept its end of the bargain, how about the postal department?

The Life You Save . . .

What if you had read in your morning paper that 5,000 Americans had been slain!

Your mind would probably snap at attention as you sought the answers to where and why. When you found the deaths were needless, you might feel pangs of frustration and anger.

"Can't something be done to prevent this from happening again?"

Yes, certainly.

Those 5,000 fellow Americans who died violent deaths would be alive today, if that something had been done.

Two words—seat belts.

During the past year, auto accidents claimed 5,000 needless victims, who would not have died had they been secured in their cars with seat belts.

Prevent you or your loved ones from becoming a member of the "needless slain". Always go the seat-belt route.

Plan to Build School Bus Garage

By JIM LINCOLN

Initial steps to construct a maintenance garage for school buses on James St. at North Maumee were taken Tuesday night by the bus committee of the Tecumseh School Board.

Joe Rice, chairman of the Planning Commission, says Robert Moore, chairman of the bus committee, has informed him that the decision was reached by school officials Tuesday.

The bus committee's decision must be approved by the School Board and the Planning Commission.

The site is approximately where the buses were parked in May, just north of James St. and east of superintendent's office.

School officials have been in a dilemma since May 1 when arrangements with Lee Purkey & Sons Garage were severed. The schools do not have the facilities to handle the bus transportation system.

A meeting to discuss possible sites with the Planning Commission and City Manager Cal Zorn were held Monday night at city hall, and little, if any, progress was made.

One site after another came under discussion with little success.

Mr. Rice appointed Planning Commission members Dr. Carlton Cook, John Zeigler and Steve Illeck to work with the bus committee in efforts to locate a site, preferably with a building capable of repairing buses.

The area coming under most scrutiny was just west of the new St. Peter's Episcopal Church and the railroad, adjoining the old county garage building.

Members of the Planning Commission were not too enthusiastic about the site, since the Master Plan zones the area for multiple dwellings.

Mr. Moore stated a minimum of an acre was needed.

The schools have been offered a gift of $10,000 for coping with the bus problem and undoubtedly will use it for facilities on James St.

Most of the trouble has stemmed from lack of money.

Norval Bovee, business manager for the schools, summed up the problem Monday night when he said, "We're trying to do something for nothing, and not spend any tax money."

Sunday, July 28 at 10 a.m. Dr. John Dawson will speak at First Methodist Church at their regular worship service. Dr. Dawson has been president of Adrian College since February 1955. He has been an educator as well as minister for a number of years and is widely respected as a college administrator. A member of the Pittsburgh Conference of the Methodist Church, Dr. Dawson is an outstanding speaker and has served on a number of nationwide committees in the field of education. The Rev. Donald Porteous invites the public to attend the worship service.

When the peppy musical comedy, "Girl Crazy" was produced by the Tecumseh Players last winter, a flock of gals and guys got their first taste of singing for audiences.

They all loved the experience, but when the show ended, their vocal careers did, too.

That is, except for at least four of the men.

Dave Woods, Gordon Comfort, Dr. Carlton Cook and Gene Earling all enjoyed the harmonizing so much they decided to keep right on singing together.

They formed a quartet and have been practicing on a regular basis, more or less as amusement for themselves.

Early this month, the quartet, which never bothered to get a name, was invited to appear at a square dance in Clinton. They quickly accepted and turned in a fine performance.

Last week, the fellows received another invite, this time to do their stuff at the Nokomis St. Block Party. They were in fine voice and got resounding rounds of applause after each number from the 35 adults and children of all ages attending.

The quartet is willing to appear at meetings and gatherings. If you'd like to have some fine vocalizing, contact any of the four and just ask if the "No Name" quartet could perform for your group.

"Every bootlegger in the country had one," was the comment from Don Nixon, credit bureau owner. "It was a fancy-looking car, comparable to today's Thunderbird."

This was one of the remarks made following last week's column, which wondered if there really was a Diana car in the Twenties.

Elmer Eberhardt, the insurance tycoon, brought in a fascinating volume, "1933 Braham Automobile Reference Book," which covered all cars manufactured back to 1926.

This was the forerunner of the automobile dealers association blue book, red book and yellow book, which list cars and values.

Elmer's reference was complete, running through every model of Diana built, bore and stroke, horsepower rating, type of body, shipping weight, list price and serial number placement.

Incidentally, the Diana ran expensive, costing from $1,595 for a five-passenger Arrow-Head to $5,000 for a five-passenger town car.

This was the era — 1926, '27 and '28 — when you could get a Dodge five-passenger sedan for $875 or a Ford Model A five-passenger tudor sedan for $405.

Charlie Mensing recalled that the Diana was a real spify job and that the boyfriend of a neighborhood girl used to drive one and occasionally favored Charlie with a ride.

The most interesting response of all came from Hal Kelso, in the form of a fascinating letter, which stated:

"This may assist in taking you and Lou Tomala off the hook with regard to the Diana Automobile.

"This was a sleek, long, 4-door sedan manufactured in the early Twenties by the Moon Motor Car Co., St. Louis, Mo.

"It was equipped with a Continental Engine and a body manufactured by Wright Carriage Body Co., Moline, Ill. This con-

AS RUMORS SWIRL — Joe Satterthwaite, ambassador to the Union of South Africa, relaxes during his home leave in Tecumseh as rumors swirl around Washington that he may be replaced in the post.

Ambassador Must Always Comment with Great Care

An ambassador on home leave has to be mighty careful of what he says.

Any off-hand comment might become garbled in the retelling, then find its way into the public prints and eventually back to the foreign land where he is stationed.

This could create an uncomfortable situation for both the ambassador and the USA.

That's a major reason why Tecumseh's Joseph Satterthwaite, now in town on leave from his post in South Africa, is most selective in his remarks.

He's quick to rave about the natural beauties of Africa, but steers clear of talking politics or answering off-hand questions like "what's the situation there?"

☆

A NATIVE SON who lists Tecumseh as his legal residence, although he has been in the Foreign Service for the past 38 years, Mr. Satterthwaite is a career diplomat.

He explains that in the Union of South Africa the United States has in reality two embassies, 1,000 miles apart.

Cape Town is the parliamentary center of the Union. The ambassador and most of his staff spend about six months of the year there. During the remainder of the time, they're 1,000 miles away in Victoria, which is the administrative headquarters of the African government.

The nation itself is immense, the Union covering more than 400,000 square miles. In addition, this embassy serves West Africa and the three High Commission Territories.

☆

RETURNING TO the States for home leave, Mr. Satterthwaite's initial stop was in Washington for a lengthy session with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other State Department officials.

He arrived in Tecumseh, bone weary, a week ago and spent the first few days sleeping late and just lolling around the home of Mrs. R. K. Anderson, 317 N. Union St., where Mr. and Mrs. Satterthwaite and their daughter, Ruth, are house guests.

The shady Anderson front porch, with several inviting rocking chairs, has been a favorite spot for the relaxing ambassador.

All but four of Mr. Satterthwaite's 39 years of government service have been spent overseas at such posts as Stuttgart, Germany; Guadalajara and Mexico City, Mexico; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Baghdad; Ankara, Turkey; Damascus, Syria and Rangoon, Burma.

Nearly 100 New Jobs Come with Gray Firm

How to put together a transistorized voice recording machine is a job that takes a long time learning.

A vanguard of nine unemployed men and women are attending daily classes from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. to master the skills at the Faraday plant of Gray Manufacturing.

The initial nine will be followed by another 47 persons, who will form a nucleous of Gray assembly workers here.

The entire program, falling under the Michigan Employment Security Commission, is the first in Lenawee County and will cost $24,000.

MESC is authorized to teach new skills to persons who will be working for a new Michigan industry. Gray falls under this catagory.

☆

TWO VETERAN Gray employees, Bill Flanders and Bruce Kelting, both of Hartford, Conn., are conducting the sessions, which deal with assembly of intricate machines.

Gray recently bought out Faraday and is in the process of moving its entire Connecticut maufacturing operations into the Tecumseh plant.

Gray had been located in two five-story buildings in Hartford with about 180,000 square feet of space. However, the old plant was not functional.

When the Gray operation is fully established here, total employment of both Gray and Faraday will rise to about 200, meaning almost 100 new jobs for the community.

☆

ALL BUT ONE of the first nine trainees are Faraday workers on lay-off. Several others have yet to be asked to take the Gray program. From that point, all will be "new hires."

Management here expects about 10 to 15 present Gray employees to move from Connecticut with the organization to Tecumseh.

Machinery and materials are now being transferred from the Hartford location. About 40 pieces of Gray equipment are coming here to compliment or replace existing Faraday machinery.

Many of the same machines will serve both divisions of the organization. However, in the sales end, Gray and Faraday will continue to operate as separate units.

☆

GRAY has about 25 national independent dealers, plus one international sales representative and one in Canada.

Among the layed-off Faraday employees in the training program are: George Reese, Larry Fisher, Lavere Brighton, Dave Chrysler, John Wilson and Louise Buchanan, all of Adrian.

Mrs. Al Cutler and Mrs. George Putnam, both of Tecumseh.

The ninth trainee, David Keeler of Weston, is new to the firm.

Gray's prime products include several models of disc dictating instruments. Several are fully transistorized. One weighs less than six pounds for portable use.

SHOWS GRAY RECORDER—Mrs. James Malarney of Adrian shows one of the disc recording machines which will be made by Gray Manufacturing Co. in its Faraday plant in Tecumseh. Even the Chickens Help Make Parade at Clinton Success

By DOROTHY GRIGG

CLINTON — Even the chickens cooperated to help make this town's 125th celebration closing parade Saturday a huge success.

They stalked around on the float prepared by the Fuzzy Forties Brothers of the Brush, which also carried a homemade "still" and other hill billy objects.

Those White Leghorns seemed to be contented to stay on the wagon bed, but toward the end of the march, the brothers tossed them off into the crowd.

One youngster caught a bird and placed it in the family station wagon for safe keeping.

Later he returned to the car to find that the celebrating cackler had laid an egg for him.

Forty units took part in the parade.

☆

CLINTON'S tremendous pageant, "From Little Acorns" was presented an additional night, Sunday, to accommodate those with rain checks from Wednesday and Friday night performances.

The whole community is deserving of congratulations for the wonderful round of activities, parades and the pageant exemplifying so beautifully the history of the village.

Stan Gibbert and Tracy Zick were in charge of Saturday's parade, said by some to be the finest seen in Lenawee County in many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Tuckey chaired the highly-successful undertaking and have said that an "in-the-black" financial report will be forthcoming for publication in the near future.

Mr. Tuckey, minus his magnificent beard, said Tuesday that he was not worried anymore that the celebration would be self-supporting—as he had been last spring when expenses ran into thousands.

Chairman Tuckey remarked, "I'm just not used to doing business this way, but we are so glad that everyone had such a good time."

Fellowship Discusses Bazaar

TIPTON—The Women's Fellowship met July 16, at the cottage of Mrs. Lamont Simmons at Wamplers Lake. Eight members and one guest attended.

A potluck dinner was served at 12:30 p.m., after which a business meeting was held.

Mrs. Dean Cook, Mrs. Richard Platt, and Mrs. John Becker were appointed to the nominating committee for officers for the coming year. The new officers are to assume their positions in September.

It was voted to have the annual church fair in October instead of November.

All members are urged to start aprons and pillow cases to sell at the bazaar, only those two items are to be sold in the fancy work booth this year.

Some new appliances for the church kitchen are to be purchased.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lyle Whelan, Aug. 20, at 8 p.m.

Rural Residents Are Hospitalized

Carolyn Dinius and Eric Robinson are patients at St. Joseph Hospital, Ann Arbor, and Alfred Jewell is in Herrick Hospital at Tecumseh.

AP Story States Satterthwaite May Be Replaced

An Associated Press story from Washington reported that Joe Satterthwaite may be replaced in his Union of South Africa post by "an aide of (G. Mennen) Williams."

"Recall of Satterthwaite has been rumored for considerable time. Some sources said the diplomat, one of the State Department's top experts on Africa affairs, did not always see eye to eye with the policies of Williams, assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs."

The rumored replacement, Henry J. Tasca, is a deputy assistant to Mr. Williams and a "highly regarded diplomat in the U.S. foreign service," said the AP.

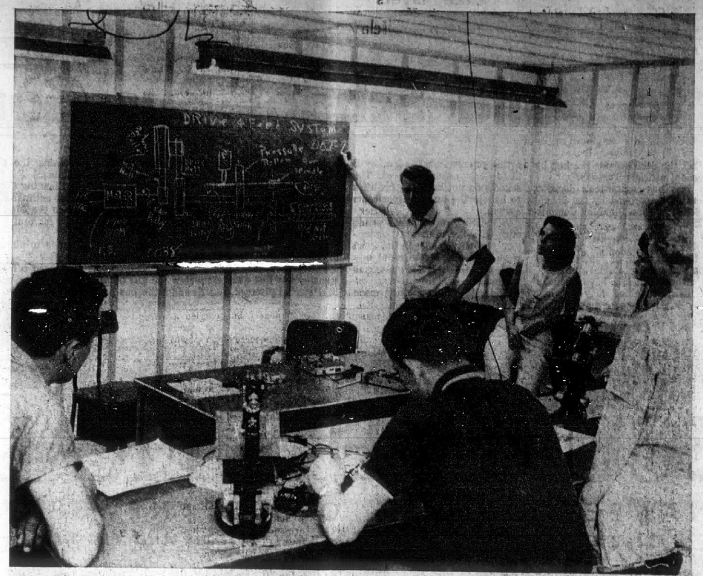
Congratulations to Don Montague for organizing a wonderful trip to the Toledo Zoo for a busload of area children.

Sixty youngsters and their chaperones enjoyed the full day at the Zoo and have been telling everyone of their experiences ever since.

Terri McEnroe was called upon to step into the part of a 23-year-old sophisticate in Paris in the Clark Lake Play "Holiday for Lovers" which will run July 25, 26, 27 and August 1, 2, and 3.

The original player was hurt recently in an automobile accident and lovely Terri, a member of Tecumseh Players, had the necessary acting experience and looks.



REALLY QUITE SIMPLE — That's what Gray Manufacturing instructor Bill Flanders (at blackboard) hopes to convince his students in the initial assembly class at the Faraday plant. Eventually, a nucleous of 56 persons will undergo the instruction. Gray is in the process of moving its entire operation from Hartford, Conn. to the Tecumseh location and will increase employment here by almost 100.

Members of the Council, James Bliesner, Floyd Lacy, Wallace MacGeorge, Melvin Ruettinger and Earl Ruttkofsky also invite members and friends of the area churches to attend.

Merging Dairies To Serve Entire Lower Peninsula

Michigan Milk Producers Association and the Ira Wilson and Sons Dairy Co. of Detroit have merged to form one of the largest dairy companies in the nation.

With the transaction, Wilson, primarily a Detroit company and MMPA, primarily an outstate concern, will be able to service the entire lower peninsula.

Glenn Lake, president of MMPA, said the exchange will substantially strengthen its bargaining for farmer members and will also be a significant expansion, of its marketing and milk by-products manufacturing operations.

MMPA is a dairy farmer marketing and bargaining cooperative whose members supply most Michigan dairies with milk.

Mr. Lake added, "It (the merger) will allow the producer organization (MMPA) to concentrate on getting milk from the farm to the dairy and enable the dairy (Wilson) to exert all its effort on the processing and distribution of the finished product."

Mr. Wilson said the company will continue to bottle milk at the Redford dairy plant under the Dairyland Valley Lea Label and for private brand customers formerly served by MMPA.

Ken Blumerick, manager of Meadowridge Dairy, selling Valley Lea products in this area, said the merger will not affect his standing as a distributor.

Were others as unprepared for memories that poured down as I was when attending the auction sale Saturday at the residence of Mrs. P. B. Hardy and the late doctor?

Gratitude and appreciation flooded over me for having had the privilege of knowing the kindly, gentle white-haired physician.

He led me through the variety of childhood diseases, including a mastoid lancing, which took place right there in the back office.

There were other memories, too, making childhood seem like only yesterday.

Friends and family of Helen Walker attended an outdoor supper honoring her 51st birthday anniversary. Present were Mrs. Forest Bancroft and family of Adrian, great-nephew Roger Brink of Reading and Helen's mother, Mrs. Vira Bancroft.

Mr. and Mrs. James Colson and family have purchased the Leslie Wykes property at 505 Nokomis St. and have moved there with their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Raynor Scudder, Macon and the Rev. and Mrs. Alvin Brazee will attend the picnic of Michigan folk who go to St. Cloud, Fla. in winter.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Penrod and children, Kirk, Eric and Jana of Chilicothe, O. were guests for the weekend of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Meads and Georgia, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Penrod and family and other relatives.

Mike Higgins, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Higgins, 717 S. Union, received a concussion and was scraped up when he was involved in an accident with his scooter at 1 a.m. Saturday morning.

The mishap occurred two miles east of Tecumseh on M-50. Mike was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Sharon Boudrie is spending the week with Pam Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, 213 Maple St.

Sharon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boudrie, who recently moved from Tecumseh to Port Clinton, O.

Mr. Boudrie, a former employee of Clinton Engines, is employed as a supervisor at Ford Motor Co.

He has been living in Port Clinton for the past three months. His family joined him three weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bishop were guests of their son, Lonal Bishop, and family over the last weekend in June.

Mrs. Thomas Naser and children left July 2 for St. Louis, Mo. where they will visit her family enroute to Los Angeles. They have been visiting in the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Naser. Thomas Naser left for his home June 23.

Present History of Henry Ford

DEARBORN — The life, spirit and legend of Henry Ford, who put the world on wheels, will be recreated July 27-30 as the city swings into an elaborate celebration of his birth 100 years ago.

The four event-full days offer a mixture of sedate homage and birthday festivities in honor of the man who was born in a Dearborn farmhouse on July 30, 1863.

Kicking off the four-day celebration will be "The Creative World of Henry Ford," a colorful two-hour pageant on July 27-28 at world-famous Greenfield Village.

Simultaneously, on July 27, the Dearborn Chamber of Commerce "International Funarama" will open with a Henry Ford Centennial theme at the new mid-town civic center.

Sunday evening, July 28, the nationally-acclaimed Interlochen Youth Orchestra and Ballet Group will offer a concert on the wooded grounds of the Ford estate, Fair Lane.

Climaxing the celebration will be literally a "cascade" of special events on July 30.

At 2 p.m. will be the unveiling of a historical marker, paid for by the nickels and dimes of Dearborn school children, at the site of Mr. Ford's birth at Ford Road and Greenfield. Heading public ceremonies will be Michigan Governor George Romney, Henry Ford II, Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh and Dearborn Mayor Orville L. Hubbard.

During the afternoon, aviation buffs will have the opportunity to view the famed Ford Tri-Motor plane, on a July 30 stopover in Dearborn before it wings its way to permanent enshrinement in the Smithsonian National Museum, Washington, D.C.

Tuesday evening, a 1,000-cast pageant will be unfolded from stages at Ford Field, Dearborn's natural outdoor amphitheater located on the banks of the historic River Rouge.

Throughout the observance, bus tours to historic locations identified with Mr. Ford during his lifetime will be scheduled from tourist booths at several city locations.

The City of Dearborn has adopted a new City Seal to reflect the immense impact of Mr. Ford on this, Michigan's fourth largest city. The seal, which sketches the first Ford, the Rouge Plant and Greenfield Village, is now used to authenticate documents and other official papers and records.

TO THE EDITORS:

Enclosed please find check for $5.00 for subscription to The Herald. It is like getting a letter from Tecumseh, and naturally we read the paper from cover to cover—including the ads.

We are happily located here in Sun City. Our home is on the 8th Fairway of a 36-hole golf course.

My condition is improving slowly. As yet, I have not been able to write or drive the car.

The weather here has been perfect for us. The temperature has been as high as 112°, but with low humidity, one hardly realizes it.

We do miss our friends and church back in Tecumseh, but we are finding our niche here.

TO THE EDITORS:

What chance do our teen-age acquaintances have in this town? We have "Little Leagues" and a community center, a swimming pool and some nice parks. All are good things to have and they certainly are appreciated.

The sad situation that I have to mention is that a group of these same young people were gathered in a group and were having a "Jam" session in a private back yard. These kids were not burning up the highways, squealing tires or getting into worse trouble.

There is no question that the music they played could be heard quite a ways, but most of the neighborhood were getting quite a kick out of it, yet someone complained and the kids dutifully stopped.

If it bothered someone who was ill, wouldn't a polite request have done the same thing instead of sending the police to do it for them?

I say, give the kids a break.

It seems that this incident would indicate that information should be clarified and then mistakes rectified.

TO THE EDITORS:

I just couldn't resist sending along this clipping from the San Angelo Standard-Times, San Angelo, Texas.

(Pictures of the Texas State Bank temperature sign reading 103 and the Central National Bank reading 96, were included.)

It certainly as a coincident I had just put down the Tecumseh Herald, after reading it from front to back, and your article about the two new time and temp gauges in town not agreeing. I pick up our daily paper and saw the same item. I didn't think two newspapermen minds could ever run along the same track.

Thought I must let you know Tecumseh is not alone in this situation. We have five such devices in town and none are ever the same. The town is rather hilly so this seems to cause some fluctuation. Although I feel our temp. has yours beaten a little and believe me they all seem to hover the 100° mark.

I do enjoy the paper each week. Just keep up the good coverage.

"Also in St. Louis at this same time, the Gardner Automobile Co. was a going concern, which produced cars under that trade name.

"During the early 1920's, there were literally hundreds of cars produced by as many manufacturers under various trade names. The history of some of these is most interesting.

"Maybe someday, over a glass of tea, you could stump some of your listeners with some of these names — Flying Cloud, Wolverine, Stearnes Knight, Velie, R & V Knight, Stephens Saliant 6, Dort, Saxton, Chalmers, E.M.F., Cole 8, Franklin, Stanley Steamer.

"During my high school days, I spent my summer vacation rubbing varnish on bodies in the Wright Carriage Body Co., which produced the completed body with all accessories for Moon, Velie, R & V Knight, Stephens and Marmon.

"This was in the days when all bodies were varnished and each coat carefully hand-rubbed before another coat was applied.

"The usual time between the prime coat and the finish rub was 21 days, with anywhere from 10 to 15 coats of varnish being applied. It wasn't until 1924 or 1925 that the first lacquered finished body were introduced.

"This is an interesting subject, maybe some other readers can come up with names for cars that have long passed out of existence."

Jane Harsh, Floyd Dickens Are Wed in Double Ring Ceremony

Jane Elizabeth Harsh became the bride of Floyd C. Dickens Saturday in a double ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church, Adrian performed by the pastor, the Rev. Raymond Taylor.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Harsh, 106 S. Maiden Lane and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd A. Dickens of Adrian.

Palms, hurricane lamps, pink and white gladioli and Majestic daisies with pink candles and satin bows on seven branched candelabra enhanced the chancel and marked the pews.

Mrs. Allan Graybill accompanied Howard Powell, uncle of the bride, as he sang appropriate selections.

Mrs. Roger Harsh was the matron of honor. Linda Kelley and Mrs. Robert Smiley were bridesmaids.

☆

CATHERINE HARSH, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. Barth Wolf was the ring bearer.

Dale Walworth was the best man, and the guests were seated by Roger Harsh and Leland Easter.

The bride was on the arm of her father as they approached the altar. She wore a floor length gown of Alencon lace and tulle over satin with bodice featuring a scoop neckline outlined with appliqued roses, iridescent sequins and pearls.

Long sleeves ended in points over the hands and the full skirt swept into a chapel train.

Her shoulder length veil of imported illusion was attached to a Swedish crown of pearls and iridescent sequins.

Her only jewelry was a diamond drop neckline, gift of the groom.

The bride's attendants wore brocaded taffeta street length gowns in pink and white with matching head pieces and contrasting shoes.

☆

THE BRIDE'S bouquet was a cluster of stephanotis outlined with cascades of white butterfly roses.

The attendants carried white lace baskets with sweetheart roses and Rubrum lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Coe Smith were hosts for the reception held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony for about 300 friends and relatives.

Pink and white blossoms, crystal snifters with a giant crystal chimney and pink candles were used in lovely arrangements to enhance the bride's table and the punch tables.

☆

AMONG those assisting at the reception were Mrs. Leland Easter, Mrs. Amil Luck, Mrs. Jack Wolf, Mrs. Robert LaVeck, Mrs. Daniel Ladd, Mrs. Dale Shaw, Patricia Badour, Kathy and Judy Flickenger, Marilee Harvey and Gail and Caroll Michalke.

The bride is a graduate of Guy Cari Beauty College, Ann Arbor and is employed at Dorothy's Beauty Shop, Adrian.

The groom is employed at Stubnitz Green Corp.

Following a two-week trip in the western states, the couple will make their home in a newly decorated apartment in Adrian.

The rehearsal dinner was held Friday evening at the home of the bride's parents where Mrs. Easter and Mrs. Roger Harsh assisted with the serving.

MRS. FLOYD DICKENS

Watershed Application Group Calls Meeting

The first meeting of the Formal Application Committee of the River Raisin Watershed Project was called for Thursday, July 25 at 7:30 p.m. in the Tecumseh City Hall.

The purpose of the meeting will be to lay the ground work in obtaining sponsors for the first pilot application, according to Chairman C. R. Miles, city manager of Adrian.

There are two applications to be submitted, explained Committeeman Royal Welch, 702 River Acres Dr.

The first application is primarily to show the extent of public interest and backing, Mr. Welch said. It is not binding because all the facts would not be known.

The second application would be a legal document and binding to the sponsoring organization for their agreed share, he noted.

☆

EARLIER in the year, the government said it would send an engineering group to survey the watershed if the first application were submitted by Fall.

The infocmation for the first application includes:

► Number of farmers in watershed.

► Acreage of public-owned land.

► Watershed problems; narative description of flooding, agricultural water management. These should be documented by pictures and tables.

► List of works of improvement needed.

► Legal status of local sponsors.

► Local participation: what groups, how each will assist financially, obtaining necessary easements and rights of way, costs for operating and maintaining project.

► Extent and nature of the educational program conducted prior to this application.

If this information can be gathered by Fall, Mr. Welch noted, the government survey team could get to work.

It would be a really complete survey, he explained, breaking down the entire watershed into two-foot contours. It would probably take all winter.

Then the second application would have to be made, Mr. Welch said, and this would have to be made by a governmental unit.

One possibility is a four-county governmental committee made up of the county drain commissioner, the board of supervisors, and representatives from each city with a population of 5,000 or over.

This committee would have the power to levi taxes on the whole area — probably not in excess of a quarter of a mill.

It would also have the power to take and let bids, supervise construction, run and maintain the project.

Since the committee is large, and the project itself entails so much work, he figured, it may eventually have a staff of 10 to 12 people.

The committee would continue indefinitly, or until voted out, he added.

Begins Basic Jet Training

Navy Ensign Richard L. Palmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood J. Palmer of 3651 Hoagland Hwy., Britton, recently reported to the Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Meridian, Miss. to undergo basic jet training in the TRA "Buckeye," newest of the Navy's jet aircraft.

The air station is part of the Naval Air Basic Training Command and located some 20 miles northeast of Meridian.

Lake Players Put on 'Holiday for Lovers'

What happened when a conservative, upper middle class business man's teen-age daughter runs into a left wing artist in Europe?

The Clark Lake Players explore this possibility in their next play, "Holiday for Lovers," showing July 25, 26 and 27, and Aug. 1, 2 and 3.

The play combines sophisticated dialogue with slapstick action, and is described as chaotic and hilarious.

Pat Pearse, Jackson, who has previously appeared as Auntie Mame, will play the female lead. Dick Winfrey, Jackson, takes the role Don Ameche portrayed in the Brocdway production.

Harriet Stolerow, Jackson, who was lead in "Born Yesterday," plays the second female lead. Dr. James Gullicott, Jackson, plays the second male lead.

Terri McEnroe, 601 Center Dr., plays one of the daughters. She appeared here in "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Pearl Harbor Survivors

The Pearl Harbor Survivors Association, an organization composed of military and naval personnel who survived the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, will hold its annual reunion Dec. 7, 1963 in St. Louis, Missouri.

Any person serving in the armed forces on or within three miles of the island of Oahu during the attack is cordially invited to attend. For further information or reservations contact Louis Bell, State Chairman, 14006 Berkshire, Riverview.

Karen Helwig Married in St. John's

Karen Eileen Helwig and Ronald J. Gurtzweiler were united in marriage Saturday at St. John's Lutheran Church, Adrian by the Rev. G. P. Dobberfuhl before 300 guests.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Helwig, 3651 Paragon Rd. and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Gurtzweiler of 504 Center Drive.

Linda Dean was the soloist.

White gladioli filled the altar vases and white ribbons and greens marked the family pews.

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, made her own gown of white summer satin appliqued with silk organza roses in princess style with V neckline and points over the hands.

Her fingertip veil of illusion was secured to a petal cap edged with pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with sweetheart roses centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Ted Tabbert nee Joy Bays was the matron of honor in a light pink brocaded taffeta dress featuring a bell skirt and matching jacket with cap sleeves.

She wore a white leaf hat with circular veil and carried deep pink Frenched carnations on a white lace fan.

☆

BARBARA CLOSE and Evelyn Beland were the bridesmaids dressed in deep pink brocaded taffeta gowns of the same design as that of Mrs. Tabbert. They also carried fan arrangements of carnations.

The flower girls, Barbara and Janet Johnston, cousins of the bride of Antioch, Il., wore identical dresses of deep pink dacron with appliqued roses on the bodices.

Larry Hedges served as best man and the guests were seated by Charles Williams and Robert Like.

A reception was held at the Odd Fellow hall with Vicki McVay, Carol and Cheryl Much and Mrs. Larry Hedges assisting.

Both young people are graduates of Tecumseh High School. The new Mrs. Gurtzweiler will be a sophomore at Adrian College this fall. Her husband is employed at Helms Furniture Store.

They will make their home at 612 Finch St., Adrian after a one week honeymoon in Cleveland, Ohio.

The rehearsal dinner was given Thursday evening at the home of the groom's parents.

MRS. RONALD GURTZWEILER

Pat Upell Marries Otis Whittemore

Patricia Linda Upell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Upell, Adrian and Otis Junior Whittemore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Whittemore, Adrian, were married Saturday at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church by the Rev. Thomas Drobena.

Palms and lighted candelabra formed the setting for the ceremony attended by 300 guests.

Mrs. Robert Schultz presided at the organ, accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Shreve, vocalists.

On the arm of her father, the bride approached the altar in a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle with fitted bodice, scalloped neckline embroidered with sequins and long tapered sleeves.

MRS. OTIS WHITTEMORE

Her fingertip veil was caught to a crown of lace and jewels and she carried a cascade arrangement of red roses and carnations.

☆

MRS. JAMES STUART was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Ilene Upell and Mrs. Kenneth Hollis, sisters of the bride.

They wore icy blue organza over white taffeta street length gowns with matching veils attached to blue fabric cabbage roses on their heads.

Debra Hollis, niece of the bride, was attired similarly to the bridesmaids. All the bride's attendants carried cascade arrangements of Red Elegance roses. Their dresses were made by Mrs. Franklin Schroder.

Bruce Stuart, nephew of the bride, was the ringbearer.

Rayburn Murray served as best man and the ushers were James Bumpus and John Garland.

Darlene Upell registered the guests at the reception held at the Products Union Hall.

Others assisting were Mrs. James Bumpus, Mrs. Jerry Leader, Mrs. Richard Mehan, Mrs. Ted Schmidt, Nancy and Ruth Davis, Richard and Rosemary Upell, Linda DeJonghe and Janet Mackey.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Davis were the hosts and Mrs. William Mackey decorated the church.

Leverette DeJonghe, cousin of the bride, made the cake encircled with greens and pompons.

☆

THE BRIDE is a graduate of Tecumseh High School and is employed at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Her husband attended Adrian High School and is employed by Atlas Feed and Grain Company, Clinton.

Following a trip to northern Michigan they will make their home at 310 W. Michigan Ave., Clinton.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents at their home.

Services at St. Peter's Episcopal Church were celebrated by the Rev. Father Denlinger with parish communion at 8 a.m.

Russell Cooper conducted morning prayer at 10 a.m.

Detroit Group To Be Guests at Potluck Dinner

Family-style potluck dinner will be held on the lawn at the First Presbyterian Church after worship service Sunday, July 28.

Guests will be 53 members of the United Presbyterian Church of Hamtramck. Tecumseh people are asked to bring their own table service and an extra dish to pass. Meat and lenomade will be furnished.

Jean Diamond, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Rosacrans and Mr. and Mrs. George Adamson, who lived in Tecumseh a few years in the past, is the minister of the little store front church on Joseph Campau.

One of the three ordained Presbyterian woman ministers in Michigan, Miss Diamond spoke to the local women's association last April.

She so challenged her audience with the pictures and description of her inner-city work that an invitation was extended to her to bring as many of her congregation as possible to Tecumseh for a visit.

The group will arrive by bus about 11:30 a.m. After dinner and a brief social period they will visit a local farm as a special treat for the children to show them the barns and animals and let them romp in the woods.

This type of activity is just one phase of a many-sided ministry in which Miss Diamond is dedicated to confront the people, who are limited by their highly industrial environment, with a fuller, more meaningful life.

Phone Installation Charges Dropped

Installation charges for residence extension telephones have been temporarily dropped by the General Telephone Company, Paul A. Betty, operating vice president, announced today.

The charge, which averages $4, was eliminated July 15 by General Telephone Co., and will be discontinued for one year under an agreement with the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Continuation will depend upon the results of the temporary program which is designed to increase volume of extension phones, Mr. Betty said.

If the increased volume of phone sales is sufficient to offset the loss from not making service connection charges, the free-installation program for extension phones will probably be continued, he said.

Renew Driver's License

Getting ready to go on a motoring vacation?

"Better check to make sure that your driver's license is valid or will be in effect until you get back."

That is the advice of Secretary of State James M. Hare who last year issued 1,738,586 operator's licenses to Michigan motorists.

"Of this number, several hundred thousand failed to renew their driving permit before their triennial re-registration date," Hare pointed out. "It seems that a great many people are unaware that they can start the renewal process 90 days before their birthday deadline."

If your license runs out this year and you have a birthday between now and the middle of October, you can apply for your new 3-year license at once. It is possible to renew operator's licenses in any authorized police or sheriff's office in Michigan.

So, if you are a Michigan resident on vacation elsewhere in the State, better take a look at your license. If it has expired, apply immediately to the nearest enforcement officer authorized to renew your driving privilege.

VACATION DOINGS BY THE DUNCANS

I am still feeling guilty about last week's article. There were just so many wonderful things in Colorado that I didn't touch upon. Things like Central City, the many wild flowers along the roads, 11,314 ft. high Berthoud Pass, the water-falls, the mountain streams, Bear Lake and the list could go on and on.

It is just a gorgeous state packed full of things to do and see.

Our last good look at the Rockies came in Loveland. Stopping on the east side of their reservoir, we looked through a row of cottonwood trees, across the cool blue water and there were the lovely snow-capped peaks.

The sun was shining brightly and really, I can't imagine a nicer way to remember the magnificant mountains.

We were homeward bound now and so let's return to our state-by-state description.

Nebraska was our next state and US 30 the route. Actually we followed Route 30 through three states and when the tour-books describe it as "a major cross country truck route and there are also numerous farm and cattle trucks on the road during the summer months," they aren't kidding.

We saw trucks, trucks trucks —three days of heavy traffic.

☆

NEBRASKA was disappointing, don't quite know what we expected, but it certainly wasn't what we saw. For miles and miles the road followed the Platte River.

It was far from scenic, there were railroad tracks, and five or six rows of utility poles. In addition, we were there during the height of the alfalfa cutting season and the smell from the big chopping and drying operations was terrible. Frankly, I missed the wide open spaces of Kansas.

☆

IOWA was next and thank goodness. It was good once again to be back in the rich rolling farm country. Everything was such a lush green, the corn looked especially good, although only June it was much higher than the knees of even a tall, tall man.

ILLINOIS—back across the Mississippi again, but this far north it is not the story-book river that it was in Hannibal, Missouri. Once out of the hills which form the river valley, Illinois really flattens out.

Long before we neared Chicago, the "mess" of smoke and gook which pollutes the air of any industrial city was visible. It hung liek a dirty smudge on the horizon. Just think of having to breathe that day after day —ugh!

☆

INDIANA AND OHIO — turnpikes across both states, but this time we had neither the rain nor the flat tire, which marred our first day out.

After three weeks, Michigan and home looked mighty good. The saying may be old-hat, but it is certainly true that one of the nice things about going away is coming home.

This year, for a change, we have no complaints about the weather. It was blistering hot going out and sweater-wearing cool coming home, but the skies were clear and we were quite comfortable driving.

In Colorado we were really blest — both before and after we drove to the top of Mt. Evans the road was closed by snow, but we had a perfect day.

We also found Trailridge Road open. There was rain, fog, snow and hail, but at least it was open, whereas a week before 17 inches of snow stopped traffic and a bad storm hit shortly after we were down. It just seemed all along we missed really bad weather "by the skin of our teeth."

So it is that this year's vacation was one of the best ever — we drove approximately 3,700 miles, took umpteen pictures and stored up enough good memories to carry us through many cold winter nights.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Many of you may remember seeing newspaper photographs of me running through the snow during subzero weather last winter.

At the time, there were exclamations of surprise that anyone would be silly enough to leave the comfort of a warm bed to go trotting through the frosty darkness.

Silly or not, I've found that unless exercise is performed with unfailing regularity, it has very little lasting benefit. And if you like to take your exercise outdoors, regularity means in any kind of weather.

During the summer months, my favorite form of exercise is a game of what I call "compact golf." This consists of playing three balls for six holes.

☆

DURING the winter or when the links are closed, I usually start my day by running a mile or two. This distance isn't as formidable as it sounds if you start with something less ambitious and build on it.

I got into the habit or running in 1948 when I was living in the Milwaukee Athletic Club and getting acquainted with Nash-Kelvinator.

The club had a sign that read, "It isn't the amount of exercise that counts, it is the regularity." Then I met an executive who had a program of physical exercise the year around. He looked so good that I decided to follow his example.

Why exercise at all?

Since I began the regular exercise habit, I've found that if I miss my morning exertion, I don't feel up to par for the rest of the day.

☆

BUT BEYOND that very personal reason, I feel that physical fitness is part of the patriotic duty of all Americans.

For much of our country's history, Americans had little or no choice in performing this duty. The rigorous tasks of clearing the forests, plowing fields or even long distances to country schools provided more than enough physical activities for our forefathers.

But as more and more Americans moved to the cities, as technology improved to make our lives easier, the amount of physicical exertion required in the course of our normal daily activities diminished below the minimum.

The shocking effects of this change became apparent during World War II, when hundreds of thousands of Americans were rejected for military service because they failed to meet physical standards.

Despite this revelation, Americans continued to neglect their physical development. A few years ago a study showed that American youth lagged far behind European youth in levels of physical fitness.

☆

PRESIDENT Eisenhower recognized the importance of the problem and established his Council on Youth Fitness. The council conducted a survey which showed that 10 million of our 40 million school children are unable to pass a test which measures only a minimum level of physical vigor.

The Council initiated steps to remedy this situation. President Kennedy threw his weight behind the program recognizing that physical fitness is not a partisan matter but a goal for all Americans.

While much of the council's program is being carried on in the schools, parents are being encouraged to improve their own fitness at home.

Parents can and should set an example of physical excellence so that their children will not grow up to find themselves the physical inferiors of the rest of the world.

CLINTON WOOLEN

CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

There is nothing like spending a Sunday afternoon going thru old scrapbooks. In one we find a poem with no record of the Author but it is very 'timely'.
It goes something like this:
"Our mantel shelf
Now boasts a clock
That doesn't tick
And it doesn't tock.
It's face is as bland
As it can be,
It conceals a heart of . . .
Electricity.
It goes on to say that time is valuable and should not be wasted but on the other hand, it is a pity not to realize it is going. The last verse . . .
"An electric clock
Is an enemy
Who steals our time
Silently" . . .
What we are finally getting around to is simply this, time is marching on and as far as we are concerned it is a fast march. That is why we are having a clearance sale of summer merchandise. We would like to promise this will be our final sale but that depends . . .
Anyway the whole kit and caboodle of our spring and summer stock is out . . . At half-price or less you will find all kinds of items . . . ladies swimsuits, knit playclothes, skirts and many more. From 97c to $1.97 there are too many different items to mention.
Better wind up the car and hurry over. Do not overlook seeing all the new Fall Fabrics and Sportswear. Something new is showing up each day.
Speaking of cars I note that Tom Riordan and some of the boys were reminiscing recently about some of the old names. There seemed to be some question as to one named Diana.
This was quite a fancy car and among it's contemporaries were Moon, Mac Farlane, Columbia, Briscoe and Auburn. I might give my age away but the first car I rode in was a two-cylinder Jackson. Also used to cruise around with an older cousin in a Saxton. Old cars like old songs bring back fond memories.
Whatever you drive old or new come on over to Clinton Woolen. You are always most welcome.

Top Notchers Clear Boulder Park Growth

Three members of the Tecumseh Top Notchers 4-H Club have a group conservation project under way at Boulder Park on N. Evans St.

The site where the first house was built in Tecumseh intrigued Rick Skinner, Mike Zorn and Rick Gartee, all 14, and Zig Zorn, 10, also a member and Randy Skinner, 9, tagged along to help too.

The boys have been working on their own to clear away undesirable growth along the river bank behind the park.

They hope to encourage some already established plantings and perhaps plant some new ones.

Having heard that a spring used to flow in that area, they enlisted the assistance of Edna Codling, 110 N. Union St., but still were unable to locate it.

The youngsters plan to build some steps down to the river with some bricks that they have found at the site.

Mrs. Robert Ries is the advisor for the Top Notchers Club.

Cote Team Wins First in Contest

First place winners in the pantomine division in the Lenawee County Share-the-Fun Contest July 19 were four members of the Raisin Cane 4-H Club.

They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cote, 4393 Comfort Rd. and will compete in the district meet.

The contest was held in Sand Creek High School.

Judges were Mrs. Thomas Tonneberger, Mrs. Lee Spohr and Mrs. James E. Danforth.

Mrs. Richard Platt was mistress of ceremonies. Others on the committee were Mrs. Norman Ries and Mrs. Melvin Kibler.

There were 22 acts presented in various classes in the contest entitled, "Wonderland of the 4-H Talent."

Debbie and Onalee Cote presented another pantomime, "Ahab the Arab" while judges were making their decision.

Inn Offers That Home Cooking

One of the most fascinating places in the Irish Hills is Cambridge Junction Inn.

The gift shop, bus stop restaurant serves delicious homemade foods including baked goods and ice cream all made right there in the building.

Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mays, the Inn is open 24 hours daily except Christmas, the only days of the year when the door is locked.

About 20 people are employed in three shifts each day. Mrs. May says that the food couldn't be more home cooked. The only commercially packaged foods are canned vegetables.

Mrs. Howard Wilson, Jr., 500 Outer Dr., Tecumseh is baking for the Mays.

She said, "The sauce for the spaghetti is home cooked, we roast our own pork and turkey. Why, I even make the noodles for the chicken on Sunday. I don't think you get that in many restaurants."

Marie loves her work at the Junction which includes nearly 100 loaves of bread a week, numerous rolls and fried cakes.

She uses about 400 pounds of flour each week.

Recently she made 20 dozen of the delicious fried cakes finishing by 7:15 one morning and by 9:50 they were all gone and she had to get out her equipment and make more.

Marie's sons, Tom and Mike, usually work in the kitchen weekends too. Marie learned the restaurant baking from Mr. and Mrs. May who carefully instructed her in the proper use of the treasured old recipes that have been in the family for generations.

Mrs. May can trace the one used for cream puffs back 150 years. They are filled with real whipped cream.

Other favorite desserts, bread and butter pudding and rice pudding are always on the menu.

Since the restaurant is also a bus stop and is located at the junction of US 12 and M 50, many interesting people are found dining there at all hours.

The Lions football team stopped one time, top basketball players, name bands are among others.

Mr. and Mrs. May have been in the restaurant business for over 30 years. They came from Jackson and purchased the Junction about 17 years ago.

When reservations for a party are made, Mrs. May personally supervises the arrangements, often preparing special salads or relish plates.

It's a friendly, delightful place to meet and eat in heart of the Irish Hills.

Trucking's Key Role in Lenawee County

Lenawee County plays a vital role in making truck transportation Michigan's fourth largest industry, according to the Michigan Trucking Association.

Three methods by which Lenawee County participates in the over-all value of the trucking industry are reported in a new booklet published by the Michigan Trucking Association, entitled "Truck Transportation in Michigan."

One fact was that 5,800 trucks, valued at $6,191,400, were registered to owners in Lenawee County in 1961. This compares to 384,897 truck registrations, with a value of $427,485,550 throughout the State.

In the same year, 3,220 persons were gainfully employed in this county, with the total earnings of $17,848,460, from various types of direct or indirect service to the trucking industry.

This figure compares to 292,163 truck employees, earning $1,619,459,509 throughout Michigan.

State-wide, trucking pays one out of every eight Michigan paycheck-earners an average of $7,302 per year.

☆

IN ADDITION to wages paid and trucks and other supplies and equipment purchased in this county, trucks also account for a substantial portion of taxes paid into Lenawee County revenue coffers.

This money was derived from Michigan motor vehicle owners who paid $224.5 million in special state highway-user taxes.

Of this sum, Michigan's trucks paid $68.7 million, or 30.6%, although they constitute only 11.5% of all vehicles registered. These figures do not include an additional $41.9 million in special federal taxes of various descriptions.

Realtors Are 1st Class Citizens'

The realtor has changed from a man with an "elastic conscience" at the turn of the century, to a "first class citizen," Harold Davis, president of the Michigan Board of Realtors, said to a meeting of Clinton realtors.

Mr. Davis gave his last official address during his term as president at The Midway Restaurant in Clinton.

He also presented Rena Fitzpatrick, realtor, with the "Earn More, Learn More, Serve Better" certificate of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers.

Real estate is one of the country's most important industries, Mr. Davis continued. It has grown to over 70,000 members with another 250,000 sales members.

It has also embraced a rigid code of ethics, he noted.

"Lands mortgaged can be returned to the owner," he said, "but honesty pawned can never be returned."

☆

A FIRST CLASS citizen must earn the distinction, he defined, it is not a birthright.

First class citizenship includes loyalty to the government, he continued, which means supporting it, rather than being supported by it.

It means honesty in public office, he said, and it means an effort to create your own personal security.

A first class citizen never apologies for the profit system, Mr. Davis maintained, for it has created a nation whose homeowners are "the envy of the world." Seventy percent of the homes are lived in by their owners, he maintained.

A first class citizen is also a champion of property rights, he added, for property rights and individual rights are indivisable.

☆

MR. DAVIS, who graduated from Clinton High School in 1912, learned his first real estate lesson early.

"I started in Clinton by passing out handbills for a couple of out-of-town sharpies for a dollar," he said. "The men were seeking to launch a housing development."

Mr. Davis came to Clinton as a boy from Bradford, Ontario. His father was the former Dr. Robert A. Davis.

After he graduated from high school, he attended the University of Michigan then Miami University. When World War I started, he enlisted as a private and served in France.

He returned to Detroit and entered the real estate business. Later, in 1940, he moved to Lansing.

Mr. Davis is past president of the Lansing Board of Realtors, serving in 1956 and 1957.

He is also a director of the Michigan Real Estate Association, Director of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and director of the Michigan Society of Industrial Realtors.

MRS. RICHARD McCRATE

Carolyn Kaup and Richard McCrate Are Wed

BRITTON — Before an altar decorated with white gladioli and aqua fuji mums Carolyn Ann Kaup and Richard Robert McCrate were united at Holy Trinity Church in Coldwater, O. by the Rev. Richard Reidel CPPS.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Urban Kaup of Coldwater and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCrate of Britton.

St. Ann's Choir sang the mass and vocal selections "Panis Angelicus," "Ave Maria" and "On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother" as the bride lit a vigil light on the Blessed Virgin's altar. Lillian Bernard was the organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father approached the altar in an imported silk organza gown over taffeta and bridal hoops. The basque bodice had a sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves.

Her bouffant skirt featured an overskirt in front accented with Chantilly lace ruffles in back and fell to a chapel train.

Her bouffant veil of imported English illusion was held in place by a rolled edge petal disc, accented with crystals.

Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, gift from the bridegroom, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white rose buds, stephanotis and ivy.

Susan Marie Kaup, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Sheila Ann Kaup, cousin of the bride, Sharon McCrate, sister of the bridegroom and Carla Jeanne Vannett.

They wore aqua peau di lune dresses with fitted bodices, cap sleeves and scoop necklines. Their belled skirts featured overskirts accented with a full blown rose and rose buds.

The maids carried colonial bouquets of purple and violet asters with white streamers.

Headpieces were a cluster of rose buds accented with small bows and pouff veils in matching aqua color.

They also wore leather shoes dyed to match, short white gloves and pearl pendants, gifts of the bride.

Jerry McCrate, bridegroom's brother, was best man. Ushers were Fred McCrate, also a brother, Ken McCrate, a cousin, and Bill Schroeder. They all wore black tuxedoes with white carnation boutonnieres. The groom's flower was a white rose from the bride's bouquet.

The wedding dinner and reception was held at Coldwater American Legion Hall, which was decorated with white and aqua crepe paper streamers and white wedding bells. The bride's table was centered with aqua and white carnations.

Steps to Reduce Rust in Water

John Kopka, superintendent of the Tecumseh Water Department, is concerned about water problems of the city's residents and recently came across an article published in the Detroit Free Press which he thought might answer some questions.

The article was Ann Olson's answer to the problem of rust in the water. Miss Olson is the home service director of a large washer manufacturing company.

"To eliminate this nuisance permanently might be well worth the money it costs," Miss Olson writes. "If rust is worse from the hot water tap than the cold, it probably is coming from pipes of the hot water heater.

"We suggest draining the heater and flushing it out. This might remove some of the accumulated sludge.

"If the washing machine has not been used for a while, (the first load for instance) try running about a gallon of water into the empty machine and then spin it out. This might be sufficient.

"If the iron is in the water itself, the installation of an iron filter is the cure.

"If the existing conditions must remain, the housekeeper should use a detergent, not soap, when doing her laundry and make sure that she also uses a non-precipitating water conditioner. These two products should be placed in the washing machine first, to hold the iron rust in suspension, before clothes are added.

Both detergent and non-precipitating water conditioners help to tie up the iron in the water. Soap will not do this.

"It is extremely important that enough detergent be used to remove the soil and hold it in suspension until it can be spun away or it might be deposited on the clothes. For this reason, sometimes it may be wise to use a low sudsing detergent to prevent the formation of excess suds."

College Stories, Intense, Personal

By Tom Brien

"Prize College Stories." Edited by Whit and Hallie Burnett. Random House. $4.50, 241 pages.

Little magazines play the important role of publishing beginning writers, Allan Seager has said, and while they are not as important to American literature as they once were, they do give many writers a start.

"Story," a magazine of short stories, is one of the little magazines Mr. Seager was referring to. The editors of "Story" conduct a yearly contest and choose the best that has appeared in their magazine. It was the result of the 1963 contest that produced "Prize College Stories."

The college atmosphere is not conducive to great writing, Mr. Seager noted, even though it has helped produce the highest technical excellence in the English speaking world.

This comment by Mr. Seager is glaringly apparent in "Prize College Stories." The 17 stories are generally well written and intense, but show little inclination to tackle large themes.

☆

Throughout the book, the different authors recognize that their environment is messed up, uncompromising with individuals in it, or simply not of their doing.

In turn, most of the authors do not come to grips with the cause of their discontent, but work out personal problems against this unfriendly background.

☆

FOR INSTANCE, the second prize winner, "Barefoot in Tangier," by Wendy Gibson, of Sarah Lawrence College, is a story of a lost, pregnant young girl, alone in Morocco. She reluctantly commits an impromptu abortion but doesn't really understand what made her do it.

Or again, the third prize, "Man Gehorcht," by Leslie Ann Brownrigg, of Barnard College, is about the love of a French girl for a German soldier and how she has him killed. In doing so, she destroys her own capacity to love, but ends up with little understanding of the episode.

In both cases, the young girls find themselves in a strange, unhealthy environment. They arrive at a personnal compromise but fail to achieve an understanding — or even a desire to have it changed.

☆

THE ONE story that shows an effort to take on society is "Direct Action," by Mike Thelwell, of Harvard University. It is also one of the few humorous pieces.

Four students find themselves drawn into a sit in demonstration against their will. They achieve integration by sitting in a dime store white rest room after dropping laxatives in the water cooler.

When the laxative takes effect, the whites in the store have to use the colored rest room.

The author, however, does not seem to care one way or the other about integration. He seems to feel both sides are silly, and lets it go at that.

Overall, the stories are well written and intense, showing these young students have a grasp of the writing craft, if not an understanding of the forces that shape their world.

Smartest way to pay . . by check

When you pay bills by check, you go the easy route. It's quick, convenient and best of all, your check stub is a permanent record. All the checks you write, when cashed, are returned to you. This gives another record and ends forever the possibility of paying an obligation twice – which can happen when you use cash and no one seems to remember. Having your own bank checking account is just one of many services available to you at this institution. If you have been thinking about making an addition to your house or adding a garage, come and see us about a home improvement loan. We will also be happy to assist you to obtain a new car with an auto loan. This is vacation time, which means you'll probably be needing Travelers Checks.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

We'll Trust Seat Belts

A druggist from Dundee, J. F. Stuwev, who has a cottage at Sand Lake, took special note of our editorial on seat belts last week.

Mr. Stuwev noted that he "received a complimentary issue of your paper . . . (and) . . . thought you might be interested in . . . pping from the July 15, 1963 issue of the Monroe Evening News."

The story tells how two state policemen were in a serious auto accident on Telegraph Hwy. and that "the fact Trooper Zarka (the driver) was not wearing seat belt probably saved his life."

We were astonished at first reading, having expected to see that by wearing the seat belt (standard equipment in state police cars, but not mandatory to be worn, the driver had been saved.

Wanting to make sure of all the facts, we telephoned the Flat Rock post, where the injured officers are stationed. The trooper on duty confirmed the newspaper account and said that since the driver's door had been crushed in by a tree, which the car hit, the fact the man at the wheel was not held in place by a belt allowed him to be shoved to his right.

The other trooper was flipped into the back seat by the impact. Both men suffered serious injuries.

In this case, the seat belt apparently would have been a detriment, at least to the driver.

However, we do not detour one iota from our stand that seat belts are needed by drivers. Taking a flying guess, we would figure that seat belts will save lives in 99 accidents out of 100, while such a freak highway mishap as the Telegraph Hwy. wreck is the one exception.

Seat belts hold motorists in place, prevent them from cracking their heads against the windshield or dash boards. They keep people in the cars, won't allow them to go hurdling through a window or door, which may swing open.

We will continue to strap on seat belts when motoring and hope everyone else does too.

The wheat harvest began nearly three weeks ago and much wheat is still standing. Behind this scene of plenty, fears of the Cereal Leaf Beetle and next year's crop haunt county farmers.

don't be a SQUARE

By TOM BRIEN

There is a conspiracy afoot in the United States to make President John F. Kennedy a popular culture hero.

A semi-myth is being foisted on the American public to insure Kennedy's good name in history. This is nothing new. Presidents have been myth-makers before.

Whether George Washington was a rounder with the ladies or not, the fact that he admitted he chopped down cherry trees — once and for all makes an honest man of him.

Whether John Kennedy leads America out of the Cold War, the Negroes to equality, and the world to a safer time in history, or not; "PT 109" will once and for all attest to his courage.

☆

NOW I submit that the source of this conspiracy lies with the President himself.

I realize this is a grave accusation, but I'm willing to back it up with some evidence collected just last week.

► Exhibit A: "New Yorker" book section. "PT 109" is an adventure movie . . . about Lieutenant John F. Kennedy's rescue of the crew of his PT boat after it had been sliced in two by a Japanese ship."

► Exhibit B: CKLW Newscast. "Ten of the survivors of Lieutenant John Kennedy's ordeal during World War II will travel to Japan to meet with the survivors of the boat that cut Kennedy's PT boat in Two."

☆

SO FAR, President Kennedy is not incriminated by the evidence.

Moreover, it has been President Kennedy's policy to allow the mass media to do what they want regarding the first family.

About all they've asked is that Caroline be kept out of "Confidential"

But in this instance, my third exhibit pins the evidence right on President Kennedy's cravat. He's as guilty as could be.

☆

EXHIBIT C: "Detroit Free Press." "President Kennedy lost his breast-pocket handkerchief and a PT-boat tieclasp Thursday when he was mobbed on the White House lawn by 2,560 jostling and elbowing foreign students.

"A boy snatched Mr. Kennedy's tieclasp, and a girl got his handkerchief. 'That's two from our bus that got something,' one girl exclaimed."

There it is. President Kennedy wearing a PT-boat tieclasp.

More incriminating, is his attitude about the whole thing. Even Elvis Presley used to get annoyed when the mobs pulled at his clothes.

But not our President. Lets look again at Exhibit C.

"'You are not,' the President said with a grin, 'the quietest group that has come to visit us at the White House. But we are glad you are here.'"

☆

OF COURSE he's glad. He's myth-making. The circulation of one PT-boat tieclasp must be considered worth the indignity of our President being mobbed by teen-age fans.

This isn't all. President Kennedy knew this was coming. Let's go back to Exhibit C.

"It was the third year in a row that the President has been mobbed under similar circumstances."

So he knew it was coming.

I'll tell you. He's been stricken with the myth-making bug.

And so have I.

☆

DURING the last war I was a nut for war pictures. I'm positive there are several pictures of PT-boats buried somewhere in my parent's basement.

Next time I go home, I'm going to dig them out. Maybe one is numbered 109.

Who knows, I might get a free trip to the Capital and a PT-boat tieclasp.

Getting Wary of Barry

For some reason, Barry Goldwater leaves us a little uneasy.

The Arizona senator, regarded as the Republican Party's arch conservative, seems to be playing footsie with the ultra-right wingers in his campaign to be a presidential candidate.

A lot of GOPs were deeply disturbed by their antics in the recent national convention of Young Republicans in California when fist fights broke out on the floor as a result of fanatic attempts by extremists to physically wrest away control of the meeting.

Senator Goldwater was one of the speakers following the outbreak and the chairman asked him to help quiet the throng. Instead, Mr. Goldwater alluded to the "great spirit of the delegates," which was like "pouring gasoline on the flames."

So far, the Sun State senator has neither confirmed or denied alliance with the John Birchers, who have made alarming inroads on control of the California organization.

The Birch Society would like to:

► Take power of United States Supreme Court and give it to state Supreme Courts.

► Get out of the United Nations

► Abolish the income tax

These are dangerous steps and ones that we would never condone, or the Birch group in general.

Look what it did to a Texan named Edwin Walker, a highly-respected army general with an exemplary service record, who turned into a mob haranguer preaching race hatred.

Senator Goldwater had best step forward and state his case fully and simply. Right now, he lives under a shadow.

Angry Othello Shakes Playhouse

By TOM BRIEN

"Othello is a giant of a man filled with a giant anger," Cliff Frazier said after his performance at the Irish Hills Playhouse Friday night, July 19.

"You have to view Othello as a larger-than-life person," producer Larry Burns agreed.

"This is especially important for the actor," Mr. Burns continued, "otherwise he'll have the tendency to play Othello as a normal man carried away by his jealousy.

"Yet Othello is more human than the other tragic figures of Shakspeare," Mr. Frazier pointed out, "unlike Macbeth or Hamlet, who are monarchs deciding the fate of empires."

"'Othello is the story of a man's love for a woman," Mr. Frazier explained. "Because he is a giant of a man, he feels a giant love for Desdemona, his wife."

☆

PLAYING the role of a giant man is difficult, as Producer Burns pointed out. And Mr. Frazier does remarkably well.

Yet there were times when I felt Othello just wasn't big enough.

His banishing Cassio after a drunken brawl shows his great capacity for anger. But his near-insane rage might better have been a quiet, murderous rage, at least after he decided to kill Desdemona and Cassio, who he believes to be lovers.

"But remember," Mr. Frazier cautioned, "Othello is a mighty military man who places honor above all other virtues."

"When he falls in love with Desdemona, she becomes a part of him," Mr. Frazier explained. "And when he comes to believe in her infidelity, it's as if he himself were guilty of this dishonor."

☆

HERE is another rub, and it lies in the audience, not in the play. That men should place such a great store in honor is not exactly acceptable to a modern audience.

In a world where leaders of nations cavort with their enemies for short term political advantage, honor would seriously undercut statesmanship. Loyalty —at the top—is more complicated than a straightforward military man, such as Othello, would see.

Anyway he must demand military standards of honorable conduct and purge himself with a ritualistic slaying of his wife.

☆

VICTOR WEXLER is excellent as Iago. It's hard to imagine a better portrayal, remembering, of course, that it is a slightly easier role than Othello.

Laura Seager makes a beautiful Desdemona, and if she lacks a little of Desdemona's verve, she makes up for it with regal composure.

Donald Kint is a little weak as Cassio, but he put in a better performance than he did as Bob Acres in "The Rivals."

Andrea Karson, as Emilia, Iago's wife and handmaid to Desdemona, makes a good foil for Desdemona. And, as was Shakespeare's wont, utters many bits of wisdom from her foolish mouth.

Larry Fisher plays a capable Roderigo, who is a hapless tool for Iago's scheming.

The rest of the cast fills in suitably, in what amounts to a moving, powerful play.

"Othello" will appear during the summer at 8:30 p.m. on July 25 and 31, and Aug. 6, 11, 17, 23 and 29.

Who's Kidding Whom?

On opposite sides of the Sunday Free Press front page were these two international news items.

MOSCOW — (UPI) — The Sino-Soviet peace talks collapsed in failure Saturday and the Chinese Communist delegation returned to Peking still convinced that war and bloody revolution are the only way to achieve the aims of Communism.

MOSCOW—(UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said Saturday night "agreement is in sight" in a partial nuclear test ban. Negotiators were reported to have begun working on the actual treaty draft.

Khrushchev, at his jovial best at a reception and farewell party for visiting Hungarian Communist leader Janos Kadar, told newsmen, "The talks are going well. No obstacles have been encountered so far. If they continue as they have so far, agreement is in sight."

Who is kidding whom?

Even the most naive observer of world affairs should be able to add two plus two and come up with the correct answer. Even a sweet innocent old lady in tennis shoes is aware that Uncle Sam is being readied for another sleigh ride.

"Jovial Khrushchev sounds as though he's someone's favorite uncle, whom everybody loves.

We don't want to throw cold water on possible nuclear test bans, but this make-believe front is so darn obvious it almost makes us sick to our stomachs.

Remember "jovial" Mr. K. when he insulted President Eisenhower by standing him up in Paris.

Remember "jovial" Mr. K. when he slammed his shoe on the desk in the austere United Nations general assembly?

Remember "jovial" Mr. K. when he predicted communism would bury us?

Let's see what can be hammered out, agreements which the Reds cannot wiggle out of. But let's not "give until it hurts," as we so often do.

America has been pretty innocent in its approach to international political intrigue up until the last few years.

We certainly know "who is kidding whom." Let's not forget it.

Bride Tumbles Through Glass, Has 90 Stitches

An accident in the home of the bride completely curtailed the planned wedding trip of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Latchaw Saturday.

As they were secretly preparing to leave the reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Robinson, 507 N. Union St., the bride was injured in a freak accident.

She hurriedly tried to enter the front door of the residence. The door stuck and both of her arms were severely cut as her body hurled through the plate glass.

Ninety stitches were required to close the wounds, which severed arteries, tendons and nerves in the right arm. She will be in a cast, but was released from Herrick Memorial Hospital Tuesday.

The story of Barbara and William's wedding appears on page three, along with a picture of the bride in her lovely gown — obviously taken prior to the accident.

Long & Short

BY TOM RIORDAN

When Joe Rice was elected chairman of the Tecumseh Planning Commission, he said he would devote his spare time during the one-year term to the job.

Joe is a man of his word.

A week ago, Joe hustled over to the University of Illinois, where the American Society of Planning Officials has headquarters in the Public Administration Center.

Here also are headquarters for 18 municipal associations and societies, including housing and redevelopment, legislative, finance, public works and a string of others.

The library there is jammed with books on everything that affects cities, with reams of reference materials from all across the nation, telling what municipalities have done and are doing to keep abreast of modern-day living.

The staff rolled out the red carpet for Joe and he stayed for two days, buried in the wealth of books, papers and reports about city planning.

He also was invited to confer with officials.

The whole delightful experience left Joe "feeling like a 10-year-old boy loose with a two-pound box of chocolates and no restrictions imposed."

Joe was asked by one of the Society's planning staff what the major problems are which face Tecumseh.

Joe ticked them off:

1. Non-conformities (businesses in areas zoned residential, etc.)
2. Home occupations
3. Service Stations
4. Establishment of board of appeals.

Without so much as a moment's hesitation, the staffer told Joe that all files on these four subjects would be pulled and made available for him in the morning.

The next day, Joe was confronted with a stack of materials 15 inches high — letters, clippings, pamphlets and reference sheets. He was delighted.

To cap the trip, Joe spent a morning in Chicago with his trusty 35mm camera, taking pictures of the High-Rise apartment area near Michael Reese Hospital which consists of 163 acres cleared of slum and rebuilt at a cost of $83 million.

He also photographed Marina City, a 65-story apartment tower.

Joe has been gathering a miniature reference library for the local commission and just received the ordinance from Baltimore regarding non-conformities.

He is passing this matter around to fellow commissioners and it would seem that Joe is gradually conditioning them to the fact that maybe they should also spend their spare time on planning problems.

In any event, the planners seem to be responding to the thought.

Certainly, there are plenty of items to be discussed and rediscussed as Tecumseh moves down the road to become a model city — with only homes in the residential area, industries in the industrial, business in the business and parks and recreation sections where they appear on our master plan.

It's a major proposition trying to catch up and gradually bring into conformity what was built and arranged during a period of about 130 years.

But with dedicated planners like Joe Rice and his commission, the goal will surely be reached some day.

Top Pancake Racer Will Get $25 Prize

Some lively lady between 18 and 88 will be crowned the fastest running pancake flipper in Tecumseh Aug. 9 and win $25 in the annual Pancake Race.

It will be held during the annual Sidewalk Sale.

Contestants may sign up at The Herald office for the race, which will start at 7:30 p.m., immediately after the free Aunt Jemima pancake supper.

The supper will begin at 4:30 p.m., at the fire barns and continue until all are served.

The merchants' big Sidewalk Sale will start at 9 a.m. and run until 10 p.m. with a variety of entertainment for all ages throughout the day. A parade and decorated bike contest will be held in the afternoon, dancing in the streets, wandering quartets and several fun races before the big pancake race.

Pedestrian Safety Award Given City

For having gone four full years without a pedestrian death, the city of Tecumseh today received a Pedestrian Safety Citation from the American Automobile Association (AAA).

Tecumseh was among 27 Michigan communities receiving the award, which resulted from the city's entry in the 1962 AAA National Pedestrian Protection Appraisal contest. Walter Fowler, Tecumseh-area Automobile Club of Michigan division manager, Tuesday, July 30, presented a plaque symbolizing the award to Chief of Police Murell Clark.

☆

TECUMSEH competed against 672 other U. S. cities in the below-10,000 population class in the national contest.

To be eligible for the award, a city must record no pedestrian fatalities for a year. It must also submit evidence that a well-balanced safe-walking program exists.

In presenting the award, Fowler cited the work of police, school and other interested safety officials in "carrying out an effective pedestrian safety program". He also noted that the award was made possible through the careful driving and walking practices of all Tecumseh citizens."

The 23-year-old soldier is a 1958 graduate of Tecumseh High School and a 1962 graduate of Michigan College of Mining and Technology in Houghton.

Aircraft Workers Team To Save Buddie's Life

By JUDY FIELDER

A lucky man is Elmer Abshire, 37, who was literally brought back from the dead in a near drowning Saturday afternoon at Wamplers Lake.

His fellow employees of Meyers Aircraft Co. saved his life during their annual shop picnic where the near-tragedy took place.

Ray Betzoldt of Macon was giving rides in his seaplane when Elmer took Michael Walden, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Walden of Clinton and Michelle Cain, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cain, 602 N. Union St., into the lake to wait their turn.

He was carrying Michael on his shoulders and holding Michelle by the hand when suddenly he stepped into a drop-off.

Someone yelled and David Merillat, Fred Betzoldt and Garvin Hollis of Adrian swam out to help the boy, not realizing that Mr. Abshire was also under the water.

Mr. Hollis grabbed Mike and was carrying him to shore when Michelle, who had reached safety nearby cried, "He's out there!"

The men realized then that Mr. Abshire was in trouble and started diving for him.

George Roe of Clinton discovered the victim, unconscious in eight feet of water. He pushed Elmer toward the surface where Al Meyers grabbed him.

Fred Betzoldt, Mr. Merillat and John Kirk went to the aid of Mr. Meyers, pulling the 200-pound, six-foot man to shore.

☆

WHILE STILL in the water, Fred started mouth-to-mouth respiration.

Mr. Abshire registered no breath or pulse at the time. Rescuers estimated he had been under water close to four minutes.

Mr. Kirk relieved Fred at respiration. They also administered external heart massage.

Fifteen minutes passed before Mr. Abshire showed signs of breathing and heartbeat could be detected.

The victim was breathing fairly well within half an hour, when the Jackson rescue squad arrived with a respirator.

Respiration was continued all the way to Herrick Memorial Hospital, where the victim was placed in oxygen.

The attending doctor, who heard the story of the lifesaving, and a professional nurse, who witnessed it, said the men who performed the mouth-to-mouth respiration on Mr. Abshire were the real heroes.

Without constant artificial help, it is doubtful Mr. Abshire would have pulled through.

Mr. Abshire's physician said he is still seriously ill with pneumonia, which often follows a near drowning.

Paris Honors Julia Anderson

PARIS, France — Mrs. Julia Anderson, a resident of Tecumseh, was present in the French capital when her son, Major General Webster Anderson, Commanding General, US Army Communications Zone, Europe, was officially presented with the "Ami de Paris" (Friend of Paris) Certificate earlier this month.

The ceremony took place in the Vice President's Office, Paris Municipal Council, in the City Hall. The Vice President, Monsieur R. Prangey, made the presentation.

To honor the general's mother, a presentation of a golden medal bearing the Seal of Paris was awarded to Mrs. Julia Anderson, a spontaneous hommage of the French capital officials.

A "champagne d'honneur" followed the ceremony. Attending were the general's wife, Mrs. Webster Anderson, his brother Col. (Ret) J. A. Anderson, his wife and two sons, and a host of US Army high ranking officers and Paris officials.

The Anderson party and the French officials were then guests for a luncheon given by Colonel and Mrs. Paul R. Jeffrey, presently of Paris, France at the Seine Area Command officers' open mess. Colonel Paul R. Jeffrey is Seine Area Command Commanding Officer.

Oh! The thrill of walking out your front door and meeting a rattlesnake on the steps.

Donald Stoner, 6900 Mill Hwy, did exactly that last Sunday morning. After recuperating from the surprise, he killed the 27-inch swamp rattler with a hoe. The Massasauga snake sported eight rattles, sign of a full-grown adult.

That's top-notch distribution for you!

City Schools Serve 36,285 Lunches

The Tecumseh schools served a total of 36,285 lunches to school children last year, according to a report by Milton C. Porter, County superintendent of schools.

The total amount spent on food and milk was $14,355.16; while the total amount expended on labor was $8,448.36.

Tecumseh was reimbursed $7,102.36 by the state. This is figured out to be six cents per lunch and three cents per bottle of milk.

Besides the reimbursement, Tecumseh has revenue coming in from a luncheon charge of 40 cents per meal.

Since much of the food is purchased through federal commodities, the program can hold down costs.

Deerfield, the only other lunch program in the County of similar size to Tecumseh, spent about $8,000 less for food, milk and labor. They also received nearly $4,000 less in reimbursements.

The table below shows the county figures on the lunch programs of the different school systems.

'Holiday' Off to Slow Start

By Tom Brien

"Holiday for Lovers" was about as damp as a Riviera honeymoon during a Mediterranean monsoon for the length of the first act last Friday at the Clark Lake Playhouse.

It picked up in the second half, mainly because of the commanding performance of Dick Winfrey, and warmed the small audience somewhat.

Dick Winfrey, as the typical-but-not-as-dumb-as-he-looks father of two daughters cavorting in Europe, carried the show almost single-handedly for much too long.

When the others finally picked up the pace, they showed themselves capable of portraying their characters.

☆

WHAT went wrong was the timing, primarily. The plot is purposely weak so that the sophisticated dialogue will carry the action and the laughs.

What the Clark Lake Players lacked Friday night was the ability to punch out their lines with speed and dexterity.

Joe McDougal, played by Jim Collicott, uncle to the two daughters, for instance, has a small but funny part. His wife Connie, played by Harriet Stolorow, is a vulgar, coarse woman who is a setup for her husband's lines.

Unfortunately, Mr. Collicott delayed his lines just long enough to leave Mrs. Stolorow hanging in mid-air, often losing the punch completely.

Most of the cast committed the same mistake, and consequently, the play lost its edge.

☆

Pat Pearse as Mary Dean, common sensed wife strictly in command, gave a steady performance.

Barbara Ward came close as Betsy Dean, the younger temperamental daughter who finds love in Paris. But the audience needed her explanation to fully understand her part, which may have been the writers' fault.

Terry McEnroe, as the older married and pregnant daughter who can't bring herself to tell the folks, also gave a steady performance.

Tom Brown, as the American painter who falls for Betsy Dean covered beautifully on one or two occasions, and otherwise did quite well.

The whole cast showed itself competent. With better timing which should come after last week's performance, the play should be fast paced and funny.

It is appearing for the second weekend Aug. 1, 2 and 3 at 8:30 p.m. at the Clark Lake Play house.

Startling Ads Help Sell Products Engines

Take some attention-getting headlines:

"Don't Look for Us Here,"

"Did You Sell Him Just an Engine."

Can Your Customers Cut Grass with Just an Engine."

Add in an equally-startling pictures such as grass being cut by just an engine.

These are the highlighting features of a series of ads now being run in leading trade publications by Lauson-Power Products Engines Divisions of Tecumseh Products Co.

They point up a growth rate in sales that is almost three times that of the rest of the industry.

Lauson-Power Products manufactures air-cooled two and four-cycle gasoline engines used on power equipment, particularly rotary mowers, tillers, tractors, snow blowers and chain saws, to mention a few of the most popular pieces of power equipment.

Industry trends are noted and the Lauson-Power Products part in this changing picture is told.

The "buying up" trend so apparent today in the power equipment field is the crux of one Lauson-Power Products ad. "Don't look for us here . . . we're with the quality names in power equipment," pictures a man looking at a rotary mower ticketed with a $39.95 price tag.

Copy explains that 8 of 10 mower buyers have previously owned a mower. Now they want the quality and integrated design of engine and mower which owners powered by Lauson-Power Products engines have.

☆

IMPORTANCE of good service is stressed in the ad, "8,016 More Reasons Why" which tells about the fast complete service available on Lauson-Power Products engines through its 52 central warehouse distributors.

The division also has 1,009 service distributors and a network of skilled, experienced, factory-trained field service dealers.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

You can't do business from an empty wagon! That is what the song says and it also goes on to tell you that in the old days the Peddler, once the mainstay of Distribution in the United States, knew this was important.

His wagon creaked under the weight of housewares as he started out on Monday morning and rattled home empty on Saturday night.

Yes, sir, you have to have the merchandise if you expect to sell!

Naturally you might know this is leading up to the stock of Fall merchandise we are getting in daily at Clinton Woolen.

Every morning the postman, expressman and the trucker with their wagons arrive early and they leave empty. Consequently our hangers are filling up and you should see them, the first are always the prettiest!

Whether you sew or not, you should see the new fall woolens. New colors, yarns and style to make you and yours look and feel right this fall.

We hate to bring it up, but back-to-school is just around the corner.

We also have a small but select collection of fall corduroys, cottons and blends.

We men usually do not buy clothes until the day we need them. As a result often we can not find just what we want and have to settle for second choice. Right now is the time to select your fall jacket, coat, sweater or whatever. We will be happy to lay your selection away for you.

As for the gals . . . well there just does not seem to be an end to what we have to offer. Knit two and three piece suits in both junior and misses sizes are already moving out fast and our wagon may start to rattle.

Separates and coordinates in wool, corduroy, cotton suede and blends are drawing a lot of attention.

We could go on and on and fill the paper up with all the new items and ideas but better still come over to Clinton Woolen and see for yourself.

Junior Girls Beat Tecumseh All Stars

BRITTON — Friday, July 26, the Junior Girls softball team beat the Pee Wee All-Stars from Tecumseh, 19-14 in Britton.

This was Britton's second game of the season. They were defeated by the All-Stars in Tecumseh a few weeks ago.

The girls, ranging in age from nine to thirteen, practice every Wednesday afternoon for two hours.

The girls have been coached by Judy Rohrback and Suzie Rowlands.

BRITTON — Mrs. August Maska and Mrs. William Miller entertained Monday evening in the Maska home at a bridal shower honoring Nancy Brown.

Set New Nighttime Speed Limit

Although the Legislature raised the nighttime speed limits on Michigan Interstate freeways to 70 miles an hour, the new speed will not take effect until September 6, 1963, which is 90 days after the Legislature officially adjourned.

Other laws passed by the 1963 Legislature which take effect in September prohibit the operation of any motor vehicle on any highway with parking lights only; establish a 45 mile minimum speed on freeways; require every school bus to be equipped with a large convex mirror to enable the driver to observe through its use the road from the front bumper forward to a point where direct observation is possible."

Some of the new laws are highly specialized, like that requiring two red reflectors on tractors or requiring that the name of a truck lessee be painted on the side of leased vehicles.

Other laws make it unlawful to park, stop, or leave unattended any motor vehicle on a limited access highway except for mechanical difficulty or an emergency.

Another provides that where more than one conviction results from the same traffic incident, points shall be charged for the most serious offense only.

LETTERS HOME
Impressions of Hawaii

BRITTON — Pat Eberhardt is now living in Hawaii and she has been sharing her experiences and impressions of the vacation paradise of the Pacific with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Eberhardt.

"We have been to the beach at Alamoana Park next to Waikiki. The water was heavenly warm with a sandy bottom and big beaches.

"Always a wonderful breeze so it's never too hot. It cools off every night and we really do sleep.

"Evening we went to the International Market Place. Fascinating — there are different stands all over, selling food, clothes, jewelry, etc.

Looks like a tropical paradise with palm trees, waterfalls, brooks with goldfish, burning torches and glass lanterns.

☆

PEARL (Taniyama, Hawaii) tried to get into summer school but it's filled. Surplus of teachers here so she doesn't get to teach summer school and she is leaving for home soon.

"Mrs. Nakashima (Pearl's aunt) made orchid corsages for us to wear to the bowling banquet at the Waikiki Hotel.

"It was held in a huge room and one wall was nothing but sliding glass doors overlooking the ocean. Enjoyed the pounding surf and lovely sunset.

"Combo played and hula girls performed. Lieutenant Governor Richardson was guest speaker and master of ceremonies was Bob Crosby.

"After the banquet, a house burned in back of the home across the street from us. The homes are close together and they burn quickly because they don't have insulation.

'Most are equipped with alarm systems where lights flash on a board to tell you which part of the house the fire is in."

☆

JUNE 21 — "Got a job today! In the office of Liana Perfume of Hawaii. One of two perfume companies that make use of real flowers.

"It is right across the street from the Ala Moana Shopping center.

'My boss and his wife both speak German so perhaps I can keep mine up.

☆

"SEEMS like I meet someone different from Michigan every day — I believe half of the state is over here.

"My neighbors are from northern Michigan and hate it here — anxious to see snow.

"Fourth of July, some kids from Marquette rented a pink jeep and we drove around the island taking pictures. My film was gone before we went half way.

"Started up the mountain to a friend's home and we went up, up and up. Thought we would never reach the top.

"Her home was fabulous with sliding glass doors from living room to patio. We could view the whole coast line while eating breakfast.

"We could see Punch Bowl Cemetery, an extinct volcano that is a memorial to WW II dead, Pearl Harbor and clear over to Diamond Head.

"Light cars are prohibited up the mountain on windy days."

Farmers Plead for Public Aid in Beetle Threat

Michigan farmers are shouting for help from city folks in their battle against the cereal leaf beetle. Along with Ohio and Indiana farmers who border Michigan, they are in an all-out war against what has been declared the most serious threat to American food supplies in history.

Cereal grains which the beetle consumes in great quantity, provide more than bread and breakfast foods. They are also animal feeds which convert into milk, cheese, ice cream, meat and eggs, the publication points out.

"Farmers cannot fight such wars as this alone the menace is a public one," reports the "Michigan Farm News." Public funds are needed to support the total effort which includes identification and quarantine control measures, education and means of finally eradicating the pest.

"Consumers need to be reminded that they face higher prices, — even hunger if the beetle breaks loose to sweep America's granary lands. Losses to food resources will mount to $1,300,000 annually, research shows."

A prayer in sign language to the Great Spirit will be offered before the medicine man purifies the dancing area.

Prizes will be awarded in competition dancing for authentic and colorful costume as well as performance.

The attendance at the afternoon tot lot was slightly increased this week. Most of the children played on the swings and slide, with the croquet set and checkers. Others braided with plastic lace or worked with leather projects.

Herrick Park:

Last Wednesday the checker tournament was held between the three tot lot champions. Dan Murphy played John Robert and won. Dan went on to play Steve Hallenbeck and Dan lost to Steve. All played very well.

The children had fun flying airplanes that they assembled. Others had fun making purses.

Fans Cool Community Center

Our two new fans are the most worthy additions to The Tecumseh Community Center. They should help to increase the buildings' summer use tremendously.

They are located on the south wall of the main room, and are exhaust fans in that they pull the existing air in the building out.

If the windows on the north side are opened the air is pulled off the pond and the building becomes quite cool in a hurry.

The fans are 42 inches in circumference and are equipped with a timer which allows them to be set for the designated number of hours that one cares to have them on.

These fans were made possible through the efforts of the Shawnee Square Dance Club which held a fanarama benefit dance on the 19th of May.

The dance was held in two sessions in the afternoon and evening with nearly 400 dancers from many communities.

Detroit hase more trees than any city in the nation. Its forest population includes 650,000 trees whose value is $60,000,000.

Cub All-Stars Belt Blissfield 3-1

Pitcher James Mobley twirled a two-hitter for the Tecumseh Cub League All-Stars Saturday, July 27, and belted in the first run with a round tripper to down Blissfield 3-1.

Except for the first pitch the Blissfield pitcher belted for a home run, James Mobley exercised his mastery over the Blissfield team for the entire game.

Michael Hebert, with a home run, Denny Lewis and John Kennedy, each with a double, led Tecumseh's scoring punch. Denny Lewis scored the winning run after getting on with his two-bagger.

The Cub All-Stars will travel to Onsted Saturday, Aug. 3 where they play their second all-star game under the lights at 8:30 p.m.

The longest streak in Tecumseh recreation baseball ended Monday, July 22, when the Products dropped VFW 3-1.

The VFW clinched first place this season with a 13-1 record, as the season drew to a close. The Products are four games behind with a 9-5 record.

In other games last week, Britton strengthened its chance to take third place from the Indians when it beat Products, 8-6, Saturday, July 27.

Bill Prochaska brought home the bacon for Britton with one of his two home runs. Dean Hebb, for Products, had two hits in four tries.

Friday, Britton was leveled by the powerful VFW team 9-1. Buddy Work tossed seven strikeouts in holding Britton to one run.

☆

SCOTT EDWARDS hurled a brilliant no-hitter for the Indians Thursday, and mowed down 16 Eagles in the process.

The Indians' 2-0 victory puts them in third, half a game ahead of Britton, in what appears to be the last position to be decided before league play ends.

Next week, the Pony League Elimination Tournament will begin. Britton and the Eagles each drew a bye.

Aug. 5, the VFW will square away with the second place Products team. Aug. 6, Deerfield and the Indians meet.

The winners will play Britton and the Eagles. The final game will be Friday, Aug. 9.

Even the Tecumseh Police pulled themselves up to threaten seventh-place Kiwanis by taking two wins last week.

The Police eked out narrow victories over the Jaycees 3-2 and Faling's 4-2 in equalling their previous seasons total wins. They now have a 4-10 record.

Ken Huber rapped out three singles in three tries to lead the Police against the Jaycees. Robert Reed was the winning pitcher.

Randy Randolph struck out the side to preserve the 4-2 win over Falings for Mark Sackett. Centerfielder Robert Hatch made a diving catch in the 5th inning to stifle a Faling's rally. Dennis Marsh hit two for three.

Baffling Mystery Hill Defies Rules of Logic

A unique and amazing scientific discovery that is attracting thousands of tourists and sightseers from all parts of the world is the Mystery Hill located across from the entrance to Hayes State Park on US 12 in the Irish Hills.

Nature's great force of gravity combined with the wonders of science create a natural phenomenon that is almost unbelieveable.

"Eerie and baffling—you won't believe it until you see a person appear to shrink before your eyes or water apparently running up hill, said Bud Rogers, owner. "A form of Nature's black magic, Mystery Hill offers puzzles that defy logical explanation," he continued.

Guides demonstrate easy seating of guests on the wall and walking up hill is easier for visitors than walking down hill. Mystery Hill tours leave every 12 minutes.

FURTHER one [illegible] be had at the Moonshine Valley, next to the Mystery Hill.

The grave of "Ole Moe" in the valley is one of the features and the story is told that Moe drank so much "moonshine" that he still wiggles his toe.

A cooling water wheel, strange caricatures, and live rabbits add to the entertainment in the valley.

"Be sure to bring your camera," Mr. Rogers stated.

BUD ROGERS and Bill Pettit of Adrian [illegible] Mystery Hill seven years ago.

Mr. Rogers, who has been associated with the entertainment field for many years, adds to the entertainment facilities at Mystery Hill each year wih his ingenus use of a jig saw and paint.

A crew of summertime guides, all area high school boys, make the tours interesting for visitors as well as keeping things shipshape at all times.

One of the guides has earned a college education for himself through his work at the Mystery Hill.

THEY CAN REALLY SHOOT

Muzzle Loading Experts

General George Meade would have been proud to have them shooting with his artillery.

Their snap and dash, but especially their ability to hit the target with great regularity, would have impressed that famed Civil War Union leader.

These are the modern muzzle-loader enthusiasts, who make up spit-and-polish gun teams and compete for laurels at meets all over the midwest, using actual Civil War cannons or two-thirds scale models.

☆

A DOZEN gun teams showed their skills during a recent two-day shoot at Frontier City and will be returning to the same location Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 for another display.

Dressed in authentic Civil War uniforms, these artillerymen follow century-old gun procedures right to the letter.

They use names of actual units — like the 111th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, Loomis' Battery, Chicago Light Artillery Battery A, 1st Texas Infantry — and can thread a needle at 100 yards with the shiney, well-kept muzzle-loaders.

In competition each gun is allowed to fire 12 rounds during one inning, two of which are for sighting. Each ball that splits the bullseye is worth two points, each round "on the paper" is good for one.

Excellent shooting finds eight or nine rounds in the bull. On one occasion, the 111th Ohio lads, who come from the Toledo area, scored a perfect total of 20 points.

JUST as in Civil War days, each gun crew is divided into regular jobs, running from the No. 1 to No. 6 positions.

No. 5 is the gunner, who aims the piece by sighting down the barrel.

No. 6 will bring the shot, which is taped to a bag of powder and some wadding, hand it to No. 2, who holds it in front of the barrel opening.

No. 1 rams it home.

No. 3 nips a hole in the powder bag with a device that looks like an ice pick, then inserts the primer or fuse.

No. 4 touches off the weapon with a lint stock, a rope soaked in nitrate and attached to a pole about four feet long. The tip of the rope smolders much like a cigarette.

IN CASE the gun miss fires, No. 2 moves next to the barrel, making certain not to pass in front of it, clears the old primer or fuse and repricks the powder bag (which is made of aluminum instead of the Civil War paper bag, the one concession to the 20th Century and this for safety precautions.)

☆

AFTER every firing of the piece, water is poured into the barrel and the gun thoroughly swabbed by the No. 1 and 2 men. This is done exactly as it was 100 years ago — three twists to right, three twists to left, to make certain that no trace of burning powder or primer is left in the barrel.

Safety is the keynote of the entire operation.

Insurance Coverage On Rise

In the space of 20 years, the number of people protected by health insurance has gone from one out of every seven in the United States to the present figure of three out of every four persons, the Health Insurance Institute said today.

In 1942, 15 per cent of the U. S. civilian population were protected by some form of health insurance, the Institute said, while at the beginning of this year 76 per cent of Americans were so covered.

Regular medical expense insurance covered a little more than 3 million Americans in 1942. However, there was nearly a 21-fold increase in coverage in 20 years so that more than 98 million persons were covered last year.

LOCAL BUSINESS

When a really big buying decision is being made by the consumer, newspaper advertising becomes more important than ever.

Recent studies by the Survey Research Center, University of Michigan, show that a buyer is not swayed by gimmick advertising when he buys a major home appliance or an automobile.

Dr. George Katona, director of the research center, points out that superficial appeals in advertising have an effect only when the consumer is indifferent.

Good retail advertising has always been based on the premise that the consumer is intelligent. Not even on bacon and coffee does the housewife scatter her dimes and dollars willy-nilly.

The retailer, in appealing to the good sense of the consumer, needs the facilities which are characteristic of newspaper space — that is, completedness, reliability, performance, and local slant.

Of the major local media, only the newspaper provides sufficient space for the advertiser to make a detailed and rational sales argument. On the large newspaper page, features of any product may be described more adequately than by any other medium.

However, details can not be absorbed quickly by the consumer. The printed record of newspaper advertising makes study and re-study possible.

Newspaper advertising gains more impacts among intelligent readers because it is necessarily reliable. The local buyer knows that from experience. When advertising is recorded in black and white neither the merchants nor the newspaper can afford to sponsor unworthy claims.

JOHNNY TILLOTSON

IS a handsome, young man whose winning ways with a song has made him one of the outstanding talents in show business. He will appear in person at the LENAWEE COUNTY FAIR, ADRIAN, THURSDAY AFTERNOON & NIGHT, AUGUST 15 ONLY along with a big Grandstand Show. JOHNNY hit the National Music Charts with his first professional disc "Dreamy Eyes." His follow-up successes include "True, True, Happiness," "Poetry in Motion," "Jimmy's Girl," "Without You," "It Keeps Right On A-Hurtin'," and "Send Me the Pillow You Dream On."

He wrote and recorded "It Keeps Right On A-Hurtin" several weeks before he entered the Army service and it went into immediate release and two weeks later it was riding high on the National Music Charts. He is under the guidance of Lou Spencer who is well known for the staging of Bobby Rydell, Paul Anka, Jackie Wilson, and Kitty Colleen's successful nightclub acts.

IN bringing JOHNNY TILLOTSON to the LENAWEE COUNTY FAIR, the Fair Board feels they are keeping up with the times and giving the public the newest and the best in show business.

Highway Bridges To Be Painted Pastel Colors

LANSING — The State Highway Department is experimenting with new paints that will — if tests are successful — enable it to paint bridges any color in the rainbow.

The research project will be conducted on a seven-mile section of I-94 now under construction in St. Clair County.

Six freeway overpasses have been selected for the tests and they'll be painted in six different colors — maroon, foliage green, ivory, beige, rose-cinnamon and light green.

For years, the State Highway Department has used a varnish-based aluminum paint as the finish coat on the structural steel of all highway bridges, overpasses and interchanges. It comes only in silver.

The paint being tested on the I-94 overpasses is an alkyd-resin enamel. It can be purchased in any color.

Highway Department engineers believe the pastel colors may be more durable and will reduce maintenance costs.

FENCE POSTS can be expected to last more than 30 years if treated according to specifications of "Commercial Standard." These specifications call for posts to retain at least 5 pounds of a creosote-petroleum mixture containing 5% penta solids per cubic foot of wood. When you buy pressure-treated fence posts, check the certification. Each post will be marked showing the preservative and treating process used and the amount of preservative retained in the wood.

HARVESTING CORN COB MIX with a combine is a new practice that livestock feeders are going for. Only a few adjustments and modifications are necessary on the combine. With one adjustment the combine shells the corn and breaks the cob into pieces about one inch long. By another adjustment, it cracks the kernels and breaks the cob into smaller pieces. The mix must be stored in an airtight or conventional silo. Harvest at 25% to 35% grain moisture.

CONTROVERSY OVER PESTICIDES isn't over yet, although it has died down somewhat. You can expect tighter restrictions by next spring. Some chemicals may be taken off the market. USDA's authority to decide whether a pesticide should be marketed may be cut sharply and more power placed in the hands of other non-farm departments. Follow label directions closely when using chemicals. With the subject in the limelight, any mistakes will make juicy publicity.

SUDAN GRASS and some other broadleaved grasses may be poisonous to livestock at certain times. Poisoning is caused by a chemical change resulting in the formation of prussic acid. This acid is present only when the grass is recovering from wilting or when it is making new rapid growth. During these periods keep cattle off Sudan.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

There is a widespread feeling that the annual Governor's conference, which I am attending this week, is essentially a high-level garden party that allows the nation's chief executives to meet each other and introduce their wives.

While some socializing takes place in the natural course of events, most of my time is spent at working sessions which afford the governors a rare opportunity to analyze some of the problems which they have in common.

At this year's conference, the governors are devoting much of their attention to civil rights and the increasingly complex problem of federal-state relations.

The problem of defining the proper roles for the federal and state governments is far from new to the Governor's conference. The governors have wrestled with it before, but it has come back to haunt them again.

☆

In 1961, the Governor's Conference adopted a resolution which put the conference on record as "deploring the tendency of federal agencies to dictate the organizational form and structure through which the states carry out federally supported programs."

In 1962, the governors adopted a second resolution which urged establishment of an appeals procedure so that unilateral decisions of federal officials could be reviewed by the judiciary.

Unfortunately, little resulted from either of these resolutions. Arbitrary decisions by federal bureaucrats continue to be a problem for conscientious state officials trying to administer welfare programs as the people of their state want them to be administered.

An outstanding example of this arbitrary approach by certain federal officials occured this year when the Department of Health, Education and Welfare rejected Michigan's Aid to the Dependent Children of the Unemployed (ADC-U) program.

This program, adopted with bipartisan support by the Legislature, adhered precisely to the spirit and the letter of the federal law which established the aid.

That department's rejection of this plan has caused hardship for Michigan communities and their taxpayers, who had looked forward to shifting about $9 million of the local welfare load to the federal-state ADC-U program.

Although the needy families who would receive the aid continue to receive state-local general welfare assistance, the level of payments is slightly lower than the ADC-U scale.

I believe that a court test would uphold the constitutionality of the Michigan program, and also find that the department of Health, Education and Welfare had acted without authority.

But the hidden barriers and procedural sandbanks of a long court case might sink Michigan's suit before it could be decided on its merits.

☆

THAT IS why I am asking the conference to work for amendments to every federal grant-in-aid program involving state and federal governments now on the books.

These amendments should give every state the right of immediate review in the federal courts, so that the arbitrary decisions of federal officials need not be law in themselves.

The Governor's Conference should back such amendments with all of the energy and resources at its disposal.

By doing this, the governors can show the nation that the steady drift of power to a central government should and can be stopped.

BIRDS ON VACATION

Marda, your title could have a double meaning — perhaps it would be wise to explain right away that today's topic is the birds we saw while on our vacation.

Actually we were pleasantly surprised when we counted the birds on this year's trip; 21 isn't a great number but for us it is mighty good.

A true "bird vacation" would of course list many, many more but it would also involve early and late hours which are for us next to impossible.

Our vacation aims are pretty scenery and picture-taking. The birds which we see are much welcomed extras.

Sparrows, robins, grackles, starlings and mourning-doves were common everywhere, we found. Red-winged blackbirds, lark-buntings who, this time of year, look like the redwings but have only white on their wings, and colorful meadow-larks were everywhere.

Every other fencepost seemed to be occupied, to say nothing of the adventuresome souls who preferred high-wire perching.

These two places are usually good for additions to a bird-list, but this year, with temperatures in the high nineties, it was more comfortable driving along at a fairly good clip and so, we didn't slow down to do much identifying.

The car windows were open though, of course, and every meadow-lark we whizzed by had a cheery song for us.

☆

MOTELS proved excellent bird-watching sites too. We have no luck with martins here at home but often we stayed at motels whose martin house made us green with envy.

Big windows looked out on busy "communities" — 'twas great fun to watch these graceful birds swoop and dart.

A motel in western Kansas afforded one of the biggest bird thrills. We were awakened in the morning by a regular riot of sound; trills, chirps, whistles, warbles — this bird's repertoire had everything. A mockingbird.

Packing the car was slow that morning, the bird was performing from the top of a telephone pole and who was in a hurry to leave? He would sing a few choruses then, from sheer exhuberance, jump into the air, fly through several aerial maneuvers and settle back to his singing perch.

Quite a show and quite a bird, he looked exactly like his picture in Peterson's "Field Guide to Western Birds."

Another handsome character is the western magpie. Although not enjoying a good reputation, it is similar to the crow's, he is an exciting bird to see.

A big bird, some 18 to 22 inches long and just imagine, about 12 inches of this is tail. A long, sweeping graceful tail.

Colorwise they are blue-black with large showy patches of white on wings and tail. Striking looking birds, we enjoyed their appearance without worrying about their disposition.

☆

ONE DAY while driving along the Roaring Fork river, I surprised the folks by exclaiming, "Oh, quick, look at that red-tailed hawk."

They were surprised, not that I called their attention to a hawk, because we had seen many of them, but because I was so quick with the name.

Usually we just said hawks, they are difficult for us to tell apart.

There was no question about this however, it was a red-tail. It was flying rather low, up the river valley and our road was high, about one-third of the way up the side of the mountain ridge.

We were therefore in the unusual position of looking down on the bird. His tail was definitely red.

The first chance we had to get at the bird books I checked just to be sure, and Peterson says that the non-hawk expert "usually finds it necessary to wait till this large broad-winged, round-tailed hawk veers in its soaring so that the rufous-red of the upper side of the tail can be seen." Ours was most cooperative, we didn't wait a bit.

So it is that we had much good bird-watching on [illegible] trip, so much that we will have to wait until next week to finish "Birds On Vacation."

Dear Andy...

Dear Andy,

Whenever I go over to my girl friend's house she turns on the television, hands me a bottle of pop, and disappears. Now this in itself may not seem too strange, but when three hours later I look out the window and see her on the porch saying goodby to this other boy I feel a tinge of suspicion. Yet considering the fact that I do her homework, [illegible] give her every[illegible] she wants to go during the summer, I don't see how she could be untrue.

But to get down to the real problem, when she disappears she always takes the TV guide with her. Do you think I should consider this an open act of hostility?

Yours truly,
Undecided

☆

Dear Undecided:

Don't fool around any more with this chick. SHOW her who's boss! Buy your own copy of TV Guide. When she sees that you can get along just fine without her, she'll get scared, and come back to you begging. On the other hand, she may just LET you get along fine without her.

Advisedly yours,
Andy

Postmaster Puts Teeth in Mail Obscenity Law

Arrests and convictions for violation of the mail obscenity laws during fiscal 1963 were up over 100 per cent over fiscal 1960.

1960 was the last full year that administrative penalties were used to enforce the laws. Since then criminal action has been used by Postmaster General J. Edward Day.

Convictions in 1963 totaled 637 a 26.6 per cent increase over 1962. Fines totaling $83,530 were levied against convicted offenders.

Among the significant arrests and convictions during the fiscal year was that of Ralph Ginzburg who operated as Eros Magazine, Documentary books, Inc., and Liaison News Letter, Inc.

More than 35,000 complaints were filed by patrons who received through the mails advertisments for the magazine Eros, described as "a new quartly dedicated to love and sex.

Investigation by Postal Inspectors culminated in the conviction of Ginzburg and his three firms at Philadelphia, Pa., on June 14, 1963, on 28 counts of violating the postal obscenity statute.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

School Board Meetings

Seldom is there a rush by the public to attend City Council and Board of Education meetings.

Usually it's just drab, routine business with scant appeal to the average citizen, who can stay home instead and watch comedy or sports on his television.

But occasionally an issue brews and suddenly the council chamber and school board meeting room becomes as exciting to local residents as any make-believe TV drama.

As fate usually deals out the cards, there is something popping with both school and governmental groups at about the same time.

There has never been a problem for people who want to take in sessions of both.

That is, until this fall.

Council has always met the first and third Mondays of the month. School board gathered on the third Monday.

However, beginning Monday, Aug. 19 this is going to change. The school board decided it would begin to meet the third Monday of the month, on the same night as one of the council sessions — and at the exact same starting time, 7:30.

We wonder if the school officials might be making a mistake in selecting an evening for their monthly gathering that coincides with council!

There's not a great chance of finding folks who suddenly want to attend both meetings, but it could happen.

Zippa-De-Do-Da

Of course, you know it was going to come to this—another number in your life. This is the handy ZIP code.

More will follow. They're bound to. This will go down as the age of Numbers.

Back when Social Security came into the lives of Americans during the early 19-30's folks chuckled at the silly long number everyone got.

Then the war came and as about 15 million Americans hustled into uniform. Each found himself with another number —neatly stamped out on a dog tag.

But the age of numbers was just beginning to pick up steam when IBM machines started to sort cards filled with all sorts of numbers.

Workers became numbers, their specialities became numbers, their personality traits were neatly tabulated by number, their skills at various tasks became numbered.

A batch of cards went into the rusty IBM, a few fluttered down into one stall, some more into the next, the next and so on. Then the operator plucked out a pile—all males, red-haired, left-handed, like ice cream, fast at addition, deft snooked players, TV western fan, has tomato plants in backyard.

Thus, should the employee be seeking someone with these exact characteristics, all he need do is choose one. Outside of the red hair, he has no idea what the chap looks like, what his name is. But, of course, the boss will have the fellow's number.

Now the ZIP code, sensible, helpful —but another sign post along the road to complete numeritus, when there will be only numbers, no names, no nouns.

Of course, the telephone people have gotten in their licks and gone or going are those fine old exchanges, such as University, Milrose, Woodward, Townsend. They tell us it's for our own good.

This is the same for the ZIP code, according to the post office.

So, better join the parade and tag your ZIP number right behind Michigan

Too Late

Since the U. S. has something like 30 times the nuclear power to eliminate Russia from the planet, and Russia has about the same, it would seem at first glance that the nuclear test ban would indicate our political leaders are finally waking up to the fire they're playing with.

But not many are fooled. Governments, ours included, don't bother with treaties when important power moves are necessary.

Anyway, it's too late to stop the nuclear arms spiral.

We couldn't keep France from developing weapons. Nasser is about to have some of his own. And the obvious reason Khrushchev is playing footsies with the West is because China may have its own N-force pretty soon.

So they played around until it was too late to stop other nations from getting their own a-bombs. Now they're huddling unashamed like two tycoons who discover another business has entered the market and threatens to destroy their monopoly.

Editorial in Picture

Sidewalk sale day in Tecumseh always means "fun time" for area folks. This year, Aug. 9 is the date and a variety of interesting things are planned, including a free pancake supper and the annual pancake race. Gals from 18 to 88 are invited to participate in the sprint and win a prize. Full details will appear in next week's Herald, along with some of the big bargains that will be available up and down busy business row.

Book Review

Traveling Over Old Ground

"Travels With Charlie," by John Steinbeck Bantam Books. $.75. 275 pages. By Tom Brien

Since I cut my literary teeth on John Steinbeck when I was a sophomore in college, I have tried to read each new book he writes.

But there is a sad distance between the almost physical impact he made on me 10 years ago and the conviction I feel every time I put down his latest book that I won't waste time reading him again.

It's like visiting an old teacher, or adult friend, who first sent you along the path of truth that your parents wouldn't or couldn't take you, and discovering he wasn't a big deal after all. And in fact, only seemed to say something then because you were so ignorant.

It was with this knowledge that I opened "Travels with Charlie" and found myself going through the same emotion again.

☆

IN "TRAVELS," John Steinbeck has little new to say, and since it is a diary-travelogue, does not even possess the aesthetic dimensions of a story.

It is the diary of a tired, confused, nostalgic man.

Mr. Steinbeck is confused by the new America of conveyor belt highways, the boob tube, bureaucracy, of "fine print" laws carried out by "fine print men," of sterilized restaurants and tasteless food, of a moronic mass-media, and all the rest of our uniform, waist-high culture.

Mr. Steinbeck, in turn, is nostalgic for the older America of dignity and individualism, where men had room to stretch, to dirty the scenery of their lives with the litter of their days; where men had the know-how, and the gumption to be men.

☆

WHILE this may stir a chord of response in many, they cannot fail to be unsatisfied at generalizations and observations that are unsubstantiated by research or by artistic development.

Nevertheless, "Travels with Charlie" is worthwhile as an evening of two of slightly stimulating reading.

Mr. Steinbeck planned his trip after having been told to slow down by his doctors. He writes: "It happens to many men. And I had seen so many begin to pack their lives in cotton wool, smother their impulses, hood their passions, and gradually retire from their manhood into a kind of spiritual and physical semi-in-validism.

"They trade their violence for the promise of a small increase of life span. In effect, the head of the house becomes the youngest child.

"I did not want to surrender fierceness for a small gain in yardage. My wife married a man; I saw no reason why she should inherit a baby."

☆

SO HE took a trip and made some observations:

►Mass media — "We've listened to local radio all across the country. And apart from a few reportings of football games, the mental fare has been generalized, as packaged, and as undistinguished as the food."

►People — "There used to be a thing or a commodity we put great store by. It was called the People. Find out where the People have gone.

"I don't mean the square-eyed toothpaste-and-hair-dye people, or the success-and-ordinary people. Maybe they never existed, but if they ever were the People, that's the commodity the Declaralon was talking about, and Mr. Lincoln.

"Wouldn't it be silly if the Constitution had been talking about a young man whose life centers around a whistle, a wink, and Windroot?"

►Politics — from a Maine farmer: "Well, you take my grandfather and his father. They knew some things they were sure about. They were pretty sure give a little line and then what might happen. But now — what might happen?

'Nobody knows. What good's an opinion if you don't know? My grandfather knew the number of whiskers in the Almighty's beard. I don't even know what happened yesterday, let alone tomorrow."

—o—

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Van Vleet entertained Mr. and Mrs. Harley Van Vleet of Clearwater, Fla. several days last week. July 20 the two Van Vleet families visited Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller in Battle Creek. Sunday guests in the Van Vleet home were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Allison, Pontiac, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Matthews and family, Howell, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lasley and family of Berkey.

Zip Code Not So Bad

The new ZIP code isn't as bad as all that.

You just put Tecumseh's ZIP code behind Michigan. Like this: Tecumseh, Michigan 49286. Simple!

If everybody just attaches the code on their return address, others writing to you will use the code when they copy your address.

It's no more difficult than using a postal zone number behind a city — Detroit 26, Michigan. Nor is it any tougher than copying a United States serial number behind the names of men in the army.

What does 49286 mean?

The first digit is one of 10 major zones in the country. Zone 4 includes Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky.

The second digit is the state, or densely populated part of a state, or thinly populated states together. Number 9 is Michigan.

The third digit is a Sectional Center within the state. Number 2 is Jackson. (There are 553 such sectional centers in the U.S.).

The fourth and fifth digit is the local postal delivery center. Numbers 8 and 6 are the Tecumseh post office.

4 — Zone 4
9 — Michigan
2 — Jackson
86 — Tecumseh

This is probably the first move to mechanize postal delivery so you might just as well take the first step.

It reportedly speeds your mail by at least a day. So why don't you try it and see.

don't be a SQUARE

By TOM BRIEN

The Gray Manufacturing Co. training program is one answer to critics of government sponsored redevelopment programs.

Since everybody eventually pays for the unemployed, the best answer is to get the jobless back to work. The Michigan Employment Security Commission is doing just that by financing the Gray training program.

The Company, under the provisions of Section 28, provide plant facilities to the trainees. The MESC provides everything else; including material, trainee payments and teacher's fees.

Not everyone is eligible under this act. Only those already on unemployment and still on their "benefit year" can take the program. It is not for training youths.

A "benefit year" starts the date a worker makes an unemployed claim. He is then eligible for 26 unemployment payments. Under Section 28, he could receive 12 more payments while he receives training.

☆

THIS IS only the third time a company has applied for training assistance under Secton 28. The others were in the Upper Peninsula and Lansing.

Under a different program, the Area Redevelopment Act, two classes were conducted in Lenawee County. Twenty typists and 20 stenographers took classes. Of these, 38 completed the courses and 35 took jobs after training.

A third training act, the Manpower Development and Training Act, is just getting underway. Under this act, state governments match Federal funds on a 50-50 basis.

So far, 60,000 workers are being trained under the MDTA. Another 25,000 disadvantaged youths are being trained, counseled or tested.

Only 10 states have made moves toward matching funds for the coming year, and only two (Montana and Tennessee) have actually appropriated funds.

In the state, 37 programs involving 1,065 trainees had been completed by March, 1963, and 29 programs involving 1,039 trainees were in progress.

Of the 1,065 trainees, 49 per cent were in 16 secretarial, office, and business programs, and 31 per cent were in 15 automotive, machine operating, and welding programs.

☆

OPINION is divided within the Michigan Employment Commission itself as to the "saleability" of the training programs. One claims it is going well. Another says the men won't buy it."

"In comparison with the total of people unemployed in Michigan," Harold T. Smith, of the W. E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research, writes, "the number of people likely to be trained under the (training) programs seems quite inadequate."

The director of research of the MESC has said that the number of training programs that will be instituted by Michigan will be only about 10 per cent of the number anticipated by those supporting the programs in Washington.

Part of the problem is that men want a job, they don't want to go back to school. When they find out they have to go to school five nights of the week from 7 to 11 p.m., they lose their enthusiasm.

Other difficulties are the lack or organized training centers. In Michigan, each teacher must organize his own course as best he can, usually in the local high school instead of the firm.

Industry in general has not backed up the program by providing equipment needed in training the men. The cost for equipment, consequently, has nearly doubled expectations.

Moreover, jobs must be available for the trainees before the MESC will start the classes. In less vigorous areas, meaning rural or suburban areas with little industry, the training programs are inapplicable.

Nevertheless, their worth seems to be demonstrated by Tecumseh's experience with Gray Manufacturing.

New industry is always welcome. And if opening jobs call for new skills, the community should welcome the chance for some of its residents to learn them.

☆

BUT WHY area redevelopment should raise the spectre of socialism, creeping welfarism, et al, is a little hard to understand.

What's the difference between Federally supported job training, which is half paid for by the state, and state supported colleges which are half supported by the Federal government.

Six of one, half a dozen of the other.

Of course the people pay for the program, but don't they benefit from it? And isn't that the object of government?

The two groups involved, unemployed workers and youths, are both temporarily unable to make their own living. Now isn't it simple arithmetic, and good sportsmanship, to give them both an opportunity to start earning.

BY TOM RIORDAN

It was the night before Ash Wednesday in Olney, England, back 500 years ago.

Church services were about to start and the bells began to ring.

Villagers started to assemble — except one forgetful housewife.

She was busy making a pancake supper.

As the situation began to sink through, she suddenly dashed out the kitchen door, heading for church but still clutching the frying pan in her hand.

While sprinting past horrified villagers, she, for no apparent reason, began flipping a hot cake still in the griddle.

There's an operator in every community and sure enough Olney had one. He saw possibilities for fun and fame. His vision showed all the ladies of Olney racing along, each carrying a fry pan, flipping a cake as she went.

So, in 1445, the first official ladies' pancake race was run. The track was established at 415 yards, the distance between the town pump and the church steps.

Names of the tardy haus frau and the quick-witted promoter have long been forgotten, but the idea lives on.

Ladies of Liberal, Kansas, some years back, challenged the gals of Olney. This marked the original telegraphic pancake run.

Out Disneyland way, old Walt perked up his promotional ears, and instituted an annual ladies' hot-cake sprint, running the champion of California against title holders of various western states.

Three years ago a pancake race for gals was concocted for Tecumseh as a tie-in with the free pancake supper, dished up annually by town merchants.

It clicked and has become a summer standard.

If somebody would come up with a round-trip plane fare from here to Disneyland, the Tecumseh winner will be entered in the California event next Shrove Tuesday.

Officials there were queried a year ago and they said they would be glad to have our champ. Expenses in California would be paid by Disneyland, but transportation to and from California must be furnished locally.

The race Friday will start at S. Evans St. and Pottawatamie, with gals dashing north to the main Four Corners, turning west and heading to the finish line, which will be in front of Woolworth's.

Along the route, streamers will hang eight feet over the pavement at four places. At each one, participants will be required to toss a pancake over the line and catch it coming down in the griddle they carry.

It should be a ball.

Tax Could Net $126,125

By TOM RIORDAN

A one-percent city income tax would bring $126,125 a year into Tecumseh coffers, Elmer Jeska of Toledo told City Council Monday.

The guest, a tax consultant who specializes in municipal income levies added that the figure is calculated on the low side.

He appeared at the request of city fathers who want to gather information on city income taxes.

Mr. Jeska explained this is not a payroll tax, but would cover every aspect of earning — bank interest, stock dividends, rents.

It would be computed from the gross income figure as reported on the Federal Income Tax return.

All residents of Tecumseh would be included as well as anyone who works in the city.

For those living outside the community, where there is or might some day be a similar tax, a system of reciprocity would be drawn up between the cities involved.

☆

HE SAID that in Ohio, 48 cities and villages have one-percent income taxes and that the number will probably be double that by next year. A town with 640 residents, smallest one the guest knew of, is adding the tax.

He told Council he has been spending considerable time with southwestern Michigan towns advising them on income taxes.

He was invited by Gov. George Romney to explain his ideas and told Council he had advised eliminating a variety of small taxes in use now and replacing them with an income tax, to place the burden on those who can pay.

A state income tax, he feels, is still about five years away, however.

☆

IN TAX WORK for 25 years, Mr. Jeska now has clients in six states, as far west as Colorado.

He charges no consulting fee, but when a municipality goes into an income tax, his office furnishes one employee to help expedite the mechanics and organization.

A city the size of Tecumseh would need a total of three persons to operate an income tax— one being from Mr. Jeska's concern. His representative would be charged for at the rate of $600 monthly.

The first year would be the most expensive as machinery was purchased and procedures established. The guest anticipated this would run about $30,000.

From the second year, costs would vary between 5% and 10%, based on economic conditions.

Total annual revenue is estimated by taking the population of a city and multiplying it by $25 per person. From this figure, expenses are deducted.

Money paid on a city income tax is deductible from the Federal return.

☆

TO IMPLEMENT an income tax, Mr. Jeska suggests the following:

► Select a committee
► Meet with city solicitor and Mr. Jeska
► Hold three hearings and start taxing.

He said Tecumseh, if it were to start work immediately, could have the thing going by Oct. 1 and collect a tax for the final quarter of this year.

Council has the authority to levy a one-percent income tax, but for any amount greater than this a vote of residents is needed.

City Council Okays School Bus Garage

Approval was given by City Council Monday for the erection of a school bus garage on James St.

School officials asked for permission to have a 20-foot setback from the road, instead of 35 as required by the new zoning code.

Planning Commission Chairman Joe Rice said his group would favor the idea since the code provides an exception when property on a street is owned by the same party.

In the case of James St., the Board of Education has title to 256 feet of the 351 feet length of the block. The corner lot has a home on it which fronts Maumee St.

☆

COUNCIL expressed some concern that by building a garage on James St., the property values of the two home sites on Maumee might be lowered.

Bob Moore, school board member and head of the bus committee, told city fathers that the appearance of James St. would actually be greatly enhanced under the proposed program.

The board already has pulled down one weather-beaten home, where the proposed garage will go, and plans eventually to knock down two other former residences it owns on the south side of James.

Mr. Moore explained that school officials had started with the James St. site for the bus garage, then considered many other throughout the city, but circled back to the original idea.

☆

"SAFETY is the No. 1 factor," Mr. Moore said.

Norval Bovee, assistant superintendent, showed councilmen a sketch of the proposed garage plan.

The building, to be painted cement block, will be 40 x 48 ft.. To the immediate west, a 10,000-gallon underground gasoline tank is to be located for refueling.

The back of the structure would be 118 ft. from the top of the bank, which drops off to the Pony League baseball diamond.

☆

THE SCHOOL district's 18 regular buses and special education buses would be parked on land along the south side.

Mr. Moore explained that the vehicles require approximately 10,000 square feet of space, plus about 4,000 square feet for cars of drivers.

This figure is doubled, he went on, for maneuvering, giving a gross of 28,000 square feet.

A gift of $10,000 to the school board will pay for erection of the building. The property is already owned by the schools. The new building will be modeled after the Onsted School bus garage.

Coach Tom Fagan is issuing the call for Tecumseh High School football team candidates.

All hopefuls are to report for physical examinations at 10 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 10, in the gymnasium.

Equipment will also be handed out at the same session.

Mouth pieces are to be re-fitted for veterans and new ones fashioned for younger players Monday in the offices of Drs. Bob Murray and Bob Laidlaw, 513 W. Chicago Blvd.

Coach Fagan announces also that there are still some tickets available for this Saturday morning's Detroit Lions - Cleveland Browns game at Tiger Stadium.

Transportation to the National Football League exhibition tilt will be by school buses and total cost is $1.50. Tickets can be purchased at the city swimming pool.

Altogether, Tecumseh has been allocated 90 seats for the game. Last year, approximately 75 attended from here.

Too Ornery to Die

"Just plain ornery" said Elmer Abshire about his close battle with death in a near-drowning nearly two weeks ago at Vineyard Lake.

"It was so simple it doesn't seem possible. I can swim quite well, but it all happened so fast."

I was bringing the boy (Michael Walden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Walden, of Clinton) back into shore from the plane," said Mr. Abshire.

"He had his arms around my neck when I stepped into a drop-off."

"I gulped a mouthful of water and the next thing I remember is coming to at Herrick Memorial Hospital Saturday night when the doctors were working over me."

His life was saved by the fast action of his rescuers with mouth to mouth respiration and artificial heart massage.

Mr. Abshire, who is just coming out of a close battle with pneumonia, laughed, "I decided to chase the mermaids — never again!"

His physician said he is doing just fine.

Classes To Give Show

The second group of swimming instruction classes will give a demonstration of their skills at Joyce Andrews Memorial Pool Friday, Aug. 9, at 7 p.m.

The classes will have group swimming. Races and free swimming will follow.

Vic Lawson, pool director, invites parents and friends to attend.

Third session swimming instructions will begin Aug. 12 for three weeks.

"A class in synchronized swimming or water ballet will be offered if enough interest is shown," said Mr. Lawson.

5-Man Board

A five-man board of review will be named by City Council at its next meeting, Aug. 19.

The new board's duties will consist of hearing any complaints community residents have, many which normally would go to the Council.

Convalescent Home Near Halfway Mark

Construction on the convalescent home in back of the Herrick Memorial Hospital is "moving along," according to Al Findley, foreman for Krieghoff-Lenawee Co.

The men have been putting in the steel deck base for the roof for the last three days, he explained. When they're through, roofers will be able to finish topside.

We're about halfway through, Mr. Findley said, although it generally takes longer to complete the interior than it does the exterior.

It will take the plasterers about a month once they get inside, he said. The planned date of completion is in mid-December.

THERE ARE about 15 men working along with Mr. Findley, including two plumbers, two steel men, two electricians, three carpenters, and several laborers.

Mr. Findley began as a carpenter when he first started with the Krieghoff-Lenawee Co. 22 years ago in 1941. Before that he worked in Niles.

"I took a job as a laborer then," he explained, "because the work was more steady. Since then I've worked at several types of jobs."

"My job couldn't be better," he said. "They wouldn't fire me and I wouldn't quit."

If the material and equipment comes on time we'll be able to finish on schedule, he added.

Girls Promote Own Carnival

It will be held in the back yard at Karen's home Saturday from 10 a.m. til 2 p.m.

The carnival will include games, side shows, refreshments, a raffle and a little store to buy souvenirs.

Admission will be 5c a person and all proceeds will go to the foundation for muscular dystrophy.

Parking Meters

During July, parking meters in Tecumseh produced $1,266.75 in pennies and nickels.

3,000 Free Pancake Dinners

Free pancake dinners will be served to about 3,000 from 4:30 to 7:30 Friday evening as a highlight in Tecumseh's annual Sidewalk Sale.

Merchants, who foot the bill for the hot-cake meal, are moving masses of marked-down merchandise onto the sidewalks along Chicago Blvd., in what has become a popular annual promotion in Tecumseh.

Besides the bargains and pancakes, there will be a raft of other activities, including the ladies' pancake race at 7, games and races for youngsters along S. Evans St. and a full-scale parade at 5:30.

A $25 prize is being awarded to the lady, 18 or over, who can sprint the pancake race course in the lowest time. Last year, well over 5,000 watched this event.

Live music will rebound throughout the business district from 4 until 9 with several bands engaged for the festivities. National Carpets and Furniture is sponsoring a twist contest for teenagers.

Behind Page One

Hugh Walter has the "best" ideas. He used The Tecumseh Herald as wrapping paper for prizes awarded at the Rotary Golf Tourney Tuesday.

What's more, he was not satisfied with past issues, he had to have current ones so that winners could keep up on the news about town when they finish opening their gifts. It's nice to have The Herald represented at the annual event. Hugh's efforts are appreciated.

If the Behind Page One column seems like pat-The-Herald-on-the-back week, it's only because of the remarkable response the special Irish Hills circulation has been getting.

The journalist's eternal headache is getting names and places correct. Last week The Herald committed two blunders. Our apologies are extended to Mrs. Carl Wilt for mistakenly calling her Janet Bilby; and to Elmer Abshire, for saying his ordeal took place in Wampler's Lake when it was Vineyard Lake.

"Will the paper go to the lake area again this week?" said a lady who was putting a classified ad in The Herald.

"YEOW!!" was the yelp heard by The Herald distributors waiting in the car for one of our jumpers when a man sicced his dog on the fella.

It's a good thing the car door was open, otherwise he would have plunged through the window.

Now we know what the mailmen go through.

The usual blue Monday morning was transformed into a bright cheerful day for The Herald office with the appearance of Wilfred Waldron laden with a dozen gaily-colored gladioli for our enjoyment. Many thanks again to Wilfred.

Incidentally, methinks we weren't the only ones to benefit from the gentleman's thoughtfulness, for he still had some flowers left when he left us.

Saw some resorters walking down the streets of Tecumseh last week carrying The Herald and using it as a reference for spots to shop.

Why are pictures of grooms always excluded from wedding stories? The Saline Reporter couldn't think of a reason so they started printing pictures of grooms as well as brides. After several months, the Reporter ays "it's working wonderfully."

The map showing the way to Tecumseh from Irish Hills has come in real handy for some resorters. Several women have asked our delivery boys, "How do you get to Tecumseh? There seem to be a lot of sales down there." Fortunately, the paper boys have been able to point out the map.

Sewer Will Cost $4,089

Another major sanitary sewer line in Tecumseh will be started this fall.

It's being done at the request of property owners along S. Maumee St., from Cummings St. to Mohawk St. and along Mohawk about 250 feet.

A portion of about 400 feet runs along the Tecumseh Products Co. parking lot, and since the firm will not look into the sewer, Council has agreed that the city will stand this portion of the cost, approximately $992.

The overall project will run an estimated $4,089 and be billed to the United Products Workers Union, the Tecumseh Products Credit Union, Rumpf Truck Lines, Beach Bros., Consumers Power Co. G & J Woodworking and the New York Central Railroad.

☆

CITY MANAGER Cal Zorn explained to Council that this also might be an excellent opportunity to complete another sanitary sewer, this one along Russell Rd.

It would go from Maumee St. to S. Union St., cost $8,800 and form the last leg in a south side sewer chain.

The lift station at Russell and S. Union St., which sends sewage uphill towards the north, could then be closed.

Gravity would take ever and wastes would flow eastward along the proposed new Russell Rd. line, down Maumee and across the dump area to the disposal plant.

Money to do this would come from the $30,000 fund which has been built up for the Evans Creek interceptor line. This project will cost $160,000 and the city had hoped to get a Public Works Grant to the extent of 50%.

But so far the Federal Government hasn't budged and it appears a long wait is in the offing.

Petition for Curb and Gutter

Curb and gutter will be installed on E. Shawnee St., between N. Evans and N. Ottawa St.

No objections were voiced at Monday's public hearing on the project, held during the regular Council gathering.

A petition signed by all but two property owners along Shady Lane, between Cairns and S. Occidental Hwy., seeking curb and gutter, was accepted by the Council.

A public hearing was set for Sept. 16 to consider the Shady Lane improvement. But it can run into trouble.

City Manager Cal Zorn told the Council a storm sewer should first be installed there. However, the city's schedule is already jammed.

In the case of storm sewers, the city pays the entire cost and the Shady Lane-Murray Dr. area, although it floods badly is still down the priority list.

Top Notchers

The Tecumseh Top Notchers 4-H Club will present an achievement program Friday, Aug. 9, at 8 p.m. at the Community Center.

German Youth Visits Tecumseh

Reinhard Ziegenhagen of Wolfsburg, Germany, was a guest last week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spencer, 900 Red Mill Dr.

The 14-year-old youth from the Volkswagen city is an exchange student for a seven week period in the home of the Spencer's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Adams, of St. Louis, Mo.

Reinhard spent the week with the Adams family and their eight children, visiting places of interest including Mystery Hill and Greenfield Village.

He had one week with Bob Adams in his home in Wolfburg before coming to the United States. They will have another week together in St. Louis before his return trip home.

The purpose of the Volkswagen Youth Exchange Program is to foster better international understanding of differences in environments, customs and cultural affairs between the United States and Germany.

REINHARD ZIEGENHAGEN

☆

REINHARD is a handsome blonde, athletic looking young man who loves all sports. He is interested in journalism just like his father, and plays the piano well.

He was concerned with the hot weather here last week, saying that it is never so hot in Germany, but enjoyed the swimming it provoked.

He was a little surprised to see American girls in shorts since German girls never wear them.

When questioned about Volkswagens, he remarked that his grandfather, mother and uncle are all employed by Volkswagen and all the family drive the little cars.

Another guest at the Spencer residence was Vernon Ausherman, son of Mrs. Gertrude Ausherman, of Grosse Pointe Woods, who was visiting his grandparents.

His sister, Kathy, had been a house guest for five weeks previous to Vernon's coming.

Bulldozer To Get New Gas Engine

A gasoline engine will soon replace the diesel model on Tecumseh's bulldozer.

Cost of the new engine is estimated at $1,400 and the change is being made to avoid maintenance problems.

Council told City Manager Cal Zorn Monday that he could start the gas-for-diesel project, because the bulldozer's use is primarily stop and start, poor for a diesel, which should be kept running for long periods.

There is little difference in fuel costs, Mr. Zorn told Council, although he admited market value of the unit would be decreased about $1,200 with a gas engine. In five years this wouldn't make any difference, he claimed.

The city's bulldozer is used mainly at the dump.

A four-hour film strip in the proper care and maintenance of bulldozers will be shown for city employees by the International Co. manufacturer of the model the city owns.

Mr. Zorn was also authorized to get bids on a replacement for the city's front-end loader, one of the most-used vehicles the municipality has. This will cost about $10,000.

Award Bid on Sidewalk Resurfacing

James Fielder was awarded the downtown sidewalk construction contract by City Council Monday.

Mr. Fielder bid five cents per square foot for removal of old walks and 45c for the replacement.

Although John Smith also entered a bid that also totaled 50c per square foot, City Manager Cal Zorn recommended that Mr. Fielder be awarded the job.

All condemned sections on both sides of Chicago Blvd., from Maumee to Pearl, are to be resurfaced.

Property owners are being notified by the city and will be billed for the work. Until Mr. Fielder reaches specific sections, owners still have the right to have some other city-approved sidewalk contractor do the work if they wish.

N. Union Driveways May Get Lowering

A long-time problem on N. Union St. — driveways so steep that back ends of cars crack the pavement entering and exiting — will be tackled by the city.

Council authorized City Manager Cal Zorn to begin checking with affected property owners on the west side of the street between Seneca St. and Nokomis St., to get their opinions.

Mr. Zorn suggested to council that the city should stand the cost of lowering the sidewalk if property owners would pay for having their driveway approaches changed and lawns regraded.

He estimated that it would cost $7,400 for the city to handle its share.

Property owners would pay about 60c a square foot for their drive changes.

"I think this is the way to do it," Mayor Harold Easton stated.

City to End Curb, Gutter Expenses

A resolution was introduced at Monday's meeting of City Council which will end city participation in cost of curb and gutter projects after Dec. 30, 1964.

A similar resolution was passed three years ago, but no record can be found of it and so another has been prepared.

When the proposal becomes law, it would mean property owners will have to stand 100% of curb and gutter expenses. Until then, the city will continue to handle 40% of the expense.

Barbara Boynton and Bryan Gore Wed

MR. AND MRS. BRYAN GORE

Before an altar decorated with bouquets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and greenery, Barbara Lucille Boynton became the bride of Bryan Frank Gore.

The Rev. Ray Norton officiated at the Aug. 3 ceremony in the Clinton Methodist Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin R. Boynton, 3171 Allen Rd., wore a white peau de soie and chantilly lace gown with long tapered sleeves and chapel train.

The shoulder length, illusion veil and pearl tiarra were designed and made by the bride.

She wore a pearl necklace, gift of the groom, and carried a bouquet of white gardenia, elegance carnations and ivy.

The maid-of-honor, Nancy Hilts of Detroit, and bridesmaids, Dorothy and Mary Boynton, wore identical mint green nylon over taffeta gowns.

Their matching headdresses were fashioned of satin-covered rings and scalloped net veiling with tiny bows.

Miss Hilts carried a natural wicker ring with clusters of white Fuji mums and rosey-pink double grapes.

The bridesmaids' flowers were fashioned in wicker wedding rings with clusters of green Fuji mums and purple grapes.

☆

THE GROOM, son of Dr. and Mrs. Greenville D. Gore, of Downers Grove, Ill., selected Kurt Lockner of Ann Arbor as best man. Attendants were Al Rathbun and Joel Gautheir and ushers were Leo Mueller and Gordon Martin. All were fraternity brothers of the groom.

Following a reception at Bauer Manor, the couple spent a week traveling through the East. They will both do graduate work at the University of Michigan in the fall.

The new Mrs. Gore graduated from Tecumseh High School in 1958 and Albion College in 1962. She is working toward a masters degree in library science.

Mr. Gore is a Cornell graduate of 1961, and has a teaching fellowship in the Engineering School of the University of Michigan, leading to a doctor's degree.

'Caesar' a Study of the Ideal Man

By TOM BRIEN

One of George Bernard Shaw's theories about art was that the idea determined form and style; and that after the idea no longer held, the form and style remained as artistic husks.

"He who has something to assert will go as far in power of style as its momentousness and his conviction will carry him. Disprove his assertion after it is made, yet its style remains.

"All assertions get disproved sooner or later; and so we find the world full of a magnificent debris or artistic fossils, with the matter-of-fact credibility gone clean out of them, but the form still splendid."

☆

AND SO it was, that Mr. Shaw wrote his own epitaph.

The picture he draws of the ideal man in "Caesar and Cleopatra," appearing at the Irish Hills Playhouse, is one that is rather hard to give up, especially in exchange for the effeminate men of Edward Albee, the ineffectual men of Samuel Beckett, the corrupt, wayward men of Federico Fellini, or the one-dimensional idiots of Ayn Rand.

The essence of the great man, for Mr. Shaw, was originality. And he tried to draw his Caesar in this light. He writes:

"Originality gives a man an air of frankness, generosity, and magnanimity by enabling him to estimate the value of truth, money, or success in any particular instance quite independently of convention and moral generalization.

"He therefore will not tell a lie which everybody knows to be a lie (and consequently expects him as a matter of taste to tell).

"He understands the paradox of money, and gives it away when he can get most for it. He knows the real moment of success is not the moment apparent to the crowd.

"Having virtue, he had no need of goodness. He is neither forgiving, frank nor generous, because a man who is too great to resent has nothing to forgive; a man who says things that other people are afraid to say need not be frank; and there is no generosity in giving things you do not want to people you intend to use."

An understanding of this man will give the audience insight into Mr. Shaw's Caesar, ably portrayed in this play by Robert Jones.

It also gives the clue to what keeps [illegible] characters who are contending for his power.

Unfortunately, an overall ragged performance hindered the understanding of Caesar's character. Individually, the actors did a fine job, but cues were dropped, props didn't work, sound effects squeaked and groaned, and lighting was often poor.

In Caesar's grandiloquent opening monologue before an Egyptian Sphinx, for instance, the Sphinx answers in a girl's voice. The voice later turns out to belong to the 16-year-old Cleopatra.

But the lighting reveals Cleopatra to the audience; and when she first addresses Caesar, the audience doesn't think, as Caesar thinks, that the Sphinx is talking.

Several good lines are dropped as a result. And this sort of "bad business' kept interfering.

☆

ASIDE from this, the acting was good. Deborah Holzel, as Cleopatra, brought out both the sympathetic and unsympathetic traits of the future Cleopatra.

Donald Kint, as Caesar's general Rufio, was unexpectedly strong. Robert Nadder, as Britannus, the British secretary with modern British fastidiousness, was a good joke on the English blueblood.

Muriel Saphier, as Ftatateeta, Cleopatra's sinister maid; Vic Wexler, as Appolodorous, the dashing young Sicilian; and Cliff Frazier, as Pothinus, a man conspiring to get rid of Cleopatra; all gave good performances.

"Caesar and Cleopatra" will again appear on Aug. 9, 15, 21 and 27, and Sept. 1, at 8:30 p.m.

Watershed Application Drawn

The formal application for the Raisin River-Main Stream Project was drawn up by the Formal Application Committee July 25 at their meeting in Tecumseh.

Areas of the Raisin River-Main Stream were divided among members of the committee. Each member will try to obtain the sponsorship of the governmental units within his area.

Each member will also contact all civic clubs, conservation clubs, church groups, farm organizations, women's organizations, and veterans and fraternal organizations.

☆

COMMITTEEMAN Royal Welch, 702 River Acres Dr., was assigned the following area:

Raisin Township
Palmyra Township
Ogden Township
Blissfield Township
Blissfield Village
Deerfield Township
Deerfield Village

City Manager Cal Zorn, also a committeeman, was assigned the following area:

Tecumseh City
Tecumseh Township
Clinton Village
Clinton Township
Franklin Township.

The tentative date for filing the application has been set for Aug. 19. It is hoped that the sponsors for the application will be obtained by this date.

☆

IN THE application, five areas of improvement are recommended.

► The River Raisin needs cleaning, deepening, widening and straightening. This will control erosion of the banks.

It would also improve agricultural drainage, alleviating unhealthy and unsightly conditions. It would improve the quality of water for municipal use and community recreation.

► Several dams are needed to create reservoirs of water for purposes of flood control, increased municipal supplies, and improving fish and wildlife habitat.

► Several existing mill ponds in Tecumseh, Clinton and Manchester need to be cleaned and enlarged; first, for the improvement of health, recreation and wildlife habitat, and second, to contribute to improvements in the river downstream.

► Existing dams in Monroe, Dundee and Petersburg need improvements.

► Stored flood waters are needed in dry periods, especially to dilute waste materials in the river and insure better quality water for downstream use.

☆

COUNTY Drain Commissioner Donald Mitchell said the federal government will pay 100 per cent of the cost under Public Law No. 566, if the project is for flood control.

On related projects, it will share the costs, he said.

If the project is developed under Public Law No. 566, local officials and property owners will have a voice in how the work is carried out, Mr. Mitchell pointed out.

If the Corps of Army Engineers were to take over the project through congressional legislation, there would be little or no local discretion in how the project would be carried out, he added.

Lay Leader

Archie Schingeck, Lay Leader of the First Methodist Church of Adrian, will be the speaker at the First Methodist Church in Tecumseh at 10 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 11.

Church School is in recess until Sept. 8.

Brynn Packard Finishes Drum Major Course

Brynn Elaine Packard has returned from the Smith-Walbridge Drum Major Camp at Syracuse, Ind.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Packard, 511 S. Evans, Miss Packard studied with 296 other high school and University students from various states, including some a far away a Alabama, Texas and California.

They studied marching fundamentals, signals, commands, drill, field charting, precision routines and band pageantry.

Brynn was a member of the Very Important People's Band, which took first place in competition there.

She was presented a certificate of merit for satisfactorily completing the course of instruction.

Civil War Film Shown at Drive-In

"Red Runs The River," a Civil War production of "Unusual Films," will be shown at Devils Lake Drive-In Friday, Aug. 9, at 8:30 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 10, at 8:30 p.m., and Sunday, Aug. 11, at 9:15 p.m.

Although the principal characters are conferedates — common soldiers and generals — "Red Runs The River" is not a story of the South. Its theme is larger than sectionalism and broader than the boundaries of nations.

It is a story of courage, of conviction, of sacrifice.

This film is authentic in every detail and was two years in the making.

Teacher Challenged

Paul Marks, teacher of vocational agriculture at Britton-Macon was challenged "to make right and correct decisions for adaptations and improvements in the program of agricultural education."

This challenge was made by Harry E. Nesman, chief of agricultural education for the State Department of Public Instruction, at the 44th annual Conference for teachers of Vocational Agriculture July 23-25 at Michigan State University.

"To aid us in deciding on the future steps for the improvement of agricultural education" Mr. Nesman said, "we must first know the current facts about agriculture and agricultural education, and then try to understand and interpret wisely the current changes in the economic and social conditions in rural communities.

"We should also update the course of instruction in agriculture, so that it is based on objectives and goals for agricultural education to serve current needs."

Other conference highlights included the presentation of awards to those teachers with 5, 10, 20 and 30 years of service, general sessions, workshops, discussion groups and regional and district FFA meetings.

More than 200 teachers and school administrators participated in the week-long meeting at MSU's Kellogg Center for Continuing Education.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Most people in public office welcome the chance to make a speech. But out in Fresno, California, they are having a difficult time getting anyone to accept this honor.

The Mayor asked to be excused, simply says he honestly does not think he could do it. The Chairman of Supervisors he could welcome the group by absentia. The chairman of the convention said it was not an unusual situation, they had run into this sort of trouble before.

The annual meeting of the Western Subbathing association has never been honored by Civic leaders. Clothes may not be important but hardly anyone wants to greet a group of people who prefer to go without them!

And of course this brings us right back to Clinton Woolen where we feel that wearing apparel is of utmost importance. You will, too, especially when you see the new fall things which are coming in every day.

Because they are so wearable and packable, every manufacturer has knitted garments in the fall line. Alice Kaye has taken double knit skirts and shells, topped with a semi bulky cardigan and turned out a most stunning outfit. Of course the Cortina line is again a fabulous combination of style and quality.

A cotton knit coordinate group in red and black is just the item for play and casual wear from now to cold weather. Quite inexpensive, too.

There is just no end to the various coordinated groups this fall. It is possible to build an entire fall and winter casual wardrobe from just a couple of the groups.

Come on over and take a look. We are here to serve you so if you have a problem sing out and we will try to help you.

The Young Adult group will have a picnic supper on Saturday, Aug. 10, at 6:30. Mr. and Mrs. Dean Moore will be the hosts.

Mrs. Margaret Butterfield and Mrs. Augusta Boswick of Detroit, returned to their home on Wednesday after spending three weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hintz.

The Junior Young Fellowship will have a meeting on Saturday morning, Aug. 17 at the church.

Things are to be brought to the church for the Rummage Sale, sponsored by the Woman's Society of Christian Service. They are to have the size and price marked on them. The sale will be in Tecumseh on Friday and Saturday, Aug. 16 and 17.

Those reported on the sick list were Mrs. Richard Robison, in the Bixby Hospital. She underwent eye surgery on Thursday and Monday.

Sern Beck in Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Miss Myrna Bugbee in the Jackson Osteopathic Hospital.

Edmund Mueller in the Veterans Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The members of the Usher's Club are busy collecting furniture, appliances, machinery, and other items for the Auction to be held in the church yard Saturday, Aug. 31. If you have anything you wish to donate or sell, call Edward Zick, 32951, or any member of the club.

Miss Sylvia Williams returned home from Camp Judson Collins, after spending two weeks as a counselor.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Burleson entertained at a dinner Sunday in honor of their son Leroy, who left Tuesday for Armed Forces. Among the guests were his grandmother, Mrs. Dil Burleson, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Heilman, Mr. and Mrs. Lilburn Burleson, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Burleson of Tecumseh.

The Official Church Board will meet at the Church, Tuesday, Aug. 13, at 8:00.

The Moore-Preston Reunion wes held Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton F. Moore Jr. Forty-two members and visitors enjoyed a chicken and meat loaf dinner.

Mr. Moore, the president, conducted the meeting. Mrs. Ruth Rappel of Blissfield read the minutes and the historian report. There were two deaths and five births.

Mr. Moore was re-elected as president, Mrs. Fred Rouguet of Blissfield as Vice-President, Mrs. Ruth Rappel Secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Floyd Barrett and Mrs. Iva Caswell are to have the entertainment.

Mrs. Floyd Barrett and Mrs. Bert Moore gave an interesting review of a newspaper. Mrs. Melburn Preston read "The Farmer Feeds Them All". Bert Moore read Harvest Time.

Guests were present from Detroit, Milan, Blissfield, Clinton, Tecumseh, Britton, New Jersey, and Mr. and Mrs. George Randell and family of South Africa.

They are missionaries and will leave Wednesday for a few days visit in New Jersey. They will return to Africa about the last of August.

Twenty-one members and visitors of the Woman's Society of Christian Service motored to the Chelsea Methodist Home last Thursday for a lovely picnic dinner. Mrs. Wilma Briggs, a member of the Home and formerly of Macon, was the host.

Miss Lulu Gilmore and Mrs. Exelby formerly of Ridgeway, and now members of the home, and Mrs. Bernard Merritt of Milan were guests. Following the dinner several were taken on a tour of the home and the new hospital.

Sharon Lawhead, Floyd Avery Wed

Four cathedral candelabra with lighted tapers softened the setting at the Ridgeway Church of the Nazarene Aug. 3 for the wedding of Sharon Hope Lawhead and Floyd Darwin Avery.

MRS. FLOYD D. AVERY

Pink and white chrysanthemums and pink satin bows and green palms were also used to enhance the chancel.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russell Lawhead, 515 East Russell Rd., and William Loren Avery, 8605 Smith Rd.

The Rev. Wade Roberts assisted by the Rev. Clayton Bearinger of Lapeer performed the ceremony before 275 guests.

☆

GIVEN in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie with inserts and applique of Alencon lace.

The dropped waistline ended in a large butterfly bow in the back and the skirt swept into a chapel train.

A crown of Alencon lace trimmed with seed pearls and iridescent sequins held her fingertip veil of imported English silk illusion in place.

She wore a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom, and carried a cascade of white Elegance carnations centered with dusty pink roses and edged with ivy.

☆

JANET LAWHEAD was her sister's maid of honor in a floor length gown of white summer taffeta with scooped neckline and bell skirt.

She wore a white pill box hat with rose veil and carried a semi-crescent bouquet of pink carnations and rosebuds.

Mrs. Merle Baker, sister of the bride, Mrs. Elden Lawhead, sister-in-law of the bride, and Carol Hamann were the bridesmaids, all dressed in white attire as the maid of honor. They carried semi-crescents of crystal pompons and pink carnations.

Dennis Avery was his brother's best man and the guests were seated by Elden Lawhead, brother of the bride, Donald Smith and Ronald Hathaway.

Faith Ellen Lawhead was the flower girl and Bradley Eugene Baker was the ringbearer.

☆

PRECEDING the ceremony the tapers in the cathedral candelabra were lighted by Masters Gary and Gail Spohr.

A reception was held at the Britton High School with Foster Hardesty and Mrs. Paul Hawley as hosts and Mrs. Donald Smith registering the guests.

Others assisting were Mrs. Myrle Lawhead, Mrs. William Bearinger, Mrs. Ralph Lawhead, Sandra Hathaway, Crystal Hawley, Mrs. Gail Hall, Mrs. Donald Baker, Mrs. Duncan Myers, Estelle Lukonshig, Martha, Margaret and Mary Willitt, Carolyn Vaughn and Beth Dreher.

Pink taffeta and net enhanced the cake table centered with a tiered cake made by Mrs. Veril Lidster and Mrs. Elden Lawhead.

☆

THE BRIDE, a 1960 graduate of Tecumseh High School, has been employed as a dental assistant.

The groom graduated from Britton High School in 1958, attended Michigan State University and has served three years with the army in Fort Bragg, N. Carolina.

After an extended trip to northern Michigan, the couple will make their home in Tecumseh.

A rehearsal dinner for 40 was served at the home of the groom's parents.

Glee Club Ends Tour

By RALPH HELZERMAN

(Editor's Note: Ralph Helzerman, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. F. Helzerman, 612 W. Chicago Blvd., recently returned from an European tour with the University of Michigan Glee Club. Highlight of the tour was the Eistedfod Music Festival, held in Langollen, Wales, where the club took top honors.)

Langollen is a small Welsh hamlet which lies in the middle of a very active coal district fifty miles south of Liverpool.

Usually this little town of 3,000 inhabitants goes about its way depending solely on agriculture for its livelihood.

But when the second week of July rolls around, Langollen is transformed into a beehive of activity.

During the week of the International Music Eistedfod, decorations are hung from every rooftop and all of the townspeople dress up in their native costumes to welcome the more than 200,000 people who have come to hear the competitions.

For the Welsh people, this choral competition is revered much the same as our World Series is in the USA, but despite all its interest in music, Wales has never yet produced a male choir capable of winning the Eistedfod since its creation 17 years ago.

☆

WE ARRIVED there on a damp and very overcast day, which we found out was typical of this area, and were quickly rushed off to our hosts' homes a few miles away in a little coal mining town called Rhostofland.

Most of them were in some way connected with the coal fields, and we found them to be some of the most congenial and hospitable people we had met on tour.

They were quite anxious to learn more about our modern electric conveniences and spoke with wonderment, but not jealousy of our high standard of living.

I'll have to admit that their style of living did seem a bit peculiar to us.

For although they had only two telephones in a village of 3,000, used soft coal in their kitchen stoves and had no cars as they had no desire to go to "far off" Liverpool, everybody had the latest model TV set, on which they watched many American programs broadcasted by the BBC.

It still seems a bit incongruous!

☆

WE RESTED at our hosts' homes for two days and got our voices rested for the competitions before going back to the Eistedfod grounds on Saturday to compete.

These grounds are located in a picturesque little river valley and cover no more than ten or twelve acres.

The focal point of the area is, of course, the competition tent, which during the peak of the competition has an incredible seating capacity of 11,000 people.

Strategically located at the extremeties of the tent and at intervals throughout the entire Eistedfod area are TV monitors to allow the 20,000 people which the tent would not accommodate to see the competing groups.

☆

THE EISTEDFOD was established for one purpose, to bring people of all nationalities together and to unite them with a common bond, music. And the festival certainly accomplished this goal.

The male choir competitions consisted of three songs each of which was to be sung only once. And from this one performance, the seven judges would give an adjudication of the choir and give it a numerical score.

These judges, by the way, were choral authorities from all over the world, one of them from as far away as Hong Kong, China.

Each song had a maximum possible score of 100 points, giving a total possible performance score for the three songs of 300 points.

All male choirs competing were required to do two numbers selected by the Eistedfod governors.

☆

THE FIRST song was a 15th century classical composition by Palestrina, entitled "Pueri Hebraeorum", a song of praise unto God.

Second number, "Sana Sana" was a very lively Hungarian folk dance, which could be sung in English, Welsh, or Hungarian, the latter of which we elected to do.

And finally the third song could be any number of the director's choice, the only stipulation being that the selection had to be an original composition by the composer of the glee club's native country.

Dr. Phillip Duey selected "Whitman" which is the second part of a three selection series by Paul Creston called "The Celestial Vision".

The selection actually is no more than the words of the poem "Song of Myself" by Walt Whitman put to music written by Creston. It is a truly beautiful song.

Of the nineteen groups competing we were the last to perform.

Those groups preceding us were from a variety of origin ranging from Denmark, Norway, Great Britain, Ireland, Germany, Spain and Yugoslavia, to the other side of the Atlantic where groups came from both the USA and Canada.

☆

TO SING before 30,000 people and to compete against such wonderful talent was indeed an exciting windup to a trip that had taken us through a wide variety of pleasant memories in foreign countries and strange customs.

When the adjudication was completed we had once again won the competition, as we had before in 1959 behind one of the finest directors in the United States, Dr. Duey.

The University of Michigan Glee Club scored 90-90-90 for our three numbers giving us a total of 270.

Colne Valley, England, was given 89-90-86 for 265 and second place.

Third place went to Yale University, also from the USA, with 87-92-84 for 263.

We received also a $280 prize which will go into a scholarship fund for the Glee Club, also a large bronze plaque on solid oak.

There's a Welsh inscription on it which reads "Blessed is a world that sings. Gentle are its songs." We feel very proud to have earned it for Dr. Duey.

Manor Concentrates on Early American

Built in 1839-40, as a stage coach stop on the old post road between Detroit and Chicago, the Bauer Manor today still retains much of its early American flavor.

The rooms on the second floor have been kept in their original quaint style to preserve the tradition that enhances the Manor.

Many antiques ornament the dining area and the hotel rooms.

One of their displays in the main dining room is an old sideboard that was purchased many years ago. Recently, a woman tried to reclaim the sideboard for the $50 she claims her mother received in selling it to a former owner.

An antique dealer appraising the sideboard said: "Before you sell it to anyone else, I'll give you $2,000 for it."

☆

OTHER ANTIQUES include an old hand organ on the second floor and a Steinway square piano made in 1859. These square pianos have been out of production since 1888.

During the horse-and-buggy era, the Bauer Manor was called the Lancaster Hotel. It then had a dance hall on the second floor.

Recently, a 90-year-old man visited the Manor and told how he used to travel all the way from Manchester to dance. He then stayed overnight because Manchester was too far away to make the journey back that same night with a horse and buggy.

The new owners, Dorn Brinker, his wife Kay and their son Kent, hope to capitalize on the early American atmosphere and may possibly make it a year around restaurant.

Mr. Brinker came to Michigan for his first business venture in March of this year. He previously operated the Shaw-Barton Lodge in Coshocton, O., which featured luxury dining.

His wife, who will head the kitchen corps, has been a professional dietician for several years.

She also plans to entertain during the dining hour on the piano. Mrs. Brinker appeared in a number of Ohio supper clubs.

While this is his first business effort in Michigan, Mr. Brinker is no newcomer to the State.

He has spent many seasons hunting in the area. He hunts deer with a bow and arrow, getting eight kills in the past nine seasons.

THE BAUER MANOR offers sophisticated dining along with country-type foods.

Their home-made pastries and small loaves of crusty bread are offered along with their steaks, lobster tails, lamb chops and other favorite dishes.

On Sundays, they offer Chicken Supreme, baked in a wine sauce.

They also cater to wedding breakfasts, receptions and dining parties.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

The 1963 National Governors' Conference is now history. Of course, this was the first Governors' Conference for me, and my reactions in general are favorable.

First of all, the conference gave me the opportunity to meet the other Governors of this country and to visit with them about mutual problems and methods used by others to meet these problems.

One of the major accomplishments of the Conference, it seems to me, was adoption of a Conference position favoring automatic judicial review of federal administrative decisions. The conference adopted our suggestion that a committee of Governors actively seek changes in law to permit this.

Many Governors have had experiences similar to Michigan's with our ADC-U law, where federal administrators take it upon themselves to tell a state what it can or cannot do. The problem, such as we face now, is how to get the legal parts of the question settled, because we cannot start a court suit against the federal government unless the government permits it.

With the law change we proposed, Michigan or any other state could take such a controversy into court immediately and get it settled.

☆

WE ALSO received unanimous backing of the nation's Governors for Michigan's bid to be the site for the 1968 Olympic Games. Gov. Brown of California, who originally had opposed Michigan's bid, joined me in sponsoring the resolution backing the Detroit designation for 1968.

We rounded up signatures of 47 Governors on our resolution, and those we didn't get either weren't there or we couldn't locate them at the right time.

This unanimous expression will be meaningful backing for Michigan when the International Olympic Committee makes its decision in Nairobi in October.

Another important happening at the Conference was the entire discussion on civil rights.

Although the Conference did not take an official position on civil rights, it did authorize its Executive Committee to be active in this area in the coming year and assured that civil rights will receive top priority at the 1964 Conference.

The discussion also afforded me the chance to point out Michigan's advanced public attitude on human rights and equality.

I told the Conference about our new Civil Rights Commission, approved by the people in our new Constitution. Our record and our programs put Michigan in a position far superior to that enjoyed by any other state.

Of perhaps the greatest long-range significance, however, was the clear expression of concern by the Governors about the encroachment of the federal government in matters that are clearly state and local government functions or individual responsibilities.

The present administration in Washington sought to get the Conference [illegible] course flatly its welfare and health programs now before Congress. Working along with Gov. Hatfield of Oregon and others, we managed to sidetrack this endorsement.

The vote (25-16) clearly indicated to me that Governors of both parties share my concern about the erosion of state and local responsibility in dealing with citizen problems.

Certainly there are some Governors who believe that the states are in the position of going hat in hand down to Washington, standing around outside some bureaucrat's door, and waiting to see how much help and advice and money we can get from the federal government.

But I personally believe we must be concerned instead with what the states can do to strengthen themselves and to help their own citizens.

And I think the action of the Conference indicates that a majority of Governors feel the same way.

All in all, my first Governors' Conference was an enlightening and a rewarding experience.

Will Extend M-52 North to Freeway

LANSING — State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie announced today that highway M-52 will be extended from the point where it now ends at Millville in southeastern Ingham County north to I-96 near Webberville.

The extension will occur in 1967 following completion of a project to modernize Stockbridge Rd., now a county road, between Millville and I-96.

M-52 starts at the Michigan-Ohio state line near Lyons, O., and passes through Lenawee and Washtenaw counties and extends six miles into Ingham County.

Mackie said the extension from Millville to I-96 will be the eighth north-south state highway extending from the Ohio and Indiana borders to I-94 and I-96, the state's two east-west freeways.

The other connectors include US-23, US-127, M-99, M-78, US-131 and US-31.

School Pals Build Fort

Peter Babcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Babcock, S. Adrian St., entertained his nursery school friends Wednesday afternoon for tea.

A fort made from lumber from old St. Peter's Church by the children, Mrs. Babcock and a neighbor, was christened.

Games and stories were also enjoyed by the little folk.

Gloria Calhoun Finds Full Life in Tecumseh

by TOM BRIEN

A "faith in God's purpose" and a willingness to barge ahead on her own has brought Mrs. Leslie Calhoun, 5403 Rogers Hwy., from Mexico City to Tecumseh where she has created a rich life for herself.

Leaving Mexico in 1946 to marry, Mrs. Calhoun was a delicate Latin American flower of 21.

"A woman in Mexico is supposed to be handled like the petal of a rose," she laughed. "And when I got here I painted walls, climbed stepladders, drove a tractor and milked the cows."

☆

"AT FIRST it was a matter of determination," she smiled. "Now I like the work."

She met Leslie Calhoun who was an aviation instructor in the Air Force stationed in Laredo, Texas. Her father was chief of customs on the Mexican border.

They came back to live on one of the Calhoun's three farms. They have one son, Chuck, 15, and one daughter, Sandy, 14.

"Everyone in Tecumseh is so kind," she continued. "When I first came there was nothing in my past experience to compare my new life to. It frightens me more now than it did then."

Yet, 17 years later, if Mrs. Calhoun worries about taking on too much, she doesn't show it.

She will get her bachelor of arts from Siena Heights College next spring, after maintaining a straight A average. She also did all-A work at Adrian College in 1961-62.

But that's only part of it.

Mrs. Calhoun has been teaching full time at Siena. In her "spare" time, she taught Spanish in the Tecumseh High School adult education course.

Moreover, she has been working on two books. One is called "The Golden Age of Spain," a text and tra[illegible]. The other will be a grade-school Spanish text with 12 lessons.

"The Golden Age of Spain" outlines the course work in a rather unique way.

The unit revolves around a philosophical play called "Life Is Nothing But a Dream." The text also gives the historical, political and economic background needed to understand fully the play.

The text now being recorded on tape, should be completed by October. Then she and the two other students working on the unit, will take it to the University of Michigan Press for the publishers to look at.

If they accept the work, it will probably be the first time literature will be studied in the language lab, she said. Language labs have been used for grammar, vocabulary, and pronunciation, but rarely for literature.

☆

HER LOVE of writing seriously challenges her love of teaching.

"Oh, I would just love to stop everything and start writing," she says a little wistfully.

She has written articles for The Herald, Mrs. Calhoun relates, and those pieces got her into Lamda Iota Thau at Siena Heights, an international honor literary society.

Still, teaching for Mrs. Calhoun has been a happy experience.

"This year I taught all kinds of people—workers, engineers, doctors, policemen, children, salesmen, housewives — people of all colors and denominations.

"I call this past year my Ecumenical Year," she laughed.

"This summer has been my first experience with children," she continued, "it was wonderful."

"I find all age groups easy to teach," she said, noting that the ages this year varies from about seven to over 70.

☆

HER PUPILS seem to enjoy her teaching as much as she does.

This summer she started with the intention of teaching about 15 students and ended by taking 40. In the adult classes, some people have waited for three years to get enrolled.

The biggest reason why the demand for a foreign language is so great is that Tecumseh is a cultural community, she explained.

And undoubtedly, Tecumseh's cultural stature has been boosted by Mrs. Calhoun herself.

She expects to continue the teaching she is presently doing, and Tecumseh seems better off because of her energy.

OOOH, THAT TICKLES — And Mrs. Leslie Calhoun is tickled now to remember the problems she faced when coming to Tecumseh from Mexico just after the war.

Fires Can Be Prevented

DEFT SAVE LIVES

Nearly every farm fire could be prevented, says the National Safety Council, and periodic inspections would remove most hazards.

Well aware of this situation are the state's 4-H Club members who try to use safety measures year-round in their homes, on the highways on the farm and wherever their daily tasks take them.

Nearly one in 10 of the 8,700 farm residents killed in accidents in 1961 died in fires. Right now 4-H safety project members are working to prevent fires.

They give these warnings: If a fire starts, be calm. Stop, think, then act. Get everyone out of the fire area, then turn in fire alarm. NEVER go back into a burning building to save belongings.

☆

SO THAT these steps can be quickly taken they suggest: Know where and how to turn in an alarm; know the fire department phone number; have a plan of escape from the home and outbuildings; keep fire extinguisher within easy reach.

Participation in the national 4-H safety program permits 4-H'ers to make safety checks on their own or as a group. They aid the community in hazard hunts, saftey drives, clean-up campaigns and highway safety education.

A long-time slogan of 4-H is: Make Safety Your No. 1 Crop. This year some 800,000 members throughout the nation are reaping a "Safety" harvest because they are engaged in safety work.

Outstanding 4-H safety records will be recognized for the 19th year by General Motors, the program sponsor, in cooperation with the Extension Service.

The top state winner for 1963 will attend the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, all expenses paid. National 4-H safety scholarships of $500 each will be presented to eight members selected from state winners. These will be announced during the first week of December.

Devils Lake Golf Course Built in '30

The Devils Lake Golf Course, one of the finest public courses in the area, was built in 1930 with nine holes covering 3200 yards.

Par for the course is 36 with several holes adding much interest for both new and high handicap golfers.

Ed and Milt Waldman purchased Devils Lake Golf Course, located on US-223 at the north end of the lake, in 1946.

Now in the 18th season, the owners operate the course themselves. Ed is golf pro assisted by Jim Massey.

Electric carts are available for rental and clubs, balls and other golf merchandise may be purchased.

☆

WEE TEE Miniature Golf Courses owned by the Waldmans are located next to the Devils Lake Course, on US-12 across from the entrance to Hayes State Park and another in the Wee Tee Amusement Park in Toledo, also owned by the Waldman Co.

Each course covers approximately an acre of ground and playing time at each is about an hour.

Ed Waldman said Monday that the Amusement Park in Toledo is only a half hour ride from Tecumseh due to the US-23 expressway.

It has a large Kiddieland with 12 exciting rides as well as adult rides including Dodgem Bumper cars, the new Giant Ferris Wheel, thrilling new Flying Cages, Tilt-A-Whirl and the Haunted Castle Dark Ride.

Meteors to Shower Night Skies

ANN ARBOR — In August a stargazer's eyes turn to shooting stars.

The meteors, most of them no larger than the head of a pin, will be darting across the August night skies at a higher rate than at any other time of the year, says University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

They will reach their peak in the early morning hours of Aug. 12 when as many as one per minute may be detected.

A flashing meteor enters the earth's atmosphere around 40 miles per second, Professor Losh explains. Meteors, mostly pieces of iron and stone, become visible only when they plunge into the earth's atmosphere, and the resulting friction sets them burning. Most meteors never reach the earth.

"The best time to look for shooting stars is after midnight when we are on the forward side of the earth in its revolution and are exposed to the incoming meteors."

The University of Michigan law library has the largest collection on law west of the Alleghenies and is one of the foremost in the world.

GASP

Respiratory disease is the greatest cause of absenteeism in industry in the nation and is costing U. S. business about five billion dollars each year, Health magazine, published by the state's Christmas Seal organization, reports.

In 1960, a firm with 32,210 employes operating in every state of the nation showed that respiratory disease caused 59.89 per cent of the total cases of work absence and 31.51 per cent of the total days lost.

Among the diseases besides tuberculosis cited by Dr. Newquist as contributing to this work loss were the common cold, influenza, pneumonia, asthma, emphysema, and lung cancer.

ON THE RISE

Michigan's economic indicators should continue higher than the national average during the second half of 1963, Dr. Paul A. Herbert, research chief of the Michigan Department of Economic Expansion, said today.

"On the basis of personal income, Michigan showed an increase of eight per cent, nearly double the national average of 4.8 per cent," Dr. Herbert said.

"Personal income in Michigan for the first four months of this year was $7 billion as compared to $6.5 billion for the first four months of 1962, raising Michigan's ranking in this category from sixth to fifth, nationally."

"Of Michigan's major eight employment centers, three achieved a more favorable unemployment classification during the first half of this year. No other state showed such progress."

Bays Offer Beaches, Woods

Whether seen through the glow of a campfire, from a boat drifting down a swift and winding river, or from along its thousands of miles of good roads, the Bays, or northwestern area of Michigan, is one of the musts of any vacation.

Mellowed through a hundred million years, this wedge-shaped area is bordered on the south west by M-115, on the east by I-75 and on the north by the beautiful waters of Lake Michigan.

Within it lie hundreds of cool blue lakes, endless miles of sand beaches, nostalgic trails through seemingly unexplored woodlands and over all, a feeling of freedom from the cares of the day.

Northwestern Michigan begins where M-115 and I-75 converge at Clare. It is here that a traveler first gets the true feel of the north.

Approximately half of the area is encompassed in state forests, and hundreds of lakes can be seen for almost every highway and byway. Springfed streams cross and recross the roads at frequent intervals.

☆

HEADING NORTH off M-115 are some of the state's most traveled byways, points out Jerry E. Fisher, Automobile Club of Michigan touring manager. The first of these is M-66, about 20 miles northwest of Clare. It cuts a line to the northern end of Grand Traverse Bay, terminating in Charlevoix.

North of McBain, M-66 skirts Lake Missaukee, the first of the large northern lakes, and winds northward through the plains area to Kalkaska. Now famous for its National Trout Festival each spring, Kalkaska was a lumbering town which refused to die.

Kalkaska also can be reached on M-72 running west from Grayling. This road courses through the northern confines of the Michigan National Guard military reservation.

During summer training dates, guard units from Michigan, Indiana and Ohio bring out special traffic controls to assist in the smooth movement of troops and help visitors see a part of our national defense in operation.

About 20 miles west of M-66, another smooth ribbon of pavement, US131, cuts into the lumbering country.

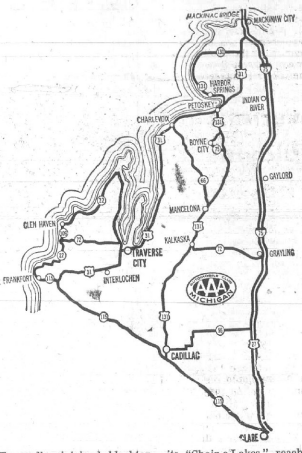
From Cadillac the vacation city on two lakes (Mitchell and Cadillac), US-131 leads to a pleasant tryst with sunshine, solitude and relaxation. Cadillac, named for the founder of Detroit, is a resort of year-round appeal, said Fisher.

US131 also goes to Kalkaska, where it joins briefly with M-66 and then goes on north to Petoskey and along the picturesque shores of Lake Michigan to Mackinac City.

A third road northward through the area is M-37. It intersects M-115 at Mesick. Recently improved, M-37 leads to Traverse City, the cherry capital of the world, on through the length of the Old Mission Peninsula to Old Mission State Park and the ancient lighthouse which once guided sailing craft around the reef-bedeviled point.

☆

PERHAPS the most picturesque and enchanting of the north-south highways is M-22 from the village of Frankfort on Lake Michigan. Here at the busy terminal of the Ann Arbor Railroad car ferries a trip to be remembered can begin.



The well-maintained blacktop road winds north over dune-based hills, skirts lakes of moody, blue water, passes Suger Loaf Mountain, cuts through the heart of the quaint fishing village of Leland, and rolls on to Northport. Here it turns sharply south and terminates in Traverse City.

In the Leelanau County area, there is an aura of antiquity which seems to reflect itself in the very earth, in the ancient water marks of the beach of Lake Michigan, in the friendliness of the people.

All these northerly-coursed highways are merely gateways to exploration and unforgettable vacation time. From each of them lead other good roads offering hidden lakes, spring-fed streams and glimpse of wildlife, Fisher said.

State parks, campsites, roadside picnic areas and private camping grounds are in abundance in the area. Public beaches are plentiful, and bathing facilities are generally good and easy to find.

While the major highways lead to adventure and fun, it is along the hundreds of lesser-known byways that one sees a new Michigan and a deep appreciation for this rustic and friendly land, Fisher pointed out.

The famous Sleeping Bear Dunes area in Leelanau County is one of the true wonders of the world.

From atop this giant dune one can view Glen Lake, one of the most beautiful in the world. From the same vantage point can be seen the moody water of Lake Michigan with the Manitou Islands in the background. Lake Leelanau, running north and south in a division of the county, is 18 miles long.

Old Mission Peninsula in Grand Traverse County is reached on M-37. The highway, cutting the peninsula on its center ridge, passes through the world's most densely planted cherry orchards.

A recent survey shows the plantings to have reached as many as 20,000 trees a square mile. A "Blessing of the Blossoms," held annually when the trees are in full bloom, has become a visitors' favorite.

Antrim County is famous for its "Chain-o-Lakes," reached on US-31. Here cruises are provided to take guests on a tour of a truly wilderness country.

Torch Lake in Antrim County is one of the most colorful in the nation. The water ranges in color, depending on weather conditions, from a sparkling azure to a blue-black.

☆

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, with its 35 lakes and scores of streams, is a fishermen's midway. Even Geneserath Lake on Beaver Island is a favorite spot for anglers. The ferry to the island leaves from the outlet of Lake Charlevoix.

A picturesque car ferry runs across the slim south arm of Lake Charlevoix at Ironton, connecting M-66 and M-32 is operated by the county highway commission, the ferry's capacity is for automobiles. The charge is 25 cents for each car, including occupants.

Boyne City, another lumbering community that refused to become a ghost, is at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix.

North from Charlevoix, US-31 terminates at Mackinaw City.

Reconstructed Fort Michilimackinac, within the city limits, has been pronounced one of the most important contributions to Michigan history. The fort has been restored, rampart to barracks and transports a visitor, in his mind's eye, to an almost forgotten era.

To see northwestern Michigan in its true light and to secure from a visit the last jota of pleasure, one must forget routine. Motels, hotels, camp sites all contribute to the leisurely tour.

Beginning at Clare, making the circle tour should be a pleasant week's vacation. Motorists can drive north on I-75 through Gaylord and Grayling to Mackinaw City and then back over the shore road to Frankfort and M-115 or they can reverse the trip, said Fisher.

Along the way there are countless shorter trips, each offering something new. A trip around the Little Finger area on M-22 should require at least two days to take advantage of the scenic beauty and enjoy swimming in the surf of Lake Michigan, climbing the mighty Sleeping Bear or lolling in the sun a bit on the way.

To include the Old Mission Peninsula tour on the agenda, add another day and see the miles of cherry orchards, perhaps dressed in bridal bloom or crowned with the red of the harvest.

☆

A side trip taken by thousands of guests to northwestern Michigan is to Interlochen and the National Music Camp and National Arts Academy. Here the virgin pines resound with the music of talented youth.

Interlochen is one mile south of US-31 and 13 miles southwest of Traverse City. Camping facilities are available at Interlochen State Park, and accomodations are available at the National Music Camp.

☆

A REALLY fascinating trip in the northwestern Michigan area is one that is entirely inland. Leaving I-75 at Indian River, follow M-68 and US-31 to the junction of US-131, then turn south on this fine highway for a drive through miles of rolling hills and among bluewater lakes.

Just south of the intersection of M-32 is one of the scenic spots of the state—Dead Man's Hill and the Jordan Valley. Farther south is Mancelona. This village, too, was a pioneer lumbering town and, with its twin city of Antrim, was a leading smelting town at the turn of the century.

One item the visitor always seeks is the Petoskey stone to take home as a souvenir or to make costume jewelry. The stones, fossilized colony coral from the Devonian period, are easy to work with a nail file or a piece of sandpaper and are becoming popular wherever rockhounds meet.

Petoskey stones are found in an area beginning a few miles north of Manistee and north to Mackinaw City. They are picked up on the beaches, in gravel pits, even along the highways.

Besides these ancient stones, a student of minerals will find scores of fossils in the northwestern Michigan area. It is an ancient land, but it grows more beautiful with its years.

A SPECIAL plea for more repairable clothing, shoes, furniture, appliances and other household articles was made by Claude W. Whitehead, Executive Director.

"With nearly a fifty percent increase in our employment we need a greater supply of materials to keep these people regularly employed.

Statistics show that it takes a bag of clothing per employee per day to keep the plant operating.

Each town in both Lenawee and Monroe Counties has a local representative.

In Tecumseh, Miss Sandra Burkhead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oram Burkhead, receives the pickup order. Sandra is paid for each truck pickup call made.

Government Employment on Upswing

EAST LANSNG—Government employment in Michigan has increased by two-fifths in the past 10 years, says Dr. Daniel H. Kruger, professor of labor and indgstrial relations at Michigan State University.

Writing in the current issue of the "Michigan Economic Record," Dr. Kruger says that in 1952 there were 244,526 public employees in Michigan. By 1962 there were 352,412 — 46,587 federal, 72,970 state and 232,855 local government employees.

"During the period 1952-1962," says Dr. Kruger, "total public employment in the United States increased more than 30 per cent and in Michigan more than 65 per cent.

Federal employment increased four per cent in the United States and eight per cent in Michigan. Employment in all state governments rose 55 per cent and nearly 90 per cent in Michigan."

Growth in education, state hospitals and highways account for over half of Michigan's growth in state public employment, Dr. Kruger points out.

"Local government employment in the United States," he stys, "increased three fifths as compared with two-fifths for Michigan. Public education accounts for a significent proportion of this increase.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

To begin this second and final session about the birds we enjoyed on our Colorado vacation, let's mention two we saw in surprisingly large numbers.

Both going out and coming home we were amazed at the Kingbirds and the Orioles. The brilliant orange and black beauties enlivened almost every picnic area which boasted a clump of trees.

Since both the Baltimore and Bullock orioles inhabit this area I assume we saw both kinds.

The nine-inch-long Kingbirds with the distinctive white band at the end of their tails are fence post sitters. It's fun to watch them dart from post to post catching "lunch on the wing".

Once in the state of the high mountains, we were overjoyed with the bird-life, the abundance and variety of it. Swallows were everywhere.

The high walls of Bear Creek Canyon were teeming with the nesting birds, so many birds and so many crooks and crannies — it was hard to see how anyone could find his way home.

☆

THE SWALLOWS in downtown Estes Park lived a dangerousl life. They flitted in and out of traffic. I don't see why they didn't create a terrific hazard.

At the lovely Estes Lake Motel there lived a more sedate branch of the family. They contented themselves by entertaining the guests with their graceful aerial acrobatics over the lake. How low they could skim across the water without getting wet feet!

At this same motel, we had our best looks at the always-pretty bluebirds. Quite frequently, while twisting and turning along the mountain roads, we would catch a brief glimpse of blue, but it was always over too quickly, a mere flash of color.

Bluebirds are favorites and no matter where we see them, or what kind they are, we consider the day a good one if it brings a bluebird sighting.

WE HAD NOT driven long on the Trail Ridge Rd. when we encountered our first Clark's Nutcracker — wow! Quite a bird! It was at the Fairview Curve Scenic Overlook and we were just preparing to admire the view, which was indeed far, when this big bird flapped into a pine tree.

All of 13 inches long (that is the birdbook length, but he certainly seemed much larger to us) gray in color with black and white markings and a noticably big bill.

We were so excited.

We were also thoroughly disgusted. People started pouring out of the car next to us and running towards the bird, trying to coax him to take peanuts or popcorn from their outstretched hands.

Such stupidity, will people never learn to enjoy without disturbing? The bird was apparently used to people, he probably panhandled a nice living at this spot, but all of the yelling at and running towards was just too much.

He flew away and somehow the far look down into the valley, where the tiny meander which becomes the mighty Colorado River was barely visible, didn't seem quite so exciting anymore.

☆

THE NEXT day we felt a little kinder toward our fellow-tourists when we had another look at a nut-cracker and none interferred. It was at Bear Lake, still in the Rocky Mountain National Park — and by the way, what a lovely gem of a lake.

It is tucked high up in the mountains and surrounded by tall, towering rugged peaks. The books are right when they say that nutcrackers like high altitudes.

This was a good bird spot, we saw some "free-loading" jays here, too. The Rocky Mountain jay, first cousin to the Canadian jay or whisky-jack, is a grayish bird with a white head. The Stellar jay was noticeable because of his top-knot. Both were far cries from their handsome relative — our bluejays.

So it is that we end the recital of our vacation adventures. Next week we will be back home with the schoolroom in our yard.

OUR READERS WRITE

To The Editor:

We truly appreciate the support given by your newspaper (to the Goodwill Industries handicapped program) and hope you will continue to help the handicapped.

Sincerely,
Claude Whitehall,
Executive Director.

Lighted Golf Course Lies on Hill

The trend in setting up new golf courses is to make them easier so golfers will get better scores, according to M. G. Sell, owner of the Irish Hills Sports Park, a par 3 course.

At the same time, "the trend is toward laziness," he elaborated. People don't want to play hard anymore, they want their exercise to come in easy doses.

The Irish Hills Park is laid out on a series of hills [illegible] for a ski resort in the winter.

"Some come back year after year," Mr. Sell continued. "They love the hills."

☆

THE GOLF course is one of the half a dozen or so courses in the nation that is lighted, he claims.

There are 120 lights along the whole course. It is designed to light the fairways at five candlepower, and the tees and greens at 10-12 candlepower.

"If you stay on the fairways, you won't have much trouble," Mr. Sell said, in reference to night golf.

Some people complain about losing a ball or two, he noted, [illegible] because they're on an unusual course. If they were on a regular course during the daytime, they wouldn't think anything of it.

The course is lighted Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

MANY PEOPLE come and sit on the spacious (100 seat) terrace just to watch the night golfers.

Inside the new restaurant and cocktail lounge, Mr. Sell can handle 275, including room in the cocktail lounge.

The new building was completed this spring when the cocktail lounge was finished.

Mr. Sell started business 15 years ago and has many plans for future development.

He was born in Clinton and now lives in Blissfield. He stays at the Irish Hills Park during the summer.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The best combination for sales success is a wedding of a good product and good advertising.

With the possible exception of automobiles, the best example we can think of is refrigerators. For more than 35 years, a marriage of strong advertising and a really good product has made the automatic refrigerator the number one home appliance in gross sales.

In dollar volume, the refrigerator ranks second to automobiles in sales in the consumer durables field. This is just as true today as it was ten or twenty years ago.

Yet, the life of an electric refrigerator is at least ten years ,and the market appeared to be saturated years ago.

What has happened? Research has made refrigerators more efficient, more versatile, and far more attractive.

Thus, appliance dealers have found that the best prospects for new refrigerators are families which already have good refrigerators.

This, of course, happens when advertising has informed the public of advances which have been made in the design of home refrigerators.

The employment of consistent and highly competitive advertising has resulted in another phenomenon which illustrates a characteristic blessing of the free enterprise system.

In spite of the fact that refrigerators have been vastly improved during the past 15 years the price has dropped 39 per cent.

Nothing could better illustrate the principle that progress is tied to mass advertising which stimulates mass sales, which in turn results in better products at a lower price.

Adopted Swedish 'Brother' To Visit Bruce King Here

Bruce King and his Swedish "adopted" brothers, Anders and Mats Edin, are preparing for the trip to the United States from Stenungsund, Sweden.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert King and family will meet Anders at the Metropolitan Airport Aug. 12 at 1 p.m. Their own son, Bruce, is to arrive at the same place and time Aug. 16.

Mats Edin has received a scholarship from the American Field Service and will spend the next year in Warren, Pa.

Bruce and Anders exchanged homes — Bruce for the summer and Anders for the coming school year, through the Youth for Understanding program sponsored by Michigan Council of Churches and the Board of Directors of the Ann Arbor Washtenaw Council of Churches.

Anders wrote an interesting thumbnail sketch of himself for the King family who are sharing it with Herald readers:

☆

"My name is Anders Edin. I was born in 1945 in Stockholm.

"My parents were born in the same place in the north of Sweden, mother in 1911, father in 1913. When she was about 20, mother moved to Stockholm where she worked as a dry nurse. Since she got married in 1944 she has been a house-wife. Father has been travelling a lot in his work and therefore mother has had the greatest responsibility for the family.

"My father is manager of the communal administration in Stenungsund, where we live now. He worked as a woodsman when he was young and so did most of his brothers. But there is no tradition as to profession in our family. In 1940 he moved to Stockholm and later on he began to study. He got his examination from the university in 1947.

"My brother is two years younger than I and is the same school as I. H is intelligent, diligent and orderly. His major interests are politics and sociology. He plays the piano pretty well. During the last three summers he has worked as a gardener.

"Between 1947 and 1954 we lived in five different places in the north and middle of Sweden. Between 1954 and 1962 we lived in Sollentuna, ten miles north of Stockholm.

"Now we live in Stenungsund about 30 miles north of Gothenburg on the Swedish west coast. Stenungsund is rapidly increasing in size. In Stenungsund there is a big power-generating station, and Esso and two Swedish concerns are building up the first petro-chemical industry of Scandinavia. There are many American engineers here.

"We live in a bungalow of four rooms and a kitchen.

"We have a very peaceful family life, and we are together most of our spare time. When I have done my home-work I read, listen to music, watch TV or something like that. We often discuss different matters. The most popular topics of conversation are politics, music and literature.

"Mother has taken charge of some babies during the last five years, so my brother and I have got used to nursing babies.

"Like most other boys, I am interested in sports. I like ball games, especially handball, and running best.

"Last autumn I played handball once a week. I am member to the basketball team of the school. I am also interested in shooting.

"More intellectual interests are music, politics, history and sociology. I have played the violin for seven years. I belong to the assembly of pupils of the school, where my brother is honorary secretary and member of the board.

"In August, 1961, I made a tourist trip to Berlin, together with a friend.

"The last four summers I have worked. The first two years I was an office boy and the third year a woodsman. Last summer I worked at a factory.

"When I get back to Sweden I will take the studentexamen. Then I will go to either a college of technology or a university of commerce. I have also thought of trying to become a diplomat, and in that case I must speak English and French fluently.

"As to the questions asked in the application form, I would answer thus: 'I like to be with others, but when I work, I prefer to do it alone'.

"Anders Edin".

"We're going on the sidewalk," said the grab bags to the daffodils. "So are we," chimed the shades and ceramics. The wall shelves said, "Don't forget us?" (Oh, yes! Jesse will be there too.)

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Reduce Drownings

The need for everyone to know up-to-date first aid techniques was demonstrated dramatically last week when Meyers Aircraft Co. employees saved Elmer Abshire from drowning.

According to the Michigan Heart Association, at least half of the victims of fresh water drownings might be saved by a quick application of closed chest cardiac resuscitation. This technique includes heart message and mouth-to-mouth breathing.

Half the deaths during drowning are caused by heart stoppages or fibrillation. Fibrillation is a disorganized fluttering of the heart.

Fibrillation is caused when fresh water gets into the lungs, is absorbed into the lungs, is absorbed into the blood, and causes the red corpuscles to burst, spilling hemoglobin and potassium chloride into the blood stream.

Enough loose potassium will stop the heart or shock it into fibrillation. It usually takes no more than a minute.

Speed in starting chest resuscitation is all important. The brain can suffer irreversable damage after four to six minutes without oxygen.

Breathing and heart massage must not be stopped as long as there is hope. Remember that stoppages of breathing does not necessarily indicate death. The victim still has several minutes before brain damage occurs.

Aside from actually saving lives, there is another reason for first aid instruction.

Unless chest resuscitation is properly applied, the heart association warns, it is dangerous and can break ribs and cause internal injuries.

Moreover, bad techniques may make rescuers ineffective in saving lives.

The Heart Association will supply teachers and sponsor classes anywhere in the state.

This could be a real opportunity for the community to improve its safety standards and first aid techniques.

Not Used to Working

President Kennedy is tossing $250,000 of his $1 million presidential emergency fund into a seemingly-unnecessary drive to get the dropouts back to school.

In doing so Kennedy said that unless someone does something, 400,000 students will not return to school and another 700,000 will not complete school next year.

The President's intentions are good, but the dropout problem is hard to understand.

Just this week, for instance, Michigan State University announced that all (with only a few exceptions) of their June graduates have found jobs. They also claimed the graduates averaged between $4,800 and $7,365 on their first job.

The rewards for finishing school seem self-evident, but apparently they're not enough.

The problem is twofold. Prof. William C. Morse, University of Michigan educational phychologist surmises.

Schools expect the students to work, while American culture recommends that they enjoy life. The conflict results in poor attitudes toward learning.

Moreover, he claims, parents are no longer as strong a source of authority. So students look for authority in their own peer groups and can be contaminated by one or two bad eggs.

The teachers must have authority to deal with defiant students and their "symbols of defiance" — nonconforming clothes, haircuts, etc.

The important thing is for discipline to follow a pattern. Prof. Morse advocates setting up community codes of behavior.

It is important for both teacher and student that discipline be planned and that its bounds be clarified.

Look at Our Safety Record

Tecumseh is to be congratulated on two counts for its efforts in vehicle safety.

Tecumseh has been selected to receive a 1963 State Award of Excellence for its Vehicle Safety-Check program for the fourth straight year.

Also last week, Tecumseh was awarded the Pedestrian Safety Citation from the American Automobile Association for having gone four years without a pedestrian death.

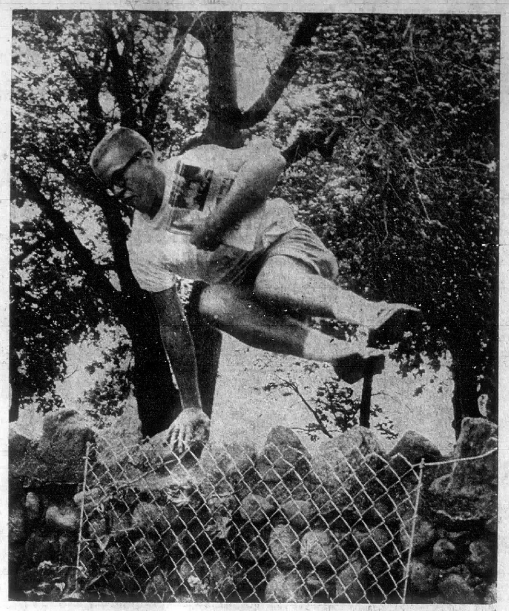
Since an official motor vehicle inspection system is to be discussed at the Governor's Regional Traffic Safety Conferences this month, we suggest they study communities such as Tecumseh before they begin official statewide inspections.

We realize that many communities can't or won't develop good safety programs, especially the larger communities where civic responsibility may be less important to the resident.

At the same time, we dislike any government telling us, as responsible citizens, what we should do.

We believe responsible citizens will enact favorably to the demands of greater safety.

We think that Tecumseh has, and is, acting with a great deal of responsibility.



Editorial in Picture

Know Your Law

Property Rights Along River

By Attorney General Frank J. Kelley

(This is a public service article explaining in general terms a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney.)

One of the legal problems that perplexes many people holding property on our lakes and streams has to do with what their rights are in relation to the lake beds and water which flows over them.

When a person buys a piece of property on a river, does he own any part of the bed of the river and can he keep the public from using the stream for boating, fishing and wading?

Many years ago our Supreme Court decided that it would be to the economic benefit of the State if the riparian owner, that is, one who owns property which touches the water of a river or lake, also owns the bed.

Ordinarily, his ownership extends to the middle of the stream or to a point in the middle of the lake. This does not mean, however, that he can impede or obstruct the public from navigating the stream and in some cases the lake.

☆

WE ALL know that our streams were used for the floating of logs during timber-cutting days. These logs were floated down to the lakes and from there sawed into lumber and shipped all over the country.

This was possible because the Supreme Court also decided that even though the owners along our streams own title to the beds, the State has a public trust in the water for the purposes of navigation and commerce.

☆

LATER in the 1920's the court decided that this trust also included the right of the public to fish and to wade up and down our streams, as is done by trout fishermen. The court said that this public trust was a high, solemn and inalienable trust.

It based this decision on the fact that recreation is important to the economy of the State and that if the public were not allowed freely to use our rivers for recreational purposes, this important economic benefit would be impaired.

So as you wade up one of our streams, either to fish or just for the fun of it, or if you take a canoe trip on the mighty Au Sable, remember that you are protected in your right to do so by the public trust which the State has in its navigable waters.

(Have you been soul-searching and getting nowhere? Send your problem to Dear Andy, in care of The Herald.

Dear Andy,

I have two problems, girls and zip codes.

Let me explain.

I was taking out two girls, one in Tecumseh and one in Adrian. I loved both of them very much, but I only wanted to marry the one in Adrian.

Last week I wrote her a letter and told her so. But I put on the wrong zip code and the letter was delivered to the girl in Tecumseh. And that was the end of that.

Since then, the girl in Adrian has found a new man and I'm stuck all alone. What should I do? Can I sue the Post Office for tampering with my mail?

Perplexed.

Dear Perplexed,

Well, you only wanted to marry the one in Adrian so you wrote her a letter — you what??

Next time I suggest that you crawl out of your wheelchair or hop down from your highchair and see the matter through personally.

As for suing the Post Office, all I can say is good luck. Considering that you would have to tell them the above information, you might end up paying the state (through taxes) for your upkeep in one of our State Mental Institutions.

To summarize, keep smiling, keep trying and keep your five-cent stamps out of the mail.

Yours truly,
Andy

don't be a SQUARE

By TOM BRIEN

It is a common human failing to be unable to practice what you preach.

So it doesn't come as too much of a surprise to discover such a reputable police officer as J. Edgar Hoover is subject to this failing.

In the August FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin, Mr. Hoover writes:

"There is no place in law enforcement for those who violate civil rights or those who condone such tactics. This is a grave abuse of power and public trust.

"It is to the credit of progressive police administrators that bullying, mistreatment, illegal arrests and detentions are no longer tolerated."

(One wonders why bullying, mistreatment, and illegal arrests were ever tolerated.)

☆

THE RECORD, however, shows that the FBI is unconcerned when it comes to observing civil rights, or protecting those who have had their rights violated.

Last year, the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights reported that out of 461 cases of police brutality against Negroes in the South investigated by the FBI during an 18-month period, not one single conviction was obtained.

If the vaunted FBI's batting average were zero in its record against criminal activity in the United States, we would have some cause for concern.

But it isn't mere incompetence in civil rights cases that makes the FBI record inconceivably bad.

The Commission pointed out that there are indications that the FBI has been in collusion with local police on civil rights investigations. For this reason, they recommended that jurisdiction over civil rights investigations be taken away from the FBI.

☆

THE FBI will investigate in police brutality cases whenever there is a complaint, Harvey Koselka, county prosecuting attorney explained.

The FBI will make a preliminary investigation and then send a report to headquarters to see if the case rates further investigation, Mr. Koselka said.

We have almost no cases of this type around here, he continued, and the FBI would much rather let us handle them.

Down south, where most of these cases occur, many of these complaints against police brutality are probably from quacks, he added.

☆

QUACK complaints or not, the list of police brutality is long and sickening. Taking a random handful of old news releases and picking out July 23, we find these cases:

► DANVILLE, Va. — Two men, Sam Shirah, 20, and Daniel Foss, 22, members of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee were convicted today after spending 13 days in jail for watching demonstrations by Negroes at the city hall.

Shirah said, "When I was arrested, police took me into an office, locked the door, and started beating me in the stomach and kicking me in the groin. Four of them jumped on top of me and started beating me.

"Two of them got hold of my leg and twisted. When I hollared that they were breaking my leg they jumped up and then took me into my cell.

"I could hardly walk for two days."

► SELMA, Ala. — A 16-year-old voter registration worker who was supposed to testify at Justice Department hearings on Thursday, July 25, was arrested here last night by one of the principal defendants.

Alexander Brown, 16, was arrested by Dallas County Sheriff Jim Clark, as he was getting out of a car to attend a voter registration mass meeting. The sheriff said one of the headlights of his car was off.

His bond has been set at $500.

► SOMERVILLE, Tenn. — Twelve demonstrators were in jail after arrests at the Rhea Rexall Drugstore Tuesday.

On the way to the drugstore, the marchers passed the County Court House where they were attacked by 25 white "hoodlums."

One member, Malcolm Grey, was attacked by whites and three of his teeth were knocked out. Police watched while Grey was attacked.

☆

THE LIST goes on and on. All you have to do is read the newspapers.

In fact, there are so many news stories of this nature, they're becoming a bore. And when brutality, especially police brutality, becomes boring, then we're probably in more danger than we think.

J. Edgar Hoover writes in the August Bulletin:

"Amid waves of protests and demonstrations arising daily across the land on civil rights issues, law enforcement's role is crucial.

"Its duty here, as in all matters, is the preservation of peace, prevention of crime and protection of life and property. This task must be performed with impartiality and according to the law of the land."

Well said. Now a good place to start impartial law enforcement is within his own organization.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

"When are you going on vacation?" a friend will casually ask.

"Oh, about Aug. 15," is my reply.

"Where to this year?"

"Egypt."

"That's nice."

What follows is usually a short pause, then a fast double-take, which would rival anything viewed in the old Abbott and Costello comedies.

"Egypt?" the fellow will screech.

"That's right. Egypt."

I struggle to retain my aplomb.

A flurry of questions usually fellows, although certain of my acquaintances have looked blank and dropped the whole subject. Maybe they regard the idea as balmy.

Well, maybe it is. But the die is cast, as they say in the foundry business.

Let me start at the beginning and relate the set of rather zany circumstances that will send my good wife and me spiriting off to the Land of the Nile this week.

Back last winter, Cherie was reading an item about the Egyptian archeological treasures which will be flooded — and vanish forever — when the new Aswan High Dam goes into use about 1964 or '65.

It will sit astride the Nile, holding back the great river and forming a lake nearly 300 miles long.

Being constructed with Soviet engineering know-how — and cash — the dam is expected to bring bright new hopes for Egypt in the field of agriculture and added living space.

But in fashioning the lake, some rare antiquities that date back 3,000 years, will be inundated and lost to humanity.

For many months, historians and archeologists from all around the world have been working with dispatch to see what can be saved. It's time consuming and naturally an expensive undertaking.

In one major project, the famed temple at Abu Semble is to be lifted 200 feet above its present level. Estimated cost: $30 million. The United Nations is working on this one.

Well, turning from the item, Cherie said she'd love to be able to see all these things before the lake forms.

My reaction was off-the-cuff. Sure, let's go. We can pay for the junket by selling pictures and stories of what we see to various daily newspapers and magazines.

So talk of the Egyptian adventure continued on and off for much of the winter, although we both realized it was an almost impossible dream.

I visited with editors at The Blade in Toledo and The Detroit News, told them of our idea. Both expressed interest and agreed to consider material on a free-lance basis. These talks fired-up the project.

What about the two children? Who would take care of them should we go? My wonderful mother-in-law, Mrs. Charles J. Eberhardt of Detroit, solved that one in a hurry, volunteering to come down for a month and seeing that Carol and Bernie got started in school OK.

After that, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Spreeman will move into our place, with the charming Frances taking over as chief babysitter, for the balance of our time away from Tecumseh.

As for my chair at The Herald, Tom Brien, a graduate student in journalism at the University of Michigan, will be filling it. Tom has been here this summer, setting used to the job and helping spell folks as they go on vacation.

Things have fallen into place so beautifully that you'd think we trek off to Egypt every year.

Starting next week, my columns will be arriving with datelines from some exotic towns — New York, Paris, Rome, Cairo, Aswan — as I tell you about this once-in-a-lifetime adventure.

Queen Crowned

Miss Cheryl Lynn Kuney was crowned Queen of the Lenawee County Fair Monday night, after being selected over 30 candidates.

Miss Diane Fox, formerly a dental assistant in Tecumseh, crowned Miss Kuney. Miss Fox, last year's queen, now lives in California.

OWNER TRIES DRIVING — Bill Love has never driven in a harness race, but has often been on the cart in workouts, as he was Saturday at the Adrian Fairgrounds track. During his youth, he drove a team to high school classes in Indiana from his folks' farm and it was then that he saw his first harness race and has been a devotee to the sport ever since.

When Harness Bug Bites

'Disease' Is Fatal

By TOM RIORDAN

When the harness racing bug bites a fellow, he has had it.

Ask Bill Love, 804 Red Mill Dr., one of Tecumseh's newest residents.

Recently retired as an executive with the Standard Oil Co., Mr. Love and his wife looked around for a nice town in which to spend their retirement. They chose Tecumseh.

They had been residents of Detroit and Lansing, while Mr. Love was active with the petroleum company.

But retirement doesn't mean a time to sit around for Bill — and that's where the harness racing bug comes in.

Bill was nipped by it as a youth, while living on a farm south of Indianapolis. He watched the races at the Indiana State Fairs and has been a confirmed fan ever since.

☆

BILL'S PRIME love are the horses and he has already owned three, one of which, Little Flag, was slated to run in Wednesday night's $2,000 Filly Pace for two-year-olds at the Lenawee County Fair.

Other horses he has owned include Navy Prince and Sea Duty, which were sold in the past year.

Flag, the small filly born on Flag Day, June 14, and thus the name, has really won the heart of her owner. She is being brought along slowly this year, running mainly on the county fair circuit and not being pushed too hard.

Although Mr. Love has been a harness fan nearly all his life, he didn't venture in ownership until 1960.

"I studied pedigree on horses, attended yearling sales for 10 years before I thought I knew enough to buy one," he said.

The two biggest annual horse auctions are held in Lexington, Ky., and at Harrisburg, Pa. The sale staged in Adrian each October by the Linehans ranks as one of the best smaller ones. It was at the Linehan sale that Mr. Love obtained Little Flag.

☆

BILL'S FILLY, along with about 40 others, are trained by the team of Leon Boring and sons of Adrian, highly-regarded in the field of harness racing, at the Fairgrounds.

"Leon is a whale of a trainer," Bill states. He makes a good horse out of a lot of them that would never get to the races."

Otis Borning, 20-year-old and the youngest son, was to be Little Flag's driver in the mid-week race at the Fair.

Naturally, owning horses can be expensive, but the sleek runners are expected to win their share of purses to off-set room and board, as well as trainer fees.

One season when Bill owned Navy Prince, the horse did an excellent job in this regard, racking up $9,100 in winnings.

At the Greenville, O., Partial Futurity, the Prince took first places in both its heats, bringing in $2,800.

In such events, the purses are liberally spread among participants. For first place, there's 45% of the total, second gets 23%, third 12%, fourth 8%, fifth 7% and sixth 5%. If fewer horses are entered, the split is greater.

This helps keep owners interested and willing to risk considerable cash to buy and develop harness horses.

Job Awarded for Garage in Tecumseh

Wolfe Construction Co. was low of four bidders for the construction of a new district highway garage to be built at the county gravel pit south of Tecumseh.

Lenawee county road commission accepted the bid of $39,400 for the 52 by 82 foot building.

Construction must start by Sept. 1, according to regulations in the federal accelerated public works program under which the county has received a $21,000 grant for use as matching funds.

Other bidders were the Krieghoff-Lenawee Co. of Adrian at $41,000; Superior Construction Co. of Tecumseh at $40,765; and Chesterfield Construction Co. of Southfield at $42,700.

The new garage will replace a former brick factory on N. Pearl St. that has been used as a district garage for ten years.

Only three trucks can be put in the present building, which has no storage area and is in a residential section.

The new garage will be built on South Raisin Center Hwy. where equipment and materials are now stored.

Ford Agency Handles Sale in 50th State

A past sale, or past service, apparently paid dividends for Tecumseh Motors this week when the local Ford agency sold a new station wagon to a resident of Fairbanks, Alaska.

Just how the resident, Mrs. Carrie Belle Parsons, heard of Tecumseh Motors still remains a mystery to dealer Jim Finch, who received a letter requesting a new station wagon over a month ago.

Salesman Robert Karle met Mrs. Parsons at Metropolitan Airport, brought her to Tecumseh and closed the sale.

She operates a fabric shop in Fairbanks and is now en route to New York to attend a fabric show.

Receives Nursing Diploma

Linda Kelly, 12090 Ford Hwy., Clinton, graduated from the Aultman Hospital School of Nursing Aug. 9.

She was in the second largest class, 72, ever to receive diplomas from Aultman.

Charles E. Wiley, director of nursing, gave the commencement address "The Professional Nurse in the Community."

Following the presentation of the diplomas and nursing school pins, the graduating class gave the Florence Nightingale pledge and sang "I May Never Walk This Way Again."

Assigned to Carrier

Floyd L. Wright, boilerman third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Wright of 6535 North Adrian Hwy., has reported for duty aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Ranger, one of the largest ships in the Pacific Fleet.

The Ranger operates from San Diego, Calif., as part of the First Fleet's attack carrier striking force. Periodically she deploys to the Far East for duty with the Seventh Fleet.

Whale of a Sidewalk Sale

Tecumseh's fifth annual sidewalk sale Friday will probably go down as the biggest and best to date.

Climax for the greatest concentration of people came during the ladies' pancake race when 6,000 jammed the track, which started at S. Evans and Pottawatamie Sts. and included the first block of E. Chicago Blvd., from the Four Corners.

An estimated 15,000 downtown visitors came and went during the day.

The race produced a tie with Mrs. Bonnie Sniffen, 1961 champion, and Mrs. Duane Murphy sharing the $25 prize.

Through misinformation at the starting line, Mrs. Murphy only flipped the pancake she carried over three of the four ribbons. She reached the end ahead of Mrs. Sniffen, who made four tosses.

Two heats were needed this year when nine women signed up to run in the third annual pancake race. Tom Fagan, Tecumseh High football coach, was official timer and referee while Don Montague, city recreation director, was starter.

Tecumseh police halted traffic along Chicago Blvd. during the running, which took approximately 10 minutes. There were no incidents as the large crowd kept orderly on the sidewalks and along the curb.

☆

DOWNTOWN streets were crowded with shoppers from start until finish of the sale, except during a rainstorm in the middle of the morning when everyone scampered for shelter.

Spirits, however, were far from dampened and during the deluge John Day, manager of the Woolworth's, said "Kind of Spotty."

When the downpour ended, all the goodies were transported back to the sidewalks and the fun started anew.

It was impossible to walk down the street and resist wonderful buys offered by stores, for example half-off on shirts, plastic pool prices slashed, toys on sale and children's clothing at a premium discount.

A lady from Morenci said she and her husband were just passing through and she was finding lots of bargains in boys pants. "They never have sidewalk sales in Morenci."

Dick Blue of National Carpets and Furniture, who brought in the Rivieras and Hesitations dance combos — one of the biggest crowd-drawers downtown — said, "We broke it up every little while to let people go ahead and shop."

Dancing continued until the sale ended.

☆

A CROWD of 3,150 hungry people enjoyed the free pancake supper sponsored by the merchants, Quaker Oats Co., and Staley Syrup Co. Hot cakes were flipped by the Jaycee Auxiliary at the new addition to the fire barn.

Pancakes were served steadily from four grills from 4 p.m. until 8, while Aunt Jemima entertained with songs and signed autographs.

Walt Wonderly and Norval Bovee of the Jaycees, conducted several games and races for the younger set before and after the pancake race.

Potato Sack Race winners for different age groups were:

Debbie Moore and Gregg Wonderly. (3-5 mixed).

Mary Lou Mueller and Sharon Shrader (6-9 girls).

Shirley and Judy Ostrum (8-11 girls).

Cathy Babcock and Laureda Hemphill (8-10 girls).

Robert Miller and Mike Oliver (8-10 boys).

☆

Egg throwing contest winners: Ron Huber and Owen Patterson (8-12 boys).

Judy Ostrum and Mary Rosacrans (8-12 girls).

Golden Color Theme

More than 300 relatives and friends helped the Rev. and Mrs. Alvin Brazee celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday.

Festivities were at picturesque Iron Creek Community Church, near Manchester, where the Rev. Mr. Brazee has been pastor the last 35 years.

With a golden color theme, the dining room was lavishly decorated with fuji chrysanthemums and roses.

A golden lace cloth over gold taffeta covered the serving table. Golden candles in candelabra of the same color added a touch of beauty to the table setting.

A ring of greenery and yellow mums circled the four-tier wedding cake, which was cut and served by Mrs. Virginia Noggle, daughter of the Brazees.

Other cakes were served by Linda Brazee, a granddaughter.

Mrs. Neal Brazee had charge of the coffee urn and Mrs. Donald Brazee, served at the punch bowl. Both are daughters-in-law.

The gift table was covered with a cut-work cloth adorned with golden streams and gold medallions. The small tables were also marked with gold medallions.

Among the gifts were a "Money Tree" and a "Money Shower Bouquet." A replica of the Iron Creek Church, adorned with gold-covered coins was made and presented by a niece, Mrs. Grace Graham of Milwaukee, Wis.

Other Milwaukee guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Brazee, Mr. and Mrs. William Herndier and Mrs. Mildred Brazee Alcorn.

☆

GUESTS CAME from Detroit, Centerline, Farmington, Jackson, Hillsdale, Kalamazoo, Ann Arbor, Hudson, Brooklyn, Adrian, Saline, Milan, Onsted, Spring Arbor, Addison, Somerset, Tecumseh and Manchester.

From out-of-state, besides Wisconsin, there were folks from Ohio, Florida, Pennsylvania and New York.

The Friendship Circle of the church was in charge of the dining room and decorations. The Ladies Missionary Society served dinner for the family and relatives.

Hazel Sets Family Flying Tradition

By JUDY FIELDER

The six children of Mrs. Richard Jacobs will be anxiously awaiting news of the results of the eighth annual all women's flying race at Kalamazoo Saturday.

She is starting a new tradition in the family's history of flying by entering the 200 mile closed course competition.

The Jacobs, who reside at 112 W. Shawnee St., operate a flying service of charter rental and student instruction at Adrian municipal airport. He is an authorized Piper dealer.

Mr. Jacobs showed an early interest in flying. He obtained his pilot's license at 16, the minimum age for solo flying.

Much of their courtship took place in the air.

☆

THE COUPLE was married in 1950 and Mrs. Jacobs began taking flying lessons with time out for the births of her children. She completed her requirements for private pilot license in May.

Word gets around fast and she received an invitation to participate in the race from the Michigan Chapter of the 99'ers, an organization of women pilots with private ratings or higher.

The race, limited to 60 planes, is held in conjunction with the 60th anniversary celebration of Kalamazoo's history in aviation and its 180th year of flight.

She will fly a single engine Piper Cherokee '150' in the cross country efficiency trial based on a handicap obtained by figuring speed and fuel consumption.

Although a woman must pilot the plane, a man may be co-pilot. Mrs. Jacobs has chosen Merlin Michaels of Rima Mfg. in Hudson, also a private pilot, to serve as co-pilot.

☆

THE TWO adventurers must be in Kalamazoo Friday by 3 p.m. when all planes will be checked and locked until the race.

Pilots will be briefed Friday night and the race starts at 9 a.m. Saturday.

They will learn their course Saturday morning just before taking off.

Other events of the weekend will include hot air balloon demonstrations and world record balloon ascent attempt, gliders, helicopters, antique planes and thunderbirds.

Aviators from all over the world will be attending the three-day celebration. Kalamazoo County Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring an aviation banquet and ball Saturday night in honor of the important national and international people.

Attending will be Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs and Mr. and Mrs. Michaels.

RACING LADY — Mrs. Richard Jacobs stands on the wing of the single engine Piper Cherokee '150' that she will fly in the eighth annual all women's flying race at Kalamazoo Saturday. Hazel, the mother of six children, received her private pilot's rating last May.

Behind Page One

John Day, Woolworth's manager who did a bang-up job organizing the pancake supper, almost had the whole fire department a-running in his behalf. One of his sales girls, knowing John was at the fire hall and wanting to contact him, simply called the number listed under "fire".

The horn, which tells the man on duty trouble is brewing, sounded and folks got ready for the siren. It didn't ring. John was called to the line to solve a weighty problem, should sales girls wear skirts or slacks?

Later, he rushed "a box" of fry pans for the pancake race to the starting lane, only to discover he was hauling a load of Halloween merchandise.

Rage with JCs and their Auxiliary these days is a game called "Uncle Ned." The kookie get kookier.

The Irish Hil's Playhouse Theatre group took a busmans holiday Monday and went to Stratford, Ontario to see a play. They were back on the job Tuesday with a performance of "The Rivals."

Foot-in-the-mouth comment for the week came from charming Mrs. Marvin Nelson. She was relaxing after helping flip hot cakes Friday and also running in the pancake race. Chatting with an out-of-town fellow who seemed to have brought some of the supplies for the dinner, she pointed out, "Dinner was swell but why didn't they use Log Cabin syrup?" Man she directed the remark to happened to be an executive from the Staley Syrup Co., which furnished the sweet stuff.

During her nearly a decade as our women's editor, Dorothy Grigg has written hundreds of wedding stories. Now she finds herself about to be the star of a nuptial as mother of the bride. Dorothy is spending much of her two-week vacation getting ready for the festivities, which will be Aug. 25 when daughter Camilla says "I do" to Detroiter Kent Woodbury.

Tecumseh is going to be known as the "city of bands" one of these days. We have the Cimbalas, Hesitations and Rivieras, with another unit to form under the old Blue Angels name.

Aunt Jemima, who was in town Friday, has cut her first record. She does spiritual numbers on both sides of the 78 rpm. Several Tecumsehites purchased records from her, having come to know that lovely lady, who has attended most of the five free pancake suppers held here.

It's not true that golfer Harvey Wilson took a vacation last week at the hospital because his gasoline cart had a flat tire and he didn't want to walk, toting that heavy bag of sticks.

Cleanest sidewalk in town Monday morning was the stretch in front of Osborne's Dept. Store and Bancroft Cleaners, thanks to the diligent work of Mrs. Dorothy Osborne and Mrs. George Meads, a pair of real talented broom and dustpan artists.

Mrs. Dick Walker, legal ace in Jim Beardsley's office, wonders if you heard about the two monks who opened a fish and chip joint. Lady walked in, asked one if he was the monk in charge of fish. His reply, "No, I'm the chip monk."

We got names mixed up again. Our apologies to Jamie McWilliams, who is 13; Lynn Bradish, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Bradish; and John Boldon, who belongs to Mr. and Mrs. John Bolden.

DON MARTIN & SON, Owner

Linda Baldwin, daughter of Mrs. Ned Baldwin and the late Mr. Baldwin, became the bride of Mark Knowles, son of the Bert Knowles of Adrian on Aug. 10.

The Rev. Julian Grisham performed the 4:30 p.m. ceremony at the Tecumseh First Presbyterian Church.

The altar was adorned with white gladioli and yellow fuji mums in gold altar vases. Gold cathedral candelabra faced with emerald foliage were placed on each side of the altar.

The chancel of the church was beautifully decorated with a background of four large wedding baskets filled with cream gladioli, white chrysanthemums and yellow pompons and potted, natural palms.

A red and white brie dien centered the setting which was approached by a white carpeted center aisle, outlined with pale yellow satin bows holding white mums and emerald foliage.

☆

THE BRIDE was escorted to the altar by her brother, Earl Baldwin. She was gowned in a white silk, peau satin. Her dress was re-embroidered alencon lace with Sabrina neckline and lace inserts in the three-quarter length sleeves.

The controlled dome skirt featured a chapel train. The three-tier illusion veil fell gracefully from a beau silk pill-box hat embroidered in seed pearls and tiny multi-colored crystals.

The bridal bouquet was white Phalaenopsis orchids and ivy.

Maid-of-honor Doris Oliphant selected a sun bouquet yellow tissue taffeta gown with floor-length trumpet skirt and Ransom gold train. Her head piece was a cone-shaped pill box with a small Ransom gold veil.

Bridesmaids Wilma Schieber of Grosse Pointe and Nancy Strait of Saginaw were dressed the same as the maid-of-honor.

The bride's attendants carried modern cascade arrangements of Nile green fuji mums centered with yellow lamplighter roses outlined with strands of ivy.

Flower girl, Lora Lee Baldwin and ring bearer, Eric Baldwin, are niece and nephew of the bride.

The flower girl carried a miniature bouquet of the bridesmaids, centered with Golden Garnet rosettes.

☆

THE BRIDE'S mother wore a corsage of white Georgianna orchids backed with pearl-studded, moss green velvet leaves.

Mrs. Knowles wore a corsage of two green orchids.

The groom asked Richard Overkamp of Muskegon to be his best man. Darrel Tennis of Charlotte, and his cousin, Mark Fischer of Toledo, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a dinner for 200 was held at the Tecumseh Country Club. The main lounge was decorated with arrangements in the wedding colors.

The mantle of the large stone fireplace was enhanced with two crescent bouquets of cream gladioli, green fuji mums and yellow carnations.

☆

THE PUNCH table was skirted with yellow taffeta and white net, draped with smilax and clusters of flowers. A silver compote candle arrangement of fuji mums and lamplighter roses centered the table.

Assisting at the dinner were friends of the bride, Jane Dillon, Jane Horvath, Kendra Ringman, Janet Crunk, Mary Colgrove, Suzie Rohweder, Marilou Layton and Mary Seager.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Knowles will reside in St. Louis, Mich., following a one-week wedding trip to Grand Bend, Ontario. Mrs. Knowles is a senior at Central Michigan University and her husband is a graduate of Michigan State University.

There's No Biz Like Show Biz

Everybody loves a carnival, and nearly 35 people proved it Saturday.

Karen Knudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Knudson, 302 N. Wyandotte St., and Jan Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Snyder, 4066 Aebersold Dr., now have $9 to send to the foundation for muscular dystrophy.

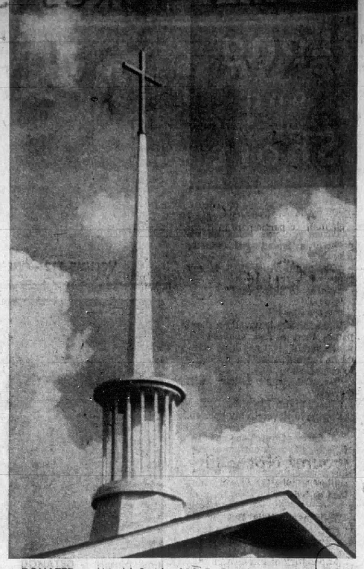
The carnival, held in Karen's back yard Saturday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., included games, side shows, refreshments, a raffle, and a souvenir store.

Doyal Hannibal won the raffle, which was $1.

Admission was five cents.

Someone's dog loved a carnival, too. When it saw the busy children, it refused to get out of the way.

So the enterprising girls put the wild animal in a cage and had to feed it hamburgers and hot dogs to keep it tame enough for the visitors.



DONATED — Harold Smith, 202 E. Pottawatamie had this steeple added to the Missionary Baptist Parsonage, 20 Cairns, July 15. The steeple stands 27 feet.

Classified Ad Does the Trick – in a Hurry

Last week's Herald classified page carried this ad under the "wanted" column:

Baby sitter for one child. Light housekeeping. Start August 26. Phone Tecumseh 423-2592.

It was placed by Mr. and Mrs. Warren Tuckerman, 605 W. Pottawatamie St. and scheduled to run for two issues.

The Herald went onto newsstands late Wednesday and the calls in response to the ad started to come that night, Mr. Tuckerman reports.

Altogether, the ad brought seven responses and the Tuckermans hired Sharon Teagarden, then hustled to cancel the ad.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman both work, he at Tecumseh Products Co. and she at H. W. Tuttle & Co. Miss Teagarden will be taking care of Terry Lee Tuckerman, who will be five in October.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Heigh ho, Come to the Fair! All this week at the grounds in Adrian.

Seems a bit early, but most County fairs are being held in August and the Lenawee Fair at Adrian is no exception.

Numerous 4-H club members have projects including vegetable and flower gardening, sewing, food preparation and many others besides the livestock exhibits.

Tecumseh is well represented with many excellent displays. Close to The Herald family is Master Corky Hunt showing his purebred Scotch Shorthorn calf for the first time this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford Mudgett and family have moved to the Jorranson home on Maple Ave. in Adrian.

Katheryn Jewell of Tecumseh and her sister, Helen, who lives in Port Huron, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jewell, are visiting their brother, Roy, in Washington. Accompanying the girls is Sharon Balon of Port Huron. Roy works for a furniture company.

Honored with a pool party and chicken barbecue Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Russell, who will soon be moving to Marshalltown, Iowa.

Hosts were Dr. and Mrs. Robert Murray, with activities centered around their new swim pool. Dr. Murray handled cooking of the chicken over an open charcoal pit.

Decorations on the cake teased the Russells, misspelling their new hometown as "Marshallsburg." Actually, the Iowa city has a population three times that of Tecumseh.

The Tecumseh Players quartet sang and other guests read poems written for the occasion, as the honorees were seated in special seats and given crowns to wear.

A reading by Terry Mackin was highlighted by a thundering Murray horse, which dashed along the edge of the pool in the middle of the performance.

Visiting the Dale Bowens last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harper of Washington Court House, O., where he is editor of the daily Herald. Mr. Bowen and Mrs. Harper are cousins.

Guilty Plea Is Refused

Circuit Court Judge Rex Martin refused the guilty plea on a bad check charge of a Tecumseh man in court this week at Adrian.

Milford Lyons, 31, pleaded guilty to writing three $10 checks in ten days with insufficient funds. He stated he asked the recipients to hold the checks until they could be covered at the bank.

The checks were drawn on the State Savings Bank of Clinton.

Judge Martin said that he could not be guilty of the charge if that were true because he had no intent to defraud.

He continued the bond and Mr. Lyons was released pending trial.

We certainly enjoyed Tecumseh's Sidewalk Sale Friday. As for our own efforts in the promotion, well, it would seem that our block was rocking. The huge crowd in front of our place and that "Red Carpet" really took trampling, being walked and danced on by hundreds all day. But, if you examined it this week, you'd find that strip of Tycora with continous filament nylon in nearly perfect condition. National's carpet really wears — whether in front of our store or in your home. We will continue with our policy to give you free estimates and our decorator service. Paula Echelbarger Weds Kenny Wallace

St. Elizabeth Church was the setting for the Aug. 10 wedding of Paula Echelbarger and Kenny Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Wallace, 213 S. Oneida St.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvan Echelbarger of Tipton, was escorted to the altar by her father.

The Rev. Fr. Thomas Collins, pastor of St. Elizabeth, performed the 11 a.m. wedding ceremony.

The bride's regal gown was fashioned of crystal white duchess taffeta blended with Chantilly lace which formed the high-waisted bodice and petal scalloped neckline.

MRS. KENNY WALLACE

The lace etched a rose pattern down the back of the gathered skirt which belled from a slender waistline to a full court train.

A shoulder-length veil accented the tiera crown of pearls and rhinestones. The bride's bouquet of glamellias was arranged as a detachable corsage, centered the cascade arrangement of fuji mums.

☆

MRS. DANIEL WIEMER, sister of the groom, was matron-of-honor. Her dress, designed and made by the bride, was pink taffeta. The bodice was covered with white lace.

The street-length full skirt featured bows on the back. Her headpiece was a white crown with seed pearls and net. Her bouquet was of orchid pompons and miniature carnations outlining purple glamellias.

Bridesmaid Jean Packard and Jill Echelbarger wore original gowns made by the bride, which were identical to the matron of honor's with the exception of the skirts, which were street-length and bell-pleated. Their crowns were pink, featuring seed pearls and netting. Their bouquets matched the one carried by the matron of honor.

Cris Ann Echelbarger, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a short pink taffeta dress with full gathered skirt and short sleeves. White lace overlayed the bodice and the skirt was overlayed with white scallops.

She wore a pink crown with matching netting. She carried a tote bouquet of nylon tulle and pompon mums.

☆

JERRY IRELAN was best man and the groom's attendants were Sylvan Echelbarger, Jr., and Laurence Armstrong. Ushers included Daniel Wiemer and Robert Fogelsong.

A dinner at the home of the bride's parents was served after the wedding and a reception at the Knights of Pythias Hall in Tipton was held at 7:30 p.m. with 300 guests present.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Sylvan Echelbarger, Jr., of Adrian and Mrs. Laurence Armstrong of Osceola.

The bride is a 1963 graduate of Tecumseh High School and the groom is a 1960 graduate. He is employed at Lee Purkey & Sons in Tecumseh.

Midway Rides Secondary for 1,500 4-H Members

Midway rides and concession stands are secondary in the minds of 150 boys and girls at the Lenawee County Fair.

These 1500 boys and girls are members of the county's 71 4-H Clubs. They have been striving "To make the best better" in anticipation of climaxing their projects at the fair.

Each 4-H member will talk with an evaluator about their project. As a result of the evaluation session each 4-H member will more fully understand what they have learned. The evaluator can also point out ways to improve another year.

These individual evaluation sessions truly make the growth of the individual 4-H member the focus of 4-H club work.

The 4-H member exhibits, which are open to the public, cover such widely separated areas as freezing and sheep breeding, vegetable gardening and gun safety, tractor maintenance and family living.

This Year's Peach Crop Cut in Half

Homegrown peaches for which Michigan has long been famous are beginning to appear on retail markets throughout the state and will be available well into September.

The crop is estimated at only 1,800,000 bushels because of winter damage. This is only slightly more than half the average for the years 1957 to 1961 which was 3,380,000 bushels, according to Director G. S. McIntyre of the Michigan Department of grieulture.

The state's main peach county is Berrien which is prominent nationally as a producer as are Van Buren, Allegan and Oceana counties. Other important peach counties are Kent, Mason, Macomb, Oakland and Monroe.

Last Week of Tot Lot

SHADY LANE

This week ended recreation for the summer.

The tots occupied themselves coloring, playing checkers and softball. Very little handicraft was done during the week.

Sunday, Shady Lane Tot Lot held their final picnic.

PATTERSON SCHOOL

This week at the Tot Lot was highlighted by a picnic and marshmallow roast on Wednesday, and another picnic on Friday.

The rest of the week, children played games and worked in leather craft.

HERRICK PARK

This was also the last week for Herrick Park Tot Lot. The children had fun all summer playing kickball, softball, horseshoes, checkers, pick-up-sticks, and other games.

A picnic was planned for Friday, but was rained out.

Herrick Park Tot Lot was supervised this year by Cindy Murphy.

Baird Family Back From Tour of West

Mrs. E. H. VanVleet and Mrs. Myrna Tingley spent the weekend in Gaylord with Mrs. Tingley's daughter, Mrs. Boyd Baird and family.

The Baird family had recently returned from a month's tour of the Western States and a visit with Mrs. Baird's brother, Dale Tingley and family, of Santa Monica, Calif.

The trip was made in a 1954 Chevrolet 54-passenger school bus. The interior of the vehicle had been completely remodeled into a home on wheels with all modern conveniences.

The Baird family trip covered 6,389 miles and was considered to have saved one-third the amount that would have normally cost their family of four.

Nancy was able to prepare complete meals while the bus was continuing its motion on the highway and the children were free to play, sleep, snack or observe the passing scenery.

During their travels they were overwhelmed at courtesies shown to them and of the wonderful parking facilities available all throughout the States.

BUYING NEW EQUIPMENT may be more costly than hiring work done. An Illinois study shows the annual use necessary to reduce ownership and operating costs to equal standard custom charges. Here are some examples: A 4-row A. C. planter with fertilizer attachment must be used on about 93 acres. A pickup baler should produce 5,270 bales. One needs to harvest 271 acres using a 12-foot combine with a 2-row corn attachment.

THE WHEAT PROGRAM FOR 1964 is still confusing for many. Here are some of the more pertinent points that are not readily apparent. Producers who overplant their allotments will receive history credit only in the amount of their allotments. This has the effect of lowering future allotments. Farmers having Conservation Reserve contracts must plant within allotments or forfeit conservation payments. There will be no "hot wheat" after July 1, 1964. After that date, stored excess wheat may be released without penalty.

LIME IN ADVANCE of late summer and fall seeding if pH is low and more potassium is needed. Without adequate lime you lose most of the effect of potassium fertilizer which is essential for normal plant growth and seed development. However, effect from liming is slow unless it is finely ground. Your requirements should be that 95% of the limestone pass a screen smaller than 10-mesh, and at least 50% pass a 60-mesh screen.

REPAIR ASPHALT ROOFS NOW. It may not be hot on that roof in August, but good repair can be made only under those conditions. The asphalt saturant will spread much better and penetrate more thoroughly during warm weather. This will give a longer lasting, leakproof roof.

Devil's Lake Pavilion: 50 Years of Dancing

For half a century, the Devil's Lake Pavilion has provided dancing for Southeastern Michigan and Northern Ohio.

From the first crowd that drove up from Adrian along the old Plank Road (US-223) that was so muddy the cars used chains on all four wheels, to the 2,000 or more teenagers most weekend nights, the Pavilion has watched many styles of entertainment come and go during its 50 years of existence.

The first band, Fishers Orchestra, was taken off the ferry boat and brought into the Pavilion by the first owner, Ed Coon. A Grand March dedicated the Hall.

For many years after that, dance nights were called "Fisher Parties".

☆

THEN in 1922, Mr. Coon sold the property to William O'Riley of Hudson. Mr. O'Riley ushered the era of big name bands that was to last well into the Forties.

Such people as the Wight Brothers, the MacFarlane Twins, Lew Waterman and Tommy Doolittle.

Mr. O'Riley placed the "myriad ball" in the center of the hall, where it still hangs. Thousands came to dance to this revolving glass ball reflecting colored lights that made a moving rainbow play inside the hall.

☆

THE PARK was purchased by Don and Mae Brown about 1942, with the present owner, O. E. Green, acting as manager.

At that time, 700 couples were considered a huge crowd. They danced to such bands as Skitch Henderson and Tony Pastor.

Today, nearly 2,000 teenagers pack into the Pavilion on a good night.

Ten years ago, it was a dime a dance setup. Today, it's strictly a teenage hangout with teenaged entertainment: Bobby Vinton, Brenda Lee and the Casuals, Ray Orbeson, Roy Stevens and the Chordettes.

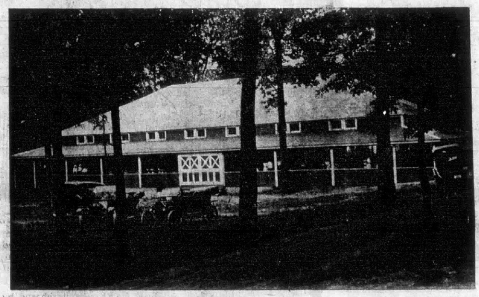
☆

WITH the crowds "bigger than ever," The Pavilion is growing to meet the influx of crowds.

A 30 by 75 foot addition to the Pavilion was completed this summer. Inside, there is a snack bar, seating for 100, and six billiard tables.

A large portion of the wooded grove had to give way for the increasing numbers.

A parking lot for 500 cars is presently being constructed. Nearly 250 trees were removed and lights set up to illuminate the lot.



FIFTY YEARS OF DANCING — The Devil's Lake Pavilion, built in 1913, is one of the most famous dancing spots in Southeastern Michigan. Except for a 30 by 75 foot addition this year, the building has remained nearly unchanged for 50 years. The crowds have changed more, growing bigger and younger as entertainment fashions changed (below).

Annual 4-H Club Show Opens Aug. 26 at MSU

A tour featuring modern home design and a chicken barbecuing class will be new features at the 40th annual State 4-H Club Show on the Michigan State University campus, August 26-29.

"Over 3,000 4-H members will participate in the show — the 'world series' of Michigan 4-H," points out C. Dean Allen, assistant state 4-H Leader, and general show chairman.

As in the past several years, the trend is toward educational as well as competitive events.

In the home design tour, selected members and leaders from virtually every county will journey to Detroit on Wednesday, Aug. 28. They will study modern lighting at the Detroit Edison Company building.

Other stops include the Metropolitan Art Museum and the "Top of the Flame" — a downtown restaurant offering a complete view of the waterfront and a renowned...

☆

OTHER EVENTS include tours of the dairy and soil science research facilities at MSU, a meats identification program, and a hog-carcass judging contest.

"We feel the carcass event has a lot of educational value," Allen points out. "Observers can watch hogs judged on foot one day and the carcasses later. Ability to predict carcass quality from on-foot appearance is very important to the packer and producer.

In dairy judging, emphasis will be on production records as well as animal type. Each ring of producing animals will be called out in order of performance.

Tuesday, August 27, will be dedicated to the states more than 14,000 adult volunteer leaders. Wednesday will be parents' day.

Two Attend Conservation Gathering

Mrs. Neil Pearson and Doris Heckert of Jasper, who will teach first grade at Patterson School this fall, attended the Conservation Scholarship program at Higgins Lake July 28-Aug. 3.

The two Tecumseh Garden Clubs and the Abi-Evans Chapter, DAR were the sponsors for Mrs. Pearson. Miss Heckert was sponsored by the Neighborhood Garden Club of Adrian.

The Garden Clubs of Michigan have started the school for the past 25 years.

The mornings were taken up with lectures on geology and soils and the afternoons were spent on field trips.

Instructors were all outstanding persons in the Conservation Department on the state and local level.

Mrs. Pearson will be happy to meet with any group to discuss conservation and report on the meetings she attended.

Man Drinks Weed Killer in Wine Bottle

Lloyd Allen Snyder, 32 of Manchester died early Aug. 1 at Herrick Memorial Hospital, apparently the victim of accidental poisoning.

Mr. Snyder told a neighbor he had consumed a quantity of weed killer which he found in a wine bottle on a shelf in the garage of his home.

Who Really Discovered America

By TOM BRIEN

"They All Discovered America" by Charles Michael Boland. Permabook 436 pages. $.75.

In high school they still teach that Christopher Columbus discovered America.

They also add that the Vikings, namely Leif Erickson, were probably here before that.

There is a growing body of evidence, however, that there were quite a few others who beat Columbus to these shores.

Charles Michael Boland, an amateur archeologist, collects much of the data now available for people interested in discovering just how long America has been here.

☆

UNFORTUNATELY, Mr. Boland is an amateur and to the reader doesn't know just how much he should believe. Mr. Boland, in fact, sounds very much like a crank.

He obviously has an ax to grind, and by the time the reader gets through three chapters, he is tired of Mr. Boland's peevishness.

Moreover, Mr. Boland likes to create his own stories about what probably happened. Rather than presenting what evidence exists and leave the reader to decide, he tells a little story of his own deduction.

This makes it more readable, but certainly doesn't make it more credible.

Nevertheless, the information he does offer is useful, and much of it may later be substantiated. In that case, informed people might want to know who was here before Columbus.

☆

PROBABLY the easiest way to review the book is to give the chapter titles and quote from his discovery secret for 16 years.

1. The Persistent Paleolithic (35,000-18,000 B.C.) The first discoverer of America is shown to be of Asiatic ancestry. His discovery is the culmination of a millennia-consuming stroll.

2. The Phoenicians (480-146 B. C.) The first Phoenicians landed in New Hampshire. The colony vanishes, but their descendants land in the New World twice more. They, too, vanish.

3. The Romans (64 A. D.) A terrified band of early Christians seek asylum in Virginia.

4. Hoei-Shin (499 A. D. A Chinese journeys to Latin America in search of the Painted People.

5. Brendan the Bold (551 A.D.) An Irish monk seeking the Fortunate Isle, is surprised to find an entire colony of his brethren enjoying the tropical beauty of Florida.

6. Great Ireland (10th Century) A harassed band of monks flee to America to escape the pagan Northmen.

7. Ari Marson (982) An Icelander loses his course and arrives in Great Ireland, is taken prisoner and baptized.

8. Bjarni Herjulfsson (986) A young Viking, en route to visit his father, involuntarily goes to America. Annoyed, he refuses to land and keeps the news of his

9. Leif Erickson (1003) America's first acknowledged discoverer sails to a place he later calls Vinland.

10. Thorvald Ericsson (1007) Leif's brother, makes the family's second voyage to America.

11. Thorfinn Karlsefni (1010) An Icelander settles for three years in New York, has a son, Snorri, and then leaves in the face of Indian problems.

12. Freydis (1014) Leif Eriesson's half sister visits Vinland with the brothers Helgi and Finnbozi, bringing death to Plymouth, and helps end further attempts to colonize Vinland.

13. Bishop Eric Gnupsson (1121) A Bishop sent to Vinland is never heard from again, except for a puzzling memorial in Newport, Rhode Island.

14. Quetzalcoatl (1010) A bearded monk comes to the Aztecs and is banished for trying to end human sacrifice.

15. Prince Madoc of Wales (1171) A peacable prince, takes 10 shiploads of colonists from Wales and is assimilated by an Indian tribe.

16. Paul Knutson (1355) A mission to save Vinland takes them to Minnesota where they are slaughtered by Indians.

17. Prince Henry Sinclair (1395) A Prince and an Italian nobleman retrace the route taken by a Faeroese (Scotland) fisherman.

18. Joao Vaz Cortereal (1472) A Portuguese comes to America on an expedition decreed by his king, but piloted by two Norwegians.

19. Christopher Columbus (1492) The Genoese navigator lands upon some islands in the Caribbean. He is therefore called the discoverer of America, even though he did not achieve its shores.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

I have always believed that an essential step in arriving at a sound decision is to obtain as many facts as possible about the problem.

Fact-finding hearings are one of the most important tools of the decision-making process. Wisely used, they can cut through the layers of rumor, misinformation, prejudice and emotion which overlie the heart of any issue.

In recent years, it seems to me that the fact-finding process has been subjected to a good deal of unwarranted abuse.

We've all heard a lot of criticism about the committee system, and certainly there are many situations in which a committee becomes nothing more than an excuse for inaction.

While the committee approach can be tedious, time-consuming and frustrating, it is very often the best way of guaranteeing that decision-makers will approach the problem without crippling gaps in their knowledge.

This month a committee of the Legislature is holding hearings in two Michigan cities in a conscientious attempt to gather pertinent facts about a state minimum wage.

The issue is full of complexity. What about waiters and waitresses who receive tips? What about part-time workers? Which employees should be covered and which should be exempt? What about employees who receive non-monetary compensation?

To get the answers to these questions, the committee took to the road, hoping that anyone who had any interest at all in the problem would appear at the hearings.

These hearings will be a success only to the extent that those concerned about a minimum wage make themselves heard. Any [illegible] tion is heard — the voice of the large employer, or the voice of the small employer, or the voice of the union official — legislators will return to Lansing still not fully informed.

This could mean that when the bill comes up for debate again next year it would face the threat of defeat — not on its merits — but because of lack of information.

I believe the vast majority of employers already pay wages which more than meet the minimum living standards of their workers.

But unfortunately, there are some employers who take advantage of employees and force them to accept substandard wages because they cannot find work elsewhere.

Michigan is one of only 12 states which has not established a minimum wage scale. Our moral obligation is to make sure that all workers are paid enough to maintain themselves in health and decency.

As a first step toward meeting this obligation, I urge everyone with an interest in the minimum wage to attend the committee's hearings and make their interest known.

County Work Cuts City Street Costs

City Manager Cal Zorn had some good news for City Council at last Monday's gathering.

Since Tecumseh has farmed out seal coating of city streets to the county, there has been a marked savings on jobs, he explained.

The practice began in August of 1962 and costs dropped from 16c to 10½c per square yard.

"As small as we are, we can't afford to own equipment (for seal coating)," he told the Council.

Another series of road improvement projects, which will cost $8,271 and touch nine streets, as well as patch and repair jobs in Sunset Meade Subdivision, was given an OK by councilmen.

These will all be handled by the county and probably take only a few days to complete.

☆

AMONG THE streets are:

► Maumee, from Russell to Mohawk.

► Logan, from Ottawa to Maumee.

► Russell, from Green to railroad.

► Rogers, from Chicago to south city limits.

► Shawnee, Maumee to Wyandotte.

► Wyandotte, Shawnee to Logan.

► Sunset, from Cairns to Maple.

► Stacy, from Russell to Waskins.

► Union, from Russell to Patterson.

► Kilbuck, from Adrian to Maumee.

The county will furnish all materials, except stone, which will probably come from Maybee Stone Co. and is included in the cost.

Mr. Zorn pointed out that seal coating is now done with an asphalt emulsion, which "won't bleed", meaning tar will not ooze through the stones.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Baldwin and son, John, of Marquette, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cutforth and daughter, Cathy, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Romel and sons Randy and Phillip, of East Lansing were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Heilman at their cottage at Sand Lake.

Gray Sales Up Nearly $1 Million

Gray Manufacturing Co. announced its financial results for the six months ending June 30.

The company said it made a profit of $100,395, or 22 cents a share, compared with a loss of $180,086 for the first half of 1962. Sales were $3,090,000, up from $2,161,000.

Gray Manufacturing, which makes dictating machines, bought Faraday, Inc. last April 1. Faraday makes signal and alarm equipment.

James Ashman, Gray Manufacturing's chairman, said all manufacturing operations would be consolidated in the Tecumseh plant by Aug. 15.

70 Attend Club Picnic

Seventy attended the Mother of Twins Club picnic held last Sunday at Kiwanis Park. In the afternoon the children went swimming at community pool.

Next meeting will be Tuesday, Sept. 3, at the home of Mrs. Paul Ruud.

Dexter Bailey Is at Interlochen

Dexter Bailey, talented Tecumseh pianist, is in the midst of a two-week session at Interlochen's National Music Camp.

Mackinac Bridge Walk Challenges Thousands

Second, the Mackinac Island passenger boat lines are scheduling special trips directly from St. Ignace to Mackinaw City so that bridge walkers can enjoy a boat ride as well as a hike across the Straits.

The general walk for those who do not wish to race will start promptly at 10:15 a.m. at the Mackinaw City (south) end of the bridge. Free bus transportation back to the starting line will be available for all those who complete the walk.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Income Tax Unlikely

Is Tecumseh going to start collecting a one-percent city income tax?

Probably not, although some citizens read lots of things into last week's story about Council getting facts on such a levy.

Mayor Harold Easton told The Herald that a city income tax would be an additional tax and he wasn't for this. He added that the city is not this strapped for more operating money.

City fathers wanted to learn some facts, they got em. The Herald reported the interchange of information.

We don't favor such a city tax, when it is lumped onto the load we already carry.

However, it could be considered in conjunction with a cut in taxation on real estate. This would tend to spread taxation for city needs over a broader base and touch all wage earners. Folks who do not own their homes or a business locally, and yet are making a living in the city and enjoying benefits of local government, would help support municipal services.

It seems unlikely that there ever would be a drop in the property tax and therefore unlikely that council would decide to introduce an income levy.

Wing-Ding of a Sale

A visiting Ohio newspaper editor, Howard "Dad" Harper, who runs the Washington Courthouse Herald for many years, had some interesting remarks to make about the Tecumseh sidewalk days of last week.

He reported that he just happened downtown while visiting relatives in the area and was fascinated by the promotion. His town has never had one — but if we're any judge of editorial prodding, it will one of these days, soon after "Dad" gets back to his typewriter.

So absorbed in various aspects of the sale, Editor Harper told us he didn't want to leave. The crowds were tremendous and he got a real bang from the ladies' pancake race.

Often times the judgment of a complete stranger will do wonders in helping us analyze our assets. Being so close to the big summer promotion, local merchants might become blase and take so much of the event for granted they tend to devalue the tremendous assets of such an undertaking.

"Dad" has the right slant. It's a winging of an event and has great magnetism for the casual shopper. We shouldn't forget that when it comes time to stage No. 6 next August, we all should be eager and fired-up to make it top the last one.

Important, too, is the fact that when store owners are asked to donate some of their time and talent for a sale they should do so happily, not brush off the hard-working retail committee with that worn-out "I'm too busy" routine. The better the support the organization of a sale is given, the better the sale it will be.

Promotions such as these move scads of merchandise. But we don't think the story of the cash register tape at day's end should be the whole summation.

Staging a carnival-type sale is a fine way for merchants to say to customers, "We like you. We greatly value your year-round trade. Here's a blast that will be fun for you. Enjoy yourself. Live it up. Have a ball. Buy or browse, whatever the mood that strikes you. You're great folks and we want to show our appreciation."

Some storemen might not agree with this thinking. However, our gentle reminder to them is that the almighty dollar Sign is not everything in this life — good merchandising included.

Adults Play Key Roles

Summer recreation programs are drawing to a close. We'd venture a guess that this has been one of the city's most successful vacation fun-times.

A lot of adults played key roles in making things click and one of the biggest boosts we can give is to dads who organized and ran the various baseball programs.

Hundreds of young men had the opportunity to play under top supervision — and how they enjoyed it.

Recreation Director Don Montague did a fine job in getting fields prepared and new backstops in place.

Carol Kapnick's veteran supervision of the girls softball and tennis programs, rates another "A" for her 1963 contributions.

At the pool, Vic Lawson and his staff are turning in another top-flight job of teaching youngsters the techniques of swimming and water safety.

Tecumseh can be proud of summer play opportunities for the young people and the people who manage them.

Don't Be a SQUARE

By TOM BRIEN

The time has come to try to define the square.

What prompts this is the column of Judd Arnett's in the Free Press last week "Return of the Square?".

Mr. Arnett, in typically square fashion, tried to discredit all non-squares with the various innuendos in every square's vocabulary: delinquency, laziness, unemployables, etc.

He then wraps up his argument by noting a number of useful squares who performed in America's history: Nathan Hale, Patrick Henry, Paul Revere, George Washington and Benjamin Franklin.

(This, incidentally, was taken from Charles Brower's speech which appeared in The Herald's May 9 issue. "Are You a Square?").

☆

A SQUARE is one who acts in a typical or expected manner. He never does the unexpected; never comes across with anything original.

A square's main ambition is survival with the least amount of trouble. Survival here means getting along in society, a decent standard of living, a nice wife, and all the good, but cheap things for the kids.

Adventure is not an important thing to the square, and in fact, is suspected to be juvenile. Ambition is just a suspect, although the square has limited ambitions.

"Don't make waves," and "getting along", are two of his favorite mottos, though he has enough sense, normally, to express these mottos with a little sophistication.

☆

GENERALLY, but not necessarily, he is a[illegible]ll man concerned about security, tradition, doing things the right way, Americanism (America is a place, a land, even a dream, but not an ideology), flags on the Fourth of July, and Church on Sunday, or at least during the religious holidays.

The square is kept in line by vague fears of being in the wrong. He doesn't want to be: unpatriotic, outside the law, a poor sport, a character. He distrusts ideas and idea men, especially if they appear foreign.

He laughs snidely about the antics of Elizabeth Taylor, Jayne Mansfield, Billie Sol Estes and others who get caught. He, himself, would never get caught, mostly because he'll never take that sort of a chance.

☆

THIS SORT of definition could go on and on. It's perhaps easier to eliminate a few types we are not interested in here, then draw up a list of well known squares and the things a square will use.

We are not interested in:

► The hipster — a physical existentialist who lives out his philosophy of kicks. "You got to scream, man." The hipster wants to meet other men, and life, face on and come out on top.

The ultimate hipster was Caryl Chessman. The loudest, but not the most successful is Norman Mailor. Others are Elizabeth Taylor, Jimmy Hoffa, Fidel Castro, William Worthy, Ted Williams, Sonny Liston and Sterling Moss.

They are a modern, and probably last, version of the rugged individualist.

► The beatnik — an intellectual existentialist. He has more in common with the hipster than the square, but lacks the hipster's daring.

His tendency is to be ascetic. He has disengaged himself from normal society but not humanity, and engages in a certain amount of mysticism or mystical inducing activity.

He lies somewhere between the hipster and the cool character.

The ultimate beatnik is Albert Schweitzer. The best known beatnik currently is James Baldwin. Others are Allen Ginsberg, Lenny Bruce, Jack Keruoac and many lesser lights.

Since his tendency is withdrawal, there are few well known beatniks. They accumulate in artistic centers and do little in public. The civil rights demonstrations are loaded with reactivated beatniks, but normally, they shun politics.

► The cool man — dispassionate and disinterested. He comes and goes; takes what he wants and leaves when he's had his fill.

The cool man can be committed to an action or cause, but he is not engulfed by his commitment. He approaches life like he would approach a roulette wheel; he decides ahead of time how much he can afford to lose, then walks away when he loses that much. If he wins, that is pure gravy.

The ultimate cool man is Charles de Gaulle. He, deeply identifies with France, but can let Algeria drop without wincing, bar England from the Common Market, and endanger NATO, despite his reliance on it.

Kennedy doesn't quite qualify. Although he's undoubtedly America's sharpest politician, and the coolest men in a political crisis, he's also sentimental. (Can you imagine De Gaulle, Dwight Eisenhower or Harry Truman, saying, "Ich bin Ein Berliner?").

Other cool men are Frank Sinatra, Cassius Clay, U Thant, Nelson Rockefeller, Paladin, Peter Sellers, Marlon Brando.

☆

WITH THESE three types aside, we can differentiate between the square and the non-square.

It must be pointed out that these choices are relative, and that under different comparisons, may be rated differently. The list is necessarily limited:

Clinton is to receive $2,589, and Britton is to get $1,121.

Lenawee County's share is $210,907.

The net receipts of the Highway Fund during April, May and June amounted to $47,265,540, an increase of 5.5 per cent over the same period last year.

Will Remain in Hospital

Maynard Mulvaney, hospitalized after being struck by a car two months ago will remain in the hospital for another month before he can return to Tecumseh.

King Tut Exhibition in Toledo

Specially-prepared settings will accentuate the richness, mystery and grandeur surrounding the burial places of Egyptian pharohs when the Toledo Museum of Art displays the famed "Tutankhamun Treasures" this fall, opening Sept. 13.

Otto Wittman, Museum director, said Museum staff members are creating a dramatic, tomb-like effect in the exhibition area to permit visitors to view the show as though they themselves are discovering the famed burial site.

Included in the exhibition will be more than 30 precious art objects from among the hundreds discovered in 1922 when archaeologists in Egypt's alley of the Kings unearthed the concealed tomb of Tutankhamun, known as King Tut.

King Tutanhamun died about 1343 B. C., at the age of 18, and his tomb was unknown for more than 3,000 years. Its discovery in 1922 is hailed as the most important archaeological "find" of the 20th century, and dramatic circumstances surrounding the discovery easily made it front-page news all over the world.

The exhibition, which runs from September 13 through October 15 at the Toledo Museum, has been lent by the government of the United Arab Republic.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

NEW YORK—A giant of steel, the SS United States, almost as long as three football fields, will be snuggling up to its mooring in LeHavre, France, as you read this.

Five days earlier, just a few hours after this was written, the beautiful ship gracefully slid out of Pier 86 at the foot of West 46th St., into the Hudson River.

The biggest and fastest luxury ship afloat, it even has blase New Yorkers staring when it comes into port.

Cherie and I are on our way to the Middle East. It's still almost impossible to believe it's happening.

We had a fine send-off from Toledo a week ago, when we caught the 20th Century Limited for Gotham. Mr. and Mrs. Terry Mackin drove us to Union Station, where we were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Day and their children. Bill is state editor of The Blade.

Mary Mackin kept saying, "It's really true. You're not dreaming." But even now as we are caught up in the whirl of a European voyage, I still think someone is going to awaken me and there we'll be at home.

From LeHarve, there will be a train trip to Paris for a few days at the French capitol.

Should be a couple of good stories around the Paris area where two Tecumseh natives are located. Dr. Malcomb Bagshaw is just wrapping up a one-year fellowship, during which he has been working on a cancer research project.

Maj. Gen. Webster Anderson heads up European Zone communications for the army, is headquartered in Orleans. The general and your writer have much in common, since during World War II, I was in army communications — for Co. G, 57th Infantry, 45th Division. (That's a joke, son.)

Tecumseh Products has a licensee in France, with the general office and lab in Paris. A chat with the folks there about the refrigeration compressor business in Europe should be interesting.

From Paris, we fly to Rome. Our hope is to have an audience with Pope Paul. Of course, we'll probably toss a coin in the fountain — and here's hoping there are a few left by this point.

Then it's another flight, this one to Cairo and the heart of our adventure begins. Of prime interest will be a trip to Aswan, where the new High Dam is being built, then a junket up the Nile to photograph and write about the 3,000-year-old antiquities.

We also are hoping to make a 200-mile trip to the foot of Mount Sinai, location of the world's oldest monastery, St. Catherine's where a team from the University of Michigan and Princeton University are preparing to make color photographs of works of art and rare books within its walls.

Built by the Greek Orthodox monks in the Sixth Century, it is still in use and miraculously escaped any damage during all those years. Getting to the Monestary is a feat in itself and we have exact instructions from Prof. George Forsyth, Jr., director of the Kelsey Museum, and leader of the expedition.

In New York, we were guests at the charming apartment of Gretta Porter, a Tecumseh gal who works here for a public relations firm. She's The Herald's official, unpaid, New York correspondent. We tell her a boutface by-line is far more important than a bunch of dollar bills.

Which gives me a good idea. I'm going to ask Gretta to do my column for next week, since I'll be at sea — probably in more ways than one.

1963-64 School Budget Passed; Doubts Expressed

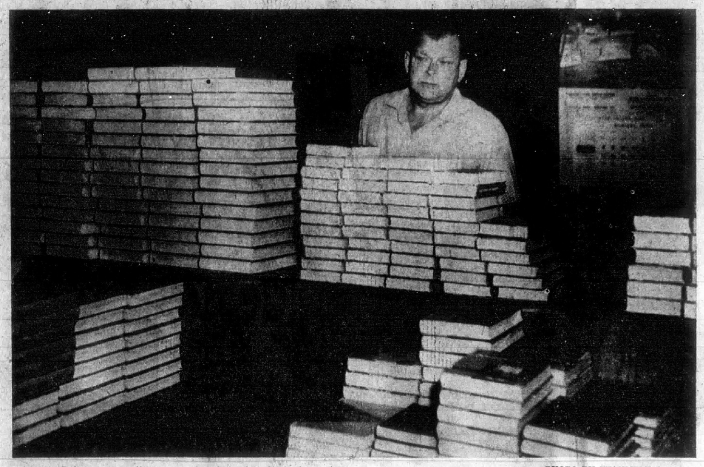
The 1963-64 Tecumseh school budget was approved, with some skepticism, Monday night by the school board.

The budget calls for revenue of $1,134,462.58 and expenditures of $1,067,852.58, excluding a $63,000 payment on the debt.

Several officials felt that an approximate $3,000 cushion was not enough.

Norval Bovee, business manager, pointed out that the schools were not properly maintaining the buildings and equipment, due to lack of sufficient funds.

According to authorities, a school system the size of Tecumseh should be spending about $70,000 annually for upkeep. An austerity program initiated two years ago reduced maintenance expenditures to $20,000.



ANTICIPATION — Neville Hart, principal of Tecumseh High School, looks over the stacks of books in preparation for the fall opening of school Thursday, Sept. 5. Opening day will consist of students paying book fees and an assembly will be held in the afternoon.

Bus Garage Still Posing Problem

No action was taken by the Tecumseh School Board Monday to cope with what may be an extremely troublesome problem: maintenance and repair of the school buses for the 1963-64 school year, which opens in just two weeks.

Only progress made was approval of sinking a gasoline tank and installing a pump to service the schools' 17 buses.

The schools unquestionably will open the school year with buses parked on James St., next to the superintendent's office, and operate much the same way as last May, farming out necessary maintenance and repair work.

Robert Moore, bus committee chairman, and Norval Bovee, business manager, reported on developments for building a garage.

Mr. Moore confirmed that the Council and Planning Commission had approved a building permit for a garage on James St. He also reported that both city governmental bodies hedged on allowing the schools to operate a garage in the old county garage on N. Pearl St.

A new garage proposed by the bus chairman Monday night called for a 40x48-foot concrete block structure by Wright Builders for $11,924, the price including an outside light and installation of a gasoline tank and pump.

The schools reportedly have been offered a gift of $10,000. If the Wright Builders construct the garage, the balance of $1,924 probably would have to be taken from the budget.

Additional costs for equipping the garage ran as high as $2,000. Several thought they could get by with less equipment and not spend nearly the amount estimated.

Possibility of erecting a steel building was suggested and estimates were requested.

Mr. Moore told board members that he doubted that Council would approve a steel building, indicating city officials were only approving a garage on James St. because it involves the schools and their financial difficulties.

Mr. Bovee reported that Mike Anderson, formerly chairman of the bus drivers association, had been employed as bus supervisor and mechanic.

His hourly pay will be $2.60 with working hours tentatively set from 6:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

This school year, if the garage is built, only minor repairs will be made in the garage, oil changed and the busses greased.

Drivers could pump their own gas, Mr. Moore stated, saving the 3c per gallon charged previously. He estimated the schools could save at least $5,000 total during the school term.

An apparent long range plan of the schools includes destruction of the present house on James St., now used for storage and warehouse, removal of the home at the street's junction with N. Maumee, renting of the present board of education building to an occupant, and transfering the board's headquarters to the old library on W. Chicago Blvd.

Two Schools To Discuss Merging

Possibilities of merging Britton-Macon and the Tecumseh school districts will be discussed at a joint meeting of boards, Milton Porter county superintendent, and two representatives of the state department, Supt. 5 at 8 p.m., at the Britton school.

The meeting, apparently brought about by Mr. Porter and state education officials, is the first formal gathering of the two schools for discussing merging into one district.

Schools Opening Sept. 5th

Two weeks from today on Sept. 5, over 3,000 students in the Tecumseh school system will start the 1963-64 term.

Only exception is the kindergarten which will not start until Friday, Sept. 6.

Teachers will first assemble at 8 a.m. at the high school study hall on Tuesday, Sept. 3, for the first of two days of meetings and for completion of necessary work for the opening of school.

A coffee and doughnut hour from 7:30 to 8 is planned, preceding the general teacher meeting in the study hall. It will be held in the high school cafeteria.

Elementary and secondary full-time principals, however, will be in their respective buildings, starting next Monday, Aug. 26. Principals will enroll new students at this time.

Hot lunch programs will begin opening day only in the high school. Milk will be available in the other schools except junior high. Eligibility of elementary children to eat at school will be determined by the same rules as last year.

Students who were enrolled here last spring already have received notices pertaining to grade and school in which they will attend.

New students should enroll with the principals in their offices, Aug. 27-28:

Neville Hart, at the high school, grades 9 through 12.

Dave Dick, junior high, grades 7 and 8.

Wayne Kaiser, Tecumseh Acres, kindergarten through grade 6.

Appeal Board Appointed

After a couple of months deliberation, Council Monday night appointed five residents to the Board of Appeal, the last resort for those who have lost requests before the Planning Commission and want to appeal their cases.

The appointees are:

Donald Brazee, assistant high school principal.

Fred Dickinson, retired, member of the cemetery board.

Richard Coak, physician.

John Thompson, retired president of United Savings Bank.

Arthur Schwartz, former councilman and teacher, employee at Tecumseh Products.

In the past, residents not satisfied with decisions of the Planning Commission have in turn appeared before Council for possible changes.

City Owned Concession Considered

The City Council discussed a request from Recreation Director Don Montague to purchase the concession stand owned by Harry Weakly, 206 S. Oneida and operating at Boysville, for future use at Nelson Field.

Many of the spectators during baseball games have asked for refreshments, Mr. Montague contended. He also felt a concession stand sponsored by the City would help defray recreation expenses.

Some opposition was voiced by Councilman Carl Lamb, who thought it unwise for the City to get involved in any retail selling.

"There are other organizations, such as the Little League, who could sell concessions and use the money," he pointed out.

The City Council delayed a decision on the request to make further study.

Council May Turn Over James St. to City Schools

The possibility of turning over James St. to the Tecumseh Schools was discussed Monday night by the City Council and turned over to City Manager Cal Zorn for further study.

It was generally felt that since the School owns most of the property on James St., and will be the only major user of the street, the City Council could turn it over to them.

With that change, maintenance of the street would be up to the School.

In effect, James St. would become a drive belonging to the school. This would help solve any problem that might arise if the proposed school bus garage need be constructed close to the street.

City Attorney James Beardsley advised that a private property owner on the north side of James St. and Maumee would still own half of the right-of-way on that corner.

Board Awards Gas Bid

Standard Oil Company with Agent James Barton, local bulk distributor, was awarded school contracts for gasoline and No. 2 fuel oil at Monday night's board meeting.

Five companies bid for the gasoline and nine for the fuel oil. Sun Oil Company of Toledo was low bidder for No. 5 grade fuel oil.

In other action, the board:

Accepted the audit report from Charles Gross, CPA, for Collins, Buri & McConkey, of Adrian.

Approved to borrow $150,000 from the United Savings Bank to meet future payrolls.

Accepted the resignation of Mrs. Opal Harper, teacher.

Authorized student insurance at $2 per student for accidents to, on and from school, excepting football.

Received superintendent's report that the Bagdon and Stanifer property on Murphy Hwy. had been transferred from the Clinton school district to Tecumseh, and some farm property had been transferred from Tecumseh to Clinton district.

Approved settlement of the Clinton-Tecumseh tax differences, Clinton paying the Tecumseh schools $815.92, and the local schools paying Clinton $315.92.

Rosacran's Quitting, Ending 95 Years Retailing History

A name synonymous with business in Tecumseh for nearly 100 years is passing from the scene.

The Rosacran Store is quitting business.

Ned Rosacran, present owner, made the announcement Tuesday, adding that the store will sell all of its merchandise, starting Friday morning, and then the store building.

The store was closed Wednesday for re-pricing items and will not open again until the sale starts Friday under supervision of Ed Christison, former Adrian businessman.

The Rosacran name is almost legendary in Tecumseh business, starting in 1868 when Fred Rosacran was first linked with the dry goods in the Anderson Dry Goods store.

In 1893, the shop became known as the Anderson & Rosacran store. In 1907, Mr. Anderson died, and Leon Rosacran joined his father. Two years later, another son, Eugene, joined his father and brother.

At this time, the store opened in the two sections of the Palman Building and remained for 33 years. In 1942, a fire practically wiped the store out.

That year the store moved to its present location, a site occupied many years previously. At one time, The Rosacran Store consisted of what is now Hodges Drug Store and Hite Hardware, plus the present building.

In 1935, Fred Rosacrans died, leaving the business to Leon and Eugene, who later moved to California. In 1945, Ned Rosacran returned from service and became a partner with his dad, who passed away in September, 1960.

Mr. Rosacrans says merchandise prices are being cut drastically for the sale and hopes it will remove all items by Saturday afternoon.

His plans for the future are uncertain.

Mrs. Leon Rosacran, who has worked in the family store for many years, is retiring.

GRAND CHAMPION — Corky Hunt, 10, and his Scotch Shorthorn heifer calf, Jeanie, ran away with the awards at the Lenawee County Fair in Adrian last week. Jeanie received two first places, two-champions and finally copped two Grand Champions, in 4-H and Open Class divisions. Corky, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunt, 9849 Murphy Hwy., is a first-time showman at the fair. His 4-H leader is Fred Long.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Mr. and Mrs. Almond Curtis and children, Marilyn and Spencer, have purchased a mink farm near North Adams, now their home.

They left Hillsdale after moving there from Tecumseh where they lived in Herrick Park.

Visiting them recently, we were taken on tour of the interesting two-acre ranch with it's 50 animals.

Each mink has his own spotlessly clean wire house with nothing in it and a covered box at the end for nighttime and rain shelter.

Nothing, not even the weather, must be allowed to damage the valuable pelt. No straw or hay is used and the food, thawed from the freezer, is placed on top of the cage.

When the babies are born they are about the size of the little finger but they grow extremely fast and at two months have attained a length of six or eight inches with a tail of like length.

Mrs. Esther Nelson of Great Falls, Montana who came for the Golden Wedding Anniversary of her aunt and uncle, Rev. and Mrs. Alvin Brazee, is a guest in their home for a couple weeks. Her mother was the late Mrs. Alta Brazee Huttinger.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Whiting and Bill left Monday evening to spend the week with friends in the Waterloo Area.

The eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Patton of Toledo is spending the week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne N. Patton.

Lee and Gus Nelson, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Nelson spent the weekend with their grandparents in Durand. Lee returned home with his parents Sunday and Gus is remaining until the end of the week.

Several friends of Mrs. Louis Schneider spent the evening Monday at her cottage at Wamplers Lake.

Kathy Shirley Visits Friends in Honolulu

Kathy Shirley of 412 W. Brown St. left June 16 for Hawaii to visit a college friend, Jean Yoshinoga.

Both girls were students at Olivet Nazarene College in Kankakee Ill.

Kathy has found a job at the Honolulu Trust Co. in downtown Honolulu.

By coincidence, Kathy and Pat Eberhart ran into one another and are now sharing an apartment.

Among the things she likes most about Hawaii are the orchids that grow in the back yard, little dolls, and the songs of Hawaiians. Kathy has attempted to eat with chopsticks. She finds it difficult to eat raw fish, which the islanders do.

Kathy plans to remain in Hawaii for at least a year.

School Book Rental Plan

Students attending the Tecumseh schools should be prepared to pay their book rental fees opening day, Sept. 5 for grades 1 through 12, and Sept. 6 for kindergartners.

The rental plan, adopted in 1947 and revised for 1962-63, will continue the same for the new term.

The fee schedule is:

Kindergarten — $3.
1st through 6 — $6.50.
7 and 8 — $7.
9 through 12 — $8.

The fees include textbooks, work books and art materials except in special classes where additional supplies are necessary.

The text books will remain the property of the schools. Fines will be assessed for damaged books, and lost books must be paid for in full. Teachers will collect fees.

High school pupils will report to the High School gym at 8 a.m. on Thursday, Sept. 5 and pay their textbook fees. They will then receive class schedules from their class advisor.

They may leave then unless they are to take prognostic tests for algebra or foreign language. These tests will be given later in the morning.

High school pupils will return at 1 p.m. for a general assembly and orientation period in the gymnasium. Regular classes will start Friday.

Students in physical education are expected to pay $1.50 fee for towels and locker at their first regular meeting on Friday.

☆

JUNIOR HIGH

Junior high students also will report at 8 a.m. on Thursday, in the seventh grade in the boys gym on the first floor, and the eighth grade in the girls gym on the third floor.

Book fees will be collected and schedule cards passed out. Pupils may then leave till 1 p.m., when they will attend their sixth hour class for orientation.

Students in senior and junior high who do not pay their book fees should report to their principal's office before receiving permission to enroll.

Leaves Scene

Francis W. Cole, of Wyandotte, was arrested at 1:45 p.m. Sunday by Clinton state police and booked at the county jail on charges of leaving the scene of a property damage accident and driving without a valid operator's license.

Cole was arrested as the result of an accident at 12:45 p.m. Sunday on Hogan Road, south of US-12. The other driver was James P. Marcum, 37, of Tecumseh, troopers said.

BURTON B. BRACKNEY, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Brackney of 808 Occidental Highway was named consultant to handle assignments dealing with junior colleges in Colorado, Aug. 1 by the State Education Board. Mr. Brackney has been on the staff of the Institute for Community Development at Michigan State University for the past five years. The Brackney's will make their home in Denver.

Kindergarten Bus Schedules

Although kindergarteners will not start school until Friday, Sept. 6, parents are requested to meet the child's teacher on Thursday, and pay the $3 book fee.

Wherever possible rural kindergarten pupils have been placed in morning sections to facilitate bus schedules.

Bus drivers will make home calls sometime between Wednesday morning, Sept. 4 and the night of Sept. 5 to acquaint parents with their child's bus routine.

Bus schedules for kindergarners have been changed this year in the interest of economy only. Formerly, it was not possible to pick up kindergartners with other elementary children because of the lack of bus space.

With the purchase of two new buses and return of the junior high from a five to six-hour day, kindergartners are now scheduled on regular elementary trips. Only noon runs will be extra.

These changes also have necessitated changing the kindergarten school day.

Say You Saw It in The Herald

Thanks

During the past eight months, I've found myself calling Herrick Memorial Hospital "home" for quite a bit of the time — nearly 45 days. Through surgery, treatment and convalescence, I've formed some definite ideas about local hospital and the people who serve it.

In one word, they're tops.

Take the doctors who looked after me — Dr. Al Phelan, Dr. Harold Ocamb and Dr. M. L. Blanden — their efforts will never be forgotten. And the other medicos on the staff, who dropped by to speak a cheery "hello" now and again cannot realize how much those meant.

Our nurses with their quiet, efficient and happy manner helps make one realize what the fellow had in mind when he came up with the term "Angel of Mercy." Our nurses' aides are cut from the same mold.

When it comes to food, Herrick Memorial just can't be beaten. Dieticians and kitchen staff members are dedicated to the task of keeping the patients as hale and happy as possible.

My hardiest and sincere thanks for the most wonderful treatment anyone could ever get. Our community has an excellent hospital and I'll always be the first to report that fact.

Nancy Brown, Neil Benedict Wed

BRITTON — Nancy Lee Brown and Neil Benedict were united in marriage in a beautiful candlelight ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 17 in the Congregational Christian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Brown of 238 College Ave., Britton, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Benedict of North Britton Hwy.

The Rev. Gustav Hannevik performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. William Rackarn presided at the organ and played a prelude of nuptial music and accompanied William Hetrick as he sang "The Lords Prayer' and "The Wedding Prayer".

☆

LARGE sprays of white gladioli and Boston daisies adorned either side of the altar and the family pews were marked with tall white candles holding white fans and glads.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, approached the altar on the arm of her father. She wore a gown of white Chantilly lace.

The scalloped neckline was embroidered with sequins and pearls, featured elbow length sleeves and a chapel train.

Her veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of crystals and pearls.

She wore a diamond necklace, a gift of the groom.

The bridal bouquet was made of lamplighter roses, stephinotis centered with white orchids and pearl streamers.

☆

JUDY McCLUE of Britton, close friend of the bride, was the maid of honor. Her ballerina length gown was of pale gold crystalette over taffeta with a rounded neck and short cap sleeves.

The full skirt featured a butterfly bow in back.

Her headdress was a circle of daisies with a gold circle veil over top.

She carried a white lace fan with gold roses and white daisies.

The bridesmaids were Laurie Williams of Tipton, Elaine Cadmus and Bridgett Miller of Britton all friends of the bride.

Their gowns, headdresses and bouquets were identical to those of the maid of honor.

☆

JERRY BENEDICT of Farmington served his brother as best man.

Lee Benedict of Farmington, brother of the groom, Philip Benedict of Britton, cousin of the groom and Richard Seagert were the ushers.

The ringbearer was Jeff Brown, cousin of the bride.

Sherrie Benedict and Linda Agner served their aunt and uncle as flower girls.

They wore floor length gowns of gold crystalette and their headdresses and flowers were miniature replicas of the other attendants.

Rodger Brown, brother of the bride and James Brown, cousin of the bride, lighted the many candles which enhanched the setting for the lovely ceremony.

Mrs. Brown chose an aqua organza and lace dress and accessories to match for her daughters wedding.

She wore a white orchid corsage.

☆

THE GROOM'S mother wore a gown of antique rose lace with matching accessories and a white orchid.

Four hundred guests attended the reception at the Tecumseh Community Center following the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace greeted guests from Bowling Green, O., Dearborn, Belleville, Toledo, O., Adrian, Chelsea, Blissfield Milan, Tipton, Onsted, Tecumseh and Britton.

The bride's table featured a three-tiered wedding cake and two tall candleabra, the table was flounced with yellow and white net.

Mrs. Jerry Benedict served punch, Mrs. Raynor Brown presided at the coffee service and Mrs. Carl McClue served tea.

The wedding cake was served by Mrs. Carl Brown and Mrs. Lee Benedict and Mrs. Charles Benedict and Mrs. Stanley Agner served the groom's cake.

Kay Benedict was in charge of the guest book and Mrs. William Miller, Yvonne Osterhout, Mary Ehlert and Kathleen Saudnicka assisted with the gifts.

☆

FOR HER wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the new Mrs. Benedict were a loden green suit with black patent shoes and bag and a corsage of yellow mums.

The couple both graduated from Britton-Macon High School in 1961. She is a graduate of the Adrian Beauty School and worked at Eva's Beauty Bar in Tecumseh.

The groom attended Andrew Barber College in Toledo and works at Thyer View Barber Shop in Toledo.

Britton - Macon Schools Open Aug. 30

BRITTON — William Saxton, superintendent of the Britton-Macon Area Schools, wishes to announce that school will officially open Friday, Aug. 30.

There will be a Teachers' Conference and Organizational Meeting at 9 a.m. in the school cafeteria.

School will start for pupils Tuesday, Sept. 3 at 8:30 a.m., except for the kindergarten, and will be dismissed at noon on the first day.

Parents of kindergarten children who did not register last spring will register them Tuesday, Sept. 3.

Regular classes for the kindergarten will start Wednesday Sept. 4.

☆

ALL CHILDREN living northeast of the Wabash Railroad tracks will attend classes in the morning and those living southeast of the tracks will go in the afternoon.

Mr. Saxton asks that mothers of kindergarten children put them on buses the first day, rather than bringing them to school.

Those who do bring their children Wednesday are requested to leave them in the room with the teacher and not remain.

It is believed this method makes for easier adjustment for the child.

☆

NEW STUDENTS are asked to enroll at the principal's office during the weeks of Aug. 19-23, and Aug. 26-29.

The time for registering will be from 9-12 a.m. and from 1-3 p.m.

Cafeteria lunches will be served beginning Wednesday, Sept. 4 for all pupils and teachers.

Pupils who do not carry their lunches are expected to eat at the school cafeteria.

The driving of motor vehicles by students during the noon hour will not be permitted.

If a student wishes to drive his or her car they must obtain permission from the school office.

OUR READERS WRITE

EDITORS:

I have just finished reading your editorial on seat belts, and thought you might like to have a copy of a recently completed study made by Auto Club's safety and traffic director.

This is the first comprehensive study made by an organization not directly connected with the production and sale of automobiles, or operating under a grant from them.

We published it several months ago, and have given it to police and safety officials around the state.

Best regards,
Leonard R. Barnes,
Associate Editor.

To the Editors:

Just a note to let you know that I agree with your inference that non-squares such as President Kennedy are not concerned about security, tradition, doing things the right way, Americanism, and flags on the 4th of July. I also agree with your inference that a non-square such as President Kennedy will use anarachy (sic).

Five Top-Notchers Going to State 4-H Club Show

The Tecumseh Top-Notchers 4-H club will be represented at State 4-H Club Show, Michigan State University, August 26-29 by five members.

Shelly Barber, Ruth Ann Warner, Sonja Sprague, and Rick Skinner will have exhibits, and Diane Ries will give her demonstration.

These selections were made at the Lenawee County fair. Each selection was made for being tops in his specific division.

In addition Rick Skinner was awarded a sweepstakes ribbon for being tops in the whole electrical division for his electronics entry.

Diane Ries also received a sweepstakes ribbon for the top demonstration at the fair. Her demonstration entitled "Have a Party Maker" showed how to make party sandwiches and will be given in state competition on Wednesday of State Show.

For her sweepstakes she will receive an educational trip in the fall.

Sonja Sprague is representing Lenawee County with her second year wildflower exhibit in the conservation division.

The cookie exhibit in the foods division was a winner for Shelly Barber. Ruth Ann Warner received the honor for her second year knitting exhibit.

Indians Open Football Practice Next Monday

Four weeks from tomorrow night, hundreds of Tecumseh grid fans will journey to Willow Run for the opening football game of the Tecumseh season.

In a little less time than four weeks and what could be one of Tecumseh's toughest games of the season, Coach Tom Fagan and his assistants have their work cut out for them.

Starting Monday, Fagan and his colleagues will begin fall practice with a turnout of well over 100 Tecumseh high players.

Although there are 18 lettermen back, there are some gaping holes to fill. Gone are Tim Sisson, Dan Greer, [illegible] Johnson from the backfield.

Gaps in the line bound to draw considerable attention are positions vacated by Norm Tucker, Jerry Forsythe, Phil Radant, Dave Blanden, Steve Fretwell and others.

Leading the lettermen back are the tri-captains—Jim Tilton, Jay Osburn and Dave Lemerand.

All three could be among the best in the Huron League this fall — and will have to be if the Indians stand a chance for repeating as title-holders.

One gathers from talking to Tom Fagan that the picture is far from gloomy. He's got some Jayhawker 5 who will make some letterwinners hustle, and some who undoubtedly will gain starting berths.

Expected out for Monday's first practice are 20 seniors, 36 juniors and 43 sophomores. Biggest batch will be the yearlings where upwards of 80 freshmen have indicated coming out for football.

Fred Gets a 'Bum' Steer

Fred Pokorny, 9299 Tonneberger Dr., received a telephone call Saturday night saying he had won a steer at the fair.

"Thank you", said he, "I'll pick it up in the morning" with no idea how to transport it home.

After scouring the countryside he obtained a vehicle and he and his wife trotted off to the Adrian Fairgrounds, where upon inquiry, they received the question, "What steer?"

It then dawned on the couple that the steer was one being raffled by the Manchester American Legion, therefore the animal must be at the Manchester Fair.

They traveled to Manchester expecting to find a calf that would have to be raised.

Upon arrival they found a full-grown 1,000-pound steer.

The animal is now at Irish Hills Locker, where, needless to say, steaks are on order.

The Bucket Lived Through Prohibition

The Bucket — a name long known in this area — is the moniker of one of the oldest beer gardens in Lenawee County.

Established before prohibition, around 1910, it was formerly located on the four corners in Clinton.

A local citizen stated it was here when he arrived in Clinton in 1918.

During prohibition it was converted to a restaurant and ice cream parlor and after prohibition changed back to its original status.

Former owners, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schwartz, purchased the bar in 1952 and this past year they moved it from the corner property to the middle of the downtown block in Clinton.

☆

NOW in the location of the oldest store building in Clinton, formerly a hardware store, the modern bar has walls paneled in mahogany and a sandstone front.

Due to health reasons, the couple sold the bar at its new establishment in September to Joe Fortunato of Ypsilanti and Stan Andrews of Jackson.

Mr. Fortunato is a former owner of the Thunderbird Lanes in Ypsilanti. He is married and has six children.

Mr. Anderson was formerly associated with Goodyear Tire Co., where he published the plant paper. He is also married and is the father of two children.

Both men hope to move to this area in the near future.

The bar features standard lunches and sandwiches plus homemade chili on weekends. The new owners plan to serve pizza this fall.

They feature a live orchestra on Friday and Saturday nights and plan to have dancing on Sunday also.

Begin New Arts Building

INTERLOCHEN — Construction of Interlochen's new Charles Stewart Mott Language Arts Building will begin shortly, according to Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, president and founder of the National Music Camp and Interlochen Arts Academy.

"A $200,000 grant from the Mott Foundation made it possible to begin construction on the new building for the Interlochen Arts Academy and National Music Camp," said Dr. Maddy.

The building will be designed by Alden B. Dow, internationally famed architect, and is expected to be completed within a year.

The Mott Building will house eight language classrooms with at least one language laboratory.

Autos Sell at Record Pace in '63

With the automobile industry establishing an all-time high sales year, automobile dealers in many Michigan communities are finding a brisk demand for passenger cars and trucks.

An analysis of new vehicle registrations in the first five months of 1963 shows that 1,567 passenger cars and 238 trucks were titled in Lenawee County.

In the period studied, 201,695 new passenger cars and 19,497 new trucks were registered in Michigan's 83 counties.

Hare cited industry figures showing that more than 5,000,000 motor vehicles have been produced in the United States since the first of the year and that more than 7,000,000 cars and trucks had been manufactured during the 1963 model year.

New School Hours Established

New school hours for 1963-64 for Tecumseh have been established and released by Supt. James McDowell.

The Junior High, which has operated on a shortened schedule of one hour, per day, for the last two years because of lack of sufficient funds to operate all programs that were in the curriculum prior to the 1960-61 school year, will return to a full six-hour day schedule.

The Junior High and bus children in the Senior High will again both have the same length of school day, 8 a.m. to 3:10 p.m.

According to Supt. McDowell, it is more economical to run buses more trips than to lay out the money for additional ones; therefore, since there are insufficient funds to maintain adequate educational programs at present, it seems unwise to purchase enough buses so that more than 1600 bus children can be transported at once.

The Board of Education has decided to purchase only enough buses to keep the fleet at 17, with one spare. It will be impossible to transport all children at once and staggered school starting times, as in the past, will enable all bus children to reach school. Parents have been very cooperative concerning these matters in the past.

The Administrative Council of the schools, consisting of the superintendent, business manager, building principals, maintenance engineer and bus supervisor, met to discuss methods of scheduling various schools so that every child in the district will have the same program even though the school days will start and end at various hours.

After much discussion and planning, the Council presented the following plan to the Board of Education which it approved for the new year, although some minor changes may be necessary yet this fall.

The Macon, Ridgeway and Tipton schools will begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 11:30 a.m. for lunch. The afternoon session will begin at 12:00 noon and end at 2:00 p.m. Since few children walk to schools some parents and teachers have always felt that an hour at noon was too long, so this change may be welcome.

The Tecumseh Acres, Herrick Park, Patterson, and West Branch schools, all of which have bus pupils enrolled, will start at 8:30 a.m., and a lunch period starting at 11:30 a.m. and ending at 12:30 p.m. School will be out at 2:30 p.m. Children living within 1 mile of school will be expected to walk home for lunch. Therefore, the lunch period must be longer than in the rural area schools.

The kindergarten at Ridgeway will begin the first session at 8:30 a.m. and be out at 11:00 a.m. The second session will begin at 11:30 a.m. and run until 2:00 p.m.

At Herrick Park, Patterson, and Tecumseh Acres, the first session will be from 8:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m., and the second from noon until 2:30 p.m.

By operating on these schedules, the special bus trips necessary at the present time to pick up kindergartners in the morning and to take them home at night will not be necessary, as these pupils will ride the regular elementary buses.

Some savings in operating funds will be enabled by these changes.

The scheduling of school days so that over sixteen hundred pupils may be transported economically over an eighty-one square mile school district area on seventeen 60 and 66 passenger buses is a tremendous job, says Mr. McDowell.

Individual bus schedule times will be issued to parents and pupils before school opens this fall.

State Fair Called Biggest Ever

Michigan's 114th annual State Fair, Aug. 23 to Sept. 2, promises to be a record-breaker in attendance and participation. It will also be one of the biggest bargains.

For example, there'll be no extra-charge Coliseum show this year. The show, featuring top-name stars such as Duke Ellington, Les Elgart, Johnny Desmond and Dinah Washington, has been moved to the Music Shell and will be free.

In the Coliseum, meanwhile, the horses and livestock have taken over, with 12 horse shows plus livestock judging scheduled . . all free, of course.

☆

ALSO included for the general admission price of $1 (with children under 12 free when with an adult) are the Grandstand shows featuring Grand Ole Opry stars . . . . all the agricultural, industrial, and home arts exhibits and various special events and contests.

And senior citizens will pay a general admission price of only 50 cents on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday until 3 p.m. and will be admitted free until 3 p.m. on "their day," Wednesday, Aug. 28.

Walter A. Goodman, State Fair general manager, predicted that last year's attendance record of 1,002,681 would be shattered.

Among the new features this year will be a special Teen-Age Fair, direct from Hollywood, covering approximately 10 acres of the grounds. The 50-cent charge for this Teen-Age Fair will cover more than 300 special entertainment events and exhibits.

☆

GOODMAN said that every day at the State Fair will be Agriculture Day, in keeping with the goal of stressing the contributions of the farmer and the farm community to Michigan.

In addition these special days are scheduled:

Friday, August 23 — Grand Opening Day, with a downtown Detroit parade at 8 p.m. and ribbon-cutting ceremonies at 6 p.m. at the Fairgrounds.

Saturday, August 24 — Veterans' Day, with veterans and members of veteran groups and auxiliaries admitted free until 3 p.m.

Sunday, August 25 — Religion Day, with special Sunrise Service.

Monday August 26 — Beauty Queens' Day, with judging to select Miss Michigan State Fair of 1963. Sports celebrities will be saluted also on this day.

Tuesday, August 27 — Children's Day. Special contests and events for the youngsters.

Wednesday, August 28 — Old Timers' Day. Special contests and events for the senior citizens.

Thursday, August 29 — Ford Centennial Day, saluting the 100th anniversary of the birth of Henry Ford.

Friday, August 30 — Teachers' Day, honoring our educators. Teachers admitted free until 3 p.m.

Saturday August 31 — Governor's Day with Gov. George Romney in person, and International Day, with various ethnic groups presenting programs.

Sunday, September 1 — 250-Mile Race Day.

Monday, September 2 — Labor Day and closing of the State Fair.

Janet Lawhead Set for 2nd Year Abroad

Tecumseh girl Janet Lawhead is going to spend her second year teaching abroad.

Last year she taught in Germany, this year it will be Japan.

After spending a few days with friends near San Francisco, she left Tuesday for Tachikawa Air Force Base in Japan. She planned to stop in Hawaii en route.

Miss Lawhead is being tentatively assigned to teach elementary education at Yokota, where there will be approximately 1,700 children. A high school and junior high school are also on the base.

She will be living at Johnson Air Force Base which is about one and a half hours from Tokyo.

From her location, Janet will be able to see Mt. Fuji.

The school year starts early where Miss Lawhead will be located because of the rainy season which begins in June and school is dismissed before the rains start.

MISS LAWHEAD received her bachelor of science degree and taught school here for two years, one of the requirements before teaching abroad.

Last year she taught in Germany.

She made her application through Chicago, and has a civil service rating, being employed by the Dept. of the Air Force, and will have the civilian rank of lieutenant.

She will have the privilege of base housing, the officers' club. She is basically a civil service employee.

Rank in civil service employment varies with the job.

Girl Friends Get Together

Miss Jane Hartman of Clinton and Miss Pat Rutherford of Tecumseh, were recent three-day guests of Miss Charlene Juszczyk of Jackson.

The girls met together for the first time since they were housed in the same cabin at the Senior Girl Scout Conference at Camp O' the Hills three years ago. Pat, a Senior Girl Scout, was their cabin hostess and they have been pen pals since.

The girls spent three days renewing conference activities and visiting many interesting places in Jackson.

Study Source of Wisdom, Understanding

"Whence then cometh wisdom? and where is the place of understanding?" This passage from Job (28:20) will be part of the Responsive Reading this Sunday at Christian Science Society.

The Bible Lesson is entitled "Mind."

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Another college year opens in several weeks and a rich and rewarding experience will be at hand for an estimated 8,000 freshmen who will enter Michigan's universities and colleges for the first time.

This moment should not be looked upon as just the continuation of one's education, but more importantly as a memorable milestone in the young person's life.

It is the time when the student must decide whether he is going to make something out of his life or whether he is just going to live, with a minimum of effort.

As young men and women with the most important and challenging years of their lives ahead, decisions will have to be made.

These decisions will not be merely to determine what courses they should take, what extra-curricular activities to participate in, or what sports to try out for, but more essentially it will be a time of decisions about a philosophy of life and setting goals.

☆

MANY of you who are entering college probably feel you have a head start in this direction. If so, fine. Stick to your convictions and fulfill these goals. And apply yourselves always to the fullest of your capabilities.

What I want to emphasize is that the opportunities for advancement are unlimited as you launch your college education. There were never greater opportunities than there are today.

Your opportunities are worldwide as citizens of a nation that occupies a position of world leadership.

This is the period of preparation for you. Many people talk about luck. Well, luck is 90 percent preparation meeting opportunity. So you should take the fullest advantage of the opportunities you have at the institution of your choice and be prepared when your career opportunities come.

The greatest formula for success I know is to do your present job well.

I feel it is unfortunate that many of our college graduates these days leave the campus with a degree but without a sense of accomplishment, bewildered as to where to go from there.

This will not happen if you realize that education is more than books and absorbing an avalanche of facts. I believe that knowledge is essential to freedom and human happiness, but that education should have as its further objectives the formation of character and citizenship and the development of individual talent.

John Gardner of the Carnegie Corporation once said:

"Pursue excellence. The man who does his job well tones up the whole society. Be a better citizen. Live a better life.

Every good man strengthens society. Men of integrity by their very existence rekindle the belief that as a people we can live above the level of moral squalor."

Don't be part of an aimless drift to nowhere. Set your ultimate goals early — in college or earlier — and pursue them zealously.

Participate fully in college and be informed of everyday happenings on the local, state, national and international levels. And don't shun the difficult, because the pursuit of easy things makes men weak and the pursuit of difficult things makes men strong.

Jack D. Sisson, fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Sisson, 107 S. Van Buren, is serving aboard the anti-submarine warfare support aircraft carrier USS Wasp which recently participated in fleet operations in the Caribbean.

Ports of call during the Caribbean deployment included New Orleans, La.; the Republic of Honduras; Kingston, Jamaica; and St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

SUCCESS . . . what is it? Most everybody is looking for it in one way or another. Does Success mean money, prestige, power, accomplishment or just what?

We like the definition which says . . . "Success is that element which gives satisfaction in living." If you are happy in the work you are doing, sharing what you have with others, living and let living live, then you are a successful person.

There is a story about the reporter who was interviewing a very successful and important man. He asked the question: "To what do you attribute your success?" The man thought a while and said . . . "Well, I am just trying to make an honest living and I do not have much competition."

Then there are a number of successful women I know. Perhaps they have never held a job or enjoyed a career yet they have made a great success of life. All they have done is make a marriage work, raised children to be respected members of society, given humbly of their time and love in need . . . a great deal I think to give this hectic world of ours.

The smart women always plan in advance, that is why so many are looking at the new fall coats at Clinton Woolen. They are coming in almost every day; choose yours while the selection is at it's very best. We will be glad to hold it for you until you are ready to call for it.

Our coordinate groups for the modern miss are moving right out the door. There are lots of new ideas in their styling . . . of course everywhere you will find the Ski influence.

Three Archers Place

Three Tecumseh archers placed high in the Progressive Archery Association of Southeastern Michigan competition Aug. 11 at the Shawnee Archery Club north of Monroe.

Mrs. Donald Creger, 804 S. Union, topped the Women's Free Style in the 125 class with 420 points, and received a trophy.

James Bliesner, 1022 River Acres Dr., brought back a 2nd place medal in the 400 Men's Free Style competition with a 923 score. Mr. Bliesner shot in the top men's class.

Mrs. W. D. Hite, 308 W. Kilbuck, took third place in the 175 class, Women's Free Style nearly 500 points to bring a ribbon home.

The competition was divided into two parts, the Field Round and the Hunter Round, each with 28 targets.

In the Hunter Round, the targets have a black face and white center. The archers are never certain where they will score on these targets. This round is shot from a variety of positions.

The Progressive Archers will hold their Target Championship meet at Ella Sharp Park in Jackson on Aug. 25, 10 a.m. The Jackson Club will also host the State Target Championship on

MARDA GENE DUNCAN'S

Thru My Window

SCHOOL IS IN SESSION

We never heard the morning bell ring but, sure as anything, school was in session.

Fortunately for me, two of the busiest classes were conducted right outside the window — one was in the front yard, the other on the feeder. The lessons were tough, too, because of course, the pupils were baby birds and all they had to learn about surviving in this life was crammed at them in what seemed to us an incredibly short time.

Mrs. Flicker and Junior convened in the front yard. As might be expected, he was a big strapping character, feathers still a little on the rough and ragged side.

He showed a bit more yellow than usual; it was quite noticeable on the edges of his wings and tail. Even at such an early age he had bald, black moustache markings on his face; they gave him quite a roguish appearance.

☆

ONE of the main lessons in the flicker school was ant-hunting. These wiggly things are high on the birds' list of favorite foods and so it was quite important that Junior learn all about catching them. Mrs. F. was a careful teacher and we thoroughly enjoyed sitting in on the class.

Much of her teaching technique was demonstration — she hopped around the yard 'til a likely looking spot was found and then she used her head. (Oh, Marda, that was pretty bad!)

Seriously, she used her big long bill and bang, bang, bang; up and down, as fast as a trip hammer, until finally a hole was excavated.

By this time Junior was at her side; he wasn't very good at finding likely looking places but he certainly knew when his mother had.

IT WAS comical to watch him come, at top speed, to her side. Getting as close as he could he would put his head right next to hers — would that be called getting a birds-eye view? (Apologies, once again.)

Imagine, both of those bills in one hole! Usually, I suppose after all instructions had been given, Mother Flicker left Junior to his eating and she started looking for more ants.

Occasionally, however, she decided that it was her turn and when Junior came dashing over, she neither made room for him nor left. As the old bird ate, the young one went into the typical baby-bird begging routine.

He crouched down, almost flattened against the ground, opened his mouth wide and fluttered his wings. Oh, but he looked so pitifully helpless and so desperately hungry, too!

☆

USUALLY, the ruse worked and he conned his mother into feeding him. This was really something to see! With Junior crouched low and mouth gaping open, she would straighten up, aim her enormous bill at his cavernous mouth, and jab!

She must have put her bill far down his throat because it almost seemed as though her head disappeared. With much jerking and bobbing up and down the youngster received dinner. What a performance!

One surprising thing about the whole procedure was that it was carried out in complete silence. Most of the babies we see begging for food, we hear also — they scream loud and long, as the saying goes. Maybe it's a good thing though, knowing how loud an adult flicker can rattle — just think how much noise Junior could have made had he been so inclined.

We missed the graduation exercises but school is apparently out because for the past week or so, there have been no classes held. The yard has been full of flickers, however, and I strongly suspect that, while we were watching the goings on in our yard, Mr. Flicker was in somebody else's front yard conducting classes.

I hope they all stay in the neighborhood; wouldn't it be fun to go into the winter with five of the big-billed ones around!

So it is that once again we are out of space and the discussion of the schooling, which went on at the feeding station, will have to wait until next week.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

More of the Same

Michigan Farmers will examine ideas for a new system of Justice Courts which will be abolished by the new Constitution within five years.

Farm Bureau groups will be discussing a new court setup throughout the state. The Bureau takes the view that Justice of Peace courts have been unjustly condemned. They point out:

"The average citizen indicts the Justice Courts because they charge 'court costs' to provide incomes for the Justices. Few know that the costs are specifically stipulated by state law for all courts, and that justices receive fees whether a defendant is found guilty or innocent.

"Court charges made by the Justices of the Peace are audited monthly, with the Justice getting only what the law provides."

Be that as it may, the Justice Courts will be replaced by something new. The Farm Bureau suggests that the following points be kept in mind when concerned people discuss a new system.

►Local courts should be convenient to reach.

►Some lay judges will have to be permitted in areas of small population which cannot afford the salary of a trained lawyer as Judge.

►A continuation of some form of the present fee system, to avoid new taxes.

These recommendations sound like more of the same, since the fee system is under question, and not the usefulness of the justice courts.

"No one knows what is going to happen," Justice Ernest Oliver, remarked. "The law says the legislature must form a new court system in five years, and so far, nothing has been done."

The legislature may assign a committee to study the problem and continue the present fee system until concrete recommendations are made, Justice Oliver agreed. Or they may have the Attorney General rule on the situation.

Presently, he noted, the fee system pays all of the Justices' salary, which may be anywhere from $100 to $300 a month.

But at the moment, nobody knows what's going to replace the fee system.

It looks very much like the Constitutional Committee did not make an adequate study before recommending a new Justice Court system. Nor did they set any guidelines for what they had in mind.

Most likely we will get a parallel Court system with an altered method of financing under a new name. It does not look like it will be much different.

At Last

We received evidence that people are finally beginning to accept the need for safety belts in cars. (See letters to the Editor).

Ten per cent of the Rambler buyers now want seat belts compared with one per cent a year ago.

Chevrolet in the first 10 months of 1961 installed 85,000 seat belts compared to 7,400 in 1960.

Ford Divisions delivery to dealers jumped from 6,000 a month last year to a current rate of 21,300 a month.

Plymouth on 1961 models installed seat belts in 1.5 per cent of the cars produced at its Detroit Plant. For 1962 models, the figure was 8.2 per cent.

Moreover, it was found that 54 per cent used seat belts for all travel, local and long distance, while only 34 per cent of the seat belt owners used them all the time in 1961.

Population Explosion

They told him to cheer up, it could get worse. So he cheered up, and sure enough, it got worse.

The space problem in the Tecumseh High School is a problem that has been getting worse each year.

But they have just about reached the saturation point, according to N. L. Hart, principal of Tecumseh High School.

"If we aren't given more room by next year," Mr. Hart claimed, "We'll have to go on half days."

Right now, they are figuring out how to cram 900 students into a high school built for 600.

"I don't think people realize just how big our school system has grown," Mr. Hart continued. "There are nearly as many people in high school today as there were in the whole school system 10 years ago."

In 10 years, the size of the high school student body has almost tripled. In 1950-51, there were 332 students in high school. In 1962-63, there were 838.

A list of yearly growth gives a graphic description of the school populationwise.

1950-51, 332	1957-58, 608
1951-52, 334	1958-59, 624
1952-53, 363	1959-60, 651
1953-54, 422	1960-61, 697
1954-55, 453	1961-62, 754
1955-56, 470	1962-63, 838
1956-57, 534

In order to handle the large number of students, the school officials have tried such things as staggered lunch hours and different starting times.

Some students start their school at 8 a.m. and end at 3 p.m. Others start at 9 a.m. and end at 4 p.m. About 30 students will start at 10 a.m. and end at 4 p.m., but these 30 will be deprived of a study hall.

Others will not be able to take their physical education courses.

Sports will also suffer, Mr. Hart noted, because the teams can't begin practice until 4 p.m. This causes some problems at home also, with students returning home late, he added.

The problem promises to get worse before it gets better. Counting just the students in the lower grades now, the high school population will climb to 1,038 in 1971.

The projected increase in high school enrollment for the next 10 years is listed below:

1962-63, 838	1967-68, 931
1963-64, 888	1968-69, 964
1964-65, 916	1969-70, 969
1965-66 919	1970-71, 994
1966-67, 894	1971-72, 1,038

This does not take into account the possible influx of new families in Tecumseh.

If it means going on half days, then the 11th and 12th grades would go to school in the morning, and the 9th and 10th grades would go to school in the afternoons.

This sounds like bad news for the upcoming students.

We hope a resolution of the problem can be achieved before our youths' education is curtailed.

THERE'S NO JUSTICE, at least not under the new constitution, that is, there may not be after the legislature sets up a new Justice Court system. Ernest Oliver, Tecumseh Justice of the Peace, shown here with his secretary, Suzan Hohenstein, thinks the legislature will establish a court system parallel to the old one. It is the fee system under attack, he explains, and right now, no one knows what the legislature will do.

Hate your date. Tell Andy, c/o The Herald.

Dear Andy,

Last Saturday night I was sitting home with nothing to do when my friend called and said he'd fix me up with a blind date. I was dying of boredom so I said ok.

Well he arrived with the girls and I got in the car and was pleasantly surprised that my blind date wasn't bad looking at all. But what really bugged me was her seeing-eye dog. I put my arm around her and the dog starts growling so I moved to the other side of the car and the dog jumped on the seat and started licking my face. Boy, I've seen some sandpaper beards but you ought to feel a sandpaper tongue.

PLEASE, how can I make this doggone—

Yours truly,
Sammy

Dear Sammy,

You can try seeing eye-to-eye with his mistress. If this fails, lather your cheeks with cream and let him lick the fuzz off.

Yours,
Andy

By TOM BRIEN

The old chestnut, "It costs more to be poor than it does to be rich," is still true.

Since my recent marriage, the problems of budgetary finance have settled on my life like an overcast day that won't leave.

Back in my bachelor days, bills were never much of a problem. All that really mattered was keeping enough change in my pocket so that I could cut loose on weekends.

In the event I really got pressed for payments, I could pull the disappearing act — to a new city or a new house.

This way I could at least delay the indignant righteousness of all my aggrieved creditors.

☆

NO MORE. All that wonderful freedom stayed alongside the altar, like shed clothes, as the church doors clanged shut and ended my youth forever.

Now a week doesn't go by when some bill collector, grocery — almost always a hired hand — stands in my doorway and demands money with his inevitable "We're doing you a favor," attitude.

So I decided to figure out just how much more it cost to be poor than it cost to be rich.

I am not speaking of abject poverty, nor vulgar wealth. I'm setting the great divide at the same general figure that the United States government observes.

In other words, below $4,000 per annum will be considered poor, and over $8,000 (or any such astronomical yearly income figure) will be considered rich.

☆

WE'LL START with the basics.

A $1,000 dollar jalopy — nothing like the ritzy $4,000 plus auto for a long time to come — will cost the poor man an extra $100 to $150 dollars to finance.

That equals two weeks pay for the $4,000 a year man. Two weeks and two days after taxes.

The $4,000 a year man earns $76 per week, between $60 and $70 after taxes.

A $14,000 home will cost up to $35,000 over a 20 to 30 year period.

In the first year, the purchaser will pay off between $100 and $300 on the principal. In the course of 20 or 30 years, depending on payments, the home will cost him $35,000, or nearly two and a half times the original cost.

All this is fierce enough, but our poor hero pays the equivalent rent and gets nothing for it. It will take him one or two years to save enough for a down payment.

He has lost the $100 to $300 our better-off friend has gained on his principal.

☆

BECAUSE the financing men are after our poor man for their cut, he has to delay paying his public utility bills — all of which have delinquency charges.

With the telephone, electricity, garbage collection, gas, fuel, etc., etc., our harassed hero adds another $2 a month, or $25 a year to the price for being poor.

These are the obvious, basic costs. Now here are some of the hidden ones that lie in wait of everybody, but chomp their chilly claws especially hard in the poor fellow.

Because he can only afford one new suit a year, he'll most likely buy a somewhat more expensive suit, say, $60 rather than $40. Then he'll wear through it more quickly than the fellow with several suits.

A spare wardrobe costs more to keep up (styles excluded) than a wardrobe well stocked with one shot.

Moreover, when he buys the suit, he won't have cash so he'll have to open a charge account, which will add another six to 10 per cent or so to his total bill. Add another $3.60.

Then add the several hundred dollars his wife's wardrobe will cost, plus the added costs of charging.

☆

WE COULD go through a whole house and tabulate the essential items needed by our newly married couple, washer and dryer, refrigerator, television, record player, range, and all the assorted furniture.

Needless to say, our hero won't be purchasing all these items at once. But as he buys them, when, he buys them, he will be paying considerably above the actual purchase price.

☆

LET'S MAKE up a list of items our poor hero will probably buy during the year and see how much it's going to cost him in financing charges. Since we are making a point, we'll be liberal in our estimates.

Items Purchased	Charges
Car	$150
Rent wasted	300
Utility delinquency Charges	25
His $100 wardrobe	6
Her (?) wardrobe—$$$
Refrigerator ($200)	12
Television ($150)	9
Furniture ($300)	18
TOTAL	$520

So it costs a poor man roughly $500 more to maintain a basic standard of living for himself than it does a more well-to-do man who can avoid the added costs.

Remember these are just financing charges, and they will continue until the time he is able to purchase items without charge accounts or financing. This will probably take the first several years of his marriage.

I had always heard this system was rigged in favor of the rich man, now I am ready to believe it.

Long & Short

By GRETTA PORTER

NEW YORK — It was 6 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 17.

The big day had arrived for Tom and Cherie Riordan.

Although the alarm was not set to go off until 8:30, Tom was up pounding the portable typing machine long before the rest of New York had awakened. He had to get off his final dispatch to The Herald before departing on the long-awaited seven-week trip to Egypt.

Cherie, who appeared to be the calmer of the two, lolled around until 7:15 a.m., at which time she leapt from her sofa-turned-bed, and began a frenetic search for steamer tickets, passports and most important of all — film. For without their film, the Riordans kept saying they might as well stay at home.

First catastrophe of the day: the film was missing. Tom had carefully purchased some special color film Friday after arriving in New York. For the next half hour, the Riordans, Carol Feltmann (my roommate) and I turned our apartment upside down searching for the lost items.

☆

RETRACING our steps of Friday, we determined that the film must have been left at my office, which the Riordans used as a center of operation shortly after arriving Friday morning.

By 9:30 a.m. everyone seemed to be gathered together and off we went to the United States line. Max, our suffering cabbie, made the circuitous trip to my office where we had indeed left the film. Then we searched for a drug store open on Saturday morning — Cherie had forgotten her toothbrush.

Then on to Burleigh Brooks where Tom hoped to purchase some last minute items. The Kodak Information Center had told him the only thing he need fear in Egypt was the dampness.

So hoping to find a film conditioner, we directed Max to Burleigh's. Wasted trip — Burleigh, like many New York shopkeepers, takes a day off on Saturday during June and July.

☆

AT LAST, we arrived at Pier 88. Although Tom and Cherie had left the bulk of their luggage at the pier on Friday, it seemed there was still a great deal of baggage to account for—many cameras, camera cases, equipment, portable typing machine, brief cases and so on.

Tom jumped out of the moving cab to get some full length shots of the beautiful ship which was to soon carry them to Europe on the first leg of their trip.

Cherie, Carol and I moved on the entrance of the pier, where Max rather ungraciously dumped us amidst what seemed like thousands of passengers, well-wishers, a large number of dogs, and ill-tempered porters.

Tom and Cherie managed to get aboard after showing steamer tickets and passports. Carol and I, only needing 50c as a "contribution" to the retired seamen's fund to get on board, managed to find Cabin M-159 before the Tecumseh travelers.

☆

Shortly after Tom and Cherie arrived in the cabin, we broke out the bottle of champagne — a must for bon voyage parties — even at 10 a.m.!

Next catastrophe—no glasses! After an interminable wait, the steward arrived with cardboard ice bucket and paper cups. Champagne was never served in such "style!"

All the while, of course, many, many people were milling around. People kept popping into M-159 to see where to go to sign up for deck chairs and dining room tables. Cherie was a fountain of knowledge in such matters.

Tom wandered off hoping to get some interesting photos. He arrived back in the cabin minutes later declaring, "This is an impossible scene. Impossible! I came on this ship for a rest!"

☆

SHORTLY after, Dick Pompian, a former Detroit friend of mine with whom the Riordans and I had had dinner Friday evening, appeared on the scene. Together he and Tom tried to fight the mob (growing larger each minute) to get pictures. "Impossible," they chorused.

Finally, we all moved to the Promenade Deck to mingle with other passengers and well-wishers. We discovered a small Irish band playing for a friend who was sailing aboard the United States back to the "old sod."

Tom kept declaring loud and clearly that it must be Meyer Davis' Orchestra. (A thought that brought gales of laughter from those standing by. Can you imagine THE Meyer Davis playing at a Deb ball on an accordian?)

☆

AS THE WHISTLE blasted its announcement, "All ashore that's going ashore," the small party of us stood in the main deck lounge area listening to a band which Tom labeled "really swinging."

We bid the Riordans a hearty bon voyage, went ashore and waited for the sleek ship to depart.

Cherie's last words, called to us were, "Gretta, please don't forget to mail the post cards to the children."

At last, the final whistle of the ship's foghorn blasted, and right on schedule, the United States slowly and majestically moved away from the pier into the Hudson River.

The Riordans, standing on the ship's deck, were beginning their exciting trip of a lifetime.

REALLY SHAPING UP — from left, Mrs. Carlos Knisley, president of the Hospital Auxiliary, shows Mrs. Kenneth Connair and Mrs. Alton Willnitz, nurses at Herrick Memorial Hospital, the landscaping project dream coming to life. The undertaking, in planning for several months, is expected to have the first stage completed sometime this fall. Contractors on the job included Selders Excavating, Tecumseh Greenhouses, landscaping; Cook Electric and James B. Fielder, concrete. Architect for the graceful scene is A. J. Smith.

Board OKs Bus Garage

Final approval, after a lengthy discussion, was reached last Friday night by the Tecumseh School Board for construction of a new bus garage.

With school employees doing some of the work on the garage, school officials have lowered the cost of the building and installation of gasoline tank and pump to below $10,000, the amount offered the schools for a new garage.

Board President Aden Mead conducted a question and answer survey among board members to make sure that all wanted a bus garage.

A unanimous vote was cast for the garage with the motion authorizing bus committee chairman, Robert Moore, to proceed with constructing a garage within the limits of the $10,000 gift.

No date was given when the garage will be started, although the Wright Bros. apparently will be the builders.

One other item on the agenda at the special meeting dealt with a proposed transfer of about 122 acres of farm land to the Onsted school district.

The board asked Supt. James McDowell to oppose the transfer at a county meeting next week.

Jaycees Plan to Survey City

The month of September will be Community Survey month in Tecumseh.

The Tecumseh Jaycees will be conducting the survey starting the first week in September.

This is a survey to determine how the community feels about their city and what improvements and additions they would like to see.

The Jaycees will be leaving questionnaires at a majority of homes and asking the homeowners to fill in the questions. Then the Jaycees will return to collect them.

This is being done to determine exactly how the Jaycees can best serve their community and to determine how the community feels and what they want.

Those receiving a questionnaire are asked to fill it out promptly and answer the questions honestly.

☆

THE CITY will be divided by areas. A percentage of homes in each area will be given questionnaires.

These questions can be answered with very good, adequate, inadequate, or don't know.

They will cover such topics as:

- Water supply
- Sewage disposal
- Storm water drainage
- Garbage collection
- Telephone service
- Postal service
- Newspaper service
- Fire protection
- Law enforcement and police protection
- Parking in business district
- Street system (main roads)
- Traffic control (stop streets etc.)
- Side walks
- Maintenance and cleaning of streets
- Recreation opportunities for:
  - Children
  - Teenagers
  - Adults
  - Older people
- Public meeting places for teens.

Following will be essay type questions:

What things do you like best about our community?

What things do you dislike about our community?

What are the things that you think need to be done to make this community a better place to live?

There will also be general information questions:

Age group, 30 and under, 31 to 45, 46 to 60, 61 and over

Number of years in this community

Number of people in household.

Area of the city.

Suit Filed Hearing Set for Tuesday

John and Katherine Cameron have filed suit in circuit court against Robert and Mary Bowers, asking a fire door between a hallway and stairway be left unlocked, restoration of a brick wall, a judgment of $5,000 in damages to their property and $10,000 punitive damages.

The dispute will be heard next Tuesday afternoon in Adrian with Attorney James Beardsley representing Dr. and Mrs. Bowers, and Moran & Mack, for the Camerons.

Differences have arisen over use of a hallway in Comeron's building and a stairway in the adjoining Bowers building.

New efficiency apartments are nearly completed in the Bowers section.

Delay Special Education Start

A meeting for all county special education teachers has been called for Sept. 5 and 6, according to Superintendent James McDowell.

This will mean no class for Mrs. Betzoldt at Macon; Miss McCann at West Branch; and Sutton School.

The opening for these special education classes will be Monday, Sept. 9.

Schools Set for Opening Next Week

School for grades one through 12 open next Thursday for approximately 3,100 students.

Kindergarten will start the following day on Friday, and special education classes on Monday, Sept. 9.

School officials are expecting a slight increase in the enrollment, but the official total will not be determined until late September, for the purposes of state aid.

Unless there's a larger increase in the high school than expected, Tecumseh will not be rated a Class A school. Requirement for Class A is 900 students in high school.

All teachers have been employed, filling positions due to retirements and others leaving the system.

Teachers will start the school year next Tuesday.

Expand CD Hospital

The Tecumseh Emergency Civil Defense Hospital Unit was expanded from a three-day to a 30-day operation, according to Joe Rice, custodian of the local unit.

Over two tons of drugs and medical supplies, boxed in 74 cases were sent to supplement the Tecumseh Unit.

This brings the total supply volume to 444 boxes or 14 tons.

In June, 1957, a shipment of 370 cases, weighing 12 tons, was received and placed in storage. Most of the material is stored in the Fire Station.

Other material is in the old Public Library building on the corner of W. Chicago Blvd. and Maiden Lane.

At the time of its creation in 1957, the army estimated that it could reach any given point with additional supplies within a three-day period.

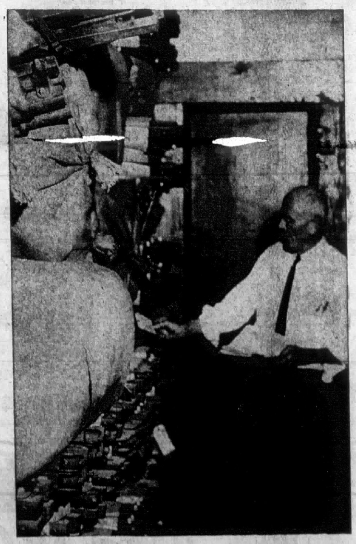
☆

THE TECUMSEH unit is one of 70 Emergency Hospital Units in the State of Michigan. Each of these units constitute a 200-bed field hospital complete with X-ray machine, operating room equipment, emergency generators, refrigerated drugs and incidental supplies.

Detailed plans were prepared for the activation of the hospital in case of national emergency.

Periodic inspections are made by the local custodian and by the representatives of the United States Department of Health, Welfare and Education, under whose supervision the program is operated.

In case of a local disaster creating needs beyond the emergency capacity of our local hospital, this unit can be activated by authority of the Michigan Civil Defense Office.



CIVIL DEFENSE SUPPLIES are inspected by Joe Rice, custodian. A 200-bed unit in Tecumseh was expanded from a three-day to a 30-day operation. Most of the material is stored in the Fire Station.

Students will be off to classes in the universities and colleges around the nation in the next few weeks.

The Herald in the past has printed a list of these students and the schools they attend. Perhaps readers will give an assist in making the list more complete by phoning the Herald 423-2174 and reporting those that they know about.

Moral Booster — "You mean, we're going to have to look at your face every Monday morning?" said a gallant advertiser to the saleslady.

Drove past the hospital the other day and No. 1 mischief-maker piped up from the back seat, "Mommy, that's where I had my Pummy Tumped!"

Miss Cara Hull of Saline stopped in to tell us about losing her glasses at Moore Lumber Co. She put the light brown plastic framed spectacles with slightly tinted lenses on the counter, walked away from them and returned to find them gone.

Thinks perhaps someone picked them up by mistake. If you happen to find an extra pair of glasses in your pocket, please call The Herald.

Barbara Hinz of Grosse Pointe City was at the Tecumseh Airport Aug. 18 doing some skydiving. Her hands became muddy and her diamond engagement ring was caked with dirt, so she went into the restroom to clean it.

After cleaning the ring, she washed her hands and left the ring on the washstand. Returned to find the ring gone. She is offering a reward for its return.

Allen's Trailer Court in Clinton is sporting a brand new black topped driveway. Mr. Allen says "Stop and look at it."

The Herald is sure getting around these days. "The New Yorker" writes. "Alan Seager of Tecumseh soon will have a new book added to his volumes at the Tecumseh Public Library.

"It is the 'Memoirs of a Tourist,' by Stendhal, translated from the original by Mr. Seager after a visit to France in which he talked with Stendhal, or rather, Marie Henri Beyle, whose pen name is Stendhal."

"The New Yorker" then comments, "Must have been over a bottle of wine."

Father, Son Pick Up Ribbons in 20 Classes

The Junior yearling heifer of Robert Platt, 8220 Tipton Hwy., was rated junior champion of the Black and White Show at the Lenawee County fairgrounds in Adrian Aug. 15.

There was only one class in 21 of the show sponsored by the Lenawee County Holstein Breeders' Association in which Robert and his father, Richard Platt, did not take home ribbons.

Mr. Platt showed his son's heifer because Robert accidentally cracked some bones in one ankle during fair week. However he is attending the state show at East Lansing this week.

Whelan Hart, master of ceremonies and past president of the Michigan Holstein Friesan Association, remarked that this year's event was the best show to date both in quality and quantity.

Raynor Hardy and his son, Greg, and Bruce and Greg Smith, all of Tipton were others awarded special recognition.

Camilla Grigg, Kent Woodbury Wed in Double-Ring Ceremony Sunday

A family wedding of simplicity united Camilla L. Grigg and Kent Steiner Woodbury in marriage Sunday evening at the Iron Creek Church.

The couple spoke the vows of the double ring ceremony before the altar enhanced with white and yellow arrangements of gladioli and lighted candelabra with the Rev. Alvin Brazee officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lyle M. Grigg of rural Brooklyn and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick N. Woodbury of 11067 Engleside, Detroit.

Susan Day sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt with Mrs. Katharine Hunt presiding at the organ.

☆

THE BRIDE approached the altar on the arm of her father in a street-length dress of white peau de soie with three-quarter sleeves and bell skirt. Tiny bows from neck to hemline created back interest.

Her shoulder-length veil of illusion was fastened to a dainty crown of Chantilly lace and seed pearls. She carried a nosegay of white roses and carnations interspersed with yellow roses and edged with tulle and lilies of the valley. Tiny buds were entwined in ribbon streamers.

Jane McConnell preceded her cousin down the aisle as maid of honor, wearing a dress of gold peau de soie fashioned with matching jacket buttoned at the back. She wore matching shoes and headpiece.

She carried a green reed circlet arranged with Lamp Lighter and white roses.

☆

WILLIAM WOODBURY was his brother's best man and Norman and Marvin Grigg, brothers of the bride, seated the guests.

Ward Cornell, cousin of the bride, was the acolyte, lighting the candles preceding the ceremony.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs Morris Cornell, were the hosts at the church and reception following. Diann and Susan Hoch received the gifts.

Mary Steiner, cousin of the groom, served the punch. Mrs. Horace Aten and Mrs. Hazelle Eaton cut and served the three tiered cake topped with white wedding bells and tiny yellow rosebuds.

Mrs. Lawrence Holdridge was hostess chairman.

☆

FOLLOWING a brief stay in northern Michigan, the couple will make their home at 1 N. Summit St., Ypsilanti.

The bride is a graduate of Tecumseh High School and will presently enter Eastern Michigan University as a junior.

Her husband attended the United States Military Academy at West Point for two years and will be a senior at the University of Michigan this term.

A shower was given Aug. 16 by Mrs. Holdridge and Mrs. Cornell at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. William W. Grigg, on Pottawatamie St.

Her veil of double bouffant French illusion was caught to a matching lace hat topped with three organza roses.

She carried a white Bible, gift of the bridegroom, topped with four white phalaenopsis orchids.

☆

MATRON of honor was Mrs. Lynn Graybiel of Kalamazoo Bridesmaids were Beth Roekle, the bride's sister, and Bonnie Hampton.

The bride's attendants all wore street-length gowns of coffee colored organza over beige taffeta. Gold pins, a gift of the bride, adorned the dresses.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Many of the employees of the Tecumseh Products Company have just returned from marvelous two week vacations. One particularly successful tour was made by Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Dickinson and sons, Tom and Tim.

After three years of planning, this finally was the August that they were able to go to Harrison, N. J., to visit Fred's old navy buddy, Jo DiSabato, and his family.

En route there they called on Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, Michelle and Nancy, former Tecumseh residents. On the way home the Dickinson family spent a memorable two days in Williamsburg, Va., where Opal assures us everyone should go.

Between 600 and 700 miles from Tecumseh, she says it's loaded with interesting and colorful history.

One especially delightful experience was eating in a restaurant in candlelight 18th century style while being waited upon by students of the William and Mary College dressed in the costume of that era. Sounds like fun.

√

June Wheeler, 504 Outer Drive entered the University Medical Center Aug. 15 for treatment from injuries received last January. She expected to remain for a two week stay.

√

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Michaelson of Royal Oak were Sunday dinner guests of her mother, Mrs. Rose Service. Mary McWilliams was also a guest.

√

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jepson have returned after a two week stay with their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson in St. Petersburg, Fla. Another daughter, Edna May Jepson, flew down to spend one week in St. Pete and then returned home with her parents.

√

Spc4 George Rogers and his wife and daughter, Laura, arrived here the first of the month from Fort Hancock, N. J., to visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Southard of Milwaukee Rd., and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rogers, Rixom Hwy. Mrs. Rogers and the little girl will remain with her parents when her husband goes to Vietnam Sept. 7.

√

Orin Beevers was the honored guest on his 60th birthday anniversary Sunday at a family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Murphy.

Forty members of his family enjoyed ice cream and cake.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Dusine Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hyder, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Miller and their families, Mrs. Orin Beevers, Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Stewart, Toledo, and Mrs. Bernard Seeburger.

Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Seeburger, Adrian; Jeanie Metz, Dundee; and Orindale and Cora Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kragel, Napoleon, O., were unable to attend due to illness.

A gift was presented to Mr. Beevers from the group.

√

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parker of Sterling, Ill., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Hippert. The two couples toured Detroit and went into Canada Saturday. Sunday the Hipperts showed the Parkers the Irish Hills and this area.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manley returned last Friday after a 10-day visit with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Oswalt, in Grove Garden, suburb of Los Angeles. The Tecumseh couple flew jet both ways.

Charlie's place at the Tecumseh Fire Station was taken over by John Saling, relief man, during the visit on the west coast.

√

John Perry is home on leave from Good Fellow Air Force Base, San Angelo, Texas, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Perry. He will return Sept. 8.

√

Kay Wagoner was home from Kalamazoo for three weeks vacation with Mr. and Mrs. James E. Danforth and Jamie. While here the group went to the National Music Camp at Interlochen for the Federated Music Clubs Weekend. Miss Wagoner returned to her studies at Bronson Methodist Hospital Sunday.

√

Mrs. S. W. Boyce was released from Herrick Memorial Hospital Thursday and is now a patient at the Woody Nursing Home in Adrian.

√

The Raynor Kerrs are expecting to have Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrie of Toronto to spend a few days with them over the weekend.

√

George Ruhl returned Monday evening from a three week trip to the western states where he went water skiing on the Colorado River.

√

Rotary district governor Cliff Ashton of Grosse Pointe stayed at the Tecumseh Country Club while making his official visits to Tecumseh, Blissfield, Clinton and Adrian. He made Tecumseh his headquarters for the three day visit.

Japanese Bride Missed War's Destruction

By TOM BRIEN

There are half a dozen Japanese brides living in Tecumseh since the war, and Mrs. William Freshcorn, 5541 Pocklington Rd., claims she has been here the longest.

She came in May, 1952, after being married for about a year. Her husband was a corporal in the Army, stationed at one of the bases on Kyushu, the southernmost major island making up Japan.

Kiyoko lived in Beppu, a port town about the size of Adrian approximately half-way between Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Despite this, Beppu was never bombed during the war. At that time, Kiyoko was in the Japanese equivalent of our high school.

☆

"I SAW American soldiers for the first time in September, (1944)," she said with a charming accent and disarming smile. "They wore helmets and carried guns. I was scared."

"They told her the usual stuff about enemy soldiers," her husband interrupted as if to point out he hadn't frightened Kiyoko.

"We got used to them little by little," she said with much effort.

"Now the Japanese are very friendly," her husband broke in again. "They'd give you the shirt off their back. If you have a flat on the road, the men will come out of the houses to help you fix it."

☆

AT THE TIME Kiyoko and Bill met, the American forces were established in five army camps and five Air Force Camps on Kyushu alone. Most of these have been turned over to the Japanese military.

The American Council for that island is still situated in Beppu.

Kiyoko's father owned a hotel. He has since passed away. She has one brother and five younger sisters.

The climate there is like Florida or the Southern part of California, Bill explained. Beppu lies on almost the same parallel as San Diego.

"We often wore shirt sleeves in the middle of winter," Bill said.

Beppu is a resort area, being blessed with hot springs in the surrounding hills. There are no water heaters in the whole town, Bill noted, because the spring water is warm enough to satisfy the town's needs.

☆

KIYOKO had more trouble with the language than anything else in her new home. Otherwise she likes it just fine.

"In Japan we (women) can't say much," she explained. "We have to obey."

Japan is changing, though, she continued. It is becoming Americanized and more modern.

Before they didn't speak any languages. Now many speak English or other languages. This opens up a country to other cultures, she said.

This, and the fact that she had to meet American soldiers in Beppu taught her a little about the American way of life. So she wasn't completely lost when she came here to live.

Even so, she found "everything strange."

"All the houses were colored," she laughed. That was one thing she liked. In Japan, the houses are invariably a neutral tone.

They are also built with sliding paper doors and windows.

"They're much stronger than they sound," Bill said, finding it hard to stay out of the conversation.

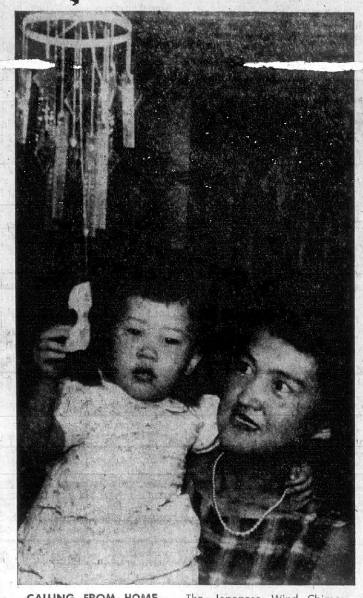
The panels can slide into a six-foot wall at the corner, and the back of the house is usually solid.

"What's nice about it is that you can slide the doors open and make one large room," he said, "or even open the whole house."

"But the houses are built strong because they live in typhoon country," he said. Her father's hotel was flooded several times.

The Freshcorns, who now include Bobby, 11; Jimmy, 8; and Carol, 19 months, are planning a trip to Japan next March for a couple of months.

It will be the first time Kiyoko will be home in over 10 years.



CALLING FROM HOME — The Japanese Wind Chimes, hanging in the living room of Mr. and Mrs. William Freshcorn, intrigue their daughter Carol. The Freshcorns are leaving for Japan next March for a long visit.

Statutory Rape Charge Is Made

Following two weeks investigation, a 35-year-old Tecumseh man was arrested Tuesday, charged with statutory rape and taken to the Lenawee County jail.

Prior to the arrest, the man and 15-year-old girl were given lie detector's test.

A hearing before Justice Ernie Oliver has been scheduled for next Tuesday.

Honor Anita Sebring With Bridal Shower

Mrs. Eddie Kirkland and Mrs. C. O. Baily were co-hostesses for a bridal shower for Anita Sebring Monday evening at the Kirkland residence on Tecumseh-Clinton Rd.

Twenty were present from Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Tecumseh, Clinton, Adrian and Brooklyn.

Appropriate games were played with prizes awarded to Mrs. Claude Sebring, Mrs. Mahlon Sebring and Mrs. Richard Staub.

An advertising games tied in with the prizes, and the unscrambling of words revealed the names of the bride and groom-elect.

A table cloth featuring umbrellas was used on the gift table and ice cream pie was served.

The wedding will take place Sept. 8 at the First Baptist Church.

—o—

Mr. and Mrs. Richard N. Pearson and two children, Ann and Thomas, from Wethersfield, Conn., are visiting Mrs. Neil Pearson. They will be leaving Thursday after a two week stay visiting family and friends.

This past year Mr. Pearson was assistant professor of law at University of Connecticut. He will attend Yale University this fall where he has been granted a full fellowship to work toward his masters degree in law.

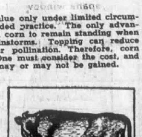
FOR HARVEST NOW. You save a lot of down time and money during the critical harvest period if your machinery is in top-notch shape before you start. This is especially important for combines. Check bearings, belts and chains closely. Replace them if they won't make it through the entire season. Many times your dealer will not have certain parts in stock. It's better to find this out now and order the part than to be knocked out of two or three days' work later.

CORN TOPPING can be of significant value only under limited circumstances. It is not a generally recommended practice. The only advantage to be gained is the ability of topped corn to remain standing when subjected to high winds and heavy rainstorms. Topping can reduce yields, if done within five weeks after pollination. Therefore, corn topping is much like buying insurance. One must consider the cost, and balance this against the advantage that may or may not be gained.



HOLD BACK EXTRA HEIFERS to replace some of the older cows and reduce the average age of your beef herd. With good cattle prices, many producers have held old cows longer than usual trying to get just one more calf out of them. An old cow should be culled the season her calf isn't up to par. If you don't cull her now, she may not be around for another calf anyway. So take your money now. Cow prices will be down this fall.

PLASTIC COVERS FOR SILAGE in trench or bunker silos will pay off. Although covers of 4-mil plastic will rarely cost more than 2½c per square foot, they frequently return a savings of from 10c to 25c per square foot by reducing spoilage, dry matter loss and leaching of nutrients by rainfall.

Nursery School

Enrollment for nursery school will be Monday Sept. 9 from 9 a.m. until 11 at the rear entrance of the Presbyterian Church.

The Tecumseh Nursery Center is being run this year again by Mrs. Warren Puffer and Mrs. Claude Sebring.

Mrs. Puffer is requesting any mother who plans to enter her child in nursery school this year to bring the youngster morning of enrollment, even though the child may have been registered last spring.

Registration fee of $5 and insurance, $1.35, plus a week's advance payment for the school is necessary for enrollment. Each session will cost $1.50.

Mothers may enter their children for just two classes per week, but three sessions will be offered — Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Regular sessions will begin the morning of Friday, September 13 from 9 to 11:15.

Children reaching their third birthday by Sept. 1 are eligible to take part. For information, ei[illegible] and teachers may be contacted.

Clinton Clears $4,661

Clinton was "surprised and happy" last week to learn they wound up their 125th Anniversary Celebration with a $4,661.76 profit.

"At the beginning we would have been satisfied to break even," Mrs. Maurice Tuckey said.

"But everyone was so wonderful about getting out and pushing that we did even better than we expected," she added.

The money will go toward Clinton's Community Center, which was the intention of the Celebration Committee.

☆

THE LARGEST single income came from the ticket sales, which brought in $4,021.56.

The Belles, and Brothers of the Brush activities took in $5,054.15 between them.

There were approximately 20 groups of Belles, and 20 or more groups of Brothers, whose main purpose was to raise funds. This they accomplished by dues and fines they levied against their own members; holding dances, parties, pancake breakfast, and numerous other activities.

The Program advertising for the Clinton historical book added another $2,271 to the till.

Souvenir Celebration stock certificates were sold in $2, $5 and $10 amounts. The largest amount came from the Village itself, which purchased $1,300 worth.

WE MADE 4,661 SMACKERS. HOW ABOUT THAT.

ON THE EXPENSE account, the largest item ($5,550) was the John Rogers Co., which was an outfit in Ohio hired to help direct the Celebration.

The Company coordinated the different activities, wrote and produced the pageant; and in general, advised Clinton on Celebration activities.

Sylvia Ann Swanston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Swanston of Clinton, has been the guest of honor at several bridal showers held recently.

She was assisted by her sisters, Blanche, Myrtle and Ilene Schafer.

Games were played after which Sylvia opened her gifts. A salad lunch was served by the hostess.

☆

ANOTHER delightful shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schafer on Tecumseh-Macon Road, the guests being friends and neighbors.

SUNDAY afternoon, Mrs. Gerald Miller of Smith Road entertained for her sister.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Martha Krueger, aunt, and Mrs. James Swindall and Mrs. Fred Acborsold, cousins of the bride-elect all of Detroit, and Mrs. Arthur Miller of Saline.

A dessert lunch was served to relatives and friends after games and the opening of gifts by Sylvia.

Mrs. Marilyn Swanston planned to be hostess for the afternoon, but was surprised by a visit from her husband, John W. Swanston an electrician's mate. She returned with him and their daughter to Long Branch, New Jersey to remain with friends until his discharge from the Navy.

The wedding will be an event of Sept. 7 at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Ridge Highway.

7 Hurt in 3-Car Accident Monday

A three-car wreck, blocking traffic for over 15 minutes and injuring five persons, resulted Monday night at the junction of Rogers Hwy, with M-50, at the east edge of the city limits.

According to Tecumseh police, the accident occurred when Clarence E. Kopka, 48, Britton, heading west, slowed to make a left turn onto Rogers and was hit from the rear by a car driven by Walter E. Anspach, 18, also of Britton.

Anspach knocked Kopka's car into the path of Howard E. Powell's eastbound automobile.

Seven persons were taken to Herrick Hospital for treatment, and all except Mr. Kopka have been released.

Passengers with Mr. Powell who suffered a broken wrist, were his wife, Vivian, and Paul and Virginia Mominee, also of Dundee.

Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY of my dear husband who passed away suddenly May 28, 1958.
Beyond the sunset in a heavenly land
My loved one slipped away—
Never to hear his cheerful voice
Nor to feel the touch of his hand.
As I loved him so, I miss him,
With a smile on my face,
I've a heartache —
Locked in my heart is his picture
His love will always light ...
On this our 50th wedding day.
Sadly missed by his wife.

Hold that Line

Like apples off a tree, youngsters are dropping off the Tecumseh High School football team as Coach Tom Fagan and his crew drive over 100 tryouts into the first week of rugged training.

"They get out in the heat, and then they begin to wonder if it's worth it," Coach Fagan said in the cool ease of his office.

What they eventually pare down to better be worth for their first game come [illegible] weeks against highly touted Willow Run. They also have to live up to their 8-1 record of last year.

So far, there are 52 out for the varsity squad, 30 out for the Junior varsity and another 40 freshmen.

By Sept. 13, Coach Fagan will have to decide who will fill the 33 varsity uniforms.

"We don't cut kids from the squad even if they don't make the varsity," Coach Fagan said., "although many will cut themselves."

This first week, the coaching staff is concentrating on lengthy sessions of calisthenics and running.

Limited body contact makes up part of their exercise. One-and-one exercises, for instance, where one defensive man will face another lineman and ball carrier. He has to keep from being blocked and try to tackle the ball carrier, all within a given space.

"This toughens them up but limits the body contact, which they're not quite ready for yet," Coach Fagan pointed out.

Another exercise is to lay two men on their backs with a football in between. One has to pick up the ball and run. The other has to get up, into his defensive stance, then stop the ball carrier.

By Saturday morning, they should be ready for their first inter-team scrimmage, he said.

By Huron League rules, only one practice scrimmage can be held. So far, Tecumseh hasn't scheduled this scrimmage, but Coach Fagan is negotiating with several teams.

"We have a good nucleus to work with," Coach Fagan continued. He wouldn't say this early how he felt the team would make out this year.

"We'll have pretty good speed," he said, "both in the backfield and the line."

Coach Fagan would much rather see "quickness" in his linemen than just size, or even running speed. He thinks a lineman who can move across the line faster than the man he's blocking can make up for his size.

Thirty-one of the Indian work horses went out to camp last week, where they worked hard at getting into condition.

Part of their workout was to breeze along on a hilly mile and a half of sandy horse track three times a day.

If that didn't get them off to a flying start, nothing will.

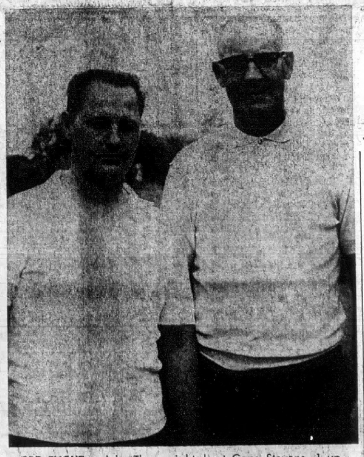
Holmes, Porter Win Golf Titles

1ST FLIGHT — Ted Roberts, left, beat Al Merz, 6-5

1ST FLIGHT — Margaret Finley, left, over Liz Grossman, 6-5

2ND FLIGHT — [illegible] Koster, left, beat Ray Schlegel, 5-4



3RD FLIGHT — John Thoss, right, beat Gene Stevens, 1 up

2ND FLIGHT — Dot Dabe, right, over Sid Lindstrom, 8-7

3RD FLIGHT — Shirley Smith, left, over Bobbie Smith, 6-5

Bill Holmes and Frances Porter won the two top golfing titles at the Tecumseh Country Club Sunday when a total of nine championships were decided.

Holmes and Al Coopersmith, former club champ, staged the most exciting match with the winner finishing two-up on the 36-hole.

Mrs. Porter won her first top TCC championship, defeating Polly Moore, six and five. The new ladies' champion carded a 45-45 for 18 holes in winning over Mrs. Moore, nine times winner of the crown.

Holmes, keeping the pressure on his opponent, led most of the way in his match until the final nine holes, when at one time he trailed by two holes.

He evened the match on the 33rd hole, birdied the long No. 7, or 34th hole, to go one up Holmes then parred out, after nearly birding the No. 8 hole.

Ted Roberts won the first flight of the men's division over Al Merz. The Manchester golfer took both No. 8 and No. 9 going out, giving him a three-hole lead after the first nine holes.

Bill Koster defeated Ray Schlegel in the second flight, carding an 85 in the winning match and automatically qualifying for the first flight next year.

John Thoss, of Saline, one-up on Gene Stevens of Adrian at the end of 17 holes, gambled on the 18th hole and won the third flight championship.

Thoss pushed his drive nearly into the No. 8 fairway, then sailed his second shot through the trees and onto the green where he two-putted for a par and the match.

Bob Winder grabbed the final men's title with a victory over Frank Owen. The winner decided the match on the 18th hole.

Margaret Finley of Saline copped the ladies' first flight division championship with a 6-5 win over Liz Grossman.

Dottie Dabe became the new second flight champion by defeating Sid Lindstrom, 8-7.

Shirley Smith captured the third flight of the ladies' division with a 6-5 win over Bobbie Smith.

Winners and runners-up will receive their trophies this Friday evening at an awards banquet in the club's dining room.

NEW TCC CHAMPIONS — Frances Porter, second from left, and Bill Holmes, second from right, proved to be the best golfers at the Tecumseh Country Club Sunday when Mrs. Porter defeated Polly Moore, 6-5. Holmes shot 75-75 for a 36-hole of 150 to edge Al Coopersmith, 2 up.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Sometime ago we read an article about asking questions. It seems that it is a distinguishing mark of Americans everywhere to want to know things.

The English have been taught that it is ill-bred to probe into one's private affairs, it is also the view of cultivated persons outside of this country. However, if they could only understand, most of our questions are just ordinary conversation and we do not want nor do we expect an answer.

For instance, when you meet a person and say, "Hello, how are you?" You certainly don't expect them to tell you exactly how they feel, hardly a soul is interested in an upset liver, ulcers, indigestion, that corn on the small toe, or . . . your general health.

Children sense early that questioning can turn out to be a cross-examination and it often drives them to evasions. According to this article, one must be careful when questioning a husband. They don't like to make explanations and may be driven to prevarications. If you gals just wait and listen; they will finally tell all.

Questioning can be embarrassing and before any member of your family has the chance to ask, "Why don't you get some new clothes?" . . . do something!

The campus bound gangs are coming to Clinton Woolen each day. Boy or girl they know good clothes from both style and quality. We put what we thought was a very high styled man's sweater out one morning last week . . . come night they were gone. Apparently the fellows agreed with us.

So, Mom and Dad better hurry over and select a new outfit for fall. Be ready to enjoy the glorious days ahead and we hate to mention it, cold days are coming . . . Brrr.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The effect of the advertising done by local merchants in the newspaper of a community has never been fully appreciated by citizens in non-commercial trades.

Recently a distinguished Southern banker, who has helped to launch several multi-million dollar businesses, spoke to a group of university students on the factors affecting community economic development.

The banker considered the more prosperous communities in his state, and, one by one, he isolated the forces which distinguished the progressive communities from the "dead" cities.

Without exception, the banker listed as the most important factor in each community the local newspaper. He, in fact, named the local newspaper before the local bank and local government. "The other institutions eventually follow the newspaper," he said.

The statement, although appreciated, was not entirely deserved. For, the local newspaper is a reflection of the local people, especially the local retailers.

It is true that the spirit of progress, the signs of movement and life, in a community are vividly reflected in a community newspaper. This reflection, this image of a community, is so powerful that a person who has never been near a particular city can assess its spirit by perusing the community newspaper from a thousand miles away.

Ironically, the editor has only a small part in creating the image on which the assessment is made. The credit is due primarily to local advertisers. The local retailers make a local newspaper. They give the editor his independence, strength, and courage to move forward. The editor is always fully aware that honors accorded him belong to his whole city.

Sutton School To Hold Classes for Handicapped

The Sutton School will again be open this fall as a part of the services provided by the county board of education.

The building houses three rooms which will provide classes for mentally-handicapped pupils who are partially socially-competent.

The county board of education and the state will pay the complete cost of educating these pupils. Tecumseh will provide over-all supervision through the Superintendent of Schools.

Mr. Marvin, of the county superintendent's office, has direct supervision of the program. Parents, who have children who would benefit from this type of program, should contact Mr. Marvin at Adrian 265-2110, for an appointment to test their children.

Two 19-passenger buses and three new nine-passenger station wagons which are used during the summer for driver education classes will be used to pick up these children since they live in all parts of the county.

The school will start at about 9 a.m. and close around 2:30 or 3 p.m.

The funds for educating these children come from State Aid and the half-mill tax throughout the county which was voted for Special Education purposes.

TB Test Scheduled for Migrant Workers

An intensive program to find tuberculosis in migrant workers on farms in the Lenawee-Monroe area will be launched Sept. 4-6, Eleanor Skufis, M. D., director of the Lenawee County Health Department announced today.

A Michigan Department of of Health mobile chest x-ray unit will be utilized in the campaign Dr. Skufis said.

The unit is scheduled to be at the Michigan State Police post on US-12 east of Clinton from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Sept. 4 and at the Michigan State Police post in Blissfield on US-223 from 2 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Sept. 5 and 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Sept. 6.

Hundreds of the migrants will be in the area harvesting tomatoes and employers have been notified that those who have not received the chest x-rays by Sept. 6 should not be allowed to continue work, Dr. Skufis said.

Three cases of active tuberculosis were identified in the screening of the migrants last year, Lenawee County Health Department records show.

The chest x-rays were decreed necessary after skin-testing last year proved an inadequate means of detecting presence of active tuberculosis, Dr. Skufis said.

Among the factors making the skin-testing procedure ineffective, Dr. Skufis reported, were the high percentage of "nonreactors" to the test (indicating the TB germs were present in the body, but not necessarily being transmitted as is the case with an active TB carrier).

There is also a tendency of the workers to cooperate in obtaining x-rays but not cooperating in the skin-test procedure.

James Beach Attends First Summer Class

James Beach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Beach, 210 Pine, is among almost 300 Kalamazoo College students attending classes on campus during the first summer quarter in the 130-year history of the college. He is a junior.

The majority of the 120 juniors on campus spent last fall and winter studying in university centers abroad, where they were able to earn two-thirds of the year's academic credits.

The summer quarter enables them to complete the total yearly credits required of all students.

This summer quarter marks the final phase of the gradual changeover from the traditional two semester system to the Kalamazoo College plan for full-year education.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

Last week I started telling you about the school which was in session just outside my w[illegible]ozehow, we ran out of space just as Junior Flicker completed his course in ant-hunting.

As you may well imagine, the flickers aren't the only birds who have been busy teaching their youngsters — one of the busiest classrooms has been the bird feeder.

We could not help but laugh at the youngster brought to the feeder by Papa Cardinal. A little squeaky, high-pitched voice, spindly legs, feathers not as ragged as many young birds but oh, what a tiny straggly top-knot — such a funny looking character!

Baby Cardinals are brown, brown all over. It is much the same brown as an adult female but completely lacking the highlights which make her lovely; even this young bird's bill was brown and yes, his legs were, too.

☆

THE FIRST time Papa Cardinal brought his offspring to the feeder the whole house knew something was going on out there. Baby Cardinal apparently did not believe in silence during school hours.

That shrill voice alerted everyone, even the adult bird paid it heed. With wings aflutter and mouth open, the youngster was hungry and Papa rushed up with some tasty scratchfeed.

Unlike the flicker feeding, which looked rather rough, the cardinal was very careful; in fact, he was almost as gentle as he is each spring when he courts his prospective mate.

Then, of course, he is very selective and picks out the choicest tid-bits but, with the baby screaming so incessantly, we were amused to note that he merely grabbed a bill full and ran. Anything to turn off the noise!

Even in his hurry, though, the actual passing of food was done from bill to bill and really, rather carefully.

Apparently both teacher and pupil were pleased with the first lesson because they came back often, to our great pleasure. And always we were alerted to their approach by the youngster's squeaking.

☆

FINALLY, the long-awaited day came when we were half-sure whether Baby was a he or she. That all-over brown of the young bird gives absolutely no clue at all.

When a bit of red does start to appear, the change is quite rapid. A faint streak in the tail one day, a little in the wings the next and at last we noticed that even the bill was turning red.

Although the youngster was still far from gorgeous adult plumage, one evening I did feel safe in announcing to the folks that I thought it was a he. Hope he takes after his father who is an outstandingly-beautiful bird.

About this time the parent-pupil relationship started changing. Papa Cardinal continued to visit the feeder with his offspring but I can't actually say he brought him — it was almost the other way around.

The young bird would sit in the wren-tree and scream until his father came, then they both would come down to the feeder. Junior was so impatient and poor Papa Cardinal was beginning to look a bit haggard.

☆

AT THIS POINT, the youngster was perfectly capable of feeding himself but, like most baby birds, he was such a beggar! He always went through the helpless and hungry routine, and if it produced results fine, but if it didn't, he picked up his own lunch.

Increasingly the feeding chore work and the youngster was left more and more on his own. He is coming to the feeder by himself now — the lessons about eating he learned very well, but I wonder when his voice will change; it is still quite shrill.

So it is that although graduation is over, we certainly had fun watching the birds, especially the flickers and cardinals, while their school was in session.

Next week: Good Lookin., Fine Listening and Funny Reading.

TWIST, BABY, TWIST — say the brother and sisters of Debbie Cote, 11, who danced in their skit at District 4-H Share the Fun Festival held in Ann Arbor at the high school recently. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cote of rural Tecumseh are, from left to right, Onalee, 15, Buddy, 13, Debbie and Christine, 14. The skit, a country comedy pantomime to the tune of "Music Makin' Mama, Second Hand", included dancing, pantomime and clowning. The talented youngsters placed first above all demonstrations in county competition which entitled them to enter in district competition. Twelve counties were represented in many classes. First place winners were from Macomb County and the Cote group received honorable mention under them.

JUST TRAVELIN' ALONG — by bicycle from left Pam Becky, Jodi Robinson, Jara Robinson, Mrs. John Robinson, Jana Robinson, Mrs. Bill Beckey, Mr. Beckey and Mr. Robinson. The two families traveled to Jackson for a family reunion Saturday, camped and returned home Monday. Next year they hope to go as far as the Straits of Mackinac.

Keeping the Family in Trim

This past week-end, the John Robinson family, 1210 Shady Lane, and the Bill Beckey family, 412 Logan St., peddled to Jackson and back.

They routed themselves through Manchester, Michigan Center, and Napoleon to avoid traffic. As another safety precaution, they rode single file with an adult between each child.

Leaving Tecumseh at 11 a.m. Saturday they arrived six miles west of Jackson at 8 p.m. where they spent the night with relatives.

Sunday all rode back to Ella Sharpe Park where they attended the Bater reunion, then continued to Clark Lake and spent the night there.

About noon Monday, the troop headed back towards Tecumseh, arriving about 4:30 p.m.

The youngest, only 2 years old, rode the entire way in a homemade seat fastened to the front of her mother's bicycle.

The families also carried air mattresses, blankets, and a few other needs.

Although not definite, the two families are talking of a bike hike to the straits next summer.

Hot Lunch Program

The Tecumseh schools' hot lunch and milk program will not be changed for the 1963-64 term. The fee of 35 cents charged by the cafeterias met the needs of the program.

State and Federal aid through money and surplus foods, enable the schools to provide lunches at reasonable prices. Schools are not allowed to operate at a profit nor at a loss.

Parents are being asked to encourage their children to keep their word this year about eating at the cafeterias. Each morning, pupils are requested to signify whether they intend to eat at a cafeteria.

If the weather is bad, a large number say they will eat at school; but, if the weather brightens, the pupils will leave school property and eat elsewhere.

This often accounts for a large amount of food being wasted, according to school officials.

Milk, as in the past, will be offered at a reduced price. Pupils bringing lunches may buy milk at 4 cents per carton for white, and when available, chocolate milk.

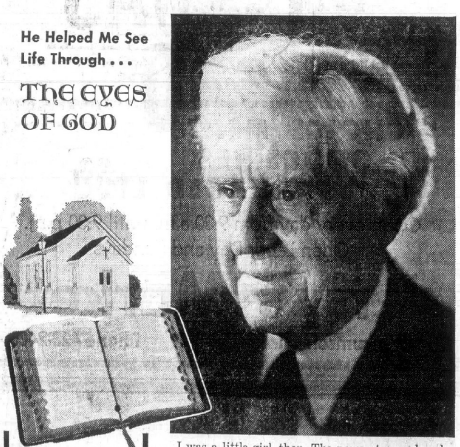
For All We Hold Sacred . . . Attend Church

He Helped Me See Life Through . . .

The EYES OF GOD



THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

I was a little girl, then. The pews at our church were rough wooden benches, and my feet wouldn't reach the floor.

But, as though it were yesterday, I remember his sermon . . . who poured oil . . . the feet of Jesus. Some people said this was a wasteful thing to do. The oil was expensive; the money might have been given to the poor . . . But Jesus wasn't angry with the woman!

"In the eyes of God," our old minister said, "the most precious treasure is the love in a human heart."

No single thought has influenced my life more than that one. Most of my happiness — all of my strength when sorrows come — have been somehow entwined with that simple truth. I shudder at times to think; what if that day I had not been there?

A sermon, a prayer, a Bible passage does not touch the same chord in every heart. But as you seek each Sunday to see life through the eyes of God, there will come mighty visions stirring the depths of your soul.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Why Not Try It?

The proposal to open a city-owned concession stand at Nelson Field sounds like it has possibilities.

Don Montague, recreation director, requested $200 to purchase the concession stand owned by Harry Weakly.

As the City Council discussed the request, two issues evolved: whether the stand was worth the amount asked; and whether the City Council should "get in the retail business."

The second question should be decided first, because it has to be decided before a purchase can be made.

There has been a demand for concessions during baseball games, and as it stands now, private merchants cannot set up stands to satisfy this demand. Therefore, it becomes a question of who will set up a stand, if anyone.

It was suggested some private group, such as the Little League, take it into their hands. It was also pointed out that the Little League had a chance to acquire freezers this summer for this purpose, and didn't carry through on it.

If there is a demand for this concession, and if other groups have not carried the ball on this opportunity, then why shouldn't the Park and Recreation Board be given a chance?

The money thus earned, and Mr. Montague felt quite a bit could be pulled in, would be plowed back into the recreation program.

And here is an aspect of the problem that was not discussed by the Council, but which bears heavily on it. Who could put the money to its best use?

It seems obvious that the Park and Recreation Board could. After all, the money would go indirectly to all the children in the recreation program rather than one group.

If there is still opposition to City "retailing", the other groups could be given another chance to pick this fund-raising project up. If they don't, then it seems reasonable to give the recreation department a chance.

Once the City Council accepts the idea of a City-backed concession, then it could decide for or against the stand Mr. Montague wants to purchase.

Anyway, it seems like an opportunity for the Park and Recreation Board that nobody else can, or wants to take advantage of.

Sandlot Safety

Football season is almost here. The Tecumseh High School is already holding daily practice, and as you drive through town, you can see impromptu games here and there in someone's yard.

Football is one of the nation's great sports. It is also a rough, tough game with plenty of chance for injury. Most of these injuries are minor and borne with great pride by the eager young athletes.

Each year, however, there are serious injuries from football, even a few deaths. Not many, when considered in relationship to the great numbers of players involved, but still a danger.

Many of the injuries are unnecessary and could be avoided. Boys playing in organized school teams will have all the safeguards available.

It's up to parents to protect the youngsters who are playing on unorganized sandlot teams. The rules to follow, advocated by the American Medical Association, are similar to those practiced by organized teams.

►Proper physical conditioning before beginning the rough body contact phase of play is essential. The body hardened by training will resist injury and will be less prone to fatigue.

►Careful coaching leads to skillful performance and fewer injuries. The athlete who knows how to block and tackle in the right way is much less likely to get hurt.

►Proper equipment and facilities are highly important to safety. If your son is playing this season, satisfy yourself that he has proper padding, a good helmet, and proper shoes.

►Good officiating makes for more enjoyment and fewer injuries. The referee who knows his job can hold down the rough play and add to the fun and safety of football.

►Medical care should be sought immediately in case of injury. A doctor knows best whether a minor injury is more serious than it appears.

Hats Off

Clinton is to be congratulated for its successful 125th Celebration.

The final accounts have been drawn up and Clinton stands $4,661.76 richer.

The money acquired during the celebration is only one of the gains.

The experience of a whole community pitching in during an anniversary of historical significance can't help but enrich those involved.

Hats off to the people promoting the Clinton Area 125th Anniversary Celebration.

DUTCH ELM DISEASE VICTIM — Another victim of the dread disease lies on the Macon Hwy. just after the city crew cut it down. There are 26 Elm trees being cut down this year and there may be more, City Manager Cal Zorn reports. Two years ago, about 200 were cut and last year another 100 had to be eliminated. There is no known cure for the Dutch Elm Disease, and the trees seem on their way to extinction in this area.

Water Rust Problem Unsolved

The Tecumseh Water Department increased the flushing program this year in an effort to eliminate rusty water, City Manager Cal Zorn said in his report to the City Council Monday night, Aug. 19.

The Water Department has tried different chemicals to control the rust. It has tried chlorinating, and not chlorinating.

Last week Mr. Zorn said, No. 7 well was closed because of the decrease in demand. Well No. 7 is believed to be the source of most of the trouble.

There have been complaints for more than six months, he noted, although the complaints have just about stopped.

☆

"IT'S A STRANGE thing," Councilman Robert Bonner, metallurgist for the Ace Drill Corporation in Adrian noted.

"One house on a block will have rusty water, while the others won't be bothered," he explained.

"There is a possibility of electrolytic action," he continued. "Different houses have different pipes. Some will have lead pipes, others copper or galvanized iron. These pipes may be picking up the material going through the pipes."

Mr. Zorn explained that the phosphate content was increased in January. But the problem there, he said, was that too much phosphate would remove materials from the pipes themselves.

☆

THE STREET DEPARTMENT will finish the street construction program next week Mr. Zorn claimed.

They cut trees on Shawnee and Herrick Park Drive that were in the way of curb and gutter construction.

They hope to start curb construction by the end of next week.

Bids were opened for the front-end loader at 2 p.m. Friday, Aug. 23, he noted.

The bulldozer repairs were completed by Aug. 27, he added.

☆

TREE REMOVAL — There have been 17 Elm, 16 Maple and three other trees removed. Eleven have been trimmed.

An additional nine Elms, nine Maples and three others are marked for removal. Three will be trimmed.

Salute the Brazees'

(The recent Golden Wedding celebration of the Rev. and Mrs. Alvin Brazee inspired local poet Elmer Pocklington of Ridgeway to write of the fifty years the couple have spent together. The Herald is pleased to print it.)

FIFTY YEARS

Back there in Nineteen-thirteen
Fifty years seemed ages to you
But it gathered speed as it rolled along—
In fact it fairly flew.

And the hopes and plans that then were yours
You often had to change
As you groped along uncharted roads
Bewildering and strange.

Together you planned, together you worked
For what you hoped to do;
At first you planned for just yourselves
For then there were just two.

But later on you learned to know
The joys and sorrows that come
For raising a family is only part
Of life's curriculum.

Together you saw your children grow
And helped to plan each life..
And so you closer together grew—
You were parents and husband and wife.

We don't love folks for what they do
To help us on our way—
Because of what we do for them
Our love grows day by day.

When the joys and sorrows of fifty years
Are shared by a husband and wife
They're more than just rhetorically "One"—
They're bound in a common life.

We hope that for years and years to come
You'll walk life's path together
And that, although there may be clouds
You'll find the best of weather.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

We certainly want the Tecumseh Herald for another year. We love all the news and pictures from our home town. When we get the paper, it is like a long letter from home and we keep informed on the "goings on" in Tecumseh.

This little "Tecumseh" settlement in Wisconsin is growing every year. The natives of New Holstein are learning to say "Tecumseh" since the change of name from the Lauson Engine. An addition to our plant will be producing a larger gasoline engine and we hope there will be as big a market for this as there is for the smaller ones.

As for our family, Richard, our oldest son, will be entering Pharmacy School at the University of Wisconsin this fall while his new wife will be teaching second grade in the Mona Grove School District.

Ross will be entering his second year in the University in the School of Letters and Science.

We will be looking forward to more news from all our friends. Sorry we missed Larry Titley when he was here.

Mrs. Charles Stephenson.

By TOM BRIEN

Nothing shows the decline of the power of Congress so well as the "Great" nuclear ban debate.

It becomes clear that the "Great Debate" is not great in that it means the concerned discussion of all the citizens, but that it is a debate of the great ones.

The great ones being the politicians in the executive branch of government, the military, the industrialists indirectly; and their hired servants, the scientists.

What is missing in this debate is the clash of opinions on the Senate floor. We have instead, one committee, the Foreign Relations Committee, listening to different opinions of militarists and scientists.

In due course, the committee will report to the Senate with recommendations. The Senate will then decide whether or not it will go along with President Kennedy's nuclear test ban.

☆

CONGRESS, in effect, will be exercising a veto power. But its halls will be significantly lacking in informed debate, just as Congress, as a body, is lacking in the initiative.

Now the exercise of mere veto power does not itself mean Congress is exercising secondary power, if it has the choice to take the initiative. But it is obvious in this case that Congress did not have the initiative.

President Kennedy, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and special envoy to Russia Averill Harriman, have carried this thing all the way. They are now asking Congress to approve, which it probably will after an array of militarists and scientists line up behind Kennedy's test ban treaty.

This is a far cry from the purpose of Congress, which is supposedly the ultimate body upon which a democratic system is based.

☆

THE CLASSIC definition of a democratic society is based on the model of the "market place of ideas." Small groups of people debate the issues facing them and their country. The results of their debate work up through their elected representatives, who, in turn debate the same issues face-to-face, taking into account the opinions of the people below.

Through this debate, some consensus, or balance, of opinion is reached and a decision is made.

But where is this happening today in the test ban debate? Certainly not on local levels or in local newspapers, and frighteningly enough, not even in Congress.

It did take place within the higher circles of the executive government, who duly reported negotiations with Premier Khrushchev. It did take place within higher military circles, although only a small amount of the argument reached the public. And it is now taking place within scientific circles.

☆

WHAT WE HAVE instead of the classic model of democracy, is the mass society led and manipulated by the higher elites, and more or less dictated to through the organs of mass communication.

The political elite goes ahead and makes a deal with Khrushchev. It does this with a certain amount of cooperation and discussion with the other higher elites, namely the military and industry, who will be profoundly affected by any disarmament measures.

The hired experts, in this case the Atomic Energy Commission scientists, are called in to give their two cents.

All this time, the major institutions of the communications industry, the three television networks and the major news organs, are duly reporting the debate, making it sound as if the hole country is involved.

Finally, Congress will be allowed to exercise its veto power after the debate is over. The American public will never be involved.

☆

THE ANALYSIS of the modern power structure of the United States as a mass society led by higher elites, does not mean that these elites agree on everything that is to be done.

Edward Teller, so-called father of the H-bomb, is the chief opponent of the test ban treaty. As an opponent, he represents more than just a scientific opinion.

Mr. Teller, according to Columnist Marquis Childs, is consultant to Laurence Rockefeller, head of the Rockefeller Brothers, Inc. His role is to point up the possibilities in new scientific developments as they relate to new developments and space techniques.

On his advice, investments will be made. Some of these investments include Itek, an electronics firm; Marquardt Aircraft; Thiokol Chemical Corp.; Electronic Teaching Laboratories, and Nuclear Development Corp.

It is reported that Marquardt investments rose from $200,000 to over $5 million when it started making ram-jets for Bomarc missiles. Over-all Rockefeller profit was $10 million on these ventures.

☆

MR. TELLER'S connections with industry and Rockefeller, indicates the complicated interweaving of the higher elites.

In his case alone, we have a leading industrial family, who is also a leading political family, using the recent developments in military technology for industrial use, and taking the advice of one the country's leading scientists to make huge profits out of tax dollars.

Mr. Teller is certainly a choice case study of the political-military-industrial-scientific complex that now makes up the highest reach of power in the United States today.

So powerful is it, that only occasionally does it find it necessary to consult Congress, and then usually for final approval only.

While there is competition for power, Secretary of Defense McNamara's struggles with the military-industrialists, for instance, most of it takes place on the top level.

Congress certainly has its own areas of absolute authority, and it finds itself able to stop most of Kennedy's domestic program. But in the area of foreign affairs, it has given up much of its power by default.

Since Congress most directly represents the American public, if Congress gives up its say in world politics, so has the American public.

Long & Short

By TOM RIORDAN

PARIS — This fellow Charlie DeGaulle must be quite a guy.

He long has had world leaders in an uproar and now he's got the poor traveler all confused, at least the casual visitors to France.

About a year ago, Charlie and his cronies decided to shake up the monetary system and thereby was born the "new franc".

Imagine our chagrin, arriving in a strange land, eager to do battle with the French cab drivers, porters, telephone operators and waiters, to learn francs are not necessarily francs.

Roughly, one United States dollar is equal to five new francs. That seemed easy enough.

But when Charlie made the switch he said in effect, "Now we have new francs. We'll use the old coins, as well as new ones. With the old ones, just change the value. 50 francs will equal 50 centimes."

☆

THE FRENCH people, at the outset, were mighty confused by the whole thing—but they bounced back quickly, because no Frenchman wants to lose even the tiniest of skirmishes over cold cash.

Enter the Americans and utter chaos. Buy something for NF2.80 and the storeman hands you a bunch of coins, some old, some new. At the next stop you try to palm off the change, holding a handful before the merchants, and with a smile, asking him to select the total.

He shakes his head slowly, "Non, monsieur, not enough." It never is. We plan to go into the charm bracelet business once back home, using our surplus French change as danglers.

Aside from the money woes, France is an exciting place to visit, especially this fantastic capitol of six million, which has more small shops per block than Tecumseh makes compressors.

Streets all angle and four or five will end up in a "place", which can really throw one off on directions.

☆

ONE EVENING, we got into our hiking togs and strolled to the Left Bank area. It was a beautiful night and the streets were soon packed with all sorts of folks. Sidewalk cafes were doing a brisk business—and there's no more fun than dining at one, or sipping a cool drink.

We stopped for a little refreshment and watched the people and traffic pour along. I was quite sure where we were, although we had taken a variety of streets — and my drink was a lemon coke.

Wanting to head back toward the Seine River, we trudged along. In about four or five blocks we should have arrived, but after almost twice that number, we seemed nowhere near the water.

Checking a map of the city and carefully looking for landmarks, voilat, we had been going in the opposite direction.

Finally, at the river, we spied a large crowd along one side of a bridge near Notre Dame. Edging in to see what was going on, we discovered a French movie company shooting a night scene. We watched for 20 minutes, fascinated by the director yelling instructions, absolutely none of which we could understand.

☆

WHEN a Frenchman speaks, it's usually in machine-gun style.

When he drives, his speech seems slow motion by comparison.

Cars, cabs and crosswalks are places of extreme danger in Paris. The weak of heart must avoid them if he wishes to live.

Paris streets are loaded with tiny cars and giant buses. Few American-made autos are seen. [illegible] and Simcas will go 50 miles an hour, then stop in 15 feet. It's fascinating to ride with one of the hell-driver cabbies, until you realize your life is what he's playing with.

Policemen are at most intersections, but never seem to be concerned with the speed of cars, only that traffic continues to flow smoothly. The pedestrian comes off a real poor second. Once in the street he's on his own.

☆

LET ME tell you about a street-crossing experience we had.

Wanting to take pictures at the Arch de Triumph, we blithefully started across the circular drive off the Champs Elysees. There was a gendarme in the middle and we figured he would keep us alive. How wrong can you be? He couldn't be less interested, or maybe he feared for his own life.

Imagine yourself in Detroit, in the middle of Woodward at the intersection of Jefferson, with both streets twice as wide as they are — and cars coming from every direction, all at once. That's how we felt midway over, in a word: petrified. This is no exaggeration.

Later we recounted the hair-raiser to some Americans who live in France. They were stunned that we tried the crossing at all. That we got there and back is a great tribute to our respective Guardian Angels.

☆

ONE PLACE where we found relative peace and quiet — by Comparison — was one of the city's big department stores, Galeries Lafayette, where we purchased toys for the children and had them mailed directly.

On the roof of the store is an outdoor dining area and one can stroll around, viewing all sides of Paris from eight stories up. It was breathtaking, but not a match for the Eiffel Tower. This structure can really give you the willies, even when you only go to the first stage. The view is awe-inspiring, but the winds chill.

On Saturday, Aug. 24, we joined thousands of Parisians along the Seine as they celebrated the 19th anniversary of the liberation of their city during World War II.

Bridges over the river were cleared and fireworks placed along the edges. First a span near the Eiffel Tower let go, then the next and the next, all the way through the city. Prior to this, cannons boomed a 30-gun salute. Climax of the festivities came at the Place del'Hotel de Ville, where two bands played for an open air dance. Josephine Baker and Yves Montand attended.

Our hotel's entrance opens on Rue de Rivoli, across the street from the Tuileries and a short walk to the Louvre.

We spent much of one afternoon in the famed Parisian museum, and after seeing so many of the world's greatest master pieces in oils by Leonardo da Vinci, Botticelli, El Greco, Rubens, et. al., one just couldn't take another. The never-ending series of exhibition rooms are so packed with beautiful works, description would take volumes.

The Mona Lisa was constantly surrounded, but it would seem, the one thing she has most of is press agentry.

DRY, DRY, DRY — This picture taken beneath the N. Evans St. bridge, eastwards toward the high school, shows clearly what the season's unusually long dry spell has done to winding Evans Creek. The alarming situation below reveals the predicament of many cottagers at Sand Lake. Many docks on the east shore are completely out of the water, forcing several owners to anchor their boats in open water. The situation, however, has not approached the lake's dilemma of the late 1930s when it was just a mere image of its normal size.

A New Business Prospect?

Prospects of filling a vacant store building in downtown Tecumseh improved this week with the renting of the former Sunderhand Insurance office by John Thompson.

Mr. Thompson, former president and board chairman of the United Savings Bank, rented the office space in the Strand Theatre building after the insurance agency moved two doors west into the vacated WABJ Studio.

When the office will be occupied and for what type of business were not revealed.

Office Terms Are Approved

Terms of office for the five new appointees to the Board of Appeal were made by Council Monday night.

Donald Brazee was appointed to a one-year term; Dr. Richard Coak, John Thompson, two-year terms; and Arthur Schwartz, Fred Dickinson Jr., three-year terms.

Council also approved Joe Rice of the Planning Commission to help the new board organize.

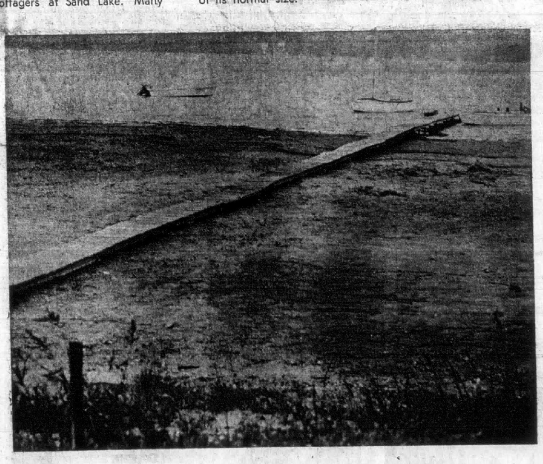
City Is Not Interested in Purchasing Property

An inquiry of Council from Mrs. Mabel Duncan, 301 E. Chicago Blvd., about whether the city was interested in buying her property apparently puzzled councilmen.

They told her that they knew of no plans or discussion about purchasing her house and lot. She said that rumors had reached her that the city was interested.

Mrs. Duncan said that she planned some improvements for the house and didn't want to make the improvements if the city was interested, since the house would probably then be torn down.

She told councilmen that an attempt had been made to buy the property some time ago, and she was then asking $20,000.



Cemetery Lot Sale Methods Are Okayed

Differences between the Roman Catholic Church and the city over the handling of deeds for cemetery lots in the Catholic church section were settled Monday night at the Council meeting.

City officials approved a recommendation from Attorney James Beardsley that the clerk retain all deeds and handle the sales and paper work about as before.

He also recommended that the local priest approve sale of lots in the Catholic section of the cemetery before the sale is consummated.

In other action, Council:

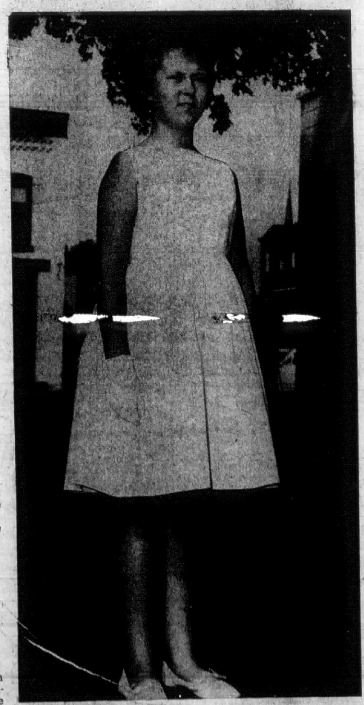
Approved for scheduling, the installation of curb and gutter on S. Maumee, between Cummins and Mohawk.

Authorized purchase of 190 lineal feet of corrugated metal from Shelby Culvert Co. for $220.60.

Re-scheduled a public hearing for the Maumee St. sanitary sewer for Sept. 16.

Accepted the audit for fiscal year, ending June 30.

Discussed activities and expenditures of the Parks and Recreation Board.



BLUE RIBBON FOR PATTI — Twelve-year-old Patti Aebersold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Aebersold, 2203 Russell Rd., was awarded a blue ribbon for her pink and white checked gingham sleeveless summer dress at the State 4-H Show at East Lansing last week.

Youngsters Start Fire

Fire, fanned by a brisk wind, dangerously threatened several homes along Green Hwy., just south of Russell Rd., about noon Tuesday.

The Tecumseh fire department brought the flames under control just before the Raisin Twp. fire truck arrived.

According to Tecumseh police, several youngsters in the area started the fire after playing with matches.

The fire stretched eastwards behind a woodworking plant for several hundred feet and burned over a sizable area.

Busses, Drivers Scheduled for 1963-64 School Routes

Bus services to Tecumseh Public School pupils will again be on a "safety first" basis, says Norval Bovee, business manager.

Due to the need to operate on an austerity budget and the state no longer providing for the purchase of buses, and only approximately 79% of actual operating expenses, the Board of Education has reduced bus services for the past two years so that fewer local tax dollars were required to support this special service to the pupils of Tecumseh.

The state law stating that pupils in grades kindergarten through 6 may be required to walk up to one-half mile to scheduled bus routes, and pupils in grades 7 through 12 up to one mile, is used to determine the length of bus routes, as well as to group pupils so that fewer stops may be made.

Back-tracking has been eliminated unless absolutely necessary.

Parents of pupils who have been requested to join groups at pick-up points are asked again to give their cooperation.

Following is a list of drivers and buses with their approximate runs:

Bus No. 1 — Wanda Ward: Sutton high school; Sutton area, grade school.

Bus No. 2 — Jerry Munger: Tipton area, high school; River Acres, high school; Tipton, grade school.

Bus No. 3 — Glennis Curran: Tecumseh area.

Bus No. 4 — Mae Anderson: Tipton area, Brown St., high school; Tipton area, grade school.

Bus No. 5 — Russell Cooper: Holloway area for transfer children coming to Tecumseh.

Bus No. 6 — Harold Anderson: Tecumseh area.

Bus No. 7 — Joyce Harper: Russell Rd. and Ives Rd., high school and grade school.

Bus No. 8 — Robert Stone: Tecumseh area.

Bus No. 10 — Gloria Barritt: River Acres.

Bus No. 11 — Catherine McKenzie: Airport, high school; Airport area, Burt St., grade school.

Bus No. 12 — Annie Bailey: Tecumseh Acres, high school; Transfer grade children to Macon.

Bus No. 13 — Bessie Adams: Holloway area, high school and grade school.

Bus No. 14 — Virginia Kish: Sutton area, high school and grade school.

Bus No. 15 — Faye Kempf: Centennial area, high school; Ridgeway, grade school.

Bus No. 16 — Donald VanCamp: Sutton area, high school and grade school.

Bus No. 17 — Harold Kempf: Macon area, high school and grade school.

Bus No. 18 — Agnes Woods: Tipton area, high school and grade school.

Bus No. 19 — William Tilton: Brookmeade and Trailer Court area, high school; Brookmeade and Trailer Court, grade school.

Players Call Open Meeting

The Tecumseh Players will hold an open meeting Sunday, Sept. 8, at the Community Center at 8 p.m. to prepare for the coming season.

The board is urging that all members attend. They are also inviting anyone interested in joining to come and get acquainted.

The program for the evening will be a number of skits including one entitled, "The Lighthouse Keeper's Daughter," performed by a few of the players.

Tryouts for the first production, "Born Yesterday" are scheduled for Sept. 13 and 14.

New Front End Loader Approved

A new front-end loader, a tractor-type unit with a hydraulic operated bucket, was approved by Council Monday night to replace the city's present 1955 model.

The new loader, costing $9,370, will put the street department fund about $4,400 in the red, according to City Manager Cal Zorn, who hopes that an increase in weight and gas tax will offset the deficit.

He pointed out that revenue from the weight and gas tax has been exceeding that budgeted, and the first quarter payment this year alone was $1,000 more than a year ago.

Allis Chalmers was awarded the bid, although there were two others with lower bids. These two, however, did not meet specifications.

Tecumseh High Grid Scrimmage Is Planned

Coach Tom Fagan's Tecumseh Indians tentatively have scrimmage planned this week before their opening football game at Willow Run next Friday night.

Ypsilanti, Chelsea or Michigan Center will be the opponent. If Ypsilanti is the opposition, the scrimmage will be held here.

Exchange Club

Exchange Club will meet Monday, Sept. 9, at 6:30 p.m. in the Eagles' Hall.

Local residents were really enjoying the air show put on at Tecumseh Airport by the Melvindale High School Band last weekend. Skydivers and stunting airplanes gave the crowd lots of thrills. They are attempting to raise $30,000 needed to attend the annual Rose Bowl festival in Pasadena, Calif., this year. The group has been invited to march in the parade — a real honor — but they must pay their own way.

We're sure anyone wishing to donate to the cause could send money to Melvindale High School in care of the Rose Bowl Fund.

Harriet Blanden Marries Lee Roy Britton

Harriett Blanden and Lee Roy Britton were united in marriage Saturday evening at the First Presbyterian Church by the Rev. William P. Price, uncle of the bride, who serves at St. Mary's Episcopal Church of High Point, N.C.

The Rev. Julian Gresham assisted with the ceremony before 400 guests. Seating was handled by Joe Riley, Pat McCarey, David and Russell Blanden, James Curth and Maxwell Smith.

Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Merwin Blanden, 5140 E. Monroe Rd., and Dr. and Mrs. William Britton of East Lansing, formerly of Tecumseh.

The sanctuary and chancel of the church were aglow with light from over 100 cathedral candles. Candelabra on either side of the altar, and at the end of each pew were tied with white satin bows, greens and gladioli.

☆

PYRAMID arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums were used to form the background along with emerald foliage and palms.

The bride chose a gown of white peau de soie fashioned with three quarter sleeves and rounded neckline. Alencon lace was appliqued to the bodice and princess front of the skirt, and a large butterfly bow topped the back fullness of unpressed pleats, which fell into a full cathedral train.

A matching lace cap secured the shoulder length veil. Both gown and veil were Maude Bell originals.

The bride carried a modern cascade arrangement of gardenias and ivy.

☆

BARBARA GIBSON was maid of honor and Kae Korner, Mrs. Howard Wilson, Mrs. Roger Korte and Ann Cameron were the bridesmaids.

All attendants wore identical floor length sheath dresses of aqua peau de soie with matching Dior bows and circular veils. They carried cascades of Tropicana roses and ivy.

Kathy Cross, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. She carried a tiny cascade bouquet of white Pinnochio pompons and coral Zorina rosettes.

John Britton was his brother's best man.

Mrs. Blanden wore a floor length sheath dress of turquoise chiffon with matching accessories and a corsage of roses.

Mrs. Britton wore a sheath floor length dress of gold faille with matching accessories and corsage of roses.

☆

WHITE and shades of coral were used throughout the lounge of the Tecumseh Country Club for the reception for the 400 guests.

The coral flounced cake table was placed in front of the large stone fireplace and enhanced by a pyramid of white and coral flowers, candles stood on the mantle.

Those pouring at the reception were Mrs. Ralph Brown, Attica, O., Mrs. Albert Cross, Sylvania, O., Mrs. William Price, High Point, N.C. and Mrs. Donald Exelby, Dearborn, all aunts of the couple.

MR. AND MRS. LEE BRITTON

Among the other out-of-town guests was Mrs. Merrill Blanden, grandmother of the bride of Union City, Pa.

After a week at Lake, Mich., the couple will make their home at 325 Hillsdale St., Lansing, where the groom is a pre-medical student at Michigan State University.

The new Mrs. Britton is a graduate of Lansing Business University.

Dr. and Mrs. William Britton were hosts for the rehearsal dinner Aug. 30 at the Country Club.

Donna Warner, Glenn Champion Wed

White gladioli and Fuji chrysanthemums, huckleberry and jade foliage and white satin bows were used with lighted candelabra to form a background for the wedding of Donna J. Warner and Glenn E. Champion at the Tipton Community Church Saturday evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey D. Warner, Sr., Elton Hwy., Tipton, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Champion of Hillsdale.

The Rev. Seth Hoisington of the Union Gospel Church performed the ceremony before 350 guests.

The bride entered the carpeted aisle on the arm of her father wearing a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and pure silk organza over taffeta.

The fitted bodice was styled with long sleeves and a Sabrina neckline embroidered with iridescent sequins and pearls. The full skirt was accented with lace appliques and a bustle bow.

Her bouffant veil was secured to a crown of pearls and she wore a pearl necklace, gift of the groom.

Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of Fuji chrysanthemums centered with a white orchid.

☆

MRS. JACK WOLF, sister of the bride, was matron of honor wearing a gold satin sheath dress with overskirt and a white headpiece with veil.

She carried a crescent bouquet of green Fuji chrysanthemums accented with brown satin leaves and shower ribbons.

Mrs. Leon Hunt and Mrs. William Schobert of Grand Haven wore green satin sheath dresses as bridesmaids. They carried gold Fuji chrysanthemums accented with green leaves.

Theodore Champion, brother of the groom, served as best man and the guests were seated by Randall Champion, another brother, Larry Woodward and Harvey Warner, brother of the bride.

She wore a circlet of daisies in her hair. Barth Wolf served as the ring bearer.

☆

A FIVE-TIERED wedding cake was featured at the reception held in the church basement as well as a double heart groom's cake and gold-colored punch.

The bride is a graduate of Onsted High School.

She is affiliated with Phi Beta Omega Sorority, Beta Sigma Phi Chapter.

The groom is a graduate of Hillsdale High School and attended Hillsdale College. He is affiliated with Delta Sigma Phi fraternity.

The bride is employed by the United Savings Band and her husband by Gar Wood Industries in Hillsdale.

Teacher Tenure Backed

LANSING — The Board of Directors of the Michigan Education Association endorsed a campaign for statewide teacher tenure at its Aug. 23 meeting. The MEA professional staff will prepare a schedule for the initiatory petition campaign to place teacher tenure on the ballot.

In other action, the MEA Board asked the MEA-affiliated Teacher Education and Professional Standards Commission (TEPS) to develop a statement of the guiding principles behind the proposed Professional Practices Act. The act seeks to declare teaching a profession with certain entrance requirements.

The TEPS Commission was also asked to study the recent ruling of the attorney general which declared that the state board of education has no authority to issue certificates to school administrators. This ruling voided one of the big changes in the revised Michigan Teacher Certification Code.

Retired Pastor Moves to City

The Rev. Herald H. Hendricks and his wife have moved to Tecumseh after his retirement as pastor of the English Prairie Church of the Brethren, La-Grange County, Ind.

The Hendricks are parents of Mrs. George Choske, 707 Wenonah St., X-ray technician at Herrick Memorial Hospital and Merle M. Hendricks 1997 E. Monroe Rd.

The retired couple purchased the residence at 2473 E. Monroe Rd., about 11 years ago and now plan to make their home here close to the children.

Another daughter, Mrs. La-Moyle Shearer, lives in Bryan, O. and two sons, Doyle and Stanley, live in Adrian. In all they have 16 grandchildren.

The Rev. Hendricks served nine years as pastor of the rural church in Indiana. Prior to that time he pastored in the Adrian Church of the Brethren for nine years.

The Rev. Hendricks, though retired, plans to keep active in Christian work by doing evangelistic and camp work.

An interesting experience of the Rev. Hendricks was related in the course of conversation with him.

He said that he had two pickings from a tomato vine this year. The first yield of 14 tomatoes was picked in his study in March. Just before he left, the same plant harvested 13 tomatoes with more to come, which he left for hte incoming pastor.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Labor Day come and gone, temperatures in the 50's and the kids hollering for notebooks, makes it seem as though autumn is here.

Well, might as well get ready for the colorful season by planning a bang-up wiener roast or something else ridiculous. Maybe a hobo party with the guests in costume and lunch in their red handkerchief pokes.

Something for a boiled dinner cooked over an open fire.

One Tecumseh gal was talking about such an event over the weekend. Sounds like fun for Ma, Pa and the kids.

Mrs. Rose Service entertained guests Sunday from Jackson. Her sister, Mrs. Gladys Kurtz, and daughter, Mrs. Richard Crawford, and four children were there for picnic dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Baldwin and son of Ypsilanti and Mr. and Mrs. Ormand Socks were also present.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Golat returned home Sunday from St. Louis, Mo., where they accompanied their son, Richard, who will attend the Bailey Technical School of Diesel Engines.

Ralph Helzerman, Jr., has recovered from a severe gash in the instep of one foot which he received in a wood-chopping accident while the family was at their summer home in the north woods. Ralph's axe slipped and he severed a vein and after treatment was on crutches for two weeks.

Ricky Ruttkofsky, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ruttkofsky, is recovering at home following a tonsillectomy at St. Joseph Hospital.

A daughter, Julie Beth, was born Aug. 28 to Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Vine of Genoa, O. She weighed 7 lbs., 11 oz. Mr. and Mrs. Donald LaBounty are the proud grandparents of the new baby and her sister, Deborah Sue, 2½, at home.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER Honestly, we have the greatest respect for the government of this wonderful United States, but sometimes we think they spend the taxpayers' money in strange ways.

For instance, some time ago we read where the Department of Agriculture had issued a booklet which tells a man how to make an apron. If any of you men want such information, just write to the Human Nutrition and Home Economics Division of the Department of Agriculture, and they will send it pronto!

Honestly, it is our candid opinion that it will be both a waste of time and material to have men make aprons. An unofficial survey among friends proves that men like to cook, inside or out; but they will spend money for ovens, charcoal burners, rotisseries, spoons, forks, asbestos gloves . . . but they do not like to part with favorite recipes, and they hate aprons! Some psychological quirk about being tied to the strings of . . . .

Anyway, we do not have aprons at Clinton Woolen but we do have some of the finest men's sportswear. Our collection of jackets covers the field. Wools in wide variety . . . lightweight to heavyweights.

Sweaters, sweaters and sweaters, his seems to be year where every man has his own preference and no particular type stand out as a best seller. Someone wants pullovers, V's or Crews, another wants plain cardigans, the next a fancy and there are quite a few prefer the Zip type.

In outer coats whether you prefer the English Stroller or the American Auto Coat or one with the Ski look we have them.

Clinton Woolen always tries to offer the finest in men's sportswear and welcomes your inspection.

Playhouse Ends Season; Burns Off to England

"I am very happy with this season," Larry Burns, producer of the Irish Hills Playhouse said after his crew had gone through a nearly flawless performance of "The Lady's Not For Burning," Saturday night.

"Overall, the cast has improved steadily," producer Burns continued. "Even when one of the performers quit three weeks ago, the cast was able to close ranks and still put on a good play."

The audience grew steadily larger as the season progressed, he noted. In the last week, the audience had grown to about 100 compared to a dozen or so earlier in the summer.

"Although no money was made, we'll have to consider this season a success," he said.

"Several in the staff have already asked to have parts in next year's productions," Mrs. Burns mentioned, "so we may have some of the same people back again."

Next year Mr. Burns plans to do five Shakespearean plays in commemoration of Shakespeare's 400th anniversary.

He and his wife will be leaving soon for England where they expect to spend eight months taking in the many theatrical celebrations of Shakespeare's anniversary.

☆

SATURDAY night's play "The Lady's Not For Burning," is a sometimes moving, sometimes hilarious story of a discharged soldier who confesses to crimes so that he may be executed. The soldier, played by Robert Jones, no longer wants to live.

He falls into the hands of the unhappy mayor, played by Robert Nader, who only wants to live out his days in quiet order.

At the same time, the poor mayor must decide what to do about one of the local misses, Muriel Saphire, who is accused of turning a man into a dog.

The soldier wants to die, and the young lady wants desperately to live. When the two are thrown together, she discovers love and he finds salvation in her.

The performances were excellent to the man, and the only criticism that can be made, is that the cast knew their parts so well some of them hurried through their lines.

It was an excellent play on which to end the summer theater season.

It will be held Monday, Sept. 9, at 7 p.m. at the church with all interested girls and mothers invited by the council to attend.

The Pioneers recently went on an overnight camping trip to the Lutheran Camp at Kilarney Lake.

Hiking, handicraft, swimming and other camping activities were climaxed by a family pot-luck supper Aug. 29.

The first home loan by a savings and loan association was made to a lamplighter in Frankford, Pa., in 1831. The home is still standing.

Thanks a hundred billion!

This month the savings and loan business passes the 100 billion dollar mark in assets. We are proud to be a part of it. The savings and loan business is built on the right [illegible] of human beings to better themselves. Its assets have grown from the thrift of its 35 million savers who are building sound financial futures for themselves.

We join all savings and loan associations in saying to you, our customers, "Thanks a hundred billion" for your confidence in us.

Larry Ehinger And Adele DePuy Are Given Party

Forty young people, counselors and guests met at Vineyard Lake Monday recently for a farewell party for Adele DePuy and Larry Ehinger.

Swimming, boating, water skiing, badminton and other games occupied the afternoon preceding a picnic supper.

Adele, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William DePuy, left Friday with her parents to go to Australia for the coming year. She hopes to enter nurses' training there.

Larry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ehinger, is going to Kansas to enroll in the Friends Academy while his parents return to Africa to their mission field.

Both young people have been active in youth work at the Tecumseh Friends Church and will be greatly missed.

Each was presented a daily devotions book from the group.

Russell Lutton Wins County Tractor Meet

Russell Lutton, 2nd place winner in the open class Michigan State plowing match this year, walked away with the winner's trophy in the County-wide 4-H Tractor demonstration.

Held Aug. 24 at the fairgrounds, 15 boys tried to beat out Russell for the trophies provided by Andersons Fertilizer of Riga.

Each contestant in the senior division must compete in three events.

► Paper and pencil test of tractor knowledge.
► Two-wheeled trailer event.
► Backing event with a four-wheeled trailer.

Second place winner in the senior division was Steve Eldred. Both Steve and Russell are sons of Donald Lutton at Britton. Both boys are members of the Britton-Macon 4-H club, Fred Long Community Leader.

Russell held second place again at the State event in Lansing on Wednesday, Aug. 28. The state winner will compete in the Regional event.

Chevrolet School Buses

Why do people select Chevrolet – cars, pick-ups, trucks and school buses? Loyalty? Dependability? Economy of operation? Price? Yes, for all of these reasons, and several more, people want Chevy. Those who have owned one Chevrolet after another, have developed a loyalty, a confident feeling of Chevy's ruggedness and dependability, a sureness that Chevy gives them the most economical operation and maintenance, and that Chevrolet, dollar for dollar in a quality product, cannot be matched. In the Tecumseh area, we have many happy and satisfied Chevy owners. Why? The above reasons, of course, and one other: SERVICE AND THE RELIABILITY THAT SCHNEIDER'S WILL GIVE THEIR CHEVROLET THE FINEST CARE. The next time you shop, let Schneider's show you Chevy!!

It's never too late to start playing. John Buckles, 205 pound tackle for Britton, is playing his first year of football despite the fact that he's a senior. They didn't have football in the schools he previously attended. "He doesn't know enough about the game yet," Coach Hamilton said. But he is giving the first string Tories as hard a time in practice as most defensive tackles they'll meet during the season.

The Tecumseh Indians will have their one and only scrimmage game Friday evening. This will be the big test for personnel, Coach Tom Fagan said. "Our practice scrimmage Saturday revealed weak areas that we have to work on as a team. The scrimmage game should show us what men we are going to depend on during the coming season."

In the scrimmage game Friday, the coaches will be paying close attention to the ends. One of the contenders for offensive end is Roy Newton, six foot, 158 pounds brother of Coach Ray Newton. Roy transferred to the Tecumseh High School when his father moved here from Clinton.

The Indians will lack some of the depth they had last year. The 1962 Indians had only three men who regularly played both offense and defense. This year, Coach Fagan expects at least five to be going both ways. The five he has in mind are: lineman Don Baird, 5' 11", 185 pound junior; Tri-captain Jim Tilton, 5' 8", 178 pound senior at tackle; halfback Doug Goldsberry, 5' 9", 150 pound junior; Tri-captain Dave Lemerand, 5' 10", 166 pound senior at halfback; and halfback Jim Baker, 5' 11", 161 pound senior.

One of the five men still on the varsity that have no previous football experience, is Bob Maynard. Bob, a strapping 6 foot, 245 pound middle guard, is outweighed by only one man, Vaugh Lewis, who weighed in at 250 pounds. Both are juniors. Bob transferred from Kentucky last year a little too late for the team. He may see quite a bit of action this year, Coach Fagan said.

Coach Fagan pointed out five others that should contribute much to the Indian effort: Juniors Gregg McEnroe, 5' 9", 157 pound fullback; Larry Merx, 5' 10", 168 pound tackle; and sophomores Jim Green, 5' 9", 150 pound guard; Ron Bolz, 6' 1", 168 pound end; and Mark Blatchford, six foot, 165 pound end.

For All We Hold Sacred . . . Attend Church

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

BIG DAY

It's an odd feeling when children start to school. As a parent, you are tremendously proud and excited. But you are also a little afraid.

For the first time, your Johnnie and Susie are going off on their own. Suddenly, they look smaller than they have since they were babies, and you have an irresistible impulse to run after them. But it's too late for that—so you let them go, with a smile on your lips and a fervent prayer in your heart.

Later, when the first rush of emotion passes and reason returns, you laugh at yourself. For the truth is that Johnnie and Susie are exactly where they've always been: in God's care, whether at home, in school, at play, or in church. And, grateful to the Church for this truth, you remind yourself that next Sunday you'll remember to thank God for that care . . . a little more than usual.

Britton Bets on 15 Lettermen

Fifteen returning lettermen should make the Britton Tories strong on the front line, Coach Dan Viergever said.

"We'll have a good first team," Assistant Coach Sam Hamilton agreed, "if they stay healthy."

The first call for tryouts brought 25 out to practice. That number has dropped to 23; five of these are freshmen.

"Most of the teams we face are Class C teams," Coach Hamilton explained, " and will have more depth than us. We will be substituting three or four regularly, while the other teams will be substituting eight or nine."

THEIR FIRST game with Adrian Catholic Central Sept. 20 may be one of their toughest games, Coach Hamilton said. It should show how the team is going to be able to stand up to their opponents.

Before that, the Tories will have one scrimmage game at Clinton Thursday, Sept. 5, with Clinton and Deerfield under the lights. They will start at 7 p.m. and face each team for a scheduled length of time.

"Tackle to tackle, we'll be big and experienced," Coach Viergever said.

The largest so far is Verl Sanch, a 205 pound tackle, and the smallest is Tom Cadmus, 145 pound center.

Coach Viergever, who is coaching his first football team this fall, plans to stick with a straight T. Later in the season, he hopes to work out some split formations.

☆

COACH VIERGEVER comes to Britton with plenty of playing experience. He won 10 varsity letters at Ypsilanti, including the four he won in football, where he played end.

Then he alternated between center and guard at Eastern Michigan University for two years. For another two years, he played tackle, guard and linebacker for Morningside College in Sioux City, Iowa.

He graduated in 1962 and spent one year as recreation director in Chicago.

His wife, Ruth, a former airline hostess, is from Minneapolis. They have two children, Peter, 3½, and Suzan, 2.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Governor Romney is out of Michigan. In his absence, this week's column is written by State Controller, Glenn S. Allen, Jr.)

In all the clamor and publicity on the controversial issue of whether Michigan needs tax reform and whether there should — or will be — an income tax, a significant point . . . particularly to taxpayers . . . is overlooked.

This is spending reform, which means cutting costs of government. Quietly and efficiently, Governor Romney has undertaken a series of steps to reduce the burden on the taxpayer.

The job of following through on this program is assigned to the Department of Administration headed by the state controller. What are these steps and what hope of success is there in the program?

The governor believes that one way to cut costs is to become more efficient in the present method of performing services. To help achieve this, he has called on a Governor's Task Force . . . a group of top accountants from private industry in Michigan, which now is making intensive studies within the Revenue Department, Liquor Control Commission and the Department of Administration to determine if the same job output can be performed with fewer people.

Fortunately, the heads of these three departments have been most cooperative, and while it is too soon to give any definite results, all preliminary reports indicate important savings can be made.

☆

IF THIS initial program is successful, then the procedure will be carried on to all agencies of state government.

It is believed significant cost reductions are possible in the area of printing. It is believed that savings can be achieved through the use of a blanket policy in the purchase of surety bonds by separate agencies. The use of electronic data computers offers possibilities of cost savings.

At the request of the governor and the Task Force, the legislature already has appropriated money to set up a management improvement section in the controller's office, and we now are taking job applications for men trained in data processing equipment and in efficiency techniques.

In addition, other cost-saving suggestions no ware being investigated — for example, contracting out the janitorial service in state buildings and eliminating the retail sales functions of the Liquor Control Commission.

☆

IN ADDITION to the Task Force recommendations, we in the Department of Administration are carrying on our own program. A part of the $62 million surplus reported last week comes from lapses, or money unspent, by our 128 agencies.

Nearly every week we are finding places to make savings. By shipping rock salt used in the winter on state highways by boat, we cut costs $90,000.

By substituting ordinary engraving for steel engraving for trout stamps issued to fishermen, we saved about $1,800. By suggesting the transfer of old law books to the State Library we will avoid spending $25,000 otherwise needed to renovate the law library.

Because in some cases state automobiles are used for pleasure reasons, we soon will announce a stricter policy on use of state-owned cars.

☆

THESE ALL are small savings, but they add up. Admittedly, they are small when compared to the extra load placed upon the taxpayers just to provide the same state services to our increasing population.

Next year some 66,000 more children will be in grade school — this automatically increases our budget about $16 million. Ten thousand more students will enter college — and just to provide for them adds $10 million to the budget.

There will be more senior citizens requiring medical aid to the aged — this adds $2.5 million to the budget.

These increases, resulting from population growth, are greater than the growth in our present tax structure, even in times of prosperity which we enjoyed this year. This is why it is important to become as efficient as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Myers and sons of 512 Nokomis St., enjoyed a visit to Sarasota Jungle Gardens during their recent vacation on Florida's Lower West Coast. They mingled with flamingos and other rare wildfowl from every continent roaming freely in these world-famous Gardens.

Russ Puts Aside Worldly Career

After four years of schooling and four years of establishing a career as an engineer with General Telephone in Muskegon, Russ Hubbard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hubbard, 814 Outer Drive, is putting aside his logarithm tables to take up a Bible.

Russ, an Air Force veteran and graduate of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton, leaves this month with his wife Fern and their three children for the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

At the end of his trip to Fort Worth is the beginning of at least five more years of intensive study, for Russ plans to work toward a Doctor of Theology degree at the Baptist seminary.

For the reserve Air Force Captain who once navigated a fully-armed Strategic Air Command bomber, the risk involved — leaving a well paying career and a comfortable home for the relatively spartan life of a married college student — is non-existant.

His training as an engineer will aid him in finding part-time employment during his renewed collegiate endeavor.

☆

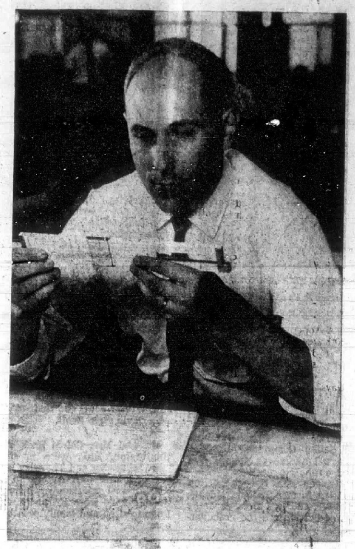
BOTH Russ and his wife have always been active church workers. In the last several years, however, Russ' activities have stepped up.

He's served in such positions as Sunday School Superintendent, Church Treasurer, Chairman of the Bond Committee, Music Director and Chairman of the Deacons. Still he felt there was something missing from his life.

"Years ago, when I had not yet established a career, friends and relatives approached me with the idea of going into the ministry or some other phase of full-time church work," Russ says. "But I felt then, as I do now, that it would take more than a vocational desire to enter such a field."

Russ has already spent some time in the pulpit. His first presentations were made as a lay-preacher to "captive audiences" in Texas jails and homes for the aged. He's since substituted in his church pulpit in Muskegon.

In 1957, while serving in Houston, Texas, with the Air Force, Russ met and married Fern, a native of Arkansas.



TAKING UP THE GOLDEN RULE — Russ Hubbard, General Telephone Company engineer, put aside his slide rule this week to begin studies for the ministry at Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas. Four year residents at 1530 Princeton Rd., Muskegon, the Hubbard family left Muskegon Tuesday, August 27, for visits with relatives in Tecumseh and Texarkana, Texas, before going on to Fort Worth.

Fern married a young Air Force officer bent on a career in engineering. He had already begun his career with General Telephone in Michigan six months before receiving his active duty orders.

"It seems somewhat ironic, now, that when we were first married we became close friends with our Assistant Pastor and his wife and the wives discovered that, while single, both had decided to marry neither a doctor nor a minister.

The Pastor's wife had married an accountant who had since joined the ranks of the ministry," Russ recalls.

☆

AFTER SEVEN YEARS of marriage, a year ago, Russ revealed his decision to Fern. Though it had been discussed earlier, the announcement came as somewhat of a shock to the mother of three young boys.

However, Russ was intent and convinced that the ministry was his calling, and he soon had his wife equally convinced.

"She's wholeheartedly behind me now and we both realize that this is something that has to be done," Russ said.

Russ applied for entrance to the seminary in October, 1962, and, after the usual acceptance procedures, was cleared to begin studying for his new life as a man of the cloth.

☆

HIS ACADEMIC preparation has already begun. He has picked up several extra credits in the Liberal Arts at the Muskegon Community College including Spanish and Sociology. In the languages, he'll need Greek, Hebrew, German and French before his doctorate is presented.

The Hubbards left Muskegon on Tuesday, August 27, and they are visiting a few days with Russ's family in Tecumseh.

They will drive to Texarkana, Texas, for a visit with Fern's family and then Russ will go on to Fort Worth to find employment and housing before bringing his family to the seminary.

It's a long road and a difficult one and both Russ and Fern realize it. As for his swap of a drawing board for a pulpit, Russ said:

"It's not even a change of employers, really I'm just eliminating the middle man."

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Swarts returned home on Sunday after spending a few days with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Swarts and son, Jim, at Charlevoix. Jim had spent a few days here with his grandparents before returning to his home with them.

Bitter About All the Litter

Can you imagine the labor and expense of spreading 69½ tons of wildly assorted materials over 91 miles of high-speed expressway, all within one weekend?

Chicago highway officials not only can imagine this happening, it did and they don't like it. Over the Fourth of July week-end, motorists managed to leave almost 70 tons of junk spread over the expressways alone.

There were these items, as reported by the state director of public works: 18 dogs and cats, plus a sack of kittens, 13 mattresses, 24 hub caps, a baby buggy, 12 automobile hoods, nine mufflers, six wooden crates, two bed springs, nine bales of straw, a log with a chain attached, one rocking chair, two screen doors, one garage door.

The number of beer cans and beer cases, orange peels, cigaret and cigar butts, pieces of sandwiches and similar matter was almost incalculable.

What amounts of litter and trash were left on other streets, state and county highways and forest preserve paths in this one week-end, of course, are uncounted or unreported. The situation wouldn't be greatly different in other cities and states.

Evelyn Beland, Gerald Lewis Are United

Evelyn Eileen Beland and Gerald Keith Lewis were united in marriage, Aug. 30, in a candlelight ceremony performed by the Rev. B. O. Bashore at the First Baptist Church.

White Gladioli and chrysanthemums, in wedding baskets and in the altar vases, enhanced the chancel, lighted with the seven-branch candelabra.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Beland, 1002 W. Chicago Blvd., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Lewis, 9134 Penecost Hwy.

Jack Wolf was the soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Katharine Hunt.

On the arm of her father, the bride approached the altar in a floor length gown of silk brocade with fitted bodice, tapered sleeves, with the skirt ending in a chapel train.

Her elbow-length veil was held in place by a crown with crystal insets, and around her neck she wore a locket belonging to her grandmother, Hazel Beland, which was worn by the bride's mother for their wedding.

She carried a modified crescent arrangement of glamellias and variegated dracena foliage.

Marilyn Beland was her sister's maid of honor, wearing a dress of blue embossed taffeta with three-quarter sleeves, sweetheart neckline and a full skirt with bow at the back waistline.

She wore a matching veil attached to a crown like that of the bride's and carried a wicker basket filled with lavender and purple pompons and purple asters.

Nancy Beland and Mrs. Newin Brown of Hudson were the bridesmaids, attired the same as the maid of honor.

Steve Rainey was the best man and the guests were sealed by Larry Smith, Clinton Sneary and Terry Beland.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beland were hosts for the reception held in the Youth House following the ceremony.

Guests attended from Kalamazoo, Detroit, Edmore, Grayling and Hillsdale.

Those assisting at the reception were Linda Carney, Barbara Pawlack, Sandra Camp, Pat Roe, Karen Butler, Sandra Redman and Anna Mae Lewis.

The bride is a 1961 graduate of Tecumseh High School and attended Central Michigan University.

The groom attended Onsted High School and is currently employed by Dearborn Steel Tubing in Clinton.

The couple will make their home in Adrian.

Graduates in Course on Banking

United Savings Bank classes Merlyn Downing graduated Friday, Aug. 30, at the University of Wisconsin in Madison from a three year intensive banking course.

The graduate school of banking, sponsored by Central States banks, covers all phases of banking.

Mr. Downing has attended U. of W. for two weeks each of the past three summers. Students receive a series of problems to be worked throughout the year and submitted the following year before admission.

Many of the instructors and lecturers are top men in the nation from business and industry.

Mrs. Downing and Mr. and Mrs. Leland Downing of Britten attended the exercises.

Toledo Listed One of U.S.'s Top Markets

The U. S. Bureau of the Budget has accepted a Toledo Chamber survey that would add Wood County, Ohio, and Monroe County, Michigan, to the official federal definition of metropolitan Toledo.

It is believed that such action would place Toledo among the nation's 50 largest metropolitan centers, possibly as high as 41'st, centers, possibly as high as 41st, Northwestern Ohio and Southeastern Michigan some broad new economic advantages. The federal bureau's new ratings are expected next month.

The present action of the bureau of the budget would directly benefit Wood and Monroe Counties by bringing them into one of the nation's top 50 markets for the first time.

GOOD LOOKING, FINE LISTENING AND FUNNY READING

The bird was sitting on the top rail of the fence and, as we watched, and wondered, he was joined by another speckle-breasted bird who popped out of a weed patch at the top of the creek bank. The fence-sitter hopped down and the two started scratching through the grass. Obviously we had a pair of ----- well, just what were they?

Our first thought was of brown thrashers but somehow, that didn't seem quite right. True, the birds did have the spotted breast and their backs were reddish brown but still, the nagging nagging thought persisted that they were — brown thrashers.

They were not quite big enough, their bodies were plump and chunky instead of being rather streamlined and something was wrong with the breast markings. Besides, if these were thrashers, they had fought a losing battle with a lawn mower or some hedge trimmers because their tails weren't as long as they should have been.

We were, of course, playing host to a pair of wood thrush: to be perfectly truthful, however, the identification wasn't sure until the next day.

Ida and I tried over and over — she'd rush for the binoculars, but the birds were just not standing still long enough and they weren't coming close enough for a good look without the glasses. Oh, my, such frustration!

☆

MOM was the lucky person when, late Saturday afternoon, she saw one of the birds "close up".

There was no doubt at all, a wood thrush! He had no wing bars, and, just as we had suspected the day before, his back was a pretty reddish brown but the cap on top of his head was a much richer and redder color, and yes, he did have white circles around his eyes.

A check of the bird books cleared up the mystery about the breast markings. The white breast of the thrush is decorated with circular spots whereas the thrasher's markings form an almost striped pattern.

I wonder why, at the time we were looking at the birds, we didn't realize this — thinking about it now, there is a decided difference in their "fronts".

For some time we had suspected there was a thrush, or thrushes, in the neighborhood because we kept hearing such a pretty song but could never spot the singer.

Darn my tin ear — most people recognize this bird's song immediately but with me it takes a while to soak in.

BEFORE GOING any further I must tell you about the funny thing one of my favorite bird books did. They were discussing the beautiful song of the wood thrush, actually going to great length and getting quite involved in technicalities.

I was greatly impressed until they ended the paragraph by saying that, of course, all wood thrush do not sing this way.

To me this is in the same category a giving directions to a specific house by asking, "Do you know the red house which sets on the hill and has white shutters, black roof and a big sandstone chimney?" and then adding, "Well, that isn't the place!"

I just thought my bird book never would do such a thing, but I guess we all make mistakes.

Getting back to the thrushes, it is not too surprising to have them in the neighborhood.

They are deep woods birds but have adapted amazingly well to civilization. They are frequently seen in parks and lawns which are heavily wooded; also, they show a preference for being near running water.

Here, at the west of Logan, we certainly have the shade and water; here's hoping the birds find everything else to their liking. They make nice visitors.

So it is that a pair of wood thrush have been around and just see all that their visit afforded us — good looking, fine listening and funny reading.

NEXT WEEK: A Pretty Thing.

Weren't They Welcome?

It was a real thrill to see thirty-three 1928-31 vintage Fords in caravan at the Community Center Aug. 25. Close to 120 people were spending the day touring our countryside, in connection with Henry Ford's centennial celebration, viewing buildings and works he built.

Only damper on this fine thought was that Tecumseh did nothing to greet these people, or to entertain them. It would seem that a group such as this, interested enough to travel many miles, should at least be afforded the courtesy of a greeting and an unlocked Community Center for them to tour.

A little advance planning could have found, we assume, several service clubs more than willing to serve refreshments and conduct tours for these people.

They were originally scheduled to be in Tecumseh for two hours, but cut their visit short when they found the landmark locked and no one around.

An opportunity lost now — but it should be taken into consideration for the future.

People visiting our community, especially in as large a group as the caravan, should be given proof that we are proud of our community and our heritage.

Watch School Buses

Back to school time now means in Michigan that more than two million elementary and secondary students and about 7,200 school buses are again part of regular weekday traffic patterns, the State Police remind motorists.

Because of the unpredictable actions of children, drivers are urged to be especially vigilant near student pedestrian and bicycle traffic and in the vicinity of school bus stops.

Capt. Donald E. Oates, commanding officer of the Safety and Traffic bureau, pointed out that about 200,000 youngsters going to school for the first time are generally inexperienced in pedestrian safety procedures and thus less alert to traffic dangers.

State Police records show, he said, that of the children under 15 years of age killed in traffic accidents last year in Michigan, 96 were pedestrians and 26 were bicyclists. In the same age group there were 3,687 pedestrians and 1,777 bicyclists injured.

Motorists are reminded that Michigan law requires that they stop when overtaking or meeting a rural school bus stopped for loading or unloading passengers.

Exceptions to the law provide that motorists need not stop:

► On divided highways having a physical barrier or median space when the bus is in the roadway opposite them.

► In villages or cities unless such stops are required by local ordinances with signs posted to that effect.

► At intersections controlled by a police officer or a traffic stop and go signal where motorists may pass a loading or unloading bus with caution and no faster than 10 miles an hour.

On the Lighter Side

With all the trouble school officials throughout the state are having getting enough money to operate their schools, it seems too much to ask that classroom floors be carpeted.

But that is just what is happening in other parts of the country — with surprising results.

Principal Millard J. Smith of Shaker High School, Albany, N. Y., says "Students take greater pride in the school and are more relaxed in the activities they carry on here.

"Boys wearing hats as they enter the building immediately remove them upon feeling the carpet under foot. Loud talking and horse play in the corridor has been seen to cease when the group reaches the carpeted area.

"The level of the speaking voice in the carpeted areas is consistently lower than it is in the uncarpeted areas of the junior high school.

"The pencils and pens are noisless when they are dropped to the floor. In fact, pencils are not dropped to the floor for this reason."

If this isn't enough to make teachers perspire with envy, the cost factor is bound to make principals pant with desire.

Testing at Shaker High has shown that carpeted areas were cleaned 52.7 per cent of the time and at 50.4 per cent of the cost of cleaning the asphalt tile.

For a nine-year period in the Peter Pan School in Andrews, Texas, costs considerably less, mostly because of cheaper upkeep.

The initial cost of the carpet is $2,000 with $4,194 for upkeep, making a total of $6,194.

The initial cost of the vinyl floor was $1,120 with $6.281 for upkeep, making a total of $7,401 — $1,207 less.

Interesting.

Mission in Primitive New Guinea

One year ago Aug. 26 the Rev. and Mrs. Merlyn Wagner left the United States for missionary work in New Guinea.

It's been a busy year for the young people. They are now in a new territory just opened up by the Australian government where Mrs. Wagner is the first white woman the natives have ever seen.

Their only transportation over the rugged terrain is walking — it takes four days of 10-hour walking to reach the Lutheran Mission at Wabag, New Guinea.

And their only means of communication is a battery-operated radio.

Shortly after arrival, Mrs. Wagner was listening to music on the radio and a screech owl outside, who had never heard such noises, was contributing his own version of music, when Merlyn came into their home laughing his head off.

Seems two natives had heard the music and screeching and one said to the other "Listen, the white woman — she sings."

☆

REV. WAGNER said the work is rewarding because the natives are eager to learn about and accept Christianity.

The couple is building a new "bush" home in their valley, where supplies are airdropped to them every two weeks.

Problems in erecting their home were simple Rev. Wagner said, to mention a couple — hauling in [illegible] for plumbing and, upon arrival, discovering the elbows were missing. They also ended up with a stove and no stovepipe.

They send letters out 40 miles by native runner to a jeep which carries it to Wabag where a mission plane transfers it to Australia and TWA carries it to the USA.

In spite of all the handling, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wagner, Occidental Hwy., receive a letter in 12 days.

Rev. Wagner also stated that he gets the Tecumseh Herald, sometimes three or four at a time because they're held up at one place or another. He said he enjoys the local paper for all its "home" news.

The couple has four more years to spend in New Guinea—10,000 miles from Tecumseh — long way from home.

OLD TIMES — were renewed at the Community Center Aug. 28 when this stream of antique cars arrived in caravan. Thirty-three vintage Fords from 1928 to 1931 were on a three day tour in commemoration of Henry Ford's Centennial celebration. Starting from Detroit, the group made stops in Dundee, Tecumseh, Macon and several other communities, ending in Jackson. The Ford program of village industries was started in this area of Michigan during the early part of the century. Tecumseh's present Community center was a plant for cleaning and sacking soy beans.

don't be a SQUARE

By TOM BRIEN

The more money you make, the bigger your bills become.

Whenever you're feeling harassed by bills, probably the best relief is to listen to someone who makes considerably more money than you do.

The best cure is to look at our country's debt. It not only dwarfs personal money problems into microscopic bits of nothing, it invariably leaves one stunned.

If we take a 100 fresh $1 bills and wrap them tightly, we get a stack of approximately half an inch. (If this is a bad guess I would like to be corrected, never having had 100 one dollar bills at once. It's probably more.)

A stack of one million $1 bills would rise to the height of the tallest pyramid, or tower 50 feet above the tallest redwood.

☆

AMERICA'S spending power comes into unusual focus when we realize our defense budget allows for 10 times this much to be spent per minute.

Our government fondly speaks in terms of billions of dollars. But do any of them really understand what a billion dollars means?

A single stack of one billion $1 bills, if laid down on its side, starting at the four corners of Tecumseh, would go on past Meyer's Airport, through Clinton, Saline, come to US-23 in Ann Arbor, go through town and on up to Brighton, past Hartland, Fenton and Runkin, past the outskirts of Flint and finally end up on the far side of Flint.

Our national debt would make a stack of bills that would reach from New York to Moscow 5 times, or, make a bridge over 2½ feet wide and a little over two inches thick.

That sort of visualizing makes personal money problems seem rather insignificant. Visualizing the vast reaches of time makes even the human race seem a little puny.

☆

WHEN SCIENTISTS speak of the span of life on this planet in terms of millions of years, it becomes incomprehensible. So one scientist, James C. Rettie, rendered a service by putting the calendar of evolutionary time in the subdivisions of a year, which appeared in "Coronet" some time ago.

Try to imagine a moving picture taken of earth by inhabitants of another planet, using a super-telephoto lens and a time-lapse camera. This imaginary film was taken at the rate of one picture per year for the last 757 million years.

Then it is run in a projector at normal speed, 24 years of earth history flashing by each second. Since the film runs continuously 24 hours a day, about two million years of history are shown on the screen each day.

The entire 757 million years takes one full year, starting midnight of New Year's Eve until midnight of the next.

☆

THROUGHOUT January, February, and March, there are no signs of life. Single-celled organisms appear early in April, [illegible]-celled ones later in the month.

Late in May comes the first vertebrates. It is the middle of July before the first land plants begin to pave the way for animal life on land. August arrives before the first land vertebrates, the amphibians, put in an appearance.

The first reptiles appear by the middle of September. Among these the dinosaurs dominate the scene through the remainder of September, October and much of November, about 70 days.

In the meantime, the first birds and first mammals appear. The raising of the Rocky Mountains near the end of November signals the end of the great era of reptilian domination.

As the movies runs on into December we see the mammals dominate; they undergo their great evolutionary developments. Christmas arrives: the movies shows us the Colorado River beginning to cut its Grand Canyon.

☆

WE HAVE the vaguely uneasy realization that the year is nearing its close, yet we have seen no signs of man. Day follows day until we reach the last day of the year.

Suddenly about noon of December 31 the movies shows us the first men. During the afternoon the glaciers push southward from the polar regions, and then retreat, four successive times. By suppertime man is still not much in evidence.

By about 11 p.m. varied "Old Stone Age" men become quite prominent in the picture, and by 11:45 p.m. men who make more refined stone implements and cultivate the soil appear.

Five or six minutes before the end of the picture we see the dawn of civilization. One minute and 17 seconds before the end of the movie the Christian era begins.

Twenty seconds before the end Columbus discovers America. Seven seconds before the end, the Declaration of Independence is signed.

Double Standard Diplomacy

TOM BRIEN

AMERICAN DIPLOMACY," BY WILLIAM APPLEMAN WILLIAMS. DELL PUBLISHING CO. 309 PAGES. $1.65.

One of the ironies of the mid-20th Century is that while the United States possesses the greatest power, it still finds itself unable to overcome the challenge of the underdeveloping nations.

America finds itself on the defensive on just about every front. It saved South Korea only to find it had put its money on a dictator soon to be overthrown.

In Indo-China, it inherited France's problems and found itself being pushed inexorably toward the sea, betting desperately on dictators like Diem who could themselves, hold out only for a time.

In Latin America, the Alliance for Progress is recognized as a failure, by U. S. officials if not officially. Even Peace Corps personnel, corpsmen as well as policy directors, admit privately that the Peace Corps is a nice gesture, but unlikely to accomplish anything enduring.

☆

THE ROOT of the trouble lies in the American expansionist past, according to William Appleman Williams, professor of history at the University of Wisconsin. It lies in our conception of America's destiny.

Our foreign policy is based on three major assumptions, he writes.

► We are a warm, generous, humanitarian people who desire to help other people solve their problems

► We hold to the principle of self-determination. Each nation has the right, and the duty, to choose its own goals and establish its own style of government and life.

► While this is true, it is also true that the American way is the best way, and if we are going to help others, it will be to transform their society into one similar to ours.

The first two assumptions shaping our foreign policy are genuine, but our generous, humanitarian impulses undercut by our determination to see that they do it our way, Mr. Williams contends.

It is working out this last assumption that America has walked into the tragedy of her present position.

☆

IT BEGAN in the formulation of the Open Door doctrine at the turn of the century and continues up to the present administration's New Frontier, which he thinks is just a modern variation of the Open Door policy.

The Open Door policy was designed to open up markets for American-produced goods, which already in 1900, were piling up in large surpluses.

At the same time, it was intended to be anti-colonial, in that America only wanted markets — no matter that it would control foreign economies.

So a hard-headed policy of economic necessity [illegible] America's moral fervor (Woodrow Wilson's dictum that we must save the world for democracy, also meant that we must save the world for our marketplace) to shape a vision of the American Century.

☆

IN TRYING to secure foreign markets to assure our continued expansion, America has been following a tradition rooted deeply in its psychological past, Mr. Williams continued.

We have always been a "frontier" society, growing as we expanded. Now to continue growing, we must expand into other areas of the world.

The trouble is that other countries see that our intentions are selfish.

An even deeper trouble, is that the traditional expansionist approach forces us to externalize our trouble. We see the solution to our economic difficulties in terms of saving the world.

We also see that emerging nations resent our efforts, and we blame their discontent on the meddling communists.

☆

THE TRAGEDY of the "New Frontier" is that a once realistic economic policy has become a misleading and mythical conception of America's destiny.

The Alliance for progress isn't bringing Latin America into the modern world, for instance, it is only prolonging that time when the countries will veer far to the left out of political desperation.

The United States isn't likely to accept this — no more Cubas — and will have to intervene militarily.

So our policy, call it the Open Door, the New Frontier, or the Alliance for Progress, leads to surrender or war.

What started as a policy to avoid war, is now leading us to nuclear annihilation or painful humiliation. It is time, Mr. Williams contends, for a basic, revolutionary shift in our attitude toward the world and toward ourselves.

The first step, he thinks, is to look at the New Frontier, not as a vigorous reassertion of our old policy, but as a recognition of our limitations.

School Officials Discuss Combining Districts

A meeting, called by Milton Porter, county superintendent of schools, and one requested by the State Department of Education, brought together the school boards of Britton-Macon and Tecumseh for discussion about the eventual merging or combining of the two school districts.

Upwards of 40 people attended the meeting last Thursday night at Britton.

The state department, interested in two close school districts duplicating facilities, apparently required the meeting before backing Britton's recent approval to sell bonds for additional classrooms.

Mr. Porter says he does not feel there is a duplication and that the additional classrooms are needed, but the two schools should give serious thought to the probability of combining in the near future — four or five years.

He pointed out that the advantages are many, particularly in the broadening of the curriculum and educational services. He referred to other areas and said the trend is for schools, within a short distance, to combine into one district.

The two school boards were asked to discuss the possibility at their next meeting, appoint committees and study the issue further. Neither board discussed combining at last week's meeting.

Dr. Russell Wilson, Bureau of School Services at the University of Michigan which accredits the Britton-Macon school, was rather emphatic about combining and the advantages it held for Britton.

A majority of persons attending, although not backing merger of the two schools, did approve looking into it further.

Several local school officials, invited to the meeting, were somewhat upset by the discussion of the meeting. At no Tecumseh board meetings has there been discussion of combining with Britton.

Mr. Porter said that both school districts have problems now, but perhaps in a few years they would be ready to combine.

He stated that the state department would like to see districts, such as Britton and Tecumseh, combine, and referred to the present possibility of Deerfield and Blissfield joining.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

ROME — A Greek sculptor named Praxeties turned out some fantastically beautiful figures with Egyptian granite about 5 B.C.

Venus de Milo, now in the Louvre at Paris, is his best-known statue.

We saw another in the Vatican Museum, that of the god Mercury and reputed to be one of the most perfect examples of anatomy in the world.

Mercury stands about eight feet high and is flawless in design. He's just one of dozens and dozens that fill the Round Room, an area devoted to Greek and Roman mythology.

Apollo is there, also two Roman gladiators about to do battle. Their facial expressions are so realistic one almost expects them to bound forward in overwhelming fury.

But this is just one tiny segment of the museum.

A wide corridor about 100 yards long is hung with tapestries, each about 25x30 feet in size. A similar walkway contains detailed, three-dimensional maps of various sections of Italy.

In the seemingly-endless rooms with oil paintings, the names of Raphael and Michael angelo are like household words. They and dozens of other top-flight artists labored decades placing masterpieces directly on walls and ceilings.

In the Sistine Chapel, Michaelangelo spent from 1508 to 1512 flat on his back on a scaffold, to paint the nine-panel ceiling, which tells the story of creation, up to Noah. The work covers a section about 50x200 feet. He said this was the hardest physical labor he ever performed.

When he was 65, he returned to the chapel to do the Last Judgment on the front wall and the task took seven years to complete. This is the room in which Roman Catholic cardinals elect the pope.

So jammed the day we toured the museum, the Sistine Chapel was quite stuffy and we couldn't fully appreciate it.

Besides, the babble of voices, in half a dozen different tongues, had our heads spinning. There were probably 25 guides, each with a group of 10 to 25, all going through their spiels. Several hundred more sightseers were there on their own, many of them chattering excitedly.

Our charming CIT guide, "Follow the man with the straw hat," was a fellow about 50 who reminded us of the late Enzio Pinza in his "South Pacific" role as the French planter. His wit and comments helped make old Rome come alive.

Our tour also took us through two of the most famous Rome churches — Mary Major and St. John Latern, where Pope John's body will eventually be buried. Rome abounds with striking houses of worship like American cities have gas stations, every few blocks.

A stroll through the eerie catacombs took us back in Roman history when the early Christians were persecuted and had to practice their religion hundreds of feet underground.

They hid from their pursuers there and buried their dead in roughly hewed-out slots in the passageways. Mass is still offered daily in this ancient city below the ground.

Rome, in our opinions, gets the nod over Paris. The French act as if they're rushing against the spin of the earth, afraid they might fall off if they don't go faster. Italians are more leisurely, and seem more relaxed and gracious.

CITY MANAGER ZORN ACCEPTS AWARD

No Burning of Leaves in Street

Residents are asked not to burn their leaves in the streets by City Manager Cal Zorn.

The city is spending about $20,000 yearly in blacktopping streets and fire could be damaging, he said.

There is a city ordinance against burning in the street, he warned, which makes it a misdemeaner. Persons could be subject to $100 fine and up to 30 days in jail.

This warning doesn't concern those people who have a good, safe place off the street to burn leaves, he explained.

There will be a general clean up sponsored by the city sometime later in the fall, he added.

Artist Key Club

Anyone interested in painting this year will have an opportunity to join the Artists Key Club this Saturday night at 7:30, at the club's studio above Don's Beef Buffet.

The meeting, open to the public, will center around the 1963-64 teaching program.

Tecumseh Wins 1st for Annual Report

Just over a year ago, the late Ed Nelson received Council's approval for a calendar and booklet-type annual report for the city.

He had recommended such a report to the citizens for years, but had never managed to squeeze it past the city fathers.

Last weekend, Tecumseh received statewide recognition for its annual report at the 65th annual convention of the Michigan Municipal League.

The city won first place for communities of 10,000 or less, and according to Mayor Harold Easton, it was the finest annual report for all cities.

Cal Zorn, successor to Mr. Nelson as city manager, attended the session with Mr. Easton.

The convention was held at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

Enrollment Soars Above Predictions

First week student enrollment in the Tecumseh schools far exceeded expectations, with principals at the various schools reporting a total enrollment of 3,164.

Although the enrollment figures will not be official for state aid until Sept. 27, the total is 84 above that used for the 1963-64 budget and 89 over the 1962-63 official enrollment of 3,075.

The unexpected increase will give the schools about $15,000 more in state aid — if the enrollment stays the same — than anticipated.

In the past, the local schools have realized some tardy enrollments, making it possible the first week figures could be even higher later this month.

The present high school enrollment is 878, 22 shy of the Class A 900 mark.

Breakdown by classes is:

Special Education — 67
Kindergarten — 266
First Grade — 259
Second Grade — 254

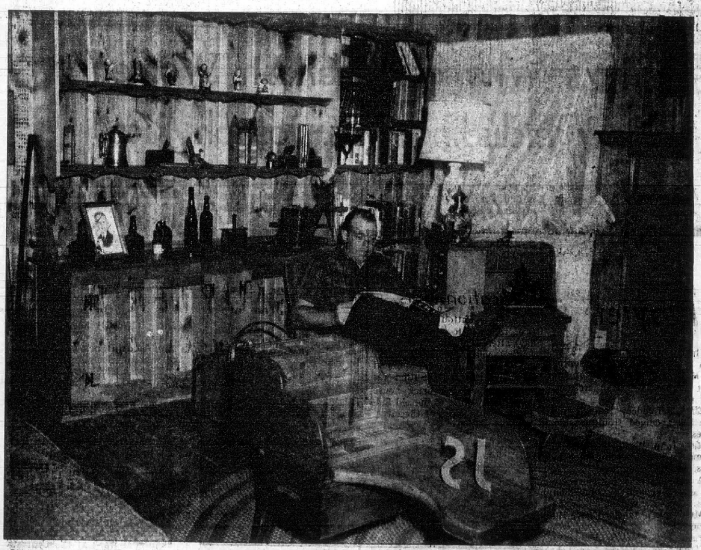
'A Man's Home Is His Castle'

WOODCREST, HOME OF MR. AND MRS. CHARLES GROSS AND SON, KEVIN, AT 904 VALLEYDALE PARKWAY.



CHARLIE GROSS ENSCONCED IN A MAGAZINE BEFORE THE FIREPLACE AND AMONG TREASURES WHICH HE MADE HIMSELF.

By DOROTHY GRIGG

"A man's home is his castle."

This is certainly true at the Charles Gross residence where love, health and well being are reflected in every exquisite detail.

A visit to 9494 Valleydale Parkway is like being transported to a spot in the New England States back about the time of Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Gross, industrial arts teacher and coach at Tecumseh High School, and his lovely wife, Sue, have used their talents and a tremendous amount of time to furnish their new home with reproductions and authentic pieces from early American times.

They started building in June, 1958, soon after their marriage, and moved in Jan. 5, 1959.

Charlie, a marvel with lathe, woodworking tools, paint brush and finish, has made nearly all of their furniture with the exception of dining room and bedroom pieces which are of a later era, probably about George Washington's time, Sue said.

The furniture in these rooms was given to the Grosses as wedding gifts.

Going up the winding drive one sees the huge stone chimney, nearly completed. At the front of the house, the view slopes down through a grove of shagbark Hickorys to the shady road and rail fence trailing with bittersweet.

A dinner bell, flowering window boxes and stepping woods, not stones, add to the New England atmosphere at the rear entrance.

The round circles of wood were treated with creosote and placed flush with the ground to provide a pleasant path to the neighbors, the Judson Miles family.

☆

AS SUE BIDS her guest welcome to her spotless kitchen, a gasp of surprise is bound to escape her visitor, as he turns from right to left viewing the rustic round table with ladder back chairs, old sugar bin, desk, etc. Everything is so pleasing to the eye.

The early American theme is carried out to the tiniest detail, even the dog, "Spicey", has a delightful wooden cabinet for his dishes which may be covered when he finishes his meal.

The hood of the ventilating fan is covered with shingles to carry out the rustic colonial theme. The chandelier is a wheel of light directly over the table.

A polished whipple tree is used for hanging kitchen tools and sleigh bells tinkle charmingly, hung from a horses bit, on the Dutch door leading to the basement.

A plaster relief of Paul Revere hangs on one wall of the dining room above a schoolmarm's desk made by the man of the house for his wife's use.

An authentic school master's desk is placed on the opposite wall with the tall stool.

The relief suffered a crack once but one would never know it now, so cleverly have Charlie and Sue repaired the damage.

The Gross living room is a dream of museum pieces to rival those found in Henry Ford's Greenfield Village.

A spinning wheel, which Sue knows how to use, is situated before windows curtained with white ruffles at one end. Book shelves and cupboards, holding many treasures they have found and made, take up space on the opposite wall while a large brick fireplace dominates a pine-paneled east wall.

Sue disclosed the key to why the couple can afford such fabulous furnishings on a teacher's salary when she told us about the painting above the mantle.

It's a shame to tell because it appears to be an oil when it's really a piece of beautiful drapery fabric framed by the ingenious couple.

Two cobbler's benches, one with drawers to represent the 13 original states, are situated by Charlie's favorite chair and are worth quite a sum of money. The cabinet which houses the TV set did not cost the Grosses so much, just sweat of the brow and muscle.

☆

ONE ITEM in the living room not made by the woodworking teacher is a maple grandmothers clock with Westminster chimes. It was given to Charlie by the Tecumseh High School class of 1961 for whom he was advisor.

Sue says, "This is an item we really brag about. It's quite unusual for a class to do this sort of thing."

As mother of one of those class members, this columnist is well aware of the respect and admiration the students had for both Mr. and Mrs. Gross who gave so generously of their time for chaperoning, planning activities and much-needed advice.

Leaving the living room, the guest at Grosses enters the front hall where a typical Colonial staircase leads to the, as yet unfinished, second floor of the story and one-half house.

From there into four-year-old Kevin's room where the little boy sleeps snugly in the spool bed which was once his Mom's. His toys are kept in a wooden chest brought from Germany by his great-grandfather, Johanes Schaible in 1869.

Oh, we passed the bathroom where a huge door mirror has been cleverly framed with pieces turned out on a lathe and now hangs above the lavoratory. Even here, the motif is early colonial, with side lamp and tiny wooden medicine cabinet.

Much in knowledge and as well as material pieces have been gained by the Grosses from their families' homes. Both of Charlie's grandfathers came from Germany when but young boys about 15. They settled in the Ann Arbor, Flint and Frankenmuth area and have always farmed there.

Grandpa Gross had a buggy and sleigh shop in Saline at one time. Grandpa Schaible was killed in a barn raising. The Grosses have one of the sleighs which they plan to restore and put to use in the near future.

All of the wood for the pine paneling was brought from northern Michigan, where the Grosses have some property.

Now for the basement which is gradually becoming the most delightful German Rathskeller, "guesthouse," or "inn" imaginable.

☆

NOT QUITE completed, Sue and Charlie were unwilling to have it photographed but Gasthof Gross is a story in itself, with its wurst and cheese shop, three dimensional window of an Alps scene, and beer cellar.

Dry barrels, papier-mache cheeses and wurst hanging above with shellacked walls that really look moist like a cellar might, are fascinating to see.

Here, too, is the handywork from the lathe. One especially interesting piece is a bonnet box made by Charlie.

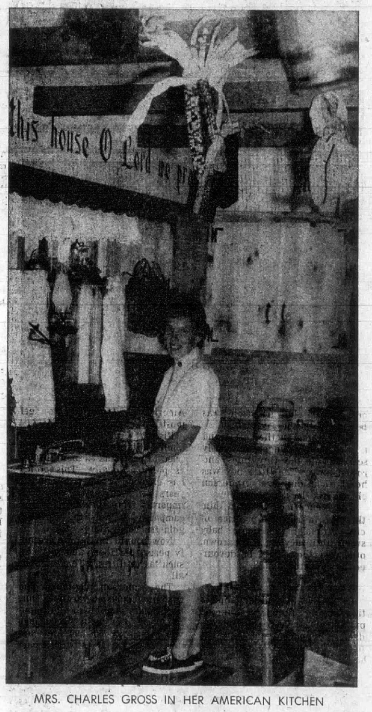
His wife's touch is found everywhere in the home. Basement walls are enhanced by her paintings of life-sized elves from a Christmas book and crests from each kitchen Germany done in striking colors.

☆

HAVING BEEN on the map, border patrol during the Korean conflict, Charlie has an opportunity to visit the fatherland of his grandparents and used the knowledge he received there in such an interesting way.

She's hands not only "keep house beautiful" but Friday when we were there, a spicy aroma came from the kitchen where she was canning and making pickles.

Gross house is not only beautiful but it's loved and lived in.



MRS. CHARLES GROSS IN HER AMERICAN KITCHEN

Long & Short

Ordering a meal is an adventure since you usually have little idea what the menu says. La coupe royale for dessert attracted my sweet tooth and turned out to be a delicious caramel sundae.

Cafe au lait means a delightful drink heavy coffee mixed about equal parts with warm milk. Doesn't it seem more sensible to use warm milk than the American idea of the milk chilled?

English language newspapers abound in Paris and all over Europe. New York Times international edition has street salesmen (and girls) all over town, each wearing blue waist-length wind breakers with The Times mast-head lettered in Old English on both front and back. Amazing how these kids can spot an American and ask if he'd like to buy a current issue. Are we that obviously foreign?

Currently showing in Paris, "Patrouiller 109," or as known in the States, "PT Boat 109."

"Boys, as old as 12, wear short shorts, and look quite nice.

Must be a million small shops — jewelry, dresses, purses, shoes, men's shirts, novelties — all seem to be doing excellent business. Most are about as big as Tecumseh JP Ernie Oliver's place.

Many of Paris buildings are being sand-blasted, including the Louvre. According to one fellow, De Gaulle wants structures cleaned in some way once a year.

Construction work, big and little projects, especially apartments, go on everywhere. Thousands of tons of ready-mix concrete are being poured from buckets attached to long swinging arms on cranes that stand six to eight stories high. Never have seen any like them in the States and plan to photograph and write an article about these.

Cherie noted that shoe styles in Paris are about the same, featuring long, pointed toes, prices from $20 to $80, tiny heels. Only concession to sanity are low walkers, spat shoes like those worn in 20's.

Signs in window "Solde" had me wondering at first, then it dawned that this means "Sale". It's sidewalk day every day, even the department stores loading walkways with merchandise.

Last, but not least, are those famous sandwiches that are on sale in sidewalk cafes and from vendors. They're made with a small loaf of hard-crust French bread, about as round as a softball bat and 14 inches long. The loaf is sliced length-wise, heavily buttered (unsalted), and then a long slab of ham or chunks of cheese inserted. Mustard is the spicy variety. Oh, are they good. Really require a lot of chewing.

NEXT STOP: CAIRO

Behind Page One

Welcome home John Swanston. With just time enough to get home for his sister's wedding, John received his discharge Friday from a naval base in Brooklyn, N.Y. Grabbing up his daughter, Jackie, and his wife, he made a flying trip and arrived late that night to participate in the nuptials Saturday.

The Swanstons will be living in this area. John has been re-employed at the Sears store in Ann Arbor.

Congratulations, Bill Bishop. The new marine recruit has earned his first badge for sharp shooting at a San Diego base. He is looking forward to some surfing in the ocean and a tour of Disneyland.

When the gal can't go to the party, the party goes to her. Betty Bishop has been a patient at the University Medical Center most of the summer, missing several weddings of her class mates. Helen Miller decided to do something about it and arranged a personal shower for Camilla Grigg Woodbury Saturday, right in Betty's hospital room. Recent X-rays give the Bishop family hope that Betty will not need further surgery on her right thigh bone. Hooray!

Commands From Old Orleans

By TOM RIORDAN

ORLEANS, France— This is the hometown of St. Joan d'Arc and it's also headquarters for Com Z of the United States Army.

In the center of the city stands a huge statue of the French peasant girl, who led her fellow countrymen against the British, later to be captured and burned at the stake, then canonized a saint.

GIs have playfully nicknamed the work of art, "Joannie on the Pony," again proving that the American sense of humor just never lets up, no matter how far from home it is.

A Tecumseh native, Maj.-Gen. Webster Anderson, commands Com Z. His responsibilities incorporate all supplies and maintenance for the Army and Air Force, from south of Bordeau, France, to Bremerhaven, Germany, as well as bases in Spain, Italy and Turkey.

The job is enormous for the THS graduate of 1926 and a West Pointer, Class of 1930. He received the assignment about one year ago and will probably be here for another year.

☆

ONE OF THE nicest things about such a job is the living quarters provided by the government, which is the 150-year-old "Les Charmes Chateau" in nearby Olivet, which he and the delightful Mrs. Anderson call home.

Located on a wedge-shaped piece of land, an acre in size, the chateau has an absorbing history, explained Mrs. Anderson when my wife and I visited the Andersons during our stay in Paris.

Former owners included a count who had 10 children and added a huge wing, with drawing room downstairs and nursery up.

Another count and countess later had it, were great patrons of the arts and the place was a mecca for concerts and literary discussions. During World War I, one of their sons was killed, and the doors were closed in deep sadness to guests for many years.

One other owner was a writer, who penned a novel which cited chapter and verse of every scandal Orleans and Olivet had known.

"He was literally run out of town," Mrs. Anderson mused.

Things have been pretty quiet around the chateau these days, except earlier this summer when the Andersons' daughter and her four youngsters spent several weeks on vacation there.

The children were especially delighted with the rolling front yard that ends at the Loiret River, which is more like a mill pond, excellent for boating and fishing, although the catches are usually tiny.

Mrs. Anderson told of the swans which swim near their place and how a brood of five little ones appeared one day as her 10-year-old grandson was boating with the general.

Along came another craft and a Frenchman unceremoniously scooped up the tiny ones and rowed away. The little boy was heart sick and Gen. Anderson phoned the local police.

The gendarmes assured him this was a regular practice of city officials, who keep baby swans until they are fully grown, otherwise they might be devoured by muskrats.

☆

RUNNING A military operation so far flung has unique problems that keep General Anderson hopping from place to place — by car, airplane and helicopter.

He confers at least monthly in Paris with United States Ambassador to France Charles Bolen, usually going by 'copter from Orleans and landing near the Eiffel Tower. The short drive from there to the embassy, only a couple of miles, can sometimes take as long as the 60-mile flight because of the jammed traffic conditions in the French capital.

GI forces and the French get along in excellent fashion although it wasn't always so the two-star general said.

A dozen years ago when the Gallic communists were enjoying their zenith of power the Americans were made to feel most unwelcome.

Right after World War II, the United States military people tried to purchase as many things as possible locally. This policy has changed greatly in recent years and nearly everything is imported from the States in the campaign to halt the flow of gold from the States.

Now bought in Europe are only perishable foods and services, such as utilities. That's about all.

The Andersons explained the custom of Parisian vacation. During August about half the population of the capital, 3,000,000, will jump into 600,000 tiny cars and belt off for the southern part of France.

The natives refer to them as the 75'ers, since the last two numbers on license tags of Paris residents are 7 and 5. The Saturday we went to Orlean, the highway from the south to Paris was clogged with 75'ers returning home. We were glad to be traveling by train.

Anita Sebring, Gary Crawford Marry

Wearing a gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta made by her mother, Anita Marie Sebring became the bride of Gary Robert Crawford Friday evening at the First Baptist Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Sebring, rural Clinton, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crawford of Otisville.

The Rev. Blair Bashore performed the ceremony before 50 guests on the wedding anniversary of the bride's parents.

Mrs. John Fox, Clinton, presided at the organ accompanying her son, David, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt.

White gladioli and asters were used in the altar vases and seven branched candelabra faced with bows and lighted tapers enhanced the chancel.

Larry and Lynn Sebring, brothers of the bride, served as acolytes.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a gown fashioned with Sabrina neckline, long sleeves and a full skirt ending in a chapel train featuring handmade taffeta roses.

A queen's crown held her shoulder length veil in place and she carried a cascade of white butterfly roses centered with a detachable corsage.

Kathie Christensen of Ludington was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Shirley Brown and Marta Puffer.

The attendants wore street length dresses of orchid crystal satin with rounded necklines, short sleeves and full skirts with matching shoes. Each wore a single matching rose on her head to secure the tiny circular veil.

They carried violet colored wicker baskets filled with purple asters and grapes with cascades of miniature clusters of grapes and violet ribbons.

Nena Murphy was the flower girl. She was dressed in white organza carrying an arrangement identical to that of the other attendants in miniature.

Joey Murphy was the ring bearer.

Ronald Lyons served as best man and the guests were seated by Garth Green of Ottawa, Canada, and David Sebring, brother of the bride.

A reception was held in the Youth House immediately following the ceremony.

The cake table was covered with white taffeta and tulle trimmed with orchid satin and centered with a four tiered cake.

It was flanked by three branch candelabra centered with arrangements of gladioli and orchid pompons.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beevers were hosts and Carolyn Sebring registered the guests.

☆

OTHERS assisting were Mrs. Richard Cox, Mrs. Robert Wilkins, Mrs. Duaine Murphy, Mrs. Warren Puffer, Judy and Ardy Thomas.

Dennis Puffer and Michael Murphy assisted with the gifts as the guests arrived.

The bride is a 1962 graduate of Clinton High School and will enter her sophomore year at Ferris State College this term.

Her husband is a 1961 graduate of Lakeville High School and will be a junior at Ferris this fall.

Following a trip to northern Michigan they will make their home at 819 Washington St., Big Rapids.

it pays off . . .

Thousands and thousands of miles without accidents pay off for drivers for the Beach Bros., large local bulk distributor of Fleet-Wing oil and gasoline products. Their safety record is one to envy. Equally concerned — and pleased — with this amazing record is the local insurance agent, Don Sunderland, of the Sunderland Insurance Agency. By insuring safe drivers, lower rates are realized, giving the agent a better record and savings to the insured . . . from the Wolverine Insurance Company.

Tecumseh insurance agent Don Sunderland gives a safe-driving recognition pin to Charles Staples for five years of accident-free driving. Forty members and guests attended the meeting of the WSCS of the Methodist Church in the church social room Wednesday evening.

The business was conducted by President Mrs. Edward Beal when plans for the coming year were approved.

Mrs. Carroll Sprague, secretary of missionary education and service, gave an interesting account of the school of missions which she attended this summer in Albion.

It was concluded that there are so many new areas for volunteering ones time that no one need be idle.

☆

THOSE SERVING on the panel were Mrs. Charles Trickey, Mrs. Ralph Scarbrough, Mrs. Carlos Jones and Mrs. Robert Bohner.

This interesting program was followed by audience participation.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. Norman Sedelbauer and Vera Gilbert.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

More than a hundred friends and relatives gathered at the Murray Day residence Sunday to greet Mr. and Mrs. Harry Day who have lived and laughed and loved together for more than half a century. Some came from the thumb area of Michigan.

The actual date of the golden anniversary was Sept. 3. Lillie King and Harry Day were married in 1913 in the Ypsilanti area and spent 30 years there, coming to Tecumseh with their son, Murray, and his family in 1943.

A cake topped with a gold loving cup and decorated with lily of the valley and yellow roses was served by Mrs. Murray Day and her daughters, Susan, and Mrs. Gary Abner.

The Day residence was decorated with many floral arrangements and other gifts received by the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bonner were in Sturgis Saturday to attend the wedding of their niece.

Helen Milady, 113 N. Union St., and James Campbell of Wamplers Lake, have returned from a trip through the Upper Peninsula and the western United States. They were accompanied by Morris Milady of Adrian.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Fairbanks will return to their home in Lakewood, Fla., after two months in Michigan. They have been visiting friends here and his sisters, Marie Art in Oscoda and Iva Lindsey in West Jordan.

Guests Sept. 8 of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beal and family, were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Linger, Tipton, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Munn of St. Cloud, Fla. Mr. Beal and sons, Roger, Norman and Darrell entertained the group at dinner in Jackson in honor of Mrs. Beal's birthday anniversary.

Hold that Line

Coach Bob Moffet of Ypsilanti, felt as though he was ambushed last Saturday. "How do you create such enthusiasm?" he yelled at Coach Tom Fagan after the game was over, in somewhat more descriptive language.

Ypsilanti's defensive right halfback is one indication why the Indians rolled over them. On Doug Goldsberry's long run on a reverse off left tackle, the defensive back took only two steps. Finally, as Goldsberry pulled past him, he decided to get in the play.

On that same play, the game movies show that tackle Larry Merx and end Roy Newton had a hole ready for Goldsberry at least 10 yards wide.

Coach Fagan wasn't going to let himself get carried away by enthusiasm, however. "Our enthusiasm covered a lot of mistakes," he said. "Our timing was off. The backs were missing holes, and our pass defense was poor. Our line is still ahead of the backfield," he added.

Coach Fagan found the play of Mark Blatchford and Ron Bolz encouraging. Both sophomores are expected to see plenty of action as offensive ends.

The defense was impressive, Coach Fagan admitted, but wouldn't give credit to anyone in particular. "Our defense works so closely, that if anyone looks good, it's because all the rest are doing their job."

Jim Curth, former guard for the Indians, now attending Michigan State University, has been helping coach the team while he waits for school to open.

While Tecumseh was smearing Ypsilanti, Britton was playing a practice game with Deerfield and Clinton at Clinton. "The offense looked real good," Assistant Coach Sam Hamilton said.

Walt Korican, 155 fullback, bulled over for Britton's only score. Robert Rowe, fleet, 120 pound halfback, was praised by Coach Hamilton for his game.

While there were some glaring weaknesses, Coach Hamilton noted, he lauded the center of the line. Tackles Lee Wagner and Verl Sanch, guards Roger Bortel and Dick Papworth, and center Tom Cadmus, all looked good, he said.

Indians in Football Season Opener Against Tough Willow Run Eleven

A NEW SEASON — The Tecumseh High School football coaching staff is looking for a repeat opening. Last year, the Indians blasted Willow Run 33-14 on the home field for a perfect debut. Coach Tom Fagan, right, and his assistant, Ray Newton, starting their second year together at Tecumseh, hope to equal or better their record of last year. While the Indians may lack some of the depth it had last year, Coach Fagan has been encouraged by the enthusiasm shown in practice and in the scrimmage game against Ypsilanti related on this page.

Scrap and hustle paid off well for Coach Tom Fagan last year and these two ingredients may well be the head coach's answer this fall, especially tomorrow night when Tecumseh opens the football season at Willow Run.

The Flyers are said to be loaded this year, particularly with a veteran, fast backfield and a good nucleus of linemen. WR may have the best team in the Ypsilanti area this fall, and, after several straight defeats at the hands of the Indians, should be primed for a victory.

If the Flyers win, it won't be easy. Last Friday night against Ypsilanti High, the Indians' first two strings surprisingly handled the visitors with ease.

Again, it was scrap and hustle, making breaks and making up for some mistakes.

A rundown of the Indians at this stage is not particularly exciting; however the same was said last fall when an 8-1 mark was set.

Tecumseh will boast good, overall team speed, but no outstanding speedster.

Defensively, the Indians should be sound with enough lettermen and experienced linemen back. Fagan ranks Dave Lemerand as one of the best defensive backs in the league.

Quick backs will give fans an impression of speed and will fool a lot of opponents. Several Indian backs are capable of going all the way, but not through sheer speed.

The passing game could be the surprise of the season if John Oberlin begins to connect. The understudy to Tim Sisson last fall has hit well in practice and must throw — and complete — in Fagan's pro-type offense.

Depth in the backfield will give the coaches an opportunity to switch back frequently without weakening the Tecumseh attack.

Doug Goldsberry and Tim Collins will alternate at one of the halfback posts, and Lemerand and Jay Osburn at the other.

Gregg McEnroe will back up Bob Baker at full, and Jeff Osburn is understudying Oberlin.

The lines are thin, and the Indians will not be able to afford any injuries, especially to the first two units.

Jerry Hebb and Roy Newton, transfer student and brother of Coach Fig Newton, will handle the offensive end position. Lettermen Jim Tilton and Tom Matteson should be two of the league's best tackles.

Don Baird and Mike Wilson, quick 147-pounder, are the guards, and Don Luce, center. Jim Greene and Ron Anderson are contenders for the guard slots, and Jim Lawson, up from the Jayvees, backs up Luce.

Tilton, Baird and Hebb also will bolster the defensive line.

John Lindstrom, just over the 200-pound mark, will play the defensive line's middle guard and is the biggest Indian starter.

Mark Blatchford or Ron Bolz, both sophomores, will get the starting nod at the defensive end post, opposite Hebb. Bolz, along with Anderson, also will handle the team's punting.

Outside linebackers will have Jay Osburn and Goldsberry, with Baker and McEnroe interior linebackers.

Lemerand will play one defensive halfback position with Jeff Osburn or Steve Derby, the other.

Defensively, the Indians could be the best in the league, a factor that may be instrumental in several games this fall, possibly the last in the Huron League.

Dundee and one or two other teams are looking for athletic competition elsewhere. Tecumseh, in the meantime, is a certainty to be Class A, which may or may not have been a factor in the Indians dominating most of the athletic events.

Tecumseh's domination over the years has led other teams to "point" for their game with the Indians, practically basing their season on an upset victory.

It's already known that Dundee and a couple others hope to gain some revenge this season with placards and other similar means to gear their players for Tecumseh.

The Indians will not be pushovers this fall. They'll probably be title contenders, and could win it with a bit of luck.

Whether the 1963 squad reaches the level attained by '62's team remains to be seen — but, it could.

TRI-CAPTAINS go over a play with Coach Fagan, right, Chosen to lead the Tecumseh Indians this year are two backs and a lineman. They are halfback Dave Lemerand (22) and Jay Osburn (25), and tackle Jim Tilton (72).
